Kiwanians To Honor Ladies Tonight

Attendance at the Clanton Kiwanis Club is expected to reach a high tonight when members of this civic organization will honor their wives, friends and sweethearts, such as the case may be, at this meeting, the first of the new year, is observed annually as "Ladies Night."

The Club's new president, Ocie M. Webb will preside for the first time. A fitting program has been arranged for the evening, and this Club enters the new year 1940 with one of its most interesting and entertaining meetings of the year.

Tribute will be paid to the fairer sex who "keep the home fires burning" while Kiwanians attend the weekly luncheons at the Thomson Hotel.

Appearing on the program for this night will be Hon. E. W. Pettus of Selma. Mr. Pettus is the grandson of the late General and Senator Edmund W. Pettus, who was one of America's greatest statesmen. He was chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee for many years. An immediate Past President of the Selma Kiwanis Club, he is an interesting speaker. He is also president of the Selma Chamber of Commerce.

Last Thursday night Kiwanian John C. Page relinquished the gavel as president to one of the younger members of the Club with an appropriate ceremony. Kiwanian Page gave an interesting resume of the year's work and accomplishments of the Club under his administration, expressing his appreciation for the Club support and cooperation. President Webb, on taking over the reins, outlined some of the objectives in a talk which included his pledge to carry on the work in behalf of Clanton and the entire county.

George Parr also takes over as the Club's new secretary, succeeding J. Mel Martin, who has served the Club well for the past several years. Tribute was paid to Kiwanian Martin for his work in behalf of the Club by outgoing President John Page.

U. S. To Condemn 319 Acres In This County

Condemnation proceedings, looking toward the acquisition of 319 acres in Chilton County as a part of a national forest, were filed yesterday in the United States District Court at Montgomery by H. B. Fuller, assistant U. S. Attorney. Hearing on the proceedings, it was said, would be held in the near future.

Chilton High Tigers Off To Fine Start

Last year the Chilton County High basketball Tigers brought much favorable publicity to Clanton and Chilton County by the fine basketball they played, winning the district and state championships.

This year the team is having to carry on without the services of such stars as George Chambers, Shorty Thornton, Bucky Armstrong and Snowy Melton, but they are off to a splendid start as they have played four games and won each of them. Calera was defeated in a game before the holidays by the score of 21-13; Marbury went down 34-19; Selma 20-9 and Montevallo 24-12. All these games were away from Clanton.

Next week the local boys open their season at home with the Montevallo High team Wednesday night at 7:30. The home games this year will be played in the hangar at the local airport. The schedule is not yet complete but will be within the next few days.

Sidney Lanier plays here Jan. 17. Selma here Feb. 7. Holtville here Feb. 21. Games with Isabella, Maplesville and Jenison are pending at this time.

ORGANIZATION MEETING OF UNITY SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSN

Let all the Sunday School folks remember the meeting next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Please don't let anything except sickness keep you away.—J. D. Griffin, Supt.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hughes of Montgomery spent the week end with Mrs. C. D. Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Hand.

RECEIPTS AT POSTOFFICE SHOW INCREASE

CLANTON OFFICE RECEIPTS REACH NEW HIGH FOR DEC. QUARTER AND ENTIRE YEAR

The Clanton postoffice has experienced no depression during the past year, and this statement can be backed up by figures from the records of receipts in possession of Postmaster R. W. Lowe.

At the close of the final quarter of 1939 this week, total receipts from stamp sales amounted to $5,334.05 as compared to $5,174.44 for the same last three months of last year, 1938. This is an increase of $162.61 for the fourth and busiest quarter for the Postoffice Department. These figures are for stamp sales only and do not include money orders. Mr. Lowe stated that a decided increase in money orders written this year over last year was noted also.

For the entire year just passed, receipts were $18,971.72 against last year's receipts of $18,146.74. This is an increase for 1939 of $824.98.

Clerks at the postoffice wrote over one hundred money orders in one day before Christmas, Mr. Lowe stated.

During the boomlet days of 1937 receipts at the Clanton postoffice did not equal those of this year nor last. This undoubtedly proves that there is no depression in this particular branch of the Government, but instead a continuous gain each year.

Marriage License Bureau Reports "Business Good"

Master Dan Cupid is a queer fellow. You can never predict who will be his next victim or how many will fall before his unerring arrow. He broke all records of recent years during the past month of December in Chilton County when forty-three couple were numbered at the office of the Probate Judge, Marriage License Department, as his victims—namely:

Robert Evan Calfee and Gladys Marie Turner.

Tom Gibson Taylor and Mrs. Eva Lee Foster Hattaway.

James Albert Gray and Esther LeNora Causey.

Samuel Vinson Cleckler and LeVonia Dennis.

Barney Foshee and Dora Reynolds.

James Calva Sewell and Jewel Olean Walker.

Judson Vernon Arthur and Wilda Mae Grover.

James Almon Bussie and Gussie Mae Littleton.

Jesse James Hayes, Jr., and Elizabeth Foshee Coburn.

MISS KATHRYN FOSS IS MARRIED TO EARLE ELLIS

In the presence of only a few close friends and relatives Miss Kathryn Foss, one of this County's most talented young ladies, became the bride of Earle Ellis at an impressive ceremony at the First Lutheran Church of Birmingham last Friday, December 30, at noon. The Rev. Parks performed the ceremony.

Democratic Executive Committee To Meet

There will be a meeting of the Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee on Friday afternoon, January 5th, 1940. The meeting will be held at the Courthouse in Clanton at 2:00 o'clock. All members are urgently requested to be present.—W. M. Folk, President; R. M. Tucker, Secretary.

Advent Of New Year Shows Sheriff Busy

Twenty-three persons started the new year 1940 off with a bang—and landed with a bang in the County Jail. Records in the office of Sheriff Culp showed that there was a decided increase in the number of offenders of the law over previous years. Following is the record:

Reckless driving, 1; Assault and battery, 3; Forgery, 1; Driving while intoxicated, 4; Assault to murder, 3; Public drunkenness, 6; Violating prohibition law, 1; Hit and run, 1; No drivers license, 1; Grand larceny, 1; Manufacturing whiskey, 1.

Sheriff Culp tells us there were sixty-seven persons committed to jail during the month of December.

"Family Day" At Clanton Baptist Sun.

All members and families belonging to the First Baptist Church are cordially requested to be present at Sunday's services, morning and evening. It is the first Sunday in 1940, and the day is being observed as Family Day, with the pastor bringing appropriate messages.

The opening hour for Sunday School is 9:45; Training Union exercises begin at 6:00 P.M. and the evening church service 7:00 P.M. Baptists are calling all members for Family Day Sunday.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING OF PEOPLES SAVINGS BANK

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Peoples Savings Bank was held Monday January 1, 1940.

The following officers were re-elected: F. J. Callen, president; Dr. N. S. Johnson, vice president; H. G. Hefflin, cashier; W. L. Smith, assistant cashier; Mrs. Delilah Grant and Miss Flora Harris will continue in their former capacity.

The following directors were re-elected: Dr. N. S. Johnson, H. S. Shaw, H. G. Hefflin, W. L. Pappell, G. C. Harris, F. J. Callen.

The bank is entering its thirty-ninth year of service and total resources as reflected by the bank's current statement are over a million dollars. Dividend No. 37 was paid to the stockholders.

Kiwanis Benefit Show Promises To Top Entertainment This Month

Can you imagine John Hollis, Charles Breedlove, Horton Walker and Dr. C. O. Lawrence doing a fancy dance and leading a chorus of pretty girls in singing the latest hit songs? Well that is exactly what they are going to do in the show put on at the City Hall Thursday night, January 11. Can you imagine Dick Hayes singing a solo in such a manner that some of the tender hearts in the audience being moved to tears? Well, Dick says that if and when the show goes on he is going to let the home town folk know what they have in musical talent.

These are not all the stars of this cast, such notables as Oscar Davis, Percy Pitts, Reuben Lowe and Bonnie Hand will see to it that the customers are fully entertained. J. Mel Martin threatens to do a toe dance in full costume, and Sam Powers and Burt Mullins will show you how detectives get their man. All in all it is a show of a life time, one you really cannot afford to miss. Many other members of the club as well as some of our town's people are appearing in the cast.

Be on hand at the City Hall Thursday night, January 11, to see the fun in the "COON VALLEY MINSTRELS."

Money Will Be Used For County-Wide Road Improvement And Will Serve To Furnish Jobs For Unemployed And Farmers Who Suffered Crop Losses

SMITH PLEASED BY WASHINGTON APPROVAL

CHARLES WADE SUSTAINS HAND INJURY MOVING SAFE

Charles Wade, popular manager of the Wadesonian Theatres here lost part of one finger on his left hand in an accident at Calera one day last week. Mr. Wade was assisting in moving a large iron safe when his fingers were caught between the bottom of the safe and the floor. Other fingers on his hand were crushed considerably but amputation of only a joint or two was necessary on one finger. He is confined to his bed with a temperature caused by the injury at the time of this writing.

Road Widening Nearing Clanton

Widening and resurfacing of the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway is going forward at a rapid pace. Machinery and men have reached the Willis Addition in North Clanton, preparing the right-of-way. Work on this project was begun at a point some distance above Jenison, and a stretch of several miles has already been completed.

Several curves between Jenison and Clanton have been eliminated by the engineers, which will prove a decided improvement over the old road, and will undoubtedly eliminate many wrecks in the years to come. One of the most noticeable improvements is the elimination of a large portion of the curve in Jenison and the one near the Fairview Service Station, two miles north of Clanton.

Probate Judge J. Lee Smith received three telegrams the latter part of last week, one each from Senator Lister Hill, Senator John Bankhead and Congressman Pete Jarman, informing him of Washington's approval of eighty-seven thousand dollars to improve roads in Chilton County.

In commenting on the final Government approval of this appropriation, Judge Smith stated that he was well pleased that the County should be allotted this sum, which will be used as a countywide lateral road improvement project. Judge Smith and the Court of County Commissioners filed application for this money following the bad crop year Chilton suffered from heavy rains early in the Fall. Many farmers who realized little from their labors on their farms will be employed by the County on the roads. This money comes more or less as a result of the request of the County for Federal aid to those suffering crop losses.

This Federal allotment is designated for use only on lateral roads of the County, and may be used for repairing and constructing new lateral arteries. As a result a more extensive road program is expected to get underway, however the Commissioners have not been asleep when it comes to maintaining the road system as a visit to each district will show.

Thorsby Youth Victim Of Accidental Shooting

Walter, Jr. Holmes, 14-year-old grandson of Mrs. Charles Koper of Thorsby, whom he was visiting during the holidays, was accidentally shot in the left side of his chest last Friday when a .22 rifle being carried by his young cousin, William Reynolds, was accidentally discharged.

The accident occurred about 1:30 in the afternoon, the News was informed. The two boys were said to be hunting in the Mineral Springs. The rifle was being carried under the arm by young Reynolds, who was walking behind Holmes. Reports say that the rifle began slipping from under his arm and that when he attempted to retain it he accidentally struck the trigger causing the gun to fire.

The injured youth was rushed to the office of Dr. H. G. Franklin in Thorsby, who rendered medical aid. From there he was carried to a Birmingham hospital by a Martin ambulance. Latest reports stated that the young man was improving rapidly.

HIGH SCHOOL P.T.A. TO STUDY MOVING PICTURES AT MEETING

If you are interested in the kind of pictures your son or daughter of high school age are going to see, then you will be interested in the subject of the local high school Parent-Teachers have taken for their study next Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Chas. W. Wade, Jr., is to tell the members some of the technical phases of the picture show business, and Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin is to discuss pictures from the school's point of view in the light of their value or danger in the education of the future citizen.

A study of the high school students' taste in picture shows is being made in school this week. A summary of this study will be given at the meeting. A contest in which every member will be interested will be given. Every friend and patron of the high school is cordially invited to attend this meeting at 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, January 9th.

THIS IS MY RESOLUTION: Knowing that there is good in everybody and everything, I am going to strive to the utmost throughout 1940, to locate the good before starting out to look for the bad.—MARK.

The Candidates Are Beginning To Sprout

The weather now the seasons has anything to do with the sprouting of candidates. When the time for election begins to appear on the political horizon they begin to salify forth, groundhog-like, to see what shadows may be cast across their intended path.

Last Wednesday was a noteworthy day in this respect at The Times office. We had visits from three whom we consider "very potential" persons in the prospective list.

First came Cohen Stapp, who is trimming his sails for Probate Judge of Chilton County. He had been gone only a few minutes when Congressman Pete Jarman came in for a little friendly chat.

Before the day was over who should appear but the affable Judge Len Walker from Columbiana.

Well, fellows, there will be lots of visiting for you to do in the coming months. There will be other candidates, no doubt, and we will have a grand time while the voters are looking them over and "deciding" whom they will choose.

While we realize it is risky business to "promise" a candidate you will vote for him so far in advance (and we are not promising), yet we feel like saying that we would be willing to take the three aforementioned gentlemen for the offices they will seek and not have to go through the trouble of a political campaign.

That is not the way it is done, however. So we, along with all the other voters, stand ready to face the field and all who may wish to enter.

May the best men run; and may the best of the best win.—Montevello Times.

What To Expect

A week or two ago The Advocate asked the question: "They have heard gold in Georgia and oil in Mississippi, now what can we expect for Alabama?"

The DeKalb Times, with true Republican sarcasm answers: We can expect to have Bibb Graves for Governor every other four years.

The Montgomery Advertiser, very wisely suggests: "Let us work up a scheme by which we can milk both states."

The Huntsville Mercury, also with a constructive viewpoint, advises: "May be Alabama can sell those rich states hogs, cattle, truck and other food products they must eat"—Greenville Advocate.

"Amperсанд"

The erudite editor of The Montgomery Advertiser has dug up the information that the proper name for this thing is "amperсанд." Now can he make his readers say: "Jones Amperсанд Smith" when they see a sign?—Greenville Advocate.

Or ham "amperсанд" eggs when they go to a restaurant?

Tom McCord says livestock is the foundation of the agricultural industry of this country.

Modern War Has No Victors

This holiday season the United States has much to be thankful for—and the ancient greeting of "happy new year" should have more than ordinary significance. Alone of the great powers of the world, we are at peace, and remote from the bloody shambles of war.

That we will stay at peace should be every American's passionate resolution. For war does more than destroy lives and property. It destroys ideals, institutions, principles—the best that centuries of our forebears have bequeathed us. Certainly this weary planet should have learned by now that there are no victors in modern war—there are only losers.

Peace is the finest Holiday gift any nation in this war-torn world can have.—Prattville Progress.

Speed

Horace Wilkinson, the Birmingham lawyer, has filed a bill of intervention to enjoin the construction of all federal housing projects in Alabama. The bill contends that the projects are illegal according to both the federal and state constitutions.

If the courts uphold Mr. Wilkinson's contention, construction will be stopped on three projects in Birmingham, as well as on those in Mobile, Montgomery, Anniston, Gadsden and Huntsville. Several million dollars are involved in the projects. Only a few days ago, the government approved two more projects—in Anniston and Girard—which will cost three million dollars.

Even before these projects get involved in the courts, we had figured that the government would be in a bad way if its tenants were as slow about paying their rent as the government has been about completing these projects. Now with these projects involved in the courts, we'll leave it to the next generation to worry about them.—Tuscaloosa News.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

A farmer carried me out into his field of growing grain. I do not remember to have ever seen a more beautiful crop. The corn was a dark green and the cotton leaves shined like silver. I was curious to know this farmer could produce such a promising crop. His land was just ordinary land and I knew that he had a special art in cultivation. He told me that his success was to be attributed to the fact he changed his crop each year. He never planted corn or cotton on the same plot of land two years in succession. He was a successful farmer because he learned to vary his crop. Would that church people could learn this art in church life. A man becomes a steward, a deacon, a teacher, a Sunday School superintendent, and he clings to it like a leech to a warm brick. Many a church is rusting out for no other reason than the same men stay in the lead year after year. When we learn to vary the leadership in our churches we are going to produce larger results. Reassign your place in the church occasionally.

A preacher was criticized because he said one thing that spoiled all the rest of his sermon. True, this man said a lot of good things, but just one little remark ruined it all. A lady brought me a glass of milk. The entire glass looked good to me until I saw a fly swimming around in it. If I had not seen that fly the whole glass of milk would have been good to the last drop, but on seeing the fly I had no desire for any portion of it. Just to be frank I have heard many sermons that had lots of good in them, but the preacher spoiled the entire message with just a remark. A fly in a glass of milk ruins it with me. And just one word can ruin a sermon with me.

"He handles his liquor well," remarked a man to me as a moderate drinker walked out of the cafe. That man had just begun his association with the bottle. I replied thus: "Yes, my friend, that man may be handling his liquor well now, but just wait five years and you will see that man's whiskey handling him. When a man becomes a habit-drinker, he may not get drunk, but he is dominated by alcohol. When alcohol speaks, he will hasten to obey. Whiskey taken into the system until a drinker becomes alcoholic in his nature, will lead the drinker where he would not go for a thousands of miles. Total abstinence is the only safe rule for a temperate life. Alcohol is like dope in that the more any one takes, the more he must have. Better let it alone."

There was an auto crash in a north-west Florida town and the road patrolman rushed there to investigate. What he found was enough to frighten traffic from the highway. Rattained into a car that was parked on the roadside was a battered car that was loaded with dynamite, and slumped at the wheel was the driver too drunk to know what had happened. Listen to me, folks, do you know of a more dangerous thing on the highway than a drunk driver trying to pilot a car loaded with dynamite? When a man is drinking and driving at the same time, he is as dangerous as a machine gun, but when he drinks and hauls dynamite in his car, it is time for traffic to cease.

An innocent family was coming to visit in a home just in front of where I lived. Darkness had settled over the road and the driver of the car was proceeding with caution. While driving at a reasonable speed this driver was faced with another car dashing out from a side road without lights. The innocent man was helpless. In the crash he was killed and his wife was broken and bruised. The sheriff rushed to the tragedy to find drinking men in the car that had caused the wreck. Some of the guilty were badly injured, but they were only reaping their own whirlwind. The thing that broke our hearts was that the innocent man and his family had to suffer beyond the guilty. If you are a thinking man, if you are a sensible woman, you must see that something must be done with this whiskey. The blood of the righteous boils with indignation when such things happen.

STARVATION—

Howard Smith, of Samson, writes in The Samson Ledger that "Starvation Will Win This War." We are glad to know that starvation is good for something. It all goes to prove there is some good in most anything.—Geneva Reaper.

Only Three Lynchings In Nation In 1939

From Tuskegee Institute comes the following information regarding lynchings in the Nation during the year 1939: Dr. F. D. Patterson, president states that he finds, according to the reports compiled in the Department of Records and Research, that there were 3 persons lynched in 1939. This is 3 less than the number 6 for the year 1938; 5 less than the number 8 for each of the years 1937 and 1936; and 17 less than the number 20 for the year 1935. Two of the persons lynched were taken from the hands of the law—one from the jail and the other from an officer of the law outside of jail.

There were 18 reports of instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. All of these instances reported were in southern states. In all instances, the persons were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. A total number of 25 persons, 5 white men and 20 Negro men, were thus saved from the hands of mobs.

Of the persons lynched, 2 were Negroes and one was white. The of-

Alabama's Outstanding Problem

Alabama's outstanding problem—and it should not be a hard one—is to feed itself. With soil adapted to the growing of practically all kinds of crops that thrive in the North Temperate Zone, with millions of acres of untiled soil, with mild fall seasons, Alabamians are not nearly feeding themselves. Alabama's income is low because millions of dollars are drained out of the state annually for food and feed that could be raised on Alabama soil. Almost half of Alabama's income is spent for food—Why not raise more food?

Go into the grocery stores of Alabama and you will find canned tomatoes put up in Maryland, spinach and peaches from California, beans from New Jersey, etc. The grocers are not to blame. They know what their customers want and buy it; they don't know

"Yes, Kay, I'm sure you do understand. Anyway," and Barney motioned toward the great aisle under the archway of cypress, "anyway, this gives me courage to continue. It seems as though a certain young man is beginning to see the light. He wants to go forth and make history. He desires to lay the world at the tiny feet of his lady fair. Which reminds me, do you happen to like worlds?"

Kay tried to answer lightly, but could not. She said, "I like you, Barney." Then, after a moment of silence, "What are you planning?"

"I don't know exactly. And I'm not kidding myself, either. I—well, I'm wanting to start something which will allow me to support a wife—provided I can find one with black hair and hazel eyes who answers to the name of Kay."

She put her warm little hand over his. "Go ahead, Barney."

"I've been thinking, a rare thing for me. I've been talking to Mother. And I'm not foolish enough to believe that Beverly offers any particular opportunity to an ambitious young man. Seriously, honey—I'm planning to check out."

She was startled. "Leaving?" "Eventually, yes. Naturally I'm not going until this—well, until this Kirk Reynolds affair is all cleared up. Sooner or later they'll find out who did it."

"She faced him squarely. 'I thought you did—at first.' 'So did everybody else.' The laughter had died from his lips. 'But I don't play that way.' 'I'm trying to believe you.' 'You have my word.' Her lips were tight. 'I do believe you—now.'"

"Yes," he said. "You must. It's been a rotten mess from the beginning. And, as I was saying—when it clears up, I'm going."

"Why?" He laughed. "I know what you're thinking. That Mother has done a swell job. That she's not only caused something beautiful to be created—but that she's made a commercial success of it. Well, listen, honey. Mother was doing a bigger job than that. She was trying to make someone out of her moderately virtuous but highly indifferent son . . . and she wouldn't think she had succeeded if she found me willing to spend the rest of my life here, collecting dollars from tourists. Nope. I'm commencing to suspect that life can be grimmer—and pleasanter—than that. It'll be New York."

"Doing what?" "Learning something and working at it. Starting seven rungs below the bottom and casting impatience out of the office-window. I can get a job. Dad had lots of friends, and while, at first, they won't believe I'm serious—they'll find out soon enough. He thrugged his broad shoulders. 'I feel like a sap, talking this way. Little Rollo . . . but I happen to mean it.' She said, 'I know you do, this time.' 'And I'll keep on meaning it. It's funny that Beverly could have taught me what New York never could. I suppose that's what Mother really had in mind.'"

They were silent for a long time; close, mentally and physically. The day slipped away beyond the cypress trees and azalea bushes; there hung an incredible serenity. Her voice was very tiny, there in the soft blackness. She said, "You'll make the grade, Barney." "You really think so?" "I know it."

Banter had gone from his manner. The arms that went about her were strong arms. The lips that she turned up to his were wide and cager and frank. And if his face was lost to her through a mist of happiness, it—for the first time in weeks—she felt a sense of fulfillment and security—that was only natural. She said, "Everything's all right now, isn't it, dear?" and he answered by drawing her closer . . . and closer . . . until it seemed that there had been no trouble, no agony of soul, no stark reality.

They rose then and walked hand-in-hand toward the house. Their young faces were grave. Mrs. Hamilton saw—and made no comment. She was wise in her generation: a tolerant and understanding mother.

The supper was served late. It was simple and tasty. The conversation about the table was light and pleasant and subdued. Occasionally Barney's eyes would meet Kay's as though to say, "You see, everything is right and tranquil now."

They finished the meal and strolled out onto the veranda. The heavens were sprinkled with stars.

They stood beside Barney. Her hand was on his arm and she knew that his muscles were taut. He did not move. His cheeks were white, but his eyes were level and cold. He held his double-barreled shot-gun as a bird-hunter holds it, right hand caressing the trigger guard, left hand on the barrel. Ready.

Kay heard the front door open—and close. Mrs. Hamilton and Margaret joined them. Barney spoke, without moving his eyes from the tableau near the azalea bushes. He said, "You'll get back in the house."

Kay's answer came quietly. "I'm staying right here."

"I can handle this."

Kay said nothing more. Neither did Mrs. Hamilton nor Margaret. But they remained, inwardly terrified, dutifully unafraid. Thoughts raced through Kay's mind: "I did this" . . . "I've heard of lynching mobs" . . . "never saw one before" . . . "I wonder why I feel so cold" . . . "Disconnected thoughts. Angry thoughts. She heard Barney's voice: hard and mature."

"What do you want?"

A tall, gangling figure detached itself from the shadowy group. Jeff Butler said, hoarsely, "We come for you, Barney Hamilton."

"A suspended query. A grim pause."

"Yeh, we come for you."

"Why?"

"You'll dam' soon find out why."

Barney whispered, "Won't you please get back into the house?" The women beside him did not move.

Another voice came from the mob, an unpleasant, nasal voice. "We don't aim to leave no murderers go free."

Jeff Butler again, "You're a-goin' to be strung up."

"For what?"

"Murderin' Kirk Reynolds: that's what. An' fo' lots mo' things."

A woman's voice: "Babe Henkel's voice" . . . bit into the night.

"Quit wasting time! Go get him!"

Kay thought, "It's that Henkel woman. She must have loved Kirk a lot."

Barney raised his voice. He spoke directly to Babe. "I suppose this was your idea."

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Because the law won't touch you. Because they told me to get out of town. Because you killed Kirk."

Her voice cut sharply at Jeff Butler. "Well, what are you waiting for?"

Jeff said, "Better come with us. We ain't to be fooled with."

Another voice: "We got guns. Barney said, 'I've got a gun, too. And the first man who takes a step in this direction gets a load of buckshot.'"

Barney pushed her away. His

Monroe Cattle And Hog Sale

Tuesday was another good sale day at Monroeville, when Monroe County farmers sold 461 head of hogs and 261 head of cattle.

Cattle prices were good and some very fine cows were sold. Hogs sold at the following prices: Heavies, $4.55; No. 1, $4.80; No. 2, $4.32½; No. 3, $3.82½; No. 4, $3.50; No. 5, $3.15; No. 1 Roughs, $3.75; No. 2 Roughs, $3.15; Heavy Roughs, $3.50; Skips, $2.10.

young face was grim. "Get inside; all of you."

He walked inside with them. He gave no evidence of fear. He went to the hall closet—under the stairs—and took therefrom a double-barreled shot-gun. He produced a box of shells and slipped two into the chambers. He put a half-dozen more in his coat pocket.

"Barney!" It was Kay talking—breathless, frightened. "What are you doing?"

He moved toward the veranda. There were sounds outside: the angry, guttural voice of a mob.

Barney said, in a voice which was calm and steady, "I'm going outside to see what they want."

Kay followed, splendidly unafraid. She said, simply, "I'm going with you, Barney."

CHAPTER XVI

They were grim shadows in the night—seven men from Big Moccasin Swamp, plus Dan Creighton and the woman who was known as Babe. The light from the house cascaded down the steps of the veranda and marked a faint, yellow path across the emerald lawn, limning their sinister figures, shining upon the dark, ugly barrels of shot-guns and upon the coiled rope, which one man carried.

Kay stood beside Barney. Her hand was on his arm and she knew that his muscles were taut. He did not move. His cheeks were white, but his eyes were level and cold. He held his double-barreled shot-gun as a bird-hunter holds it, right hand caressing the trigger guard, left hand on the barrel. Ready.

Kay heard the front door open—and close. Mrs. Hamilton and Margaret joined them. Barney spoke, without moving his eyes from the tableau near the azalea bushes. He said, "You'll get back in the house."

Kay's answer came quietly. "I'm staying right here."

"I can handle this."

Kay said nothing more. Neither did Mrs. Hamilton nor Margaret. But they remained, inwardly terrified, dutifully unafraid. Thoughts raced through Kay's mind: "I did this" . . . "I've heard of lynching mobs" . . . "never saw one before" . . . "I wonder why I feel so cold" . . . "Disconnected thoughts. Angry thoughts. She heard Barney's voice: hard and mature."

"What do you want?"

A tall, gangling figure detached itself from the shadowy group. Jeff Butler said, hoarsely, "We come for you, Barney Hamilton."

"A suspended query. A grim pause."

"Yeh, we come for you."

"Why?"

"You'll dam' soon find out why."

Barney whispered, "Won't you please get back into the house?" The women beside him did not move.

Another voice came from the mob, an unpleasant, nasal voice. "We don't aim to leave no murderers go free."

Jeff Butler again, "You're a-goin' to be strung up."

FROM OXEN TO STREAMLINED TRACTOR; A STORY OF SOUTHERN FARMING PROGRESS

The producers of the motion picture "The New South," searching for authentic local color, penetrated even to districts far off the beaten track. In one Southern farming section miles from a main highway they were surprised to find a team of oxen, hooked to an ancient wooden cart, still doing active daily service.

A sequence portraying the team was filmed, and may be viewed in the picture, which is now being shown all through the South by the distributors of Arcadian Nitrate. The scene is part of the historical picture presented to portray the development of Southern agriculture.

Later on in "The New South" the most recent improvements in Southern farming, down to the streamlined tractor, are shown in contrast with the crude beginnings.

One of the greatest advancements has been the education of the farmer in the use of fertilizers to obtain the greatest yield from his crops, and to prevent his land from being depleted. In most Cotton Belt soils, the plant food which is most often deficient is nitrogen, the growth element.

Today the South, which still remembers the days when oxen furnished the motive power on the farm, can look forward to a new era of farm prosperity based on scientific findings.

Blind Youth BecomesArdent Baseball Fan

SPENCER, IOWA.—Blindness doesn't prevent Keith Logan, 14, from being one of the Spencer's most ardent baseball fans.

He never misses a game and depends upon the crowd's cheers and comments and the public address system to keep him posted on the fortunes of the home team.

Old Bill's Fire IsNow 150 Years Old*Started by a Spark Struck From Hunting Knife.

SALUDA, N. C.—The spark struck from the steel blade of a hunting knife and a flinty arrowhead still glows on the hearth of Old Bill Morris near here. It will be 150 years old this year—a homely but cheerful reminder of pioneer culture in the North Carolina mountains—but there will be no celebration. And Bill Morris, 79 years old, isn't worrying about the fire, though he is last of the family which has kept the home fire burning.

There was some talk of moving the cabin fire in the Smoky Mountain museum which the park service is planning, but Morris indicated that not only would he not allow the fire to be moved, but he'd give away a brand off it away. There are some distant cousins who might want the fire, he said. Meantime, he goes about his farming duties, and at night plays himself a tune or two on his fiddle. For visitors he philosophizes, using his fire as an illustration for his point.

"People are getting lazier and lazier," he told a visitor. "I can remember way back when people would rather walk two miles to one place to get a piece of fire than start one themselves. Nowadays a fellow will jump into a car and drive half a block to get himself a match."

Bill Morris can account for 70 years of the fire himself. His mother cared for it all her married life, and before that his father's family kept it going. It was moved once—70 years ago—from the old log homestead to the log cabin Morris now occupies. Keeping the hearth fire going once had utilitarian virtue, but it became so famous in the then wilderness as a never-failing flame that the Morris family finally prided themselves upon it, and so utility faded into sentiment and finally almost into reverence.

Couple Married 78 YearsNever Apart Since United

LUCAS, IOWA.—This little town of 514 has added a second claim to national fame—it has what is believed to be America's champion married couple.

John H. Lewis, leader of the C. I. O. The title of champion couple is claimed for Mr. and Mrs. George M. Goben, both 83, who are not only in their seventy-eighth year of married life together, but also have not, in all those years, been separated a single day or night.

The Gobens were guests recently at a picnic dinner sponsored by the National True Vow Keepers' club, an organization of couples who have been married 50 or more years.

The only formula the Gobens have to offer for a happy married life is their own experience: "Always stay together. Never be separated for a single day or night."

The Gobens have lived most of their life on farms. They have had eight children, five of whom are living. They have 17 grand children, 27 great grandchildren and two great, great grandchildren.

One of their sons, F. J. Goben, of Lucas, has been married 53 years.

Find Bulgarian FoxesFeed on Wild Animals

SOFIA.—Bulgarian foxes were officially exonerated from their bad reputation as harmful animals by R. P. Drenski of the Royal Bulgarian scientific institute, through an examination of the intestines of a fox.

It was discovered that the principal and almost constant food of the fox had been field mice, forest mice and insects.

It was figured out that foxes in northern Bulgaria invaded 20 villages, taking 120 hens, 200 chickens and other animals and thereby causing a damage of 6,500 levas. During the same period of time hunters killed 460 foxes whose furs were worth approximately 46,000 levas.

Cat Raises Baby Skunks,Adds Them to Own Brood

WASCO, CALIF.—Tabby must have an awful cold.

Ranch employees of the Poco ranch, who found two baby skunks huddled in the rain, thought they'd play a trick on Tabby by making her acquainted with her odoriferous fourth cousins.

Tabby fooled them, however. She immediately adopted them and added the skunklets to her brood of kittens.

Workers plan to wait until the mother cat teaches her adopted children to catch rats. Then they'd de-skunk the critters and keep them as pets and anti-rodent guardians.

Pass The Sweet Potato Syrup

Chemurgy's effort to free the South from its domination by cotton has already resulted in the manufacture of numerous products from the peanut and the utilization of slash pine for newsprint.

The Negro scientist, George Washington Carver, of Tuskegee Institute—who, by the way, is reported to be seriously ill—has produced many new commodities from the sweet potato. A dispatch from St. Louis now tells us that chemurgy has found a way to use the sweet potato commercially for the production of syrup comparable to midwestern corn syrup in quality and lower in cost.

Dr. Lawrence E. Stout, professor of chemical engineering at Washington University, reports that the process has been developed after three years of research. A check under industrial conditions was made in a 20-gallon pilot plant.

The importance of the new method of making syrup from sweet potatoes might be far-reaching, says the scientist, in opening a new agricultural market and a new industry for the South. Corn syrup now is widely used in a variety of food products.

Sweet potatoes, of course, are among the more important vegetable crops grown in the United States, but it is marketable under present conditions. The rest of the crop could be used for making syrup.

According to Dr. Stout, government investigators have shown that the South can produce sweet potatoes more cheaply than the midwest produces corn. The cost of manufacturing syrup from either corn or sweet potatoes is approximately the same. Thus the overall advantage would be in favor of the sweet potato which may usher in a new era for that important crop—Macon Telegraph.

New Forms For Birth, Death Certificates

New certificate forms for the registrars of births, stillbirths and deaths are being distributed among physicians, midwives and undertakers by the State and County Health Departments, it was announced early this week. Old forms or blanks are to be either destroyed or turned over to the local health officer. The new forms go into use immediately on the annual of the new year after midnight December 31st.

Meetings of the twenty-eight registered midwives in the County are scheduled for the last of the week for the purpose of getting the new certificates into the hands of the midwives. The Clanton Club meets at the health office in Clanton, December 28th at two P.M., the Maplesville Club in the branch office in Maplesville at one o'clock P.M. Friday, December 29th, the Jemison Club in the Negro Church at Jemison Friday, December 29th, at 9 A.M.

All physicians, undertakers, midwives and registrars are urged to cooperate with the Health Department to prevent the rejection of certificates recorded on old forms after December 31st.

140 JOIN THE NAVY

During the first two weeks of last month 140 recruits have enlisted in the United States Navy at the Navy Recruiting Station, Birmingham, Alabama, and have been transferred to the Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Va. These young men, come from parts of this State and some from northern Florida, which is a part of this recruiting district.

Chilton County Farm Agent's NewsJ. W. FANT, County Agent

"A herd of good Guernsey cattle will produce a profit if properly handled," Mr. R. M. Foshee, Clanton Route 4, stated today.

Mr. Foshee speaks from experience. He bred good Jersey cattle for a good many years. In the Spring of 1934 he decided to change from Jersey cattle to the Guernsey breed. With the assistance of the county agent he started selective purchase of Guernsey cows and at the same time selling the Jerseys. In 1934, 1935 and 1936 he purchased fourteen at the same time selling the Jerseys cows, heifers and a good bull. From this nucleus he has developed one of the best dairy herds in the state.

He now has thirty-three females in his herd headed by one of the best bred Guernsey bulls in the South. He has already sold enough bull calves and old cows to get the money back that he paid for the original fourteen Guernseys.

Mr. Foshee has made a good living from the milk sold from these cows. This herd was put on test with a Dairy Improvement Association in 1938 and made honor roll by producing an average of over 300 pounds of butter fat and 6000 pounds of milk per cow.

Mr. Foshee operates a four horse farm where he grows some cotton and most of the feed for his dairy herd.

He had grown winter legumes and done other soil building practices recommended by the Alabama Extension Service for many years. His farm is in a high state of cultivation and produces good crops.

In 1935 he planted kudzu for temporary pasture and hay production. This kudzu is producing excellent grazing and in 1939 he cut a two-ton per acre crop of hay from the kudzu area.

He has a trench silo where he stores sorghum silage for winter feed.

He has developed swamp land for pasture that was not suited to cultivated crops. He has planted Dallas grass, lespedeza and White Dutch clover and in 1938 and 1939 he applied basic slag on his pasture to increase the grazing capacity.

Mr. Foshee is selling the bull calves at reasonable prices and some of the original foundation herd. His herd is as large as he cares to keep, therefore he will continue to have good females for sale as well as bull calves.

Company 3481 CLANTON C. C. C.

The New Year celebration was drowned in sorrow when the death of Robert Fencher, C.C.C. Director, was announced. Mr. Fencher's death stunned the nation, particularly the C.C.C. Camp's Personnel throughout the nation.

Born March 22nd, 1876 in Chattanooga, Tenn., Mr. Fencher died at the age of 63. Leaving school at the age of 15, Mr. Fencher was a "news butcher" on railroad trains, learning the machinists' trade. He afterwards came to be International Vice President of the International Association of Machinists.

After the election of President Roosevelt, and his inception of the C.C.C. he appointed Mr. Fencher Director of this fledgling agency. Despite active opposition from various forces he moulded the "Corps" units, the most popular of the "New Deal Organizations."

This great American's remains will be interred at Arlington National Cemetery because of his services in the Spanish-American War. The greatest monument to his memory will be the young men whose lives he helped to mould, and his epitaph is written in the Forests, Parks, and Farms of the American People.

Gold Rush Upsets Mexican Village, Pan $225 in DayPopulation Goes From 40 to 5,000 in Few Months; Still Growing.

MESQUITE, MEXICO.—A few months ago this tiny Mexican town boasted a population of 40.

Now it is teeming with 5,000 persons and is growing daily.

Some months ago Javier Gomez, a bartender, was broke. Worse than that, he was $250 in debt and there seemed no way out of it.

Today Gomez is the leading citizen of the town, earning about $225 a day.

The magical thing which boomed Mesquite and enriched Gomez almost overnight was the same thing that sent thousands into California almost 100 years ago—gold.

Reminiscent of the gold-rush days of the 1800s, a gold strike transformed Mesquite from a drowsy little village scarcely larger than a good-sized ranch to a rough and ready desert metropolis which already is making inroads on the population of established Sonora towns.

Made First Strike.

Gomez, who made the first rich "strike" in the canyon which shelters Mesquite from the sun and desert, says he tends bar in his place at this time and will prospect permanently. He has the distinction of panning the most gold a day—$225—and also has the most elaborate dwelling in Mesquite—a small frame house, 12 by 12, constructed of unpainted pine boards.

Mesquite is located almost 80 miles southeast of Nogales on the Mexico-United States border and operates under numerous handicaps. There is no communication with the outside world. There is no electricity, only one small well, and nothing like a road except a few trails constructed by prospectors racing toward the strike in antiquated cars or on mules.

Jesus Mas Vazquez, owner of the El Paso ranch which was the nucleus of Mesquite before the strike, operates several profitable enterprises. He has a monopoly on the water supply and sells the commodity for about three cents a small 50-gallon drum costs 25 cents.

Housewives, because of the scarcity of water, are encroaching on Valenzuela's business. A brackish pool of water was uncovered in the desert, and the desert and water is transported nearly 10 miles.

Holds Water Monopoly.

Valenzuela, oldest resident and owner of the only adobe house in Mesquite, says he will not enter into mining activities. He says he makes "much dinero" selling water and whiskey. Valenzuela operates the only saloon in town and recently has installed a new feature—a concrete dance floor.

Civic industries are incomplete, but citizens are proud of their business and their town.

The jail, a dugout carved in the side of a hill, has had only two prisoners since Gomez "struck it rich." Main reason for lack of prisoners, Gomez explains, is a dearth of law-enforcing officers. He said every one was too busy mining gold to worry about who should be police chief.

If the gold supply holds out Mesquite might become an established town with a permanent population. If the strike peters out it probably will become a ghost town—deserted except for Jesus Maria Valenzuela, who philosophically said he had lived in Mesquite before the gold rush and that he would continue staying there for the rest of his life—gold or no gold.

Pilot Saves PassengerIn Mock Air Raid Crash

LONDON.—Sergeant Jack Arnold Bagge, of the Royal Air Force, saved a passenger to escape by parachute before he crashed to his death near Wittering R. F. F. station, Northants.

The boy, 17-year-old Dennis Nahun, of Oundle, was one of a party of six who were taken up in Blenheim bombers for a mock raid. Flying in formation, Bullard lost contact with his leader in a cloud, and as he came out of it the tail of his machine was sliced off by the propeller of another plane.

"Don't get scared! Count five and pull the ripcord," he shouted as he pushed his passenger off into space. The boy's parachute opened and he landed in a field unconscious, his face cut. A few moments later the crippled bomber crashed and Bullard was killed.

Caves Will Be Used inEgypt for Arms Storage

CAIRO, EGYPT.—Caves which can withstand the most powerful bombs will be used by the Egyptian government for the storage of arms and ammunition in time of war.

A railway line has been built between Maasara, near Cairo, and the place where the caves are situated. The line will be used exclusively for carrying munitions to the caves.

The length of the railway line is only about four miles, but the caves extend as far as Suez, a distance of approximately 60 miles.

Some of the caves are air conditioned and supplied with electricity.

Clanton Second BAPTIST CHURCH

We had a nice crowd out to Sunday School and preaching Sunday morning and a nice crowd out to B.Y.P.U. and preaching Sunday night.

The ribbon contest in Sunday school is nearing its close so we urge everybody to come out and help us in our drive to improve attendance to both the Sunday School and preaching.

Don't forget prayer service Wednesday night at 6:15. Don't forget we extend a hearty welcome to one and all.

MISS ANNIE CLEMENTS CAUSEY

Miss Annie Clements Causey, age 23, died at her home on Billingsley Route 2 Tuesday morning following a short illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from the Billingsley Baptist Church with Rev. Swan of Bibb County conducting. Spigener Funeral Home in charge of burial in the adjoining cemetery.

Miss Causey is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Causey of Billingsley; one sister, Mrs. Irene Deamus of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Gets Hit Trying to Rescue Trapped Cat

NEW YORK.—A black cat trapped and bewildered in a vehicular tunnel here excited the pity of Fred Gerking, 73. As he was rescuing the cat he was struck by an automobile and received a serious fracture of the shoulder. While the trucking was knocked down the cat jumped from his arms and escaped.

In-Jaws Ejected From Hubby's Bed

Worm Turns When His Cot Is Sent to Basement

CHICAGO.—John Kubu, a machinist, who married after he was persuaded that he needed a "feminine touch about the house" only to find his bride's family took all available bedrooms while he was relegated to the kitchen, then the basement, won a court order entitling him "to a bedroom in his own home."

Judge Joseph Sabath issued the order, pending a hearing at which he indicated he would grant the husband's plea for a divorce.

Calling the bride, Mrs. Frances Kubu, a "gold digger," Judge Sabath declared:

"You don't have to steal every thing your husband has."

According to testimony, Kubu, 61, wed last November, after being persuaded by his bride, portly and 41, that he needed a feminine touch about the house.

"Mrs. Kubu told him she was a widow," Kubu's attorney declared.

"Only later did he learn that she was three times a widow."

She promised to cook and care for him and be a loving wife. Instead, she made Kubu give her his weekly $50 pay check, returning only $5 for his use.

Mrs. Kubu insisted that her daughters, Helen, 22, and Adeline, 19, live with them. Each took one of the three bedrooms, forcing Kubu to sleep on a cot in the kitchen.

The Kubus have been estranged since February 1, but the final blow came when the women started to move his cot into the basement.

Public Nosebleed Crime, Judge Would Repeal Law

DENVER.—To increase the efficiency of the Denver police force, Chief August Hanebuth requested Municipal Judge Phillip B. Gilliam for a synopsis of the city charter for use by his command.

Judge Gilliam dug back into the files of 1927, the last time the charter was drawn, and uncovered the following laws:

Arrest and fine of $1 for walking along a public street while nursing a nosebleed.

Arrest and fine of $1 for walking on the streets if deformed, diseased or maimed.

A fine of $25 for playing a musical instrument in a public place between 9 a. m. and 9 p. m.

A fine of $25 for performing acrobatics on the street and thereby frightening horses.

A fine of $100 for wearing masks or false faces and frightening horses.

Judge Gilliam said he would petition the city council to repeal these "ridiculous" statutes.

Holdup Adds 25 Years to His Term for Robbery

RALEIGH, N. C.—Cecil King, youthful long-term felon accused of committing a series of holdups after fleeing prison a few months ago, drew an additional 25-year term for robbing Edward Carroll, a Raleigh taxi driver.

The new sentence is to run concurrently with terms King is now serving, which total more than 50 years.

King also faces trial for several holdups near Fayetteville. He was brought to the courthouse here from State's prison, where he has been confined since his recapture.

Testifying officers dubbed him a "dangerous character."

Farmers Employ Geese To Weed Cotton Fields

BLYTEVILLE, ARK.—If a new system of removing weeds from cotton fields catches on throughout Dixie, farm implement companies are going to have a huge surplus of hoes on hand.

Farmers near here are employing geese to weed cotton. And this new system, besides being economical and effortless, has numerous advantages. When it rains, work isn't interrupted. For geese eat 16 hours a day, rain or shine.

Not only does it save the farmers hours of hard labor at swinging hoes, but they don't have to buy or raise grain to feed the fowl.

Bookmaker Has $175, So Judge Makes It His Fine

HARTFORD, CONN.—Police Court Judge John M. Bailey was undecided what fine he would impose on Walter Brozyna for taking horse racing bets until the arresting officer suggested:

"He had $175 in his pocket when I arrested him."

Judge Bailey promptly declared: "Then the court fines you $175 and costs."

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 7,020 bales of cotton were ginned in Chilton County, Alabama, from the crop of 1939 prior to December 31 as compared with 10,355 bales for the crop of 1938, according to V. C. McKee, Special Agent.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sahlmann of Birmingham spent last week end with Mrs. Sahlmann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Waite.

With the income available to them for living, farmers in 1939 could buy about as much goods for their families as they could in the favorable period of the 20's.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company pays in Alabama, State and County Taxes to the various collecting districts, a sum amounting to approximately eight hundred thousand dollars per year.

MISS JO FARMER WEDS JOE VANDERVEER DECEMBER 28TH

A wedding of much interest to people of this section was that of Miss Jo Farmer of near Tuscaloosa, to Joe Vanderveer, former Clanton young man.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Powhattan James, pastor of the Tuscaloosa First Baptist Church, in the presence of a few close friends and relatives. Mrs. Vanderveer is a charming young lady, well known in near Tuscaloosa. Mr. Vanderveer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Vanderveer, Sr. of Clanton, and is at present District Supervisor for the Olan Mills Studio of Tuscaloosa. Friends of this couple join in wishing them the very best life holds.

Mrs. Nan Taylor, teacher in the Thorsby Public School, visited her sisters, Mrs. Dewey Rockett and Mrs. C. D. Hughes last week.

Breath Bad, Logy?

You May Need This

Just as the lighthouse flashes a friendly warning to sailors, so Nature sends out headaches, "bad breath, biliousness, which often warn of constipation. Too many misunderstand or neglect these symptoms and thereby may invite a host of constipation's other discomforts: sour stomach, belching loss of appetite or energy. Be wise. Take spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT tonight by simple directions and clear your bowels gently, promptly, thoroughly. This intestinal tonic-laxative helps give tone to lazy bowels. Its long life and popularity testify to BLACK-DRAUGHT's merit.

BETTE PLAYS HER DREAM ROLE

BETTE DAVIS

ERROL FLYNN

Few women will willingly make themselves ridiculous for the sake of art. And fewer Hollywood stars will face the camera in make-up that makes them just a touch hideous. But Bette Davis does just that in her new picture "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex," in which she co-stars with Errol Flynn.

So important did the role seem to Bette that she insisted on make-up that closely followed Elizabeth's years. Learning that, in her late life, Elizabeth cached her hairless pate beneath a wig, Bette demanded that one scene be shot in which her wig slipped off and disclosed a completely bald head. Art with a vengeance.

Jane Hall, in the January Cosmopolitan, tells us: "Bette's make-up for Queen Elizabeth is magnificent. So is Bette. She has wanted to do this characterization all her life. So sincerely that when the time came she was ready to postpone it for another five years—for fear she wasn't quite good enough."

WAR

Sea warfare, after a Yuletide lull of six days, brought reports of three more sinkings and a grounded freighter last Thursday.

Neutral Denmark suffered her 11th known loss when the 1,080-ton freighter Hanne struck a mine and sank off the Northeast English Coast. First reports made no mention of her crew.

Britain reported that the freighter Moorfoot, 875 tons, and the naval trawler Lock Doon, 543 tons, were overdue and considered lost. The Moorfoot carried 13 men, the Lock Doon 15.

The German freighter Glucksburg, 2,680 tons, was chased around on the Atlantic side of the Spanish Coast by British warship which halted the chase when a Spanish torpedo boat told the English craft that she was in Spanish territorial waters.

The sinkings sent the known toll of all nations to 272 ships aggregating 986,111 tons. Known loss in life stood at 2,719. British losses, including naval vessels, rose to 144 ships of 519,610 tons. Prior to the new sinkings reports, only two ships were known to have been destroyed in the past six days.

Meanwhile, Germany and the authoritative English Lloyd's Register issued conflicting reports on ship losses since the start of the war.

An official Nazi report claimed that 279 Allied and neutral ships had been sunk between September 3 and December 20.

Lloyd's report, which included seven more days of activity, said Allied and neutral sinkings amounted to 205 vessels. Germany's loss was put at 22, the British at 111 and the French at 12. It listed 81 neutral sinkings.

The Germans acknowledged only 18 ships lost.

FRIDAY—

A German submarine torpedoed a 30,300-ton British battleship west of Scotland. Four men were reported killed. The Britisher was of the Queen Elizabeth type and carried eight 15-inch guns.

Reds send 100,000 fresh troops against the Finns in an effort to break through the western end of the Mannerheim Line.

SATURDAY—

Total tonnage (all nations) sunk since the beginning of the war passed the million ton mark. Nearly 300 vessels were involved, including sixteen British and two German war craft.

SUNDAY—

The Tacoma German merchantman, which assisted in the scuttling of the Graf Spee was given twenty-four hours by the Uruguayan government to leave the port of Montevideo or be interned for the duration of the war. The Tacoma and its crew were interned for the duration of the war.

MONDAY—

The Finns claim to have wiped out an entire Russian division of 15,000 men. King George signed a proclamation calling for two million additional men, ages 19 through 27, for military service.

In an aerial battle over the North Sea two German planes reported shot down and two British ships lost—the Barbara Robertson and the Box Hill.

TUESDAY—

The 16,732-ton German liner, St. Louis, which left New York August 27th, is reported to have reached a "home harbor safely."

WEDNESDAY—

Finnish ski troops capture Red base. Finns reported to have wrecked troop train on Murmansk railroad.

The amount of the debt owed the United States for money and supplies furnished the European nations during the last world war is approximately fourteen and one-half billion dollars.

Robert S. Teague, 71, of Montgomery, Teague Hotel and Teague Hardware Company official, died suddenly Monday night of a heart attack.

Distribution as premiums of more than 3,000,000 cotton bath towels will begin this month through retail grocery stores in the South.

MRS. WEBB PARRISH, Correspondent

Rev. and Mrs. John B. Gonzales kept open house for members and friends of the Congregational Church on New Years afternoon. Mrs. Gonzales was assisted by Miss Lois Leech, Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs. A. N. Laurell. Several of the young ladies of the Church assisted in serving the refreshments. The courtesy was appreciated and enjoyed by a large number of friends.

Mr. Vernon Rector, a graduate student in Vocational Agriculture in the State College in Manhattan, Kan., spent the Christmas vacation with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Gonzales. Mr. Rector returned to Manhattan on Tuesday. The Church and young people greatly enjoyed Mr. Rector's singing.

Baptist Church News

We are hoping to have an increased attendance at Sunday School, this first Sunday of the year. "I am not everyone, but I am one; I cannot do everything but I can do something; What I can do I should do and by the grace of God I will do." Won't you invite someone to go with you and be in your place at 9:45 next Sunday morning? We are counting on you.

At the morning worship service the subject will be "Christ's Free Men."

The Training Union has a place for every member of the Church who is not a "shut-in." The Training service begins promptly at 5:45. Worship service at 7:00 o'clock; subject: "Physicians Of No Value." Prayer meeting at Church Thursday evening at 6:30.

Congregational Notes

A large number of young people enjoyed the recreational hour in the Fellowship room of the Congregational Church on Monday evening, January 1. We have had to vacate the Taylor Building but have secured temporary quarters for our recreational group in the Bentley Building just next to the City Hall on Main Street. The young folks will meet here next Monday night at 7:00 o'clock for an hour of Bible study. All young people of the community invited.

On Sunday morning, January 7, the Church will observe the Lord's Supper. This service affords a fine opportunity to renew our obligations to God and our fellowmen at the beginning of the new year. Christian Endeavor prayer meeting will be held at the usual hour which is 6:20 P.M.

At the evening service at 7:00 o'clock Rev. J. B. Gonzales will preach the first of a series of sermons on "The Ministry Of Jesus" as pictured by St. Mark. The special theme will be "The Beginning of Jesus' Ministry." Good music and a cordial welcome.

The Ladies Aid will hold their meeting with Mrs. J. H. Goddard on Thursday afternoon.

1939 COMMUNICABLE DISEASES REVIEWED BY HEALTH DEPT

Fewer cases of diphtheria and typhoid fever occurred in Chilton County during 1939 as compared with 1938 while scarlet fever whooping cough and malaria showed an increase, according to a weekly news release from the local Health Department.

Eleven cases of diphtheria occurred during 1939, the lowest incidence registered during the 1937-1939 period. Only four cases of typhoid fever were reported during 1939 as compared with seven in 1938. There were forty cases of scarlet fever during 1939 as compared with 24 cases in 1938. A slight decrease was registered in the pneumonia incidence, only twenty-five cases being reported as compared with thirty-six in 1938.

The influenza incidence of 1939 exceeded the 1938 total of 115 by eight cases. Ten cases of scarlet fever were recorded during the year as compared with six occurring in 1938. Gonorrhea showed a slight increase over last year with twenty-four cases reported in contrast to 12 in 1938. A slight decrease was registered in the pneumonia incidence, only twenty-five cases being reported as compared with thirty-six in 1938.

Of the rarer diseases two cases of meningitis and one case of typhus fever occurred during 1939. No new cases of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) were reported.

There was one death from typhoid fever and one from diphtheria during 1939. Whooping cough was the cause of three deaths. Malaria accounted for one death. Deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis numbered five.

Moonshiners Are Forced to Adopt Chain Operation

Illicit Distillers Are Hard Pressed for Cash in Mountains.

ATLANTA.—Pappy, the bewhiskered mountain moonshiner of the cartoons whose feud guns are rusty and his cash scarce, has resorted to "chain" operation of whisky stills in an effort to make money on a losing proposition.

The southeastern division of the internal revenue alcohol tax unit—"revenue" to Pappy—disclosed that the traditional mountain distillers are hard pressed for profit because of legal liquor and stringent enforcement.

Some of the illicit whisky makers have gone into "chain" operation because of inability to finance their ramshackle plants alone. In cases of "co-operative effort" one of the more affluent men in the community will advance money for grain and sugar needed in whisky manufacture. Then he gets a cut of the profits when the liquor has been sent to the city and sold. Recent federal raids have uncovered "chains" of as many as 10 distillers.

The days of the private moonshiner who made a few gallons of native corn or rye and carefully aged it for his own consumption and occasional sale are over, according to W. H. Herington, district supervisor of the alcohol unit.

"The stuff is awful," Herington said. "Many of the moonshiners won't drink their own product."

"Most of the stuff is sold immediately after it is distilled because our agents are crowding the still operators too close to permit aging. The 'shine is dumped on the market almost before it is cold. And that means the quality is virtually unfit for human consumption."

The purity of the native liquor which retails for about $2 a gallon is usually doubtful, Herington said. The water used in mountain whisky comes from comparatively pure streams, but in the "low country" of the South the moonshiners often use polluted swamp or pond water.

The chain system of still operation is not widespread, but agents in the district of South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia and Florida have uncovered recent instances of co-operative manufacturing—with all hands denying ownership of the stills to avoid heavier federal prosecution.

Helps Enforcement. Federal enforcement is helped materially by report of unusually large sugar sales.

Grocers are required by law to report the sale of more than 100 pounds. According to the federal men, 100 pounds of sugar go into 100 gallons of mash, which in turn will yield about 10 gallons of whisky.

The distilling equipment in most cases is inadequate. Condensers for the alcohol vapor usually are made from scrapped metal coils, and even discarded automobile radiators.

Most of the illicit whisky finds its market in city slums and lower-class areas. Herington said, and people who "drink anything" type of tippler has perplexed federal agents in the South, particularly in South Carolina recently, by purchasing denatured alcohol—the rubbery type—for drinking purposes.

Denatured alcohol internally causes serious gastric consequences, but the sales continue. Denatured alcohol imbibers usually temper the unpalatable liquid with soft drinks or water.

Just Homesick for 'Pen,' Horse Thief, 80, Asserts

LANCASTER, PA.—Eighty-year-old Joe Buzzard stood up in court recently and insisted that he had committed his latest horse theft just because he was homesick for Eastern penitentiary.

Buzzard, whose 34 years in jail have included numerous sentences for horse stealing, told the court when he was arraigned for stealing a horse and buggy early this month, that he was "homesick for the old 'pen.'"

"Give me twenty years or life, it's immaterial to me," he told Judge Oliver S. Schaeffer.

"I believe you stole that horse just to get back," the court remarked.

"Positively, your honor," Buzzard replied.

In addition to a $50 fine, he will have from one and one-half to three years to get over his homesickness at Eastern penitentiary.

Dog Walks 150 Miles
Back to His Old Home
TIFFIN, OHIO.—A homesick collie dog walked 150 miles to return to his four-legged home here. Willis Wenger moved from a farm near here to Navarre, Ohio, this spring and took the dog along. The dog became lost near its new home and walked the entire distance to its old home. Its feet were bleeding from the walk.

Girl Is Rescued
From Crocodile
Thrilling Tale of Escape
From Jaws of Death.

CHICAGO.—Tales of South Africa spun by G. S. Oettle, retired British South African railway official, while he visited a cousin, are remembered as the best adventure stories told outside of fiction.

A favorite told by Oettle was his experience in helping to resuscitate a girl who had been held captive by a crocodile.

Crouching on a river's edge filling a container with water, the girl, sweetheart of Oettle's native boy, was seized and carried off by a crocodile.

Calculating rapidly how far the huge reptile had pulled her, and where she had been carried under water, the boy dove under a nearby rock, found her there and brought her to the surface.

When the crocodile returned with others for an expected feast, the party opened fire and killed two. Oettle said it was one of the few cases on record in which a crocodile victim escaped alive.

When the girl regained consciousness after two hours, she said she was so frightened when the crocodile seized her arm that she did not remember striking the water. Having fainted and so taken comparatively little water into her lungs, she was able to respond to resuscitation.

Oettle said he had many an encounter with lions, but none as harrowing as one that turned a brunette into an ash blonde.

Once in an interior province, he said he met a woman only 22 years old whose hair had been turned silver from fright.

Driving her donkey cart on a mountain trail, the woman suddenly came face to face with two lions. Frozen with fear, she sat perfectly still for to have moved would have spelled disaster.

The lions, suspicious of the harassed animals, stared, sniffed and "figeted" and after half an hour backed around a turn on the trail and vanished.

Jobs on Owner, Block of Shops Goes for a Penny

GLASGOW.—A man walked into a public auction room in Glasgow, made a bid of 1 penny and had knocked down to him within a minute a block of work with a rent roll of $2,600 a year and estimated to be worth $25,000.

The owner, A. E. Pickard, wealthy property and cinema owner, with a sense of humor, had, in advertising the sale, marked the reserve price at 2 cents.

He had an auctioneer's certificate he stepped on the rostrum of the auction room to conduct the sale himself. He gave the briefest of descriptions and called, "What am I bid?"

"One penny," was the immediate response. Pickard looked round the small company, mostly onlookers from the street. "Going for a penny," he called. No one moved.

"Going, gone!" He picked up his papers and walked away.

Dog Officially Dead Is Revived by an Operation

DES MOINES, IOWA.—Although officially dead, Josephus, a two-year-old great dane, was very much alive and barking today in a man's apartment. The dog had been pronounced dead by a veterinarian, but Josephus was brought back to life by a veterinarian.

Believing the dog dead, the police left and along came an animal trainer, Aubrey Tedrick. Tedrick took the dog to a pet hospital where an operation was performed.

It was discovered that Josephus hadn't been mad at all but merely a bit clumsy because of an attack of indigestion.

Now he's recovering and is to be shipped to a new master in Detroit, Mich., who read about his troubles in Des Moines and wants to give him a home.

And So Lost a $950 Bet

COPENHAGEN.—The costly drowsiness of a well-fed Bonese vice restaurant keeper almost pushed war news off Copenhagen front pages.

The restaurant keeper had bet 5,000 crowns (about $950) he could walk around the outside of Denmark's capital in 24 hours, pulling the nation's oldest car.

With one day to spare and only three miles to go he stopped at an inn and enjoyed a pre-victory feast. Then he overslept and lost the bet by an hour.

ALABAMA TO CATCH UP ON ROAD MARKING

NEW SYSTEM PROMISES TO BE MOST MODERN OF ANY IN USE

Chris J. Sherlock, Jr., state highway director, boasts that the new system of scientific road-marking now being installed will be "the most advanced of any system now in use."

His boast, Sherlock said, is based on the fact that Alabama's new improved combination of what has been shown by practical experience to be the most effective features developed in New York, California and other states.

"In the location of signs," the director explained, "guesswork has been eliminated. So has the hit-or-miss method of procedure. All locations are selected on a basis of sound engineering research and practice, taking into consideration the normal driving technique and reactions of motorists."

In the past, he said, was a haphazard procedure, looked after largely by road foremen or others without engineering knowledge, and usually done in rainy weather or when construction or maintenance operations were at a temporary standstill.

In adopting the new system, special attention was given to discontinuance of markers deemed unnecessary or confusing. One effect of this will be elimination of state road markers on the through highways that are state as well as federal routes.

Sherlock's engineers also gave thought to the crossroads dweller who has been losing sleep answering the "hall-o'-o's" of confused motorists by making sure of intersections are carefully marked as to route numbers and directions and distances. Through cities, the traveler will find markers at every street intersection, not just when his selected route changes course.

Types of signs never before generally used in Alabama to be included in the new system will tell motorists the name of the city he's approaching, what river or other body of water he is about to cross, and when he is crossing a county or state line.

"The new order in road signs and markers will not only be a tremendous convenience to the traveling public—especially visitors from other states—but will mark the entire highway system as a whole," Sherlock believes.

The system was worked out by Sherlock, Marvin Taylor, maintenance engineer, and L. M. Dinsmore, traffic engineer. Metal signs and markers used are manufactured at Kilby Prison, where automotive tags also are made.

Marking virtually has been completed in and near Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile, as well as some of the smaller cities, at junction points and on heavily-traveled highways.

Enrollment Of 1,401 CCC Boys

Montgomery.—Enrollment of 1,401 Alabama boys in the Civilian Conservation Corps is scheduled for Jan. 10-12.

Miss Loula Dunn, commissioner, Alabama Department of Public Welfare, official state selecting agency for the corps, said Friday this would include 94 Negro boys, and represents the total required replacements necessary to bring Alabama's CCC quota to its basic strength.

Replacements are made throughout the United States every three months because of enrollees discharged from the corps for reasons such as end of term of enrollment, to accept employment, and to return to school.

Enrollment will take place at Anniston, Huntsville, Auburn and Hamilton January 10. Enrolling centers January 11 will be Birmingham, Wilson Dam, Linden and Dothan, and January 12, Greenville, Montgomery, Brewton and Mobile.

Boys eligible for CCC must be male citizens of the United States unmarried, not less than 17 nor more than 23½ years old on the day of enrollment, unemployed and in need of employment, not in regular attendance at school, in good physical condition, of good character and willing to allot $22 monthly from cash allowance to dependents.

Since the beginning of the CCC program in 1933 approximately 43,500 boys have been enrolled in the corps from Alabama.

More than $12,000,000 has come to the state, Miss Dunn said, in the form of cash allotments to needy families through the CCC program since it was established in 1933. Current monthly allotments amount to approximately $150,000.

A majority of the boys enrolled will be stationed in the 28 camps in the state.

FOUR MONTHS OF WAR

By Irvin M. Lande
World War No. II began Friday, September 1. But the long-expected bombing raids by Nazi planes of London and Paris did not follow. Hitler promptly defeated Poland in twenty-eight days and then gave half to his new friend, Stalin. But that was not all. Herr Hitler got his German Empire was at war now with Great Britain, France, and Poland. With Poland defeated, Hitler turned to Great Britain and France. The war on land for the past four months has been nothing but a series of German victories. Both fearful to battle on land until the Spring when tanks and planes have better opportunities. On the water, however, Hitler displayed a new weapon—the magnetic mine. The mine war has sent about five per cent of British shipping to the bottom and many neutral vessels have been destroyed. Hitler's highly advertised air force has stayed at home except for several bombing raids against Scottish shipyards where the damage has been small. The British, in retaliation, sent their Royal Air Force bombers against the Kiel Canal and lost several ships. The British had lost ships on the sea, but they had run the German navy off the seas, all that, except for German pocket battleships. Then, in December, a German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, attacked the Formosa The British ships, Ajax, Achilles, and Exeter, chasing with weaker guns, succeeded in chasing the crippled Spee into Montevideo, Uruguay harbor. Just outside the harbor waited the British ships for their victim. But the Admiral Graf Spee did not go out to battle. The captain blew himself up. A week later he killed himself. Hardly had Americans time to digest the scuttling of the Spee, than the tenth largest ocean liner in the world, the Columbus, was blown up by the German crew. The British navy still rules the waves.

$18,000,000 TO BE SPENT ON ROADS

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES A NON-BOND ISSUE PROGRAM

Montgomery—(State Highway Dept. Release)—During the current fiscal year that began October 1, 1939, the State Highway Department will spend $11,300,000 on road construction in every section of Alabama without the benefit of a bond issue or a single penny of added revenue from any new tax or taxes. In the maintenance of roads already built another $2,000,000 will be spent. The grand total of disbursements for the 12-month period will be brought to $18,000,000 by an additional $5,500,000 for retirement of roads bonds issued in past administrations, payment of interest, and all other Department expenditures.

For the same 12 months sources of funds to meet expense outlays have been carefully checked and conservative estimates made of the amount each will yield. Cash on hand at the beginning of the fiscal year amounted to $1,309,000. Estimated income from motor vehicles fees is $2,900,000; from gasoline excise tax $7,000,000; from motor carrier fees $140,000; county aid $2,011,000; Federal contributions $5,490,000—or a total, in all, of $18,910,000.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company used approximately 4,000,000 cotton bales, requiring the output of 4,000 acres of cotton, during the past year.

The mob hesitated. It milled about and murmured. It had not anticipated armed resistance. Kay heard someone say, "He wouldn't shoot," and somebody else answered, "You're crazy. Any man'll shoot if he has to."

Jeff Butler said, "Git them ladies inside. We don't care to hurt them."

Another pause. The lynchers were uncertain. Hanging a man was one thing; firing into three women was something entirely different. Kay knew what they were thinking, and she was glad. And she wasn't afraid any more. That is, not very. Barney was so quiet, so steady . . .

Babe asked, sharply, "What is this, a debating society?" Jeff looked at the little group on the porch. He spoke softly, "Ain't no use rushin' him; he'll shoot 'n' kill somebody. But if we are to kind of separate . . ."

"What do you mean, Jeff?" "Go ev'ry which way. Sneak up on him from both sides." Clem Ross shook his head. "He's bound to kill somebody. A feller don't bluff when he's a-doin' to git him."

Babe Henkel broke in, "Scares 'em?" "No'm," whined Clem, "we ain't skeered ezactly, but—"

"But you are. You're eight men against one." She whirled on Jeff Butler, her black eyes snapping. "Did you come here to talk or to act? Are you letting three women frighten you away . . .?"

One of the swamp angels spoke. "He ought to be hung, m'am, but he ain't safe goin' after him. If them wimmen wasn't there . . ."

"Well, they are. And if you don't get him now, you'll never get him." The mob was not valiant. Mobs never are. They work in a frenzy of hysteria; they demand safety. Walking in on a loaded gun is not part of the plan. No man in that crowd had contemplated personal danger. Upholding the honor and purity of Beauregard County was all right, but not worth serious injury. Jeff Butler knew the temper of these men. He knew that he had worked well, that he had fanned them into a homicidal fury. But Barney Hamilton's calmness, his readiness . . .

Barney Hamilton hit Kirk Reynolds before he could speak. "You're letting yourself get tricked by this man, Butler. He's yellow all through . . ."

"Yaller!" Jeff raised bony arms high into the night. He shrieked with fury. "Yaller! Callin' me yaller . . . when you're the yallerest man there is!" He faced his friends. "You ain't got nothin' to be skeered of. There ain't nobody no yaller than Barney Hamilton!"

Somebody asked, "How you know, Jeff?" "I got reason to know. He's bluffin', that's what. He's a coward. There wouldn't nobody but a coward hit a man who was wearin' glasses."

A voice queried, "What man?" "Kirk Reynolds!" howled Jeff. "Barney Hamilton hit Kirk Reynolds before he could speak. An' Reynolds was wearin' glasses!"

The night was suddenly still. There was a tenseness—then a murmur. The mob edged and moved definitely toward the veranda. Barney's gun snapped to his shoulder. Then Babe stepped forward, Babe Henkel—eyes bright and angry. Her voice cracked. She said, "Wait a minute!"

They waited. Babe took three steps forward. She stood before Jeff Butler. She said, "How did you know that Kirk Reynolds was wearin' glasses that night?"

Jeff's head moved uncertainly on his long, thin neck. He said, "Why, m'am. I know he was wearin' glasses."

Babe's words were quiet. They carried accusation and conviction. She said, "Yes, Kirk was wearin' glasses. But listen—all of you: only three persons in the world knew that he was wearin' them. One was Kirk. One was me. And the third person who knew was the man who

FACTS ABOUT CHILTON COUNTY SCHOOLS

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of short articles on the schools of Chilton County and their problems. We are indebted to the office of the County Board of Education for this interesting and educational information.

There are sixty public schools in Chilton County, including thirty-eight white and twenty-two negro schools. Teaching in these schools are 215 teachers. The total number of pupils in average daily attendance in November was 5,832. Of these 1018 or 17 per cent are negro children.

Over a period of twenty years the number of white schools has decreased from 74 to 34, a decrease of almost a half. There are today three more negro schools than there were in 1920. The decrease in number of white schools is due to the elimination of one and two-teacher schools. In 1920 sixty-five of the seventy-four white schools were one and two-teacher schools. In 1940 only twenty are of this type.

Over the twenty year period the number of teachers has increased from 181 to 215, an increase of 18 per cent. The number of pupils has increased 21 per cent. This increase, however, has been altogether in high school attendance. There are fewer pupils in the county's elementary schools today than there were twenty years ago. Today's high school attendance has increased from 111 twenty years ago to 1663 today. That's an increase of over 1000 per cent. Twenty years ago one-fourth of one per cent of the school children were in high school. Ten years ago approximately 20 per cent were high school pupils. Today 29 per cent of the students are high school pupils.

SIX CASES OF PARALYSIS

Six cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the State Health Department in November, compared with four in October and two in November, 1938. Last month's cases developed in Dallas, Houston, Jefferson, Lamar, Lee and Mobile Counties.

Henry Ford Tells Youth To Get Out On The Land

Henry Ford gave out an interview on the last day of the old year in which he made clear he did not support the belief that this country cannot find useful places for the hundreds of thousands of youths who will finish their schooling in the new year.

"If energetic and intelligent young people," he said in an interview, "will stop thinking that they cannot get along without attaching themselves to a payroll and will get out on the land, they will find there is still plenty to do."

don't say they'll get rich right away. They may have to go to work for a man who owns a farm in order to get a start

"When they have learned farming—and it is a new art today because the old ways are gone, they will be in a position to pick up some land of their own. Then they will be ready to share some of the profits that are coming to farmers when industrial demands for farm products really develop."

Ford has been interested for years in the adaptation of farm products to industrial uses.

The industrialist expressed belief that a city-bred boy may be better fitted to cope with modern farm problems than one who has spent all his years on a farm.

DAIRY HERD HONOR ROLL

R.M. FOSHEE HERD OF CLANTON
AMONG EIGHT LEADERS
FOR YEAR 1939

Auburn, Ala.—Honor roll in school means above the average and the same definition applies when honor roll is applied to dairy herds, according to F.W. Burns, extension dairyman, of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in announcing names of eight Alabama honor roll dairies for 1939.

These eight herds averaged over 6,000 pounds of milk and 300 pounds of butterfat during the year while the average production of Alabama dairy cows as a whole is only 3,200 pounds of milk and 147 pounds of butterfat, he pointed out.

Burns said the high producing dairy herds belonged to R. M. Foshee, Clanton; Leon Guy, Montgomery; Loui Uray, Attalla; J. C. Beene, Huntsville; Sprink Lake Farm, Birmingham; W. H. Hall, Greenville; King Brothers, Marion Junction, and Taylor Brothers at Selma.

"In order to make dairy cows a more profitable market for home grown feed we must increase the production of our dairy herds," Burns says. "These eight herds which are placed on the 1939 honor roll were all in dairy herd improvement work. In addition to being more profitable to their owners these herds serve as a source of purebred bulls for farmers and commercial dairymen who are trying to increase the production of their herds."

Lowland Areas Make Good Pastures

Lowland areas covered by brush and valuable pasture, according to County Agent J. W. Ford and Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service, in the CCC camp area near Clanton, Alabama.

Such areas when properly treated and managed become the best pastures on the farm and one acre of such pasture is estimated to be worth five acres of upland pasture. In this connection, it is pointed out that by planting kudzu on upland or rough lands adjacent to such lowlands valuable temporary grazing will be provided. The pastures of Mr. R. M. Foshee and Mr. Aaron Guy are good examples of this practice.

Now is the proper time to brush off these lowlands, getting the surface down to mowing height and make the land ready for fertilizing and seeding in spring. By utilizing these areas as permanent pasture and planting kudzu on adjoining rough uplands, the farmer can increase his acreage of good pasture.

Farmers Asked To Aid Drive On Inferior Seed

Haygood Paterson, state commissioner of agriculture and industries, warned Alabama farmers today several "bargain-price" seed shipments seized in the past failed to meet requirements of the state's pure seed law and were mislabeled.

Dodder weed and Johnson grass seed, trash, have been found in some Lespedeza and "pasture mixture" shipments, the commissioner said.

The state department operates a seed testing laboratory and Com. Paterson asked farmers knowing of possibly worthless seed being offered for sale to notify his office.

Crying for peace in one voice and demanding millions for armament in another, simply do not harmonize.

Next to a substantial house, a well constructed and well filled smokehouse is the farm's best asset, says Dr. Will Alexander, national director, Farm Security Administration.

M. C. Giles of Sheffield, president of the Alabama Press Association, was slightly injured in an automobile collision Friday.

And the swamp angels knew the truth—and were afraid. Afraid of what might have been. Afraid because they might have lynched an innocent man . . . not morally afraid, but physically . . . because they could conceivably have been caught and punished. They were sick of the whole affair and virtuously eager to forget it and to be forgotten.

They knew—not alone from Babe's words, but also from Jeff's manner—that their friend and neighbor had killed Kirk. At the moment they hated Jeff; not because he had killed somebody, but because he had attempted to betray them.

Then they were gone. The night swallowed them. Kay heard them moving through the swamp, back toward their homes. She saw Jeff shuffling toward the house propelled by the guns of Dan Creedon and Barney Hamilton.

The queer procession moved into the hall. Barney said, "Somebody call the Sheriff. Tell him to come get this man." Mrs. Hamilton went to the telephone. And Barney and Dan Creedon stood there, holding Jeff prisoner. Jeff was mumbling, "I'm not a nigger, I'm a white man."

Kay stood by the front door. Her eyes gazed into the night and saw the figure of a woman standing alone, a vivid woman bewildered by the sudden turn of events, a woman who had been keyed to high emotional pitch. Impulsively Kay went through the door and down to the lawn.

"Miss Henkel . . ."

Babe turned. Her eyes were misted, her figure had sagged. She looked utterly alone and incredibly tired. Her voice was flat. She said, "Go ahead. I haven't got a comeback."

Kay said gently, "I don't blame you."

There was a lump in Babe's throat. She spoke with difficulty. "I—I was pretty crazy about Kirk. I really thought Barney Hamilton killed him."

"I understand . . ."

"It seemed like I had a right to do this." She pressed one hand against her head. "What a louse you must think I am."

"But I don't. Really. And you should feel better. You've got the man you did it."

A sharp, merciless laugh broke from Babe's lips. With a flash of intuition she said, "We're fools, us women. We go crazy about some guy, and . . ."

Kay touched her arm. "Let's don't talk about it. Come inside."

As they crossed the veranda Babe tried awkwardly to make amends. She said, "I'm glad it turned out like this—honest I am." She moistened dry lips.

Then they were inside. Mrs. Hamilton joined them and spoke gently to Babe Henkel. She was infinitely sorry for this woman who had lost everything that made life worth while for her. Mrs. Hamilton said, "The Sheriff is on the way out."

The half-hour which followed was difficult for its very lack of tension. The reaction was violent. It rendered them all inarticulate. Twice Jeff Butler tried to plead with them. Then stopped because he saw that they were not listening.

Sheriff Floyd Griffin arrived with two deputies. He slapped hand-cuffs on Jeff Butler's bony wrists. He said, with forced heartiness, "It must of been a swell party. And this guy—he'll git plenty."

Dan Creedon rested off's shotgun against "Yeh. Right away."

"Got room for Miss Henkel and me?"

"Sure."

Babe rose. Her dark eyes swept the room. She opened her lips to speak and closed them again. But at the door she turned. Then she said, simply, "I'm awful sorry . . ."

and she was gone. And Dan and the Sheriff and his deputies and Jeff Butler had gone, too. And with them went doubt and fear and suspicion and uncertainty. The three women and Barney looked at one another.

And because Mrs. Hamilton and Margaret wanted to stay close to Barney—to touch him and to do little things for him because they knew that they had come perilously close to losing him—because they wanted to do and say so many things the one thing which they most wanted. They left him alone with Kay.

The room was quiet. Barney's gun and the gun that had belonged to Jeff Butler were the only ugly reminders of something which already seemed unreal. Barney reached out and took Kay's cold hand.

"Let's go outside." He laughed awkwardly attempting to hide his own smothered under that gaiety, it was not to be wondered at. She said, "You talked about your plans. Barney. It's too bad they have to be changed."

She forced herself to be gay. She was gay. And if there was a faint touch of hysteria in that gaiety, it was not to be wondered at. She said, "You talked about your plans. Barney. It's too bad they have to be changed."

He tried to respond as she wished him to. "Changed? How?"

"For one thing—you mentioned going places, and then coming back for me some day when you got around to it." She faced him and cried tightly. The lightness of her words was belied by the sob in her voice. "Oh, Barney!" she cried, "Try and leave this town without me. Just try!"

"He held her desperately close to him."

"You're a stubborn wench," he said gently, "so I won't even try."

MITCHELL DAM WINS DOUBLE-HEADER SATURDAY NIGHT

The strong Mitchell Dam Basketball Team stormed their way to victory in both clashes of a double-header at the Mitchell Dam Court last Saturday night. The first game was with the Mignon Mills team of Sylacauga and ended with a score of 36-21 in favor of the Dammers. The second game found Buck Creek of Siluria, trailing by a score 27-40 when the final whistle blew. Both these teams are listed among the country's best, and the showing made by the Mitchell boys proves that Manager Steve Stanley has been putting his players through the paces, and is now in the midst of the team's greatest season.

In the Mignon game Saturday night the visitors were leading by a score of 12-9 at the end of the half, but the second half was a different story. High point man for the Dammers was Willis (Dutch) Baker with 13 points. He Dammed played one of their best defensive games of this season. Fast and furious little Snowy Melton chalked up nine points in the latter half of this game.

In the Buck Creek game Melton led his teammates with 12 points and Amos for the visitors with 10. These games drew a large crowd which showed their interest and enthusiasm through-

Grandsons acted as pallbearers.

A Statement From Congressman Jarman

The following statement by Congressman Pete Jarman of the Sixth District will be of interest to all. Congressman Jarman spent some time in this County last week.

"December was the only month in 1939 during which Congress was not in session. Pursuant to my custom of keeping as closely in contact with my District as possible, I have maintained an office in Tuscaloosa during the entire month in which all my personnel, that which as Chairman of the Printing Committee it is my privilege to have serve you, as well as the regular personnel authorized for all members of Congress, has been constantly at the service of my constituents. While I have spent considerable time in this office, I have been occupied during the majority of the month in visiting the other counties of the District, that I might afford myself of the privilege and pleasure of seeing as many of my friends as possible. Despite my keen desire to talk with each of you, the limited time has naturally denied me the pleasure of seeing many of you, but I look forward with pleasure and anticipation to doing so next year.

"I now return to the performance of my duties in Washington, with particular emphasis on those as a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, so important to our Country during these trying times of International unrest. As I do so, I wish to express to each reader of this excellent paper and to all of my constituents, my best wishes that Christmas was merry indeed for you and that you are destined to enjoy health, happiness and good fortune in 1940 beyond your fondest hopes."

On next Friday night, December 5, the Thorby Independent will play five newly-organized Clanton Dr. Pepper team in what should be one of the feature basketball games of the season.

The Clanton team is composed of veteran players who have collected quite a number of tricks in the art of basketball technique. Players such as George Chambers, Snowy Melton and Buckley Armstrong, all of whom were members of last year's State High School Champions, compose the team.

Preceding this game will be two preliminaries. The Thorby Jr. High girls will meet the Baker Jr. High girls then the Thorby Jr. High boys take on the Baker boys. The girls game will begin at 6:30 and the other games will follow with the Independents, beginning about 8:30 o'clock. All three games will be played in the Thorby Jr. High School auditorium. Come out and support your favorite team. Each of the three Thorby teams will be shooting for a victory. Admission will be 10 cents.

COTTON CONGRESSMAN PREDICTS PASSAGE OF ANTI-JUTE BILL

Rep. Fulmer Would Discourage Use of Foreign Product As Wrap for Cotton Bales Also Raps U. S. Sugar Quotas

Washington, D. C.—Predicting passage of his bill to eliminate use of jute in wrapping cotton bales, Congressman Hampton P. Fulmer of South Carolina, in a special interview on the economic crisis in Puerto Rico, declared today that he is in favor of encouraging all domestic industry and agriculture, instead of allowing such wide usage of foreign products which compete with our own producers.

Representative Fulmer

He pointed out that Puerto Rico is a United States Possession and that the Island along with producers on the mainland have been hurt by the drastic sugar quotas which sought to encourage foreign trade by giving large shares of the domestic market to Cuba and other foreign countries.

Hits Foreign Import

"I think we should use our own cotton in our own country instead of jute from India, and I think likewise that we should use our own sugar instead of foreign sugar, as well as any other products which we can produce in this country instead of foreign imports," he declared. "Our cotton farmers are in a bad way, and there is no question about that. And yet instead of using our cotton wherever possible, we even go to the extent of using jute instead of cotton to wrap our cotton bales and in our postal system. My bill to eliminate use of jute in wrapping cotton bales, if passed, will help out considerably, by providing an additional market for low-grade cotton, and this in turn will have a good effect on the price of high-grade cotton."

Says Market For 2 Million Bales

He pointed out that if jute were eliminated from the domestic market, there would be a market for an additional two million bales of cotton. Congressman Fulmer's bill against jute has been passed by the House and is now pending before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

He pointed out that as a result of the restrictive sugar quotas on our own producers and the permitting of large imports of this along with jute and other foreign products many have thrown out of work. Congress has had to appropriate millions in relief for persons thrown out of work both in the United States and in Puerto Rico because of the foreign competition.

In The Past, But Still Remembered—

Events that have transpired during the past year 1939 in Chilton County are in the past, but many of these happenings have affected us in various ways. Many of you will want to review the highlights of 1939 as concerns us, so next week the Chilton County News is presenting a chronology of 1939 of Chilton County. This will be an annual feature of this newspaper at the beginning of each new year with this one being the first. It was our intention to carry this chronology last week—the first issue of the year, but our files were being bound, hence the delay. This review will no doubt bring back memories to many that tend to sadden the heart—many will be pleasant memories, but all forming the march of Chilton County progress. You are invited to read "Highlights Of 1939, next week."

Lions Tell The World—

Of course you have noticed the attractive signs on the highways beyond Clanton which tell the world that there is an active Lions Club in our city. We're a little late acknowledging these signs but not too late to say that they are certainly attractive and speak well for Clanton.

The Minstrel—

Tonight is the night when the Clanton Kiwanis Club presents their minstrel entitled "Coon Valley Minstrels". Folks, take a tip from us; you can't go wrong when you invest the small amount of fifteen and twenty-five cents to see members of this Club go Al Johnson for one night. Cohen E. Stapp serves as interlocutor, and such character as "Epoxotic", Dick Hayes; "Fritter", R. W. Lowe; "Dippiwitt", Horton Walker; "Fall", T. E. Wyatt; "Blimp", John Hollis; "Calabash," yours truly; and many others, will smear on the soot, put on the wig and perform in a manner that we cannot predict. You'll have to be present and see. This is a benefit performance, one that the Kiwanians have spent some time preparing. You'll be there, of course!

Here They Come—

The candidate parade is on. The first three have made their formal announcements. The pot is beginning to simmer. With the addition of more candidates it will begin to boil. Yes, sir, 1940 is finally here.

Deadline Nearing—

Paid your poll tax yet? Well, the deadline for doing this is nearing. Only three weeks left. Don't let this slip your mind.

Welcome Back—

The people of Chilton County are extending Reddie Taylor a cordial welcome back to Clanton after an absence of several years. Mr. Taylor has taken over the Rockett Dry Goods Co. An outstanding citizen in his community, he will be an asset to Chilton County, as he was when he resided here several years ago. He has moved his family here. Welcome back, Reddie!

HUBERT STROUD DIES FOLLOWING BRIEF ILLNESS

PRESIDENT OF COUNTY FARM BUREAU IS VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA ATTACK

William Hubert Stroud, age 34, of Verbena Route 1, died last Friday at 6:10 A.M. after a brief illness of pneumonia. Mr. Stroud had served for two years as president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau. He was widely known and well liked by those who came into contact with him.

Funeral services were held from the residence at 11:00 A.M. Saturday conducted by Rev. Joe Raines. Interment was in the Bethany cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Aileen Nivens Stroud, three sons, Harold, Jimmie and Billie; two daughters, Misses Helen and Len Stroud; parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stroud of Verbena Route 2; three brothers, J. O., Birmingham, C. B., Jr., Birmingham and A. L. of Clanton.

Pallbearers were Stanley Nivens Houston Nivens, J. W. Fant, M. H. Lane, W. C. Wingard, J. Lee Yates, Charlie Breedlove and Marvin Durbin.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET AT COURT HOUSE FRIDAY

A special meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will meet at the Court House, Clanton, Friday night at 7:00 o'clock, January 12th. All ladies who are interested are invited to be present. All wives or widows, mothers and sisters of veterans of the World War are urged to attend this meeting. The president of the State Department of Auxiliary has promised to be there for the meeting—Mrs. Oliver C. Duke.

CONVICT GUARD TRUSTY VANISH IN PRISON TRUCK

FOUND AT CLANTON WHEN WRECK CHANGED THEIR PLANS FOR SHORT VISIT

(From the Montgomery Advertiser)
A statewide search Sunday for a convict guard and his "trusty" driver, who failed to return to No. 4 Prison after delivering five freed convicts to the Bus Station in Montgomery, ended Sunday night when Highway Patrolmen W. J. Williams and L. M. Searcy found the two men, with the truck, at Clanton.

Patrolman Williams said the guard, Mack Crowe, about 60, and the trusty driver, Eldridge Moore, had driven to Clanton so the latter might visit his wife and had planned an early return to the Prison. He said their plans went awry, however, when the truck skidded off the highway into a ditch and they lost much time getting a wrecker to pull them out.

The truck had been pulled from the ditch and was in Clanton when found by the patrolmen.

Williams said both men were taken into custody and that he understood they would be returned to No. 4 Prison, near Montgomery this morning. He added that, to the best of his information, no attempt had been made to effect an escape.

The truck left No. 4 Prison about 8 A.M. yesterday for Montgomery with five freed convicts. The latter were driven to the bus station and provided with non-transferable tickets to their homes.

When the truck failed to return to the prison at the time scheduled a statewide police radio broadcast was made in which Montgomery authorities and highway patrolmen, were asked to watch for the truck.

One convict department official said, before discovery of the truck at Clanton, that he feared the possibility of foul play.

Warden Joe Johnson, of No. 4 said that Guard Crowe was a "reliable man" who recently had been transferred there from Kilby Prison and that Moore, serving a short sentence from

TWO OF THREE CANDIDATES WHO ANNOUNCE ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Two of the three candidates, who make formal announcement this week on the Democratic ticket are, left to right: J. Monroe Parrish, present Commissioner of the Fourth District, who announces for re-election, and J. C. Pattillo, who announces his intentions to seek the office of Circuit Clerk for a second term. R. L. Ousley has also announced as a candidate for a second term as Commissioner of the Third District.

COMMISSIONER OUSLEY ASKS FOR 2ND TERM

HAS SPLENDID RECORD AS COMMISSIONER OF THIRD DISTRICT FOR PAST TERM

The name of R. L. Ousley, prominent resident of the western section of the county, and present commissioner of the Third District, will appear on the Democratic ticket of Chilton County in the forthcoming primary. Mr. Ousley is asking for a second term of this office on the strength of his past record as Commissioner.

Four years ago, after making a success of his profession—farming—Mr. Ousley asked the people of his county, where he was born and raised, to elect him Commissioner of the Third District. He was elected in the general election of 1936 by a good majority.

Mr. Ousley's record as commissioner is outstanding and one he may well be proud of. He has devoted his every effort to the services of his community and invites the voters of Chilton County to consider this record when they go to the polls to name a man for this office.

A member of the Alpine Baptist Church, he takes an active part in social and religious activities. He is also a Mason. Mr. Ousley stated that he would have more to say to the voters of the county before the primary in May.

Chilton Circuit To Hold Its First Conference

The first quarterly conference of Chilton Circuit will be held at Pleasant Hill Methodist Church east of Billingsley next Sunday, January 14, and preaching at 11:00 o'clock. Quarterly conference in the afternoon.

Every church official is urged to be present. Public invited.—G. B. Golden, pastor.

THORSBY RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY JANUARY THIRD

W. A. Mills, age 56, was found dead in the basement of his home in Thorsby last Wednesday morning. Death was attributed to heart trouble. His funeral was conducted Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock by Rev. Wiley Ogletree. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery.

Surviving are the widow; five brothers, I. C. Mills of Chicago; L. T. Mills of North Carolina; T. W. Mills, of Miami; D. J. Mills and T. T. Mills of Georgia. Three sisters, Mrs. William Ridgeway of Ohio; Mrs. M. L. Rogers of Florida; Mrs. W. H. McClendon of Georgia.

J. M. PARRISH ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER

HAS SERVED DISTRICT FOUR ONE TERM; RECORD IS OUTSTANDING

The Democratic ticket of Chilton County in the coming primary on May 7th will bear the name of one of this county's most prominent and highly respected citizens, a man who has served the Fourth District of his county for four years as Commissioner—that of J. Monroe Parrish of Beat 16—Providence community in the eastern part of the county. Mr. Parrish is asking the voters of Chilton County to elect him to this office for another four years and ask that before they cast their vote they study his past record.

His official announcement appears in this issue of the News as a candidate for this office. He was born and raised in this county, one of a family that has made an enviable record of service. Mr. Parrish is a successful farmer and business man who has made a success of his own business, and has certainly for the past four years made a success of handling the business of his Fourth District and that of the County as a whole.

Chilton County voters will do well to carefully consider Mr. Parrish before they cast their vote. He is a Democrat of the old school—tried and true, and one that is worthy of the office he now seeks for a second term.

WIDELY KNOWN BILLINGSLEY RESIDENT DIED LAST SUNDAY

Funeral services for Dawson Davis, age 76, widely known resident of near Billingsley who passed away at his home Sunday night at 11:45, were held last Tuesday morning at 11:00 o'clock from the Billingsley Methodist Church. J. M. Martin & Sons were in charge of burial in the nearby cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Davis are his widow, Mrs. Dawson Davis; two sons, C. L. of Union Springs; O. C. of Wilson Dam. Two daughters, Mrs. A. J. Alred of Montgomery; Mrs. W. C. Burkhalter of Billingsley. One brother, Prof. H. Davis of Clanton. Two sisters, Mrs. Maude Browning of Plantersville and Mrs. Alice Roy of Prattville.

THREE IN MAYOR'S COURT

Mayor C. Fenn Jones tried three persons in Mayor's Court last Monday morning. Two drew fines of $8.25 each for public drunkenness and one person charged with petit larceny was fined $12.50.

Mrs. Willie Mae Easterling-Moore is spending two weeks in Harlingen, Texas, visiting friends and relatives.

Three Candidates Make Formal Entry On Democratic Ticket

Board Of Registrars To Meet For Ten Days

The Chilton County Board of Registrars, composed of E. R. Piper, W. W. Wingard and A. J. Lecroy, will convene at the Court House on January 22, and will be in session for the ensuing ten days, it was announced this week.

The business of the Board will be to register those who, for any reason, have failed to register so far. They are urging the people to bear this in mind—January 22, for ten days.

BOARD OF EDUCATION SELLS $65,000 IN BONDS RECENTLY

$ 65,000 worth of bonds were sold by the Chilton County Board of Education one day last week. The highest bidder was Marx & Co., of Birmingham. Their bid was par 100.05. This means that the Board will receive something like $650 above face value of the bonds. There were nine bidders at the auction.

WORK STARTED ON BRIDGE ON OLD HIGHWAY HERE

Work has started on the bridge on the old highway near the Dennis Gin in the City limits, Mayor Jones tells us. The steel in the old bridge which was destroyed in the flood in 1938 will be used in the rebuilt structure. This is a vital artery into the City and the announcement that this bridge is being repaired will be of interest to many.

J. C. PATTILLO TO MAKE RACE FOR 2ND TERM

VERBENA CITIZEN HAS SERVED
COUNTY WELL AS CIRCUIT
CLERK FOR FOUR YEARS

One of the three candidates to officially announce this week is J. C. Pattillo, of Verbena, who is asking for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court for a second term. Mr. Pattillo's announcement may be found on another page of this issue.

Chilton County has never had a more conscientious and efficient Circuit Clerk than Mr. Pattillo. He has carried on the work of his office in a dignified and efficient manner that certainly merits the consideration of the qualified electors of this county when they go to the polls in 1940. He points to his record during his administration when asking for a second term, and firmly believes that an investigation will bear him out in his contention that he is entitled to another term.

A Democrat of long standing, Mr. Pattillo is pledging himself to abide by the will of the voters of Chilton County. He has asked the News to express his deep appreciation for their splendid cooperation during the years he has served as Circuit Clerk, and to assure them that his race for a second term will be as clean as he has endeavored to keep his office in the past.

FIFTEEN COMMITTED TO JAIL DURING LAST WEEK

Fifteen persons were committed to the Chilton County Jail during the past week, records in the Sheriff's office showed Monday morning. Following is a list of charges and the number of arrests on each charge:

Public drunkenness, 2; V.P.L., 5; Assault, 3; False pretenses, 1; D.W.I., 1; Carnal knowledge, 1; Assault with weapon, 1; Arson, 1.

Have you ever heard tell of a "professional insulter?" That's what R. W. Lowe, Clanton's postmaster, is in the "Coon Valley Minstrels" at the City Hall tonight. Your sides will ache when you hear him sing "Ah Proves It With My Razah."

3 INCUMBENTS ANNOUNCE FOR RE-ELECTION

Ousley, Parrish And Pattillo
Announce For 3 Of 6
Offices To Be Filled

FIRST PRIMARY MAY 7; SECOND ON JUNE 4

Christmas has come and gone. The new year 1940 has been ushered in, and the old proverbial "political pot" of Chilton County is beginning to simmer.

Three candidates officially threw their hats into the ring this week, subject to action of the Democratic primaries of May 7 and June 4. These three candidates are present holders of the office they seek for a second term, and have splendid records for performance of their duties during the tenure of office.

The early announcement of these candidates shows that optimism is being displayed by the Democrats of Chilton County over the coming elections. More candidates are expected to make announcement within the next few weeks. Five county offices are to be filled this year, and those candidates who expect to run on the tried and true Democratic ticket are losing no time in making it known.

The first Democratic primary falls on Tuesday, May 7, with the second primary coming less than one month later. It is assumed that the Republican primaries will be held on the same dates.

Of the five offices due to be filled, all are at present held by Democrats, namely: Probate Judge, County Treasurer, Commissioner of Fourth District, Commissioner of Third District, and Clerk of Circuit Court.

Announcements of Messrs. Pattillo, Ousley and Parrish may be found on this page.

C. E. Stapp Schedules Citizenship Meetings

A series of Citizenship meetings over the County has been scheduled by C. E. Stapp of Clanton. Beginning last Tuesday with a meeting at Vermont, these meetings will continue through January 30. Mr. Stapp closes out the series at Refuge on that date.

"The Blessings of Citizenship As Guaranteed By The Constitution of The United States," is the subject of Mr. Stapp's talks. He also discusses responsibilities as citizens. Announcement is made of the time and place of each meeting and an invitation extended to all citizens.

All men and women, twenty years of age and older, who are interested in the National movement for better citizenship, are invited and urged to attend one of the meetings as scheduled. Mr. Stapp states. Residents of the various communities are asked to watch for announcement of the date he will speak in their community. He is an able speaker, and has chosen a most vital subject, one of interest to all.

WILL PREACH AT SHILOH

An announcement given the News stated that Rev. Paul Oden will preach at the Shiloh Church next Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A.M. and will show his pictures Sunday night at 7:30. The public is cordially invited to attend both these services.

The People Of Central Alabama

Want A Bridge Across The Coosa River

The people of east central Alabama have waited long, and maybe not too patiently for something to be done about building a bridge across the Coosa River between the County seats of Chilton and Coosa Counties.

There is a stretch of fifty miles as the crow flies between Wetumpka and Childersburg on the Coosa River, with no bridge whatever for the general public's use. However, from Childersburg to Leesburg, approximately 75 miles, there are five bridges—Childersburg, Riverside, Greensport, Gadsden, Leesburg. And, from Wetumpka to Miller's Ferry on the Alabama, approximately 75 miles there are five bridges—Wetumpka, Tyler Goodwyn, Montgomery-Birmingham Highway, Selma, Miller's Ferry.

These are all free bridges, and the people of this community, who have been so grossly discriminated against, are taxed the same as others for the upkeep and payment of these other bridges, so closely bunched on Alabama's chiefest waterway.

We are not complaining that there are too many bridges located on the upper and lower reaches of the Coosa, but that THERE ARE TOO FEW located on the Coosa in Central Alabama.

There is a reason for everything, and there is a reason for no bridge across the Coosa River between Wetumpka and Childersburg. Thousands of people living east and west of the Coosa in central Alabama, and desiring to travel to the other side of the river must either use a ferry, or go by way of Wetumpka or Childersburg—many, many miles out of their way. This is unfair and unjust, and we do not believe that Chris Sherlock and the Highway Commission, when properly apprised of the true facts in the matter will longer hesitate to lend whatever assistance they can to see that a bridge is built and Alabama Highway Number 22 is hard-surfaced—as it should be, between Rockford and Clanton.

Poll Tax Days

The Birmingham News has had much to say in criticism of the Alabama poll tax with its cumulative feature. We will have much more to say from time to time regarding Alabama's unique position as the only state which makes a cumulative poll tax a prerequisite to voting.

But the time has come to pay that tax if one wants to vote in Alabama during 1940. Opposition to the tax or any feature of the tax is no justification for voluntary disfranchisement.

Better it is to pay the tax, even if that means making back payments for 10 or 15 or 20 years, and become a citizen of the state than to hang one's head in shame as one who has no right to take part in the government of which he might be a part, as one who lives in a state without being a full member of it, as one who can give only lip service to the democracy of which he may boast.

It is worthy of remembering, too, that the entire amount of the poll tax goes to the schools. That use of the fund, of course, is little more than a sop and an unworthy lure, but it does ease the hurt of payment. Payment of the poll tax helps the schools, incidentally, which as one of the bulwarks of democracy inevitably must tend to inculcate principles which eventually will lead to elimination of the poll tax.

The year 1940 will bring notable elections to Alabama. All persons should be concerned with playing their part in those elections. A president will be chosen, congressmen are to be named, and a number of state and party offices are to be filled. Failure to participate in those elections, even at the cost of a poll tax, is a failure to live up to the responsibilities of a free government. And it eases the way just that much for the growth of undemocratic ideas.

The amount of the tax is $1.50. With only a few exemptions, it must be paid by all persons between the ages of 21 and 45 if they wish to vote. The main exemptions are veterans of the World War, members of the National Guard, and persons with certain physical disabilities. The tax must be paid by February 1 to qualify for voting this year.—Bham News.

We Are Asking You

Why is it that such a tremendous effort has been made by the big daily newspapers (accompanied by much noise) to raise funds for the Finns (who, if the headlines in these same newspapers are to be believed, do not need any help), while not a line has been written about the needs of the hundreds of thousands killed, injured and made homeless by the recent earthquakes in Turkey?

Planning Big Fair For The South

"The Southern states, led by the Southern Governors' Conference," says the Gadsden Times, "will shortly launch a 10-year program of 'economic and cultural enrichment.' It is the desire of those advocating this program to climax it with a great 'world's fair of the South' in 1950.

"At their January meeting, the governors will appoint a committee to work out the details of the fair, with a site to be selected. This fair the governors hope, will celebrate a 'decade of progress toward a balanced prosperity in the South.'"

"This is a worthy undertaking, and we believe that the people of the South will assist the governors in it. It has been a long time since the South has sought to advertise itself before the world in this manner. Texas did it in the Dallas Centennial a few years ago; but this was more of the West than the South. The great New Orleans exposition of the 1880's is still remembered as the first such undertaking after the South recovered from the war, and the Southern governors in 1930 should be able to sponsor the most ambitious exposition ever attempted before the Mason and Dixon Line. We merely hope that the progress which the South experiences during the coming decade will justify it. The 1840's brought one of the greatest eras that the South has ever seen, coming to a close on the heels of the financial difficulties in the late 1830's, and we trust that the 1940's will be equally fruitful."—Alabama Journal.

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

Two women sat at a tea table for a friendly chat and as usual their husbands came up for a full set of remarks. One lady sipped her tea and nibbled her wafer, while she inquired: "Is it true, my dear, that your husband is forgetful of you?" The other lady knew what she intended and she remarked: "I shall say that he is. I believe that he forgets that he is a married man some nights." Then her tea gets cold and husbands in particular and in general come in for confidential remarks. I know that some wives have a right to think sometimes that their husbands forget the fact that they are married men. It seems to me also that some women act at times as if they had forgotten that they had husbands. We owe those who forget the marriage altar and the marriage vows.

Two bums out of a church one morning and happened to join each on the sidewalk. After they looked each other over, one said to the other: "Tell me, pal, why you came to church today?" "Well," replied the other bum, "I always like to go to a place where I am sure that my contribution is accepted." Then he looked over his pal and inquired: "And will you not pray tell me why you came to church?" His reply was that he attended church that he might see who gave liberally. He wanted to locate people who gave freely that he might soon knock at their door. It is true that some people go to church to give, while others go to get. Tell me, honestly, "Why do you go to church?"

The irritated wife was rushing dinner with all possible speed while her impatient husband and anxious son sat in the dining room waiting. Hearing a loud slap the mother was certain her husband struck her son. The sound started the battle that she wanted to begin and she screamed: "John, what on earth did you mean by slapping my boy that way?" The boy replied: "Ma, why be so bombastic! I slapped a mosquito." In spite of what the boy said the battle was on. Many a family stew starts from a misunderstanding. It pays for us to know what has taken place and to know the motive of those about us before we touch off our dynamite. Be sure you are right before you accuse. It could be "just a slap at a mosquito."

A friend of mine told this story at the Rotary Club. Said he: "I had a friend who made a failure as a doctor; he failed as a lawyer and he failed as a minister. For several years he drifted about and all of us thought him to be a retired failure. To our astonishment one day we saw him moving into a five thousand dollar flat overlooking the river. This move excited our curiosity and we inquired into his success. We found that this man had started writing articles for magazines on the subject 'Why Men Fail,' and the money came to him by the thousands." We learn from experience. When a man fails as a physician he should know what it takes to make a successful physician. When a man is really bright and fails at any task, he should be able to think out methods that lead to success.

The old man's clothes were in rags, his shoes had no soles and his head carried no hat. He stood at the back door of a wealthy home and knocked for a hearing. A white haired old lady appeared at the door and he asked for a piece of bread and a cup of coffee. With a snarl the old lady handed him a one-cent coin and then asked him: "Old man, tell me why you became a destitute." The old man bowed politely and replied with dignity: "I was always like you, mum. I gave away vast sums to the poor and the needy." Saying this the hungry man hobbled down the sidewalk and left the stony old woman to do some serious thinking. I do not endorse begging as a commendable plan for life, but that does not keep me from having a keen dislike for stinginess on the part of any one.

The political "peckerwoods" keep on chattering, and the political "rabbit-dogs" keep on clattering—and Bibb, he just "keeps on keeping on."

First of all the Using Servicist Staff of Camp SCS Ala-7 wishes a very happy prosperous New Year to: CCC Enrollees who do the excellent work that we are proud of; the staunch supporters of the Soil Conservation in Chilton County who have assisted so well in getting the program over; to the local papers that have contributed generously in their columns; and to every citizen of Chilton County.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-nine brought several changes in the camp personnel. Mr. Henry T. Stanley, Camp Engineer since the beginning of the program, was made Acting Superintendent of the SCS Camp at Hamilton, Alabama. Mr. John B. Carlton, Forest was assigned to the local camp giving a new impetus to the forestry work. Mr. Robert W. Williamson, Senior Foreman of Laborers, was also added to the local camp. Mr. Henry D. Melton, Soil Conservationist, was transferred to Coosa County under the District set-up. Mr. Willie Roe Tammelin, Agronomist, was transferred to Monroeville, Alabama, and Mr. Robert T. Jones, Senior Foreman of Laborers, resigned to engage in farming. Many of these changes occasioned a pang of regret at losing contact with old friends and co-workers and pleasure at acquiring new ones.

ones are enthusiastically assisting in the work program. Good weather made possible a record of harvesting seedling plants, and seed at the SCS Nursery at Thorsby, Alabama.

Past experiences, study and hard work will enable the camp to put on a better program in 1940, and to continue to make everyone "Conservation, Conscious."

Save Soil—Beautiful Roads

Many farmers who have found kudzu a valuable plant for controlling erosion in their fields are planning this winter to set out kudzu along roads through their farms to protect road banks and ditches, according to County Agent Mr. J. W. Fant and Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service in the CCC camp area near Clanton, Alabama.

Kudzu crowns or seedlings, planted on the edges of fields along secondary or farm roads, if given proper care for the first year or two will cover adjoining road banks and ditches with a mat of vines. The vines will not only protect these areas and put an end to caving and washing along the roads but will also prevent loss of soil from the adjoining fields.

In some sections, development of deep gullies along road ditches and the caving of road banks has made it necessary to relocate roads. Even when less serious soil movement has occurred, the cost of road maintenance has been considerably increased by the washing of banks and the clogging of road ditches and culverts.

The use of kudzu as protective vegetation will not interfere with the clearing out of ditches by road machinery. It is pointed out that kudzu has been established along the roadside vines will quickly spread and cover the ditches again after the accumulated soil has been cleaned out by road machinery.

If we continue to have Bibb Graves as Governor EO4Y, the whole state be able to eat every other year and a goodly number will be eating pig to boot.

Highlights Of President's Message

Addressing the Congress at its opening session Wednesday, January 3, the President said:

"The overwhelming majority of our fellow citizens do not abandon in the slightest their hope and expectation that the United States will not become involved in military participation in the war."

"We do not have to go to war with other nations, but at least we can strive with other nations to encourage the kind of peace that will lighten the troubles of the world, and by so doing help our own nation as well."

"There are those who wishfully insist, in innocence or ignorance or both, that the United States of America as a self-contained unit can live happily and prosperously, its future secure, inside a high wall of isolation while, outside, the rest of civilization and the commerce and culture of mankind are shattered."

"I hope that we will have fewer American ostriches in our midst. It is not good for the ultimate health of ostriches to bury their heads in the sand."

"The trade agreements act should be extended as an indispensable part of the foundation of any stable and durable peace."

"In the hope that we can continue in these days of increasing economic prosperity to reduce the federal deficit, I am asking the congress to levy sufficient additional taxes to meet the emergency spending for national defense."

"National unity is, in a very real and deep sense, the fundamental safeguard of all democracy."

"The apologists for foreign aggressors, and equally those selfish and partisan groups at home who wrap themselves in a false mantle of Americanism to promote their own economic, financial or political advantage, are now trying European tricks upon us, seeking to muddy the stream of our national thinking, weakening us in the face of danger, by trying to set our own people to fighting among themselves. Such tactics are what have helped to plunge Europe into war. We must combat them, as we would the plague if American integrity and security are to be preserved."

"I am very hopeful that the closing session of the seventysixth congress will consider the needs of the nation and of humanity with calmness, tolerance and cooperative wisdom."

It doesn't look bad for Hitler when aristocrats and democrats of London start fighting among themselves over class distinctions in the war ministry, extended to the Army and Navy.

FACTS ABOUT CHILTON COUNTY SCHOOLS

Of the forty white public schools of Chilton County five are senior high schools. These are located at Clanton, Isabella, Jemison, Maplesville and Verbena. These five schools also include junior high school grades and all except Clanton have the elementary grades exclusively. There are eleven elementary-junior high schools, and twenty-four elementary schools.

The following facts based on attendance reports for the month of November may be interesting. Of the 3490 elementary students in average daily attendance one-fourth attend the four senior high schools, 43 per cent attend the eleven junior high schools and one-third attend the twenty-four elementary schools. Eleven per cent attend the fifteen one-room schools. Of the 906 junior high school students the five senior high schools have 39 per cent and the eleven junior high schools 61 per cent. Thirty-nine per cent of all the white children in the public schools attend the five senior high school centers just named.

RETURNED MISSIONARY TO SPEAK ON B. T. U. PROGRAM

The Quarterly B. T. U. meeting of the Chilton County Association will be held at Thorsby Baptist Church January 14th, 1940, at 2:00 o'clock.

"Foreign Missions" will be our subject. We are very fortunate indeed to have Dr. L. A. Lovegren and wife to be on our program.

Dr. Lovegren received his B. S. degree at the University of Washington. Following this he went to the University of Minnesota and received his Ph. D. degree.

In 1917 he and his wife went to West China, Chengtu, which is in free China after being there for one year, they were transferred to Yachow, where they remained until 1924, when they and their first visit back to the United States.

From Fall of 1925, they sailed again to China. This time he was assigned to Jining until 1927. Then he became a member of the University of Shanghai faculty until the war became so dangerous that the American Government ordered the American people in that zone.

Missionary work is no easy task. He tried to build his own house and also built the church building that they established there. These were destroyed last July by air raids. Many times he was robbed. Bullets lodged in the furniture in the room in which he was sitting. One man was killed by a tornado, while standing in the front of the room where he and Dr. Lovegren were but God spared him so that they might continue to spread the Gospel.

He returned in 1933 to Minnesota where he continued to study. He is now head of the Psychology Department at Howard College, Birmingham.

Report Made On Syphilis Clinic

A total of 223 persons, 48 white and 175 colored, have been treated for syphilis since October 1937, in the local venereal disease clinic operated by the County Medical Society in the office of the County Health Department, according to a report prepared by the Health Officer. These patients have received during the period beginning October 1, 1937 and ending December 1, 1939 a total of 5583 treatments. In financing the cost of these treatments, the State Health Department, the local County Commissioners headed by Judge J. Lee Smith, and the local Department of Public Welfare have spent $1308.39. This amount was spent for doctors' fees and does not include money spent for drugs, syringes, needles, etc., the cost of which is borne by the State and local Health Department.

Besides these patients treated in Clanton, the report shows a total of 62 syphilis registered for treatment in the Maplesville Clinic which was established in October 1939.

"The striking thing about these figures," says Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, "is the relatively large number of white patients taking treatment in Clanton. Twenty-one per cent of the cases here are among white people. This should convince some of our local skeptics that syphilis is not just a problem affecting negroes. The disease is selecting some of its victims from some of our best families. These naturally go to the private physician for treatment. During 1939 there were 133 taking treatment from their family doctors for syphilis. The fight against the disease must, therefore, be waged persistently with the intelligent support of the entire community if a final victory is to be won."

Can you imagine John Hollis, Charles Breedlove, Horton Walker and Dr. C. O. Lawrence doing a fancy dance and leading a chorus of pretty girls in singing the latest hit songs? Well that is exactly what they are going to do in the show put on at the City Hall Thursday night, January 11. Can you imagine Dick Hayes singing a solo in such a manner that some of the tender hearts in the audience being moved to tears? Well, Dick says that if and when the show goes on he is going to let the home town folk know what they have in musical talent.

These are not all the stars of this cast, such notables as Oscar Davis, Percy Pitts, Reuben Lowe and Bonnie Hand will see to it that the customers are fully entertained. J. Mel Martin threatens to do a toe dance in full costume, and Sam Powers and Burt Mullins will show you how detectives get their man. All in all it is a show of a life time, one you really cannot afford to miss. Many other members of the club as well as some of our town's people are appearing in the cast.

Be on hand at the City Hall Thursday night, January 11, to see the fun in the "COON VALLEY MINSTRELS."

Alabama Journal Changes Hands

The Montgomery Alabama Journal, 52-year-old afternoon newspaper, was purchased Monday by Col. James Hammond, former publisher of The Memphis Commercial Appeal, and Nicholas Peay, native of Little Rock, Ark., from Frederick I. Thompson.

Hammond became publisher and Peay, president and executive in charge of the newspaper.

C. M. Stanley, editor for 13 years, will continue as editor and James Watson will remain as business manager. The new owners said the "entire staff and personnel" would be asked "to remain and help us to carry forward the further developments we have planned."

Both Hammond and Peay are Southerners, Hammond, a native of Tola Ky., Peay for several years has lived in New York, where he had business interests. He will move his family to Montgomery. Hammond lives on his country estate, Mimosa, near Memphis.

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston

Deeds, Schools of Business International Correspondence Schools

BUSINESS and industry will always have need for young men and young women who can find better ways of doing jobs. It is often a good plan for the person who wishes to obtain a worthwhile position in a particular company to seek a minor or routine job in the first instance. The routine methods and procedures found in any firm can always be improved and, therefore, brains and intelligence pay large dividends when employed in routine work.

Opportunity is not dead. During the new year there will be an improved market for brains, intelligence, and knowledge. Before seeking a job, however, the young person should study himself and determine just what he has to offer. He should then build a sales campaign to sell himself. He should bear in mind that some firms can only use certain types of talent, whereas other businesses require different abilities and he should, therefore, concentrate his energies on seeking a type of position for which he is suited.

Thousands and thousands of jobs will be filled in 1940, but the person looking for a position must remember that there is no substitute for knowledge and ability. The applicant for a job may have to complete new aptitude tests and fill out more elaborate questionnaires than ever before, but in the end it will be the intelligent and trained person who gets the position.

Recent Bride Honored

Mrs. Loren Smith and Mrs. Joe Higgins entertained at the home of Mrs. Smith on January 3 with a miscellaneous shower, honoring Mrs. Jesse Hayes.

The home was beautifully decorated in cut flowers. The color scheme of pink and green was carried out.

The receiving line was composed of Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. W. E. Cobern and the bride. Miss Sara Dean Smith was in charge of the bride's book.

Misses Frances and Annie Cordelia Smith and Miss Mollie Bell Ousley assisted in the dining room where refreshments were served. The color scheme was also carried in the refreshments.

The guests were ushered into the gift room by Miss Dorothy Manning. Guests called during the afternoon from 4 to 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wade spent Monday in Birmingham.

Miss Bertha Dennis of Lafayette, Ala., and Mrs. A. L. Byrd and daughter, Cynthia, of Phoenix City visited relatives in Clanton last week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White spent last Sunday in Mt. Creek.

Mrs. R. N. Griffin and son, Melvin, spent last Friday in Birmingham.

James Duke Hefflin spent last week end in Birmingham with the Ezells.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell and children Grace and John, spent last Friday in Clanton visiting friends.

Miss Olive Rainer Elmore and Miss Peggy Page left Monday night to resume their studies at Stevens College in Missouri.

Mr. Chester Mims spent Tuesday in Montgomery with Mrs. Mims, who is in Fitts-Hill Infirmary for a tonsil operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Jones of Montgomery spent Saturday in Clanton and Mrs. Jones and son, Ralph, returned with them for a few days.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Smith of Lakeland, Fla. last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hefflin and little son, Grady, Jr., spent last week end in Birmingham with Mrs. Hefflin's sister, Mrs. McMillan.

Friends of Mrs. A. A. Jackson of Lomax will be interested to hear that he is very ill.

Mrs. Mark L. Tucker has returned from a visit in Birmingham and Aniston.

Mrs. Louie Smith Hostess To Y.W.A. The members of the Y.W.A. were entertained at the home of Mrs. Louie Smith, their Counselor, Monday evening. This being the first meeting of the year, new officers were elected as follows:

Sub-Deb Club Met

Last Friday night, January 5th, the Sub-Deb Club met with Miss Mary Frances Atkinson for election of officers and a general business session.

The officers for the ensuing four months are: President, Janie Martin; Vice-president, Aileen Popwell; Secretary-treasurer, Annie Laurie Bryson; Program Chairman and reporter, Doris Newell.

Plans were made for several activities for the year which begins with a leap-year dance this coming Friday night at the City Hall. After the meeting was adjourned, the members had supper at the Bus Station.

Miss Grace Ezell was a week end visitor with Mrs. Upchurch and other friends.

Miss Elizabeth Cobern And Mr. James Hayes Are Wed At Impressive Ceremony December 23

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Cobern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cobern, of Maplesville and Jesse James Hayes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hayes, took place Saturday December 23, at the home of the bride with Rev. J. D. Hopper reading the vows in the presence of a few relatives and friends.

Mrs. Annie Laurie Dorsey pianist, and Mrs. J. W. Boykin, soloist, presented nuptial music. The ring ceremony was performed before an arch of Christmas greens interspersed with flowers.

The bride wore an original model of blue crepe with accessories of dusty pink. Her shoulder corsage was pink roses.

A reception followed after which the bride and groom left for a wedding trip.

MRS. HAYES HONORED

Mr. Jesse J. Hayes, Jr., who before her marriage was Elizabeth Cobern, was honored at a shower before the holidays when her friends, Misses Pat Maples and Mary Shanks of Maplesville entertained at the home of Miss Maples.

Christmas decorations were used throughout the living and dining rooms. Mrs. P. W. Boykin sang, "At Dawning" accompanied by Mrs. Annie Laurie Dorsey.

Miss Mary Shanks kept the bride's book. After two interesting contests, a delicious plate was served. The bride was the recipient of many attractive and useful gifts.

Bonnie Hand as "Calabash" emphatically denies the charge that he's a chicken thief when he sings "Dat Man Ain't Me Noweh" in "Goon Valley Minstrels" sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club, at the City Hall auditorium tonight at 8:00 o'clock

FOSHEE-DENNIS

The following announcement, from last Sunday's issue of the Birmingham News-Age-Herald, will be of interest to the people of this section:

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee, of Clanton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Frances, to James N. Dennis, of Clanton and Columbiana, the wedding to be in January.

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston

Deen, Schools of Business International Correspondence Schools

PROSPERITY for American youth will be keen. Standards for selecting new employees may well be high and the person seeking the position may have to do a better job of selling himself than in the past. The young man who looks for employment in 1940 should expect that employment managers and other executives will be exacting in their requirements and he should seek to learn the qualifications of different positions and to fit himself for those that are of social interest to him.

There will be many positions at the bottom, jobs that require little experience and training. These will also be a great demand for trained men and women. One survey recently completed finds that "there is a pressing need for skill mechanics." Another study indicates that "competent stenographers are very difficult to find." Still another investigation concludes that "there is a grave shortage of junior executive material."

Competition for these new jobs will be keen. Standards for selecting new employees may well be high and the person seeking the position may have to do a better job of selling himself than in the past. The young man who looks for employment in 1940 should expect that employment managers and other executives will be exacting in their requirements and he should seek to learn the qualifications of different positions and to fit himself for those that are of social interest to him.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT NOTICE

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Probate Court, January 3, 1940.

In the matter of the estate of T. J. Powell, deceased.

This day came R. E. Powell, Administrator of the estate of said deceased, and files his account, vouchers, evidence and statement for final settlement of his said Administratorship.

It is ordered that the 31st day of January, 1940, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this 3rd day of January, 1940.

J. LEE SMITH,

Judge of Probate.

ALABAMA GOES ON THE AIR JANUARY 20TH

"A SYMPHONY OF THE NEW SOUTH" WILL BE THEME OF COLUMBIA HOOK-UP

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama will be featured on a nationwide Columbia coast-to-coast hookup on the night of January 20, broadcast from the municipal auditorium in Birmingham, according to an announcement by Gov. Frank M. Dixon.

The Alabama program, to be called "A Symphony of the New South," will present to a national radio audience estimated at more than 5,000,000 listeners, the dramatic story of the New South to the accompaniment of four leading choral and orchestral organizations.

These will include the Birmingham Civic Symphony 76-piece orchestra; glee clubs of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, University of Alabama, Alabama College at Montevallo—owners of radio station WAPI, the Columbia outlet in Birmingham—and the Tuskegee Institute chorus.

Gov. Dixon will serve as master of ceremonies. Dramatic episodes will be presented by the Birmingham Little Theatre.

Preceding the nation-wide broadcast which has been arranged by Station WAPI from 9:15 to 9:45 P.M. January 20, an "Alabama Night" program will be staged in the municipal auditorium in Birmingham, with citizens throughout the state invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

The preliminary program, which is now being formulated, will include a brief address by the Governor and various musical selections by the participating groups.

Probably never before in the history of Alabama has such an outstanding array of musical talent been assembled on one stage. In addition to the 119 stations of the Columbia network, which are located in many of the largest metropolitan centers of the country, all 13 Alabama radio stations are expected to hook-up for the broadcast.

It is anticipated that this event will bring together citizens from every part of the state, who will have the opportunity of seeing the actual presentation of a national broadcast, and hearing one of the most unusual programs which has ever been presented in Alabama.

Disney Is Dirty Town, but People Are Proud of It

Boom Town in Oklahoma Has Woman 'Dictator' Who Runs the Place.

DISNEY, OKLA.—It was nearly sundown and at her home on Sweet Home avenue, Alice Stephens, Disney's "dictator," was entertaining visitors.

The gathering wasn't unusual, because Alice has visitors often. She encourages them, and the townsfolk like to drop around and chat.

A big, dark-haired woman with a ready smile, Alice—that's what all Disney calls her—is as well liked as anyone in town. Aside from her "dictator" job, a sort of mayorship, she operates a beer parlor and often serves foaming mugs herself to the workers on the $20,000,000 Grand River dam after hours.

Alice is typical of the people who live in this hilly boom town that sprawls over a sort of land bounded on three sides by the Grand river. She works hard, but she doesn't neglect recreation. She has a firm conviction that the future of Disney is a prosperous one and enters readily into publicity schemes to further the town's progress.

The whole town has entered into an amazing co-operation concerning "booster publicity."

Election Was Stunt.
For instance, last year when the "Capers vs. Curfew" election caught the eyes of newspaper editors, the entire population of 800—now 2,500—were "conspirators" in the scheme.

Outwardly, the election was an above-board one between Billy Baker, advocate of all-night stamp dances, to let these dance workers have their fling, and Vera Silar, who said the town should be closed at 9 p. m., "so the working men can get the sleep they should have."

The winner was to run the town and her platform was to decide Disney's evening social schedule. Billy won, and she defeated her in a re-election campaign.

The entire affair was a stunt. It was hatched by the two men who have made Disney the lusty little place it is—C. D. Armstrong, Disney's founder, and Hap Hargard. He staked out Borger, Texas, and cleaned up selling townsites there only to lose everything he had in oil. Disney is his comeback.

Main street is bordered by unspacious, wooden structures. Part of the town is composed of rows of tent houses. Workers on the dam rent them for $3.50 a week. Small, rudely constructed houses are full, with renters paying up to $2.50 a month.

'Shoreline' Sites Sold.
Where now extend wooded tracks on the edge of the town, the backwater from the mile and a quarter dam will form a lake. It will almost surround Disney. Armstrong has estimated the height of the reservoir water and the limit of the shoreline so that he sells lots which now are on barren hillside with the assurance that a year from now "you can fish from your front porch."

The town is ready for boisterous night life and has it plenty. The beer tavern-dance halls far outnumber the groceries. The patronage is good.

More than 2,500 men work on the dam and they like entertainment. A boxing arena has been built and occasionally a road show brings a movie or stage acts to town.

Balky Motor as Excuse

Wins Release for Driver
MOBILE, ALA.—Theodore Lane, Mobile motorist, had a balky automobile to thank for his discharge in traffic court.

Lane, charged with failure to observe a stop sign, pleaded that he failed to stop "only because I was afraid the motor would die and I could not start it again."

County Deputy Hobson Hargett confirmed Lane's testimony, adding that the deputy had to push the car a mile to get it started again.

Judge Tisdale J. Tourant discharged the defendant, but warned him to get his car in running order.

Big Frog, So Story Says, Swallows an Opossum

ATLANTA, GA.—Wallace Gray, local sportsman, tells a yarn—and he swears it's true—that will top many a tale related around crack-barrels.

"I was gigging frogs in a pond near Newman," he said, "and a friend and I brought in a great big frog. He seemed awfully heavy and slightly misshapen around the mid-section. He had swallowed a small opossum."

Boy Sits on the Bank, Hooks 56-Pound Tarpon

CARABELLE, FLA.—You don't have to get away from the hustle and bustle of the city to catch fish to brag about.

Tops in fishing thrills currently is that of 13-year-old Austin Mallet. Fishing from the banks of the river here, he landed a 56-pound tarpon. The banks of the river where the youth fished are within 200 feet of the city post office.

THORSBY JR. HIGH PLAYS COLLINS CHAPEL; UNION GROVE PLAYS BAKER JR. HIGH JAN. 11

Tonight, January 11, the Thorsby Juniors will meet the Collins Chapel Juniors in the Thorsby Jr. High auditorium. Corb Shaw's Junior team from Union Grove will take on the Baker Jr. High team on the same bill. The first game begins at 7:00 o'clock. Here are four Junior High teams fairly evenly matched. Come on out and watch the youngsters hustling for that treasured victory. Two good school games and a warm, comfortable building awaits you, rain or cold. Learn back, light up the ole pipe, and watch the lads go to it. Admission 10c.

A.B.C. Board Refuses 47 Licenses

Applications of 47 licensees for renewal for 1940 of licenses issued to them last year, were denied Saturday by the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in setting the pace for its 1940 enforcement activities.

Besides its refusal to issue the 47 licenses that has just been decreed, the Board which issues wholesale and retail beer licenses, and restaurant, hotel, club and public service liquor licenses, revoked 70 beer and 4 liquor licenses, suspended 44 beer and 5 liquor licenses, and placed 28 beer and 9 liquor licensees on probation, during 1939.

Gasoline Income And Alabama Outgo

The State of Alabama could be run for three whole pre-world war years with the gasoline taxes paid in the single year of 1939 by the motorists in this State, Earl M. Hearne, Secretary of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, disclosed recently.

"In 1917 the State's total tax revenue was $4,831,460. During 1939 the motorists of this State paid $14,416,000 in gasoline taxes to the State, an amount which is three times what the State collected from all tax sources in 1917, the year that the United States entered the World War," said Mr. Hearne.

"Besides the $14,416,000 that Alabama motorists paid in State gasoline taxes, they also paid in 1939 and additional $2,400,000 to the Federal government and about $1,600,000 to cities and counties. Thus, our motorists' gasoline tax bill for the year totaled $18,416,000."

"These facts speak for themselves. They indicate clearly that the motorists of this State are being made the tax-goats. It is almost incomprehensible that our motorists—today are paying more taxes on the State collected from all taxpayers before the World War," continued Mr. Hearne. "These facts show that the increased cost of government is falling heaviest upon the motorists."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each and everyone that helped us through the sickness and death of our beloved son and brother, Thomas. Especially do we thank Dr. Lawrence and Mrs. Lou McDowell Taylor. Also we wish to thank you who gave the beautiful flowers.—Mrs. N. E. Lewis and family.

Thursday, February 1, will be observed in Alabama and throughout the United States as National Social Hygiene Day.

From Cotton To Better Livestock

Alabama farmers who used to think in terms of 40 acres and a mule are changing their ideas in the direction of one cow to the acre in many sections of the state.

This is particularly true of the more progressive farmers in the vicinity of the erosion control demonstration area at Marion, according to Soil Conservation Service workers in the project.

This change in viewpoint reflects the trend from cotton to better livestock in the state, a trend in which the importance of good pastures cannot be overemphasized.

While a goal of one cow to the acre is a high mark for any farmer to aim at, there are many improved pastures in the Black Belt that are approaching this goal, the Service workers report.

Dallis grass, along with the large variety of clovers and companion grasses which thrive with it, makes an excellent foundation for such a sod on the better grazing lands, farmers have found.

It must be remembered, however, that proper fertilization, adequate mowing, and good management are essential to the development of a good pasture sod.

MRS. N. E. LEWIS

On Wednesday, December 27, 1939, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. N. E. Lewis and took away her son, Thomas, who would have been 35 years old January 27, 1940. He died of pneumonia. He had been sick about a week. He was living in Coosa County at the time and had been living there about three weeks when he died. Martin & Sons went over there and brought the body back over here. Burial was at Macedonia Thursday, December 28. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Blue and Rev. Daniel Martin in charge.

He leaves to mourn his loss his mother, Mrs. N. E. Lewis, three sisters, Mrs. Lee Mims of Coosa, Mrs. Rufus Moon of Sycamore and Mrs. Guy Williamson of Clanton; two brothers, George of Clanton, and Dickson of Coosa.

Pallbearers were Hoyt Reynolds, Winston Taylor, Thomas Adams, Benny Adams, William Blackmon and Virgil Smith. Flower girls were Della Clark, Jessie Lee Hilyer and Martha Hilyer—Written by a Cousin, Martha Hilyer.

Off to a Record Start

Record-breaking truck sales to start off the new model year were the cause of this jubilation among Chevrolet sales executives. The report at which they are looking shows that retail sales of commercial units by Chevrolet dealers during November totalled 17,530 units, a gain of 33.5 per cent over the same month in 1938. These figures topped nine of the 10 preceding months in 1939, surpassed any single month in 1938, and exceeded the records set in 33 of the past 46 months. Shown above (left to right) studying the month's sales report, are Felix Doran, Jr., assistant general sales manager; W. E. Holler, general sales manager; W. E. Fish, manager of the commercial car department; and T. H. Keating, a district manager.

New, Improved Motor Fuel Announced By Standard Oil

Crown Gasoline Given Highest Octane Rating in Its Long History

Standard Oil stations and dealers are today offering their customers the new, improved Crown Gasoline—a popular priced gasoline that meets specifications for premium anti-knock performance.

Road tests have proved that this new gasoline gives motorists quicker starting, faster pick-up, smoother operation, more mileage, and a new high in knockless power. It also contains a unique solvent action, which helps to reduce the tendency of carbon formation.

Today's purchasers of popular price gasoline demand the performance heretofore obtainable only in premium grade at premium price, and the development of this new, improved gasoline was to meet this demand.

Unity Associational S. S. Convention

The Unity Associational Sunday School Convention met with Indian Grave Church Sunday, January 7, 1940, at 2:00 o'clock.

The meeting opened by singing "At The Cross and 'Near The Cross," led by Rev. O. A. Davis, followed by prayer led by Rev. W. E. Robinson.

Mr. H. A. Harris, chairman of the Executive Committee introduced the new Associational Superintendent, Mr. J. D. Griffin, who discussed briefly the work for 1940, and listed the necessary offices to be filled. There were forty-four people present representing the following churches:

Clanton, Ebenezer, Indian Grave, Maplesville, Milton and Big Springs.

The following Associational officers were elected: Supt. of Teacher Training, Rev. W. E. Robinson; Supt. of Evangelism, Rev. Oscar A. Davis; Secretary-treasurer, T. E. Wyatt.

Department Superintendents: Adult, M. H. Lane; Young Peoples, James Golsen; Intermediates, Mrs. J. C. Hughes; Juniors, Mrs. Reid Mullins; Primary, Miss Mabel King; Cadet, Mrs. Houston Nivens; Bible Roll, Mrs. J. D. Griffin; Extension, Mrs. W. E. Robinson; Daily Vacation Bible Schools, Mrs. Oscar A. Davis.

Group Superintendents: Rev. Chan Hoggan, J. B. Bearden, Miss Jessie Mae Apperson, Judge Raymond Mims, Robert D. Wilkins, Rev. M. W. Mims.

A Sunday School Conference is to be held in Birmingham, January 23-24, beginning at 10:00 o'clock A.M. Tuesday and continuing until 12:00 noon Wednesday. The Sunday School Board will pay transportation for three car loads at 2c per mile each way.

Our next meeting will be at Maplesville the first Sunday afternoon in February, beginning at 2:00 o'clock—Mrs. O. A. Davis, Sec'y Pro-tem.

THORSBY EAGLES DEFEAT CLANTON BY SCORE 32-25

With two of their first-string players out on account of illness, the Thorsby Green Eagles continued their winning ways by trimming the clever Woodpeppers from Clanton last Friday night by the count of 32 to 25.

This was one of those swift-moving games with both teams trying hard to control possession of the ball. The Thorsby team opened the fireworks with a field goal, one minute after the game started. They were never headed off, for they led 8 to 5 the first quarter; 16 to 7 at the half; 23 to 16 at the third quarter and both teams rung up points each during the final quarter, thus giving the home team a 32 to 25 win over the 1939 State High School Champions.

Hilyer, for Thorsby, was the big shot that wrecked the hopes of the Clanton lads. He fairly wore the nets to a frazzle by looping the ball from all angles of the court, to ring up 16 points. Jackson with 7; Hayes 4; McCain 3 and Cofer 2, rounded out the scoring for the victors.

For Clanton, Thornton with 7; Armstrong 5; Tiffin 6; Chambers 4 and Melton 4. We note the scoring was generally scattered through the lineup. An overflow crowd threw both teams at a disadvantage, thus making ground rules necessary. The writer wishes to commend both teams for their grand display of sportsmanship. This was one of the most noticeable features of the game. The Clanton players are a most deserving team, and before this season ends, it is this reporter's prediction that they will upset some of the strongest teams in the State.

The Green Eagles from Thorsby also hung up another victory earlier last week when they motored down to Plantersville and proceeded to hand the strong Plantersville team another defeat by the score of 27 to 17. Jackson, strapping center for Thorsby, was the wheel-horse in this game, mopping out the nets for 14 points. Cofer came next with 6 points.

For Plantersville Patterson with 9 and Reynolds with 6 topped the losers in scoring honors.

The Green Eagles are attending the Celtic-Howard College game tomorrow night in Birmingham.

Horton Walker gets in a reminiscent mood when he sings "Cabin Of My Homeland Dreams" at the City Hall tonight.

Chief Justice John C. Anderson To Retire

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

Chief Justice John C. Anderson, 76, announced last night he would retire at the end of his current term, ending in January, 1941.

Justice Lucien D. Gardner, senior associate member of the Supreme Court, immediately announced his intentions to seek the post of Chief Justice in next year's election.

Announcing his decision, Anderson told newsmen simply:

"You are at liberty to say I shall not be a candidate for reelection."

Under a 1935 act, Anderson will retire to a supernumerary status at $4,000 annually for a 12-year term. He was elected to the court in 1904 and became Chief Justice in 1914, succeeding Chief Justice James R. Dowell, resigned, and was reelected to six-year terms in 1916, 22, 28, 34.

Gardner, 63, was appointed to the vacancy created when Anderson was stepped up to chief justice in 1914 and has won reelection since.

John Peach, member of the State

Personnel Board; Ed Livingston, member of the University of Alabama faculty, and Associate Judge James Rice, of the Court of Appeals, have been prominently mentioned as possible candidates to succeed Gardner.

Anderson's decision not to retire ahead of the end of his term, leaves the field open to would-be successors.

Some quarters had reported he would retire earlier, leaving appointment of a successor to Gov. Dixon, like himself, a close friend of Gardner.

Until tonight, the veteran Chief Justice merely had said: "I have no intention of retiring at the present time."

Many friends of Miss Cilla Robinson will be happy to hear that she will be able to return to her work at Auburn about the middle of this week after having her tonsils removed last week by Dr. W. C. Golden. While ill she stayed with her sister, Miss Grace Robinson.

Headache, Bad Breath, Tell Of More To Come

Just as Paul Revere's famous ride warned of the Redcoats' coming, so nature's messengers, headaches, biliousness, bad breath—often warn of faulty elimination.

Neglecting these signs may cause a host of constipation discomforts: sour stomach, belching; no appetite or energy, mental dullness.

It's so easy to wake up your lazy insides. Just take spicy, all vegetable BLACK DRAUGHT. Its unusual help comes from its principal ingredient—an intestinal tonic-laxative which imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles.

Headache, Bad Breath, Tell Of More To Come

Just as Paul Revere's famous ride warned of the Redcoats' coming, so nature's messengers, headaches, biliousness, bad breath—often warn of faulty elimination.

Neglecting these signs may cause a host of constipation discomforts: sour stomach, belching; no appetite or energy, mental dullness.

It's so easy to wake up your lazy insides. Just take spicy, all vegetable BLACK DRAUGHT. Its unusual help comes from its principal ingredient—an intestinal tonic-laxative which imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles.

Millions of packages used testify to BLACK-DRAUGHT merit.

HON. R. T. MILNER ANNOUNCES FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

NATIVE OF COOSA COUNTY, NOW PROMINENT ATTORNEY OF WETUMPKA

We are carrying in this issue the announcement of Hon. Robert T. Milner as a candidate for the office of Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit, composed of the Counties of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

If nominated and elected, it is claimed by his friends that Mr. Milner will bring to this important office one of the best trained and brilliant minds in Alabama. Mr. Milner was born at Equality, in the southern part of Coosa County, Alabama. He is forty-eight years of age. After more than twenty years of active practice in the lower courts, Appellate and Supreme Court of the State as well as in the Federal Court, his friends feel that he is ripe for this office which he seeks and that he is at the very peak of his powers.

Mr. Milner received his early training in the common schools of Coosa County, and completed his high school training at Wetumpka, Elmore County where he graduated in 1909. The following fall he entered the University of Alabama where he graduated with highest honors, winning the coveted Phi Beta Kappa Key for scholarship. His record in the law school was so outstanding that he taught that subject at the University for one semester and was elected as a member of the law faculty, but declined the honor having decided to enter the active practice of law.

He moved to Wetumpka with his family, a wife and three children. Nearly twenty years ago, he formed a partnership with Hon. J. Monroe Holley of Wetumpka, and this firm has long been recognized as outstanding in this section of the State.

He has reared to manhood and womanhood three fine children, and he and his wife are both active in church and civic work. He is an active member.

Chilton's Birth Rate Climbs In 1939

Chilton County's birth rate showed a marked rise in 1939, according to a vital statistics summary just released by the Health Department. A total of 710 births, 563 white and 147 colored, were registered. The crude birth rate was 27.6, the highest during the 1936-1939 period. The number of deaths reported totaled 238, 187 white and 51 colored. The crude death rate for 1939 was 9.1. There has been no change in the death rate for several years.

The ten leading causes of death in order of numerical importance were heart disease 43, cerebral hemorrhage, 33, cancer 20, diseases of early infancy 16, pneumonia 10, nephritis 10, tuberculosis 9, violent and accidental causes 7, senility 6, diseases of the nervous system 5, and whooping cough 4.

There were 34 deaths of infants under one year of age, 23 white and 11 colored. The white infant death rate was 42.6 and the colored 68.0. The leading cause of infant death for 1939 was premature birth which accounted for the deaths of 6 white infants and one negro infant.

Seven Chilton County mothers, six white and one colored, lost their lives in child birth during 1939. Hemorrhage was named as the cause of three.

NOTICE TO BALL CLUBS

Within the past few months the News has received numerous sports articles and announcements concerning games, etc. We are desirous of carrying as complete a coverage of these sports of the County as possible and will devote a section of the paper each week to this. This will be a column of contributed articles and teams over the county are invited to keep the fans informed of their activities.

We request that these articles reach the News office not later than Tuesday noon, so name a reporter for your team and help keep this column which will be headed "Sports of Chilton County," alive.

A complete and very appropriate musical score will be played throughout the entire film, on special sound equipment, reproducing some of the world's choicest orchestral, organ, and choral music by famous composers, blending in with the magnificent scenes which portray, in authentic and his-

Smith Expected To Run For Re-Election

The News learned this week that Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, although having as yet made no official announcement, would definitely be a candidate for re-election to the office of Probate Judge.

Judge Smith is expected to make a statement within the near future regarding his position in this matter. Political observers, however predict that without a doubt Judge Smith would seek a second term in this office, the highest political post in the County.

Welfare Dept. Certifies 29 Boys For CCC

Twenty-nine Chilton County youths were certified by the Chilton County Department of Public Welfare for enrollment in the CCC last Friday, an announcement by Miss Nolen Meroney, head of the Department, stated.

These boys left early this week for camp. Ten of the boys will be in camp at Hartsville, Alabama; seventeen at Guntersville and two at Moundville.

Kiwanis Club Will Repeat Minstrel Friday Night

Clanton Lions Club Changes Meeting Place

Clanton Lions Club will hold its regular bi-monthly meeting in the basement of the First Baptist Church Friday night at 7:30.

This will mark the beginning of the new meeting place, all meetings for the past six months having been held at the Methodist Church. A large attendance is expected and all members are urged to be present for this meeting.

"Life begins in forty" says President Grady Hefflin, and that is just what the Lions expect to do. Much business of importance will come before the Club and all important committees will be named. Be on hand at 7:30 sharp and let's show our new President that we are behind him 100 per cent.

WILLIAM (BILL) FIQUETTE IN CENTRAL ALA. HOSPITAL

Bill Fiquette, well known business man of Clanton, is here after undergoing amputation of one leg as the result of a fall in Montevallo recently.

Friends of Mr. Fiquette are wishing him an early recovery. Attaches at the hospital report his condition as "doing fine."

Notice To Farmers

The following announcement comes from the AAA offices here:

Producers who have farms on which cotton has not been grown for the past three years and who intend to grow cotton for 1940 should make application for cotton allotment at the office of the AAA before January 31, 1940. Farms growing cotton without an allotment are subject to certain penalties.—M. H. Lane, County Administrative Assistant.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

The following announcement has been received:

Mrs. Jno. O. Newell announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Cornelia, to William Maurice Popwell on Thursday, January 4, 1940, Montgomery, Alabama. The couple are now at home in Clanton.

DR. V. J. GRAGG ILL AT HIS HOME IN CLANTON

Dr. V. J. Gragg, widely known physician of Clanton, has been seriously ill at his home here for several days. Reports Wednesday morning when the News went to press was that he was slightly improved.

Anxious friends of this beloved and useful Clanton citizen are wishing him an early recovery.

One Of City's Pioneer Residents Passed Away

Miss Rena Hawkins, age 83, passed away at her home on Second Avenue in Clanton last Thursday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock. Miss Hawkins was one of Clanton's pioneer residents, having purchased her home site here when Clanton was in its infancy. She lived alone at the time of her death.

Funeral services were held from the Clanton Methodist Church last Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock with Rev. J. L. Daniel, pastor, in charge. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge.

Surviving are one niece, Mrs. Lizzie Allen of Knoxville, Tenn.; one nephew, Tom Hawkins of Clanton Route 2.

KIWANIANS TO OBSERVE SILVER ANNIVERSARY

The local Kiwanis Club will observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of Kiwanis with an appropriate program to luncheon at the Thomason Hotel.

The first Kiwanis Club was organized in Detroit in 1915, on January 21. Since that time Kiwanis has been one of the fastest growing civic organizations in the United States and Canada. The silver anniversary of the organization will be marked by special programs the nation over.

MRS. ANNIE JOHNSON DANIEL

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Johnson Daniel, wife of H. T. Daniel, age 73, who died at her home on Verbena Route January 5, were held from the Verbena Methodist Church January 6, Revs. Harden, Rogers and Williams were in charge. Burial was in the Verbena cemetery with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge.

Popular Demand For Repeat Performance At City Hall

Although the rain pounded down by the bucketfuls here last Thursday night a large crowd turned out to see the first performance of "Coon Valley Minstrel" presented by members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club at the City Hall auditorium. This minstrel was termed a decided success by all who braved the stormy weather to see it, and many who had made plans to attend, but did not venture out, have requested that a second performance be given at an early date. As a result of these requests, J. Hollis Jackson, in charge of the minstrel, has announced that next Friday night, January 19, is the date set for this second presentation at the Clanton City Hall. The time is 7:30.

The cast of this minstrel is composed almost entirely of members of the Club, who have worked faithfully so that they might give the people of this section a real fun-festival. This is a benefit show, funds to be used to further the work of the Club. From beginning to end the audience was kept in laughter last Thursday night. There are about eleven separate songs in the show, sung by the cast, and the jokes and other antics that go to make up a negro minstrel is culminated in this "Coon Valley Minstrel" to make it one of the best ever presented in this section of the State.

Several other communities over the county have requested that the Club present this show in their community. Negotiations will probably be underway after the performance Friday night for these added presentations.

If you failed to get on last Thursday night, and desire to witness and enjoy an old-time minstrel that has everything, be sure to be at the City Hall in Clanton tomorrow night at 7:30. Admission has been pegged at the low price of fifteen and twenty-five cents.

THORSBY FRUIT GROWERS TO MEET SAT. JANUARY 27

There will be a meeting of the Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association on January 27, for the purpose of ordering starwberry plants. Anyone interested please be present.—S. M. Pate, Mgr.

WAR ON RATS GIVEN OKEH BY THE MAYOR

Estimated Cost Only $300;
Would Be Supervised
By Health Dept.

WPA FURNISHES LABOR

Tentative approval of a proposed WPA rat extermination project for the City of Clanton had been given this week by Mayor C. Penn Jones according to a statement made by the County Health Officer, Dr. S. D. Sterk. Dr. Andrew J. Persilio, typhus expert of the Alabama State Health Department, was in Clanton Monday, January 15, conferring with local and County Health officials regarding the project.

The estimated cost to the City would be about $300, according to the State expert. Traps would be loaned to the City to carry out the local campaign. A trained supervisor would be made available by the State Health Department and labor would be furnished by the WPA. The project would be under the technical supervision of the local Health Department.

Citing the value of the program to the City, Dr. Persilio said that economic benefits alone would justify the project. One rat alone costs the community $2.50 per year, according to (Continued to Back Page)

CHILTON MAN VICTIM OF MINE DISASTER

BODY OF AUTICE M. LITTLETON SHIPPED TO THORSBY FROM VIRGINIA

A former Chilton County resident, member of a well known Chilton County family, was one of the 92 victims of a mine disaster in Virginia one day last week. He is Autice M. Littleton, age 32, son of the late Monroe Littleton of the Union Grove community.

Littleton's body arrived on a late train Tuesday afternoon from the scene of the tragedy, and was taken into custody by J. Mell Martin & Sons. Funeral and burial was at the Blue Graveyard in the Union Grove community Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. J. T. Cost was scheduled to conduct the services with Martin & Sons in charge of burial.

The News has received unconfirmed reports that there are several other former Chilton County men who were employed as miners in the mine where the tragedy occurred, however no definite information regarding this has been received.

J. CALVIN GLENN DIED SUD- DENLY AT HIS HOME FRIDAY

J. Calvin Glenn, age 48, widely known resident of Cooper, died suddenly at his home last Friday morning, January 12. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Comin' Through

Thousands of south-bound tourists from the North and middle West are coming through Alabama, and many are stopping in the state.

Accelerated by the best business and the worst weather conditions of several years, South-bound tourist travel has reached an all-time high.

A survey of Alabama Motorists Assn., leading Birmingham hotels tourist and trailer camps today reveals that tourist traffic is passing the mark set in the years of the Florida boom and the high-riding stock market of '29.

Americanism

The other day in Birmingham a house was destroyed by fire. The occupants of the house lost practically all their possessions, including clothing. No insurance protected their loss.

Kindly neighbors offered to help. A church organization volunteered to raise money for the fire victims, and to collect furniture and clothing for them. The Parent-Teacher Association of the community also offered substantial aid.

"No," said the man and his wife. "You're kind, but it's too much like charity. We've got a job, and our health, and we're asking for no favors. We'll fight it out ourselves."

And that attitude, we submit, represents one phase, and one of the best phases, of what is meant by Americanism—Birmingham News.

Saving And Paying

Prosit, Kamerad!

A few nights ago, crew members of H. M. S. Achilles wandered into a waterfront bar in Buenos Aires. Their victory over the Nazi pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee was still fresh in their minds. Already occupying spaces along the bar and at tables were interned survivors of the Spee.

When members of the opposing crews, who were blasting shells at each other only a few weeks ago, met for the first time, they acted in an unusual fashion. Instead of hurling epithets, they exchanged friendly greetings. Instead of pulling out guns, they shook hands. Instead of killing each other, they drank together.

At sea they were bitter enemies, but in this Buenos Aires barroom they were comrades all. That is what war does to you. It pledges you to hate men with whom you would just as soon sit down for a friendly chat. It makes it a sacred duty to kill and mutilate men to whom you would rather drink a toast.—Selma Times-Journal.

17 Ships Sunk During 19th Week

News agencies report 17 ships sunk through sea warfare, during the week ending Saturday, January 13th, the same number as that sunk during the previous week.

The 19th week of sea warfare, like the 18th, produced reports of 17 ship sinkings and brought intense German aerial raids on North Sea commerce.

Britain again was the principal loser with 12 ships; Germany lost two and The Netherlands, Italy and Norway one each. Total tonnage lost was 64,830 and at least 40 persons were killed or drowned.

Nazi planes, according to the British version, accounted for four small vessels while mines sank 10. Germany said her planes sank 12 ships.

A recapitulation for the war to date showed 308 ships having an aggregate tonnage of 1,097,837 sunk, and 2,768 deaths.

Largest loss of the week ending Saturday was the Dunbar Castle, 10,002 tons, a mine victim. Three were killed and two reported missing.

The latest victim was the British trawler Lucinda, 251 tons, blown to bits when she struck a mine Friday off the northeast English coast. Witnesses said her crew of 12 perished.

Club Members Are Fighting Fires

Wetmore, Ala.—Randolph County 4-H Club members are determined to set the pace this winter in prevention of destructive woods fire and ask their grown folks to cooperate, says G. C. Moore, Jr., assistant county agent.

Fires reached an all-time high in the dry fall and winter of 1938-39, many thousands of acres being ruined permanently or injured temporarily. In their clubs these boys and girls studied the effects of fires and the relation of woods and water in 1938-39. At least one club made a tour of a tract of protected timber and a nearby spot burned annually, comparing the difference in size and quality of timber, young trees coming along, and the presence of leaves, straw and litter on the forest floor.

To educate the landowners, tenants, and begin to create a fire-prevention consciousness, 29 4-H Clubs of the county are circulating a fire prevention agreement in their respective communities and seeking the signature and cooperation of every man or woman possible, who owns or rents land, in stopping this practice of setting fires. Each person is asked to assist his neighbor in putting out fires of accidental origin. It is estimated that around 300 people to date have signed the agreement and that 800 to 1000 more will sign.

At the conclusion of the campaign a copy of the agreement with the number signing in each community will be given to all county newspapers, says Moore.

Maxwell Field is to get another air corps unit. Flight C, of the First Photographic Squadron, effective February 1st.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

I lived in a community where there were two well-to-do families. If the Smith family bought a car, the Jones family would buy one a little better. If the Jones family painted their house, the Smith family would paint and paper theirs. The Jones family tried to keep up with the Smith family and the Smith family tried to keep up with the Jones family. For reasons I knew both families and the contest was rather amusing to me, for it was evident to me that not either family was going places. They lived for the world. Cared nothing at all for the church, made no religious pretensions and lived for themselves alone. That leads me to say that if you ever have a desire to keep up with the Smith family, or the Jones family, be sure that they are going somewhere. This thing of running circles around each other is not making progress. Follow people who are moving upward.

On the screen was portrayed an Indian of the Mohawk tribe. He was played up as a converted Indian, and in the picture he was constantly made to shout at the wrong time. One of the other characters went to him and requested that he refrain from shouting. His reply was, "I am a heep big Christian," and he shouted right on at the wrong time. In a meeting that I was holding in a rural community, a certain woman got happy when there was no cause for an outburst, and she ran across the church and started beating her husband. She pelted him until he was knotty, all the time shouting at the top of her voice. I learned later that she was giving him a beating that she dared not do at home. She was also a "heep big Christian." We should be careful not to mix up our religion with outward pretensions. If you are a Christian, you do not have to shout it from the house top.

While riding along in New Orleans I looked out and there by the railroad track was a sign. It was placed in front of a beautiful home and read thus: "Keep Off The Grass, This Is Your Last Warning." On reading that sign, in my imagination I could see an angered man sitting at a lifted window, with a double-barrel shot gun in his lap and ready to shoot the first offender. He may not have been there but anyway, I had no desire to walk on his grass. The doctors told a young man who was addicted to drink, "Let drink alone, this is your last warning." That young fellow drank one more time and died. God has a sign up, "Do this thing no more, this is your last warning."

We were sitting on the diner of a fast-moving train trying to satisfy our hunger on what we had ordered that cost us one dollar each. The meal was composed of some thin soup, about three string beans, one slice of bread and a teaspoon full of ice cream. While we were indignantly mincing over this highway robbery, the head man in the diner came gliding up to our table and said, "Oh, I know that you are having a delightful dinner with us today." That was one time silence was golden. If I had said what I thought I would have said something like this, "Young man, if you want me to enjoy my dinner give me something to eat that will measure up to the price I am paying." Oh, well, I have seen some few nice, dandy, polite preachers, drawing a big salary, and giving no spiritual sales whatsoever, and yet they jolly the folks along saying, "We have a wonderful church and everybody is happy." When I sit in the pew and listen to such namby, pamby, good natured preachers, I feel like saying, "Sir, give me some food for my soul, before you talk about being happy."

Up in Chicago during Christmas week a bandit entered a liquor store and robbed the proprietor of five dollars. He held the man at the point of a revolver and then ordered him to give him a drink. Then he had another. When an hour was over he was deeply in love with the bar-keeper and went home with him to spend the night. They locked him in a room and the police came for him. If whiskey will make a man let down on a hold-up, it will make him do anything.

Mardi Gras, this year, will be celebrated February 6th.

Saturday, the 20th, will be the anniversary of the establishment of the United States Mail—1792.

Cotton Situation Remains Improved

Washington, D. C.—A number of developments have contributed to the rise in cotton prices, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports in its recent analysis of the cotton situation.

These developments include the continued high level of domestic mill consumption, large reported sales of American cotton for export, the high or increased rate of consumption in several important foreign countries and possibly considerable investment or speculative buying in foreign countries. The rise in domestic cotton prices—to the highest level in more than two years—has resulted in a considerable reduction in the quantity of cotton held by the Government as collateral on loans.

In November domestic mill consumption was about one-sixth larger than in November 1938 and for the second consecutive month set a record high for the month. In late November and early December mill activity declined somewhat but continued at exceptionally high levels. During November and in the early part of December, manufacturers' sales of cotton textiles continued much below production. During the second week of December, however, heavy sales of cotton goods materially improved the position of cloth manufacturers.

Recent reports indicate that in Great Britain, Italy, Holland, and Japan cotton mill activity either is continuing at a high rate or has increased considerably during the past few weeks. The favorable developments in these countries appear to have more than offset the declining consumption which appears to have taken place in the German-controlled area and in a few other countries.

Exports of American cotton from August 1 to December 14 totaled 2,654,000 bales, according to trade data. This was 50 per cent more than in the same period a year earlier but 9 per cent less than in the like period of 1937.

Despite reduced exports to Germany, total exports from Egypt and Brazil were larger in the early part of the current season than in the corresponding period of 1938. Exports from India up to the end of October were about the same as for the like period last season. Exports to Great Britain from all three of these countries were considerably larger than a year earlier.

The sun rose this morning at 6:31 and will set at 5:55.

HISTORY OF V. J. ELMORE 5c, 10c & $1.00 STORES, Inc.

V. J. Elmore was born in 1887 on a farm in Alabama. Even as a youngster he was interested in retailing as a career, but little thought that he would some day operate a chain of over thirty "5 & 10" stores. When he was 21 years of age he abandoned farming as a vocation and took up the search for a position in a retail establishment. After numerous unsuccessful attempts to land a job—which, instead of discouraging him only heightened his ambition to become a retail merchant—he accepted an offer to clerk in a general merchandise store in Elba, Alabama, for $25 a month and board.

Young Elmore worked there two years, learning the rudiments of retailing. When he felt that he was sufficiently schooled in the fundamental principles of retailing, he found a partner and the two opened a general store in Elba in 1911. They carried the type of merchandise most likely to find a ready market among the farmers of the district—staple groceries, piece goods, work clothes and farming tools—which they sold on a credit basis.

Finding this type of business little to his liking, 28-year-old V. J. Elmore sold out his interest in his partner's store and moved to Clanton, Alabama. Here he opened a dry goods, or small department store on a cash basis. In 1917, after a year of successful operation, he decided to leave, leaving his store to be managed by a much older man. After he was honorably discharged in 1919, Mr. Elmore returned to Clanton. His business there was progressing rapidly, so he sold part interest in the venture to his partner and allowed him to continue as a manager of the store.

Young Elmore rented a building in the next block and started another business. To avoid competing with his first store, he started with a large stock of Army clothes and hats. The business prospered until the supply began to dwindle and his stock could not be replenished.

It was at this time that his interest turned sharply to the five-and-ten-cent-store field. He had given no little amount of thought to his future course of action—how he would operate a store and the type of merchandise he would carry. As his building gradually became drained of merchandise, he began to accumulate a stock of goods, adding all the notions and small items that his space would accommodate. While operation on this basis was profitable, his interest in variety stores mounted. From his friends and acquaintances in that field he gathered all the information possible.

Enters "5 & 10" Field
After he had carefully surveyed business possibilities in small towns, Mr. Elmore decided to enter the five-and-ten-cent-store field. In November, 1925, then 37 years of age, he opened the first V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c & $1.00 Store in Clanton, Alabama. From the very outset he planned carefully to open additional stores in small towns. As his assistant, V. J. Elmore hired at a salary of $50 a month 18-year-old O. M. Webb, fresh from the University of Alabama. From that time on, like Mr. Elmore, had been reared on an Alabama farm. These two plus two salesgirls and a few extra girls hired on Saturdays and Sundays, comprised the staff of the original Elmore variety store.

Opens Second Unit
In its first year the Clanton store produced a sales volume of $32,794, with a very satisfactory profit. To raise additional capital, Mr. Elmore sold one of his dry goods stores. By early Spring of 1927 he felt that he had sufficient capital on hand, and opened store Number Two in Jasper, Alabama. Young Webb, whom Mr. Elmore felt was now sufficiently trained in the ways and methods of the variety store business, was sent to Jasper to manage the new store. To fill the place left by O. M. Webb's transfer, Mr. Elmore hired another young assistant whom he trained. By autumn, 1928, Mr. Elmore considered his new business enterprise completed and sent him to manage the recently opened store at Wetumpka, Alabama.

To obtain additional capital for further expansion, Mr. Elmore sold his remaining interest in the dry goods store in 1929. The operation of the first three five-and-ten cent stores had been so profitable that he opened two additional units that year. The five stores produced a combined sales volume of $151,250 in 1930. Even economic depression, which had a general depressing effect on retail trade, failed to halt expansion and progress of the Elmore chain. By the end of 1934 Mr. Elmore had in operation 13 stores producing an annual sales volume of $478,953. On February 1 of the following year he incorporated the business with a capital stock of $125,000 which was the entire equity of Mr. Elmore and V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c & $1.00 Stores, Inc. He became president and treasurer of the corporation. Expansion of the Elmore chain continued steadily. By the end of 1938 there were 31 stores, staffed by over 1,200 full and part time employees, with an annual sales volume which had surged nearly a million dollar mark.

From its inception it has been the company's policy to carry the widest possible variety of merchandise—retailing from five cents to one dollar. To keep one step ahead of the times, the Elmore chain stocks over 4,500 items, including sizes and colors. This extensive range of merchandise allows small residents, who ordinarily might be dependent on the mail order houses, or more distant stores, to buy locally any type of variety store merchandise. Retail prices have always been kept in line with those of other companies in the variety store field.

Modernizes Old Stores
The Elmore company continues to improve, enlarge, and modernize its old stores, as well as to open new units. During the past two and one-half years twelve stores have been improved, enlarged and modernized at the following points:

V. J. ELMORE
President and Treasurer

ville, Hartselle, Andalusia, Greenville, Union Springs, Troy, Bay Minette, Brundidge, Albertville. The company feels that modernization is fully as important as expansion and intends to continue its policy of improving old locations. New leases have been secured at Athens, Attmore, and Tuskegee, for much larger buildings which will be completely remodeled and modernized this spring. Just as soon as the work can be completed these stores will be moved into the new quarters. New stores will be added to the chain as quickly as desirable locations can be found and the personnel and equipment can be trained to staff the stores. A lease has been secured on property in Talladega, Alabama, and a new store will be opened there just as soon as the building can be remodeled and brought up to our standard requirements. The company will likewise continue its policy of training its personnel in store policies and methods of operation as it has in the past.

Clanton, Alabama—Headquarters
Clanton, Alabama, the home of Mr. Elmore and being centrally located, falls naturally the logical location for the general office. Sufficient space is maintained to accommodate the seven executives and eighteen employees who work in the General Office. The company operates a warehouse, acting in the capacity of a jobbing department for its stores, carrying approximately 3,000 items, thereby being able to distribute merchandise to the stores in small quantities each week. The 31 stores now in operation and serviced by the General Office and warehouse from Clanton, Alabama, are located in: Clanton, Jasper, Wetumpka, Haleyville, Russellville, Alexander City, Hartselle, Athens, Andalusia, Tuskegee, Marion, Demopolis, Greenville, Union Springs, Samson, Prattville, Troy, Etahula, Attmore, Bay Minette, Brundidge, Clayton, Evergreen, Brewton, Albertville, Onatola, Greensboro, Boaz, Opp, Fort Payne, Alabama City.

V. J. Elmore Stores Company is not affiliated in any form with any outside capital or management other than a limited amount of capital derived from the sale of stock. Expansion has been made principally by means of the company's own earnings.

Officers
Of more than casual interest is the fact that none of the present officers of the Elmore Stores have ever been connected with any other variety or 5c & 10c store organization. Mr. Elmore has followed the policy of selecting young men, giving them an opportunity, and through his leadership and supervision, developing them into capable leaders.

V. J. Elmore, President and Treasurer
Mr. Elmore, now 52 years of age, is still active in the business as President and Treasurer. However, since he now has a staff of capable officers to carry on every phase of the work, he devotes his time and attention in an advisory capacity to the motivating elements of the organization.

O. M. Webb, Vice President and Personnel Director

Mr. Webb, now 32 years of age, who was Mr. Elmore's first assistant in store Number One, was elected vice president and personnel director in 1939. He had served previously as a member of the board of directors. He opened store Number Two and managed it until the Fall of 1929, when he opened store Number Five which he also managed. At that time Mr. Webb was named district manager, having charge of three of the five stores operated by Mr. Elmore. He continued in this capacity, supervising all stores opened in his territory, until the end of 1934. In January, 1935, he was transferred to the General Office as buyer, seeing to it that the store until the end of 1938.

G. F. Parr, Secretary
Mr. Parr was born and reared in one of Alabama's small towns. Upon finishing his high school course he was somewhat undecided as to what his vocation might be for the future. However, after careful consideration he decided to enter the University of Alabama, taking a four-year course, majoring in accounting. Upon finishing this course he set out seeking employment, but, as most young men, found it very hard to secure a place to his liking. However, in September, 1934, he was offered a place with the Elmore company as an accountant which he accepted, even though the salary to begin with was only $50 per month, feeling that he had an opportunity to promote himself with the company. In the Spring of 1935 he was made chief accountant. After serving in this capacity for almost two years, in February, 1937, he was elected comptroller for the company. After putting up two years of faithful service in this capacity, in February 1939, even though still a young man only 28 years of age, he was promoted to secretary of the corporation.

W. I. Smith, Buyer

Mr. Smith, upon completing of his high school course, taught school for two years, but not finding this to his liking he began to seek employment in the retail field which he thought would be more interesting to him. In the Summer of 1928 he was given a job by Mr. Elmore as trainee in the Clanton store. At that time Mr. Elmore only had two stores in operation. Even though Mr. Smith was only offered a salary of $45 per month, he took it with the thought in mind that if he learned the business, promotion would come in due season. After 18 months he was promoted to manager of the recently opened Haleyville, Alabama, store in January, 1930. He served this store as manager until the Spring of 1933 when he was sent to Athens, Alabama, to open a new store. After serving this store as manager for a period of two years, he was transferred to fill the place Alabama in February, 1935, as manager of that store and also district manager of the North Alabama territory. In January, 1937, it was decided that an additional office was needed in the executive office. After considering the work Mr. Smith had done as district manager and looking back over his record in the past, it was decided that he would be a capable buyer; therefore, he was promoted to this place. Mr. Smith, now 34 years of age, is manager of the purchasing department, carrying out the responsibility of supplying the stores with the proper merchandise at the right time and at the proper price.

W. A. Willis, Jr., Comptroller

Mr. Willis was elected comptroller of the company in February, 1939. While he is the youngest of the officers of the company, only 25 years of age at that time, he has the qualifications to fill the place. He was born and reared in one of Alabama's small towns. After completing a four-year course in the University of Alabama, majoring in banking and finance, he secured a place in a bank in one of Alabama's small towns. After serving in this place for a period of one year he did not find banking as interesting to him. In April, 1935, he was given a place in the office of the Elmore company as an accountant, and while he was only offered $30 per month as a beginner in the company, he took the place, feeling that the work would be more to his liking. Upon completing two years' work in this capacity, he was elected Chief Accountant in February, 1937, which place he filled very efficiently for the following two years, being elected to the place of comptroller in 1939.

E. N. Hester, Superintendent

Born and reared on a farm in Alabama, Mr. Hester decided at an early age that he would not follow that vocation. Upon completing high school, he immediately set out seeking employment in some other line and was given a place managing a feed store in a small town, where he worked for two years. However, finding this line of business somewhat unsatisfactory, he accepted a place as trainee in the Russellville, Alabama, store in the Spring of 1932. He, too, started at a very low salary in order to get the place he was seeking. After fifteen months training the company found that he was capable of managing a store; therefore, in the Spring of 1933 he was made manager of the store at Haleyville, Alabama. After two years' service at this point he was transferred to Andalusia, Alabama, as manager of that store. The progress made at this point was so satisfactory that in 1937 the store was doubled in size, modernized and improved. With this new modernized store the business continued to grow, under Mr. Hester's management to the extent that when it was decided in January, 1939, that additional personnel was needed in the General Office that Mr. Hester would be the man to fill the place. Even though he was only 29 years of age at the time, the company, feeling that with his years of experience and the record he had made of successful operation that he was very capable of filling the place of Superintendent, to which he was elected.

John W. Powers, Jr., Manager of Real Estate

Mr. Powers, an Alabama boy, after finishing his education in public schools of Alabama, entered Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Alabama, finishing a four-year course in 1928. After completing this course he worked for an architect in Birmingham, Alabama, for a little more than a year, then entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, taking a four-year course in Architecture. During making this course he worked all the spare time possible for various architects in their offices, getting first hand experience while completing the course. After finishing this course he did construction work in Louisiana for slightly more than a year. He then returned to Alabama and was connected with the Resettlement Administration as construction inspector for a little more than one year. In January, 1937, he accepted a place with the Elmore company and organized the construction department for the company. Upon finishing this course he did construction work at the bottom. He would go out and take complete charge of a job, finishing it from the ground up. After serving in this capacity for a period of two years, in February, 1939, at the age of 31, he was made manager of real estate.

Announcement was made by C. E. Wetherald, general manufacturing manager, Chevrolet Motor Division, of the promotion of Russell G. Ford to general purchasing agent for Central Office.

Conservation Is Emphasized In 1940 AAA Program

Alabama farmer, participating in the AAA farm program will carry out more soil conservation practices on their farms in 1940, A. W. Jones, state administrative officer, predicted today.

"The number of acres carrying soil-building and soil-conserving crops in Alabama today is much greater than ten years ago," Jones said. "The Agricultural Adjustment Administration farm program, to a large extent, is responsible for this increase."

Jones said the rates of credit for soil-building practices under the agricultural conservation program of the AAA have been changed to give farmers a better opportunity to carry out needed practices which they do not normally put into practice.

He explained that the change in credit for the practices does not change the amount a farmer may earn by soil-building, but merely changes the requirements for earning it.

Practices which Alabama farmers are expected to use more widely under the 1940 program include winter legumes, green manure crops, establishment of permanent pastures, planting of forest trees, home gardens, and application of superphosphate or basic slag with seeding of legumes and grasses.

Jones urges farmers to contact their county agent for more detailed information on conservation practices.

Next Thursday, January 25th, is the anniversary of Robert Burn's birth.

DAVIS URGES FARM RECORDS BE KEPT, BEGINNING NOW

The first of the year is farm inventory time.

An opening or beginning inventory is the first step in keeping a complete set of farm records.

P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, urges farmers to take advantage of this season of the year, when other farm work is not so pressing, to start these business-like practices.

"An inventory is simply a list of all property owned—real estate, livestock, feed, fertilizers and other supplies—together with the value of each item," he says. "Add to this list the amount of cash on hand or in the bank, the amount that others owe you, and deduct what you owe others, and you can arrive at your net worth at any time. Another inventory taken a year later will show the year's financial progress. Property should be valued at what it would sell for on the farm."

Farm records should show all receipts and expenses, giving the date of transactions, quantity bought or sold, and amount of money involved. The cropping program and production by fields should be recorded each year. Also the production of livestock should be recorded both for young animals and for products, such as milk, eggs, and wool.

"It is a lot easier to see where we are going in agriculture when we keep farm records," the director states. "These records will show the farm family the value of feed and food that is raised on the farm."

A Cincinnati store paid $3,000 for a "splinter" of land 1 1/4 inches wide and 140 feet long. The purchase bore little title to the store site.

State Purchasing Agent Mims W. Hutchings has announced the purchase of bookshelves for the new Supreme Court building on Dexter Avenue at a cost of $8,760.

DECREASE IN FIRST GRADE ENROLLMENT IN ALABAMA

A decrease of 45,000 in first grade enrollment and an increase of 97,000 in grades three to twelve inclusive during the last twenty years indicate improved grade progress in Alabama white public schools according to a study of school enrollment which appears in the January issue of the Alabama School Journal.

Gov. Dixon has been confined to his home for a few days, suffering with laryngitis.

A total of 31 minerals are found in Alabama in sufficient quantity for commercial development, according to the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Alabama will be boosted on a Nation-wide radio broadcast Saturday night, January 20.

A reward of $200 has been offered by the State for arrest and conviction of the "unknown party or parties" accused of burning the new Shelby County High School at Columbiana December 14.

Headachy Breath Bad? Make This Check-Up

The Police Siren means "Look-out!" And so do Nature's signals—headaches, biliousness, bad breath, which are often symptoms of constipation. THOSE BUNDLES OF SWEETNESS to arrive in 1940

In Alabama, during nineteen-forty, 62,000* bundles of sweetness will be placed in their mothers' arms.

As their little eyes brighten and their tiny hands and arms develop and reach for those 'delightful, soft, silky strands which are their mothers' hair, and their precious lips more and more frequently curl into those heart-capturing smiles, what a wealth of affection will be showered upon them!

Each mother will want to take every care to keep her baby healthy; she will wish that there were more hours in a day so that she could more frequently experience those fleeting moments of rare joy which only a mother can know, and which are experienced most often by mothers whose entire time is not consumed by household cares.

Her wish for more than 24 hours in a day can't be gratified; but thanks to electricity and the marvelous devices which utilize it for increasing comfort, improving health and eliminating drudgework, her number of carefree hours can be increased.

You and your baby can have many more joyful hours together—you can perhaps enjoy better health, you can certainly feel less tired—if you will make full use of the electrical devices which inventive genius has made possible at such moderate cost.

Suggested for your consideration are electric hotpads, electric milk warmers, electric washing machines and ironers, electric water heaters, electric refrigerators and electric ranges. Electrical dealers and Alabama Power Company will be glad to help make more hours of enjoyment possible for you by offering these devices at moderate prices and terms. Remember, too, that because electricity is cheap in Alabama, their operating cost is little.

Electricity! And experience more of the joys of motherhood.

WORKSTOCK CLINICS TO BE CONDUCTED OVER COUNTY

Many work animals starve or die from colic each year in Chilton County due to one of two causes, POOR TEETH or BOT WORMS.

During the past two years we have conducted workstock clinics. At these clinics a veterinarian examines the workstock for defective teeth and indication of disease. The owner will be advised on care and management of workstock and we will be of any other assistance possible toward improving the general efficiency of workstock.

Many farmers who have attended clinics in the past report that 50c to $1.50 spent on animals at these clinics have saved many veterinary bills. J. B. Hicks, Maplesville, reports that he had no sick mules in 1939. Before these clinics were conducted he lost one or more work animals per year. Rev. A. E. Trice, Maplesville Route 2, stated that before he attended the clinics in 1937 he paid a veterinarian from $35.00 to $40.00 per year. Since the clinics have been conducted he carries his mules to the clinics and spends from 50c to $1.50 per animal and in 1939 he had no veterinary cost other than the clinic work.

We are conducting more livestock clinics during this month. Clinics will be held at the following places on the dates indicated:

Rev. W. H. Wilson's barn, Friday, January 19, 9:00 A.M.

Haggard Store, (Walter Glass barn) Thursday, January 25, from 9:00 to 11:00 A.M.

Pleasant Grove, (Ershel Spey barn) Friday, January 26, from 9:00 to 11:00 A.M.

I believe that it is to your interest to carry your workstock to one of these clinics and have them examined.

These clinics are being conducted in cooperation with Dr. W. L. Parrish. All examinations are free. If the owner wants the animals treated as recommended there will be a charge of about half price for all work. Worm treatment will cost 50c per head. Teeth work will cost $1.00 per head. For all other work the charges will be in proportion. No major operations included. This charge is half price and less for work done for individuals at the veterinarian's barn.

Watch for more announcements next week.

MRS. MARY KATHERINE GORE

Mrs. Mary Katherine Gore, age 88, of Clanton Route 4, died at the home of her son, R. B. Gore Friday at 3:00 P.M., after a short illness. Mrs. Gore was born and reared in this county and has resided here all her life.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 P.M. Saturday from the New Salem Church with the Revs. L. P. Lowery and Homer Carroll conducting. Spigner Funeral Home of Clanton, in charge of burial.

Surviving are two sons, R. B. and J. W. Gore of Clanton; one daughter, Mrs. H. C. Cox of Clanton; twenty-four grandchildren and forty-three great grandchildren.

Monday, the 22nd, will be George Washington's birthday, born in 1732.

Thorsby Institute News

Miss Allie Burr, teacher of piano and voice at Thorsby Institute, will present her pupils in a recital on Saturday night, January 20, at 7:30. Everyone is invited.

On Friday afternoon, January 19, at 3:00 o'clock, the clubs of the Helen Keller Literary Society will hold a joint meeting in the auditorium. The program will consist of a debate, Resolved: That the Federal Government should own and operate the railroads. The affirmative speakers will be Olean Walker, Annette Merchant and Irvin Lande. The negative speakers will be Doris Parker, Lula Mae Collins and Norman Harris. Special music will be provided by Marjorie Bentley.

The Thorsby Institute trustees met on Thursday night, January 11, at the Dining Hall. Rev. L. L. Stanley of Lanett, Alabama, president of the Board, presided. Miss Helen Jenkins was elected as principal of Thorsby Institute and a nominating committee for trustees was appointed.

The Ladies Guild met at the home of Mrs. Charles Howard for its annual business meeting. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. B. Gonzales; Vice president, Mrs. Charles Howard; Treasurer, Mrs. E. N. Bentley; Secretary, Mrs. E. L. Thornburg. The next meeting of the Guild will be held at the Dining Hall on January 25 at two o'clock. There will be an interesting special program. All ladies of the town are cordially invited to attend, whether members of the Guild or not.

Congregational News

A well attended annual meeting of the Church on last Wednesday night heard reports from all boards and officers. The treasurer reported all bills paid, including an item of $307 for parsonage improvements; $160 for benevolences. The property, both church building and parsonage, are in good repair and fully covered by insurance. Rev. John B. Gonzales, who has been with the Church since October, was invited to become permanent pastor, a full corps of officers was elected.

Regular services next Sunday. Sunday School at 9:45. Morning worship and sermon at 11:00. Christian Endeavor prayer meeting at 6:20. "What It Means To Pray—Read the Bible Every Day." Miss Frances Wood, leader. Evening service and sermon at 7:00. What would happen in Thorsby if every professed Christian would attend one or the other of our churches every Sunday and for every service for the period from now until Easter? Only the aged and those ill could not do this. If we would! Let's try it!

Wednesday at 3:45 and 4:00 P.M., choir practices. 7:00 P.M., Union prayer service, (Congregational Church), Rev. M. I. McLeod, leader. Saturday, January 20, 7:30 P.M. There will be a music recital by Miss Burr's pupils in Thorsby Institute auditorium. Everyone invited. No admission charge.

The annual meeting of the church was a success. The attendance at the supper taxed the capacity of the Fellowship Hall. Members and friends of the Church remained for the business session. The treasurer reported all bills paid or provided for except $6.00. This was quickly subscribed so the year closed without debt. The contribution of $1.60 for benevolences was especially gratifying.

Reports were heard from all departments of the Church and officers were elected.

Mrs. John Henderson of Montgomery is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Nichols.

Walter Parrnell of Montgomery spent the week end here.

It is understood Mrs. Inga Anderson of Birmingham will move back to Thorsby in the near future to her old home here. Her son, Albert Anderson, of Silver, N. C., has been visiting friends here for several days.

Chilton County Farm Agent's News

J. W. FANT, County Agent

PROPER CARE OF BABY CHICKS

"I would advise all persons who intend to buy baby chicks this year to get their chicks from the nearest approved hatchery," states County Agent J. W. Fant.

Chicks from an approved hatchery are more likely to be free from disease and to be better chicks than those obtained from an unapproved hatchery. Approved hatcheries are operated under the strict supervision of the Division of Poultry, Alabama Department of Agriculture. Such hatcheries are visited regularly by a poultry specialist and are inspected in regard to sanitation and hatching methods. The hens from which eggs are used to hatch in an approved hatchery are blood-tested for pullorum disease by Alabama Department of Agriculture inspectors and must be found free of pullorum before eggs from these birds can be hatched.

The losses by farmers in Chilton County each year due to buying baby chicks from a distant and unapproved hatchery is great. These losses are due in part to the high death rate of the baby chicks from being shipped a long distance and from diseases not controlled by unapproved hatcheries.

Chicks of good quality and disease-free stock may be obtained in Chilton County. There are three approved hatcheries in this county.

County Exchange Hatchery and N. Jones a Hatchery, both located in Clanton, and Alabama Poultry Farm Hatchery, Calera, Ala., Rt. 1.

The buying of good quality chicks is the first step in successful poultry production. However, good care and management of the chicks after they are brought to the farm is also essential.

The producer should take precautions to insure a clean brooder house in which chicks may be raised. Chicks have been raised in the house before, the house should be disinfected by washing it out with a lye solution. 1 pound of lye to 15 gallons of water before putting new chicks in the house.

The brooder furnace should be operated one to two days and the temperature regulated at 90 to 95 degrees F. before chicks are put in the house. The temperature should remain at the point for one week and then gradually decreased to 80 degrees F. by the end of four to five weeks. The temperature of the house should remain at 80 degrees F. until the chicks are ready to take out of the brooder house.

A good commercial starting meal should be fed for the first two or three weeks after which the feed may be changed gradually to a mixture of one part corn meal and one part per cent protein supplement.

Plenty of fresh, clean water is essential to good growth in baby chicks.

Woco-Tiffin Team Getting Wound Up

This fast-stepping Clanton Independent basketball team known as the Woco-Tiffin Team, is just getting into the paces, having been organized only a short while, but composed of such veterans as "Snowy" Melton, "Shorty" Thornton, George Chambers, "Buckey" Armstrong, Ted Littlejohn, "Bull" Easterling and "Gabby" Tiffin. Next Friday night at the Clanton Airport this team will meet the Chilton County High School boys for a tilt at 7 o'clock. Following this game the Peppers will motor down to Mitchell Dam where they will meet the Maxwell Field aggregation at 8:45.

Saturday night of this week the boys go to Selma to play the YMCA. This will be a hard-fought game. On Monday night of next week at the local airport hangar these boys will meet the very strong Thorsby team for a session. Wednesday night they travel to Tallassee to play one of the best teams in the State. This Tallassee team is composed of such stars as "Hot" O'Brien, "Blackie" Caldwell and others, but the locals are expected to stand their ground.

Protection... American Style

You're wrong. This man is not a refugee from an air raid or a gas attack. He is William S. La Porte, a skilled paint-spray operator in the Dodge truck plant in Detroit, and he's thinking his lucky stars that he's far removed from the scenes of strife in many lands that his attire may bring to mind. He's not wearing a gas mask and a steel helmet but a respirator and a muslin "mood." These afford full protection against any stray paint mist. In addition, a cascade of water and air thoroughly ventilate the spray booth in which he daily pursues the arts of peace and progress in a land where the worker takes precedence over the warrior.

Isabella Basketball Team Getting Primed

The Isabella Basketball team is getting off to a good start this year and you can just bet they're going places. So far the team has played six games and lost two. The two games lost were with Mitchell Dam, independent team, the score being 38-26 the first game and 30-25 the second game.

On Friday, December 29, they won over Jimson High, the score being 25-18. On Friday, January 5, they beat Chilton County High 19-15. On Friday, January 15 they won from Montevallo High by a score of 42-16. Isabella's team consists of the following players:

Alston Clenner, Bill Traywick, center; Earl Clenner, Quinton Cummings, Jack Deason, forward; Robert Cummings, Roy Davis, C. B. Lenoir, guards.

Jemison Will Play Corner High Jan. 19th

The Corner High School Basketball Team will play the Jemison High School Team at Jemison on January 19 at 7 o'clock.

The Jemison boys hope to get revenge for defeat in the season earlier. The admission will be ten and fifteen cents.

Also on Tuesday night, January 23, the Jemison boys will play the Chilton County High School at Jemison.

SHOWALTER QUARTET ON CHATTANOOGA RADIO STATION

The Showalter Quartet, the News has been requested to announce, is on the air from Station WOOD, Chattanooga, Tennessee from 7:00 until 7:30 A.M. each Sunday morning. Many people in this county will want to hear this famous quartet.

WOULD PRESENT RELIGIOUS PROGRAMS OVER COUNTY

The News has been asked to announce that the Burkhalter Quartet would like the privilege of coming to any of the churches of the County on Saturday and Friday nights to give religious programs (quartets and Bible study programs).

This well known quartet will be glad to arrange dates with any churches that will defray expenses and any other will be used on the college expenses of Clarke Burkhalter who is attending Howard College. If your church would like to have this group render a program write Clarke Burkhalter, care Howard College, Birmingham, Alabama, to arrange date.

MRS. JOSEPHINE WILLIAMS

Mrs. Josephine Williams, age 80, died at her home at 8:45 A.M. Monday. Funeral services were held Tuesday at 11:00 A.M. from the Floyd Baptist Church conducted by Rev. S. D. DeLoach. Interment was in the Evergreen cemetery.

Surviving are four sons, J. M. and W. B. of Verbena; A. Y. and E. E. Williams of Birmingham; thirteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Spigener Funeral Home was in charge of burial.

Mitchell Dam In Midst Of Winning Streak

The strong Mitchell Dam quint is riding high these days, having just recently defeated the strong Buck Creek team of Siluria for the third or fourth time this season, and the Maxwell Field boys.

Wednesday night, January 10, the Dammers defeated the Buck Creek boys by the score of 36-26 at Siluria. Dutch Baker was high point man in this game, looping the net for 14 points.

Last Monday night on the Mitchell Dam Court they downed the Maxwell Field quintet to the tune of 51-41. Maxwell Field has been noted for their strong teams for several years. Dutch Baker was again high point man in this game with 16 points. Melton followed with 14 and Dock Baker with 13. High point man for the Field was Julian with 18. This tall, lanky fellow was really ready.

Mitchell Dam has played twenty games thus far and have lost only 3. These games lost were at the beginning of the season. They have defeated some of the strongest teams in the State, including Buck Creek, Bevel, Mignon. The Dammers have won the last twelve straight games.

Friday night of this week a double-header will be played on the Dam court. The first game will be between the Dam and Bessemer "Y". The second game will be between the Clanton Independents and Maxwell field. These two games will be well worth seeing.

On the night of January 25 the Mitchell Dam boys will play the Birmingham All-Stars, known last year as the Virgil Trucks team. This game will also be played on the Mitchell Dam court. On February 2 they play Lincen, and other games as follows: Feb. 3, Tallassee at Tallassee; Feb. 5, Calera; Feb. 6, Mapesville.

General Motors Builds 25-Millionth Unit

Brief ceremonies were held in the Chevrolet assembly plant at Flint, January 11, marking completion of this car, the 25-millionth unit built by General Motors. In behalf of the thousands of workers who had a hand in its manufacture, 75 members of the final assembly line crew handed M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager, a commemorative scroll for presentation to W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors. Veteran Chevrolet employees, and executives of the Buick and AC Spark Plug divisions, were present as special guests.

In photo, left to right: C. E. Wetherald, general manager, Chevrolet; Mr. Coyle; H. H. Curtis, general manager Buick Division; A. P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board, General Motors; Fred Brown, veteran Chevrolet employee; C. S. Mott, vice president, General Motors; C. E. Wilson, executive vice president, General Motors; and Mr. Knudsen.

The car was taken at once to Detroit, to play a major part in the "March of Men and Motors" celebration staged that night in the Masonic Temple.

THE GIFT

By WARREN SMITH

(Reprinted by Associated Newspapers WNU Service.)

MARTHA CARTER and her sister Augusta lived in a fine, old house which stood at the corner of Peel and Earl streets.

Possessed of a comfortable income and most excellent health it would seem as if the two women might have almost an ideal life together, but it was known by their friends and neighbors that they were secret enemies.

This enmity between the two sisters started when Martha was 17 and Augusta two years older.

That was the summer Casper Hunter came home, inviolated from the Spanish-American war, and spent three months with his cousin Mrs. Bell.

Casper had been hit in the arm by a bullet which had incapacitated him for work but left him free to amuse himself in any way he could.

The Bells and Carters were great friends as well as neighbors and the young people saw much of each other.

When Casper had sufficiently recovered his health he went back to his home in a distant town, but he left two broken hearts behind him.

Mrs. Bell said that the reason he had not proposed to one of the Carter girls was that he had not been able to choose between them.

Other suitors came and went but never ever won the place of Casper Hunter in their affections. And so they remained unmarried.

As the years passed Martha grew stout and calm, with a passion for tanning.

She spent long hours with shuttle in hand weaving delicate patterns in snowy white thread.

Sometimes she hummed softly to herself and sometimes she talked to her big yellow cat.

Now, Bingo was a perfect bone of contention between the sisters.

Augusta hated cats, Bingo especially, for sometimes in her remarks to Bingo Martha said things that she would not have dared to say directly to Augusta.

Augusta went in for culture.

She could repeat stanzas of poetry in a most languishing voice, and it is marvelous what cutting things can be got out of a mere poem by one who knows how to change a word here and there.

That was why Augusta's weapon of defense which she constantly hurled at Martha. Augusta was thin and stern and austere with a fondness for wearing severe black.

Today the sisters were sitting together in their cozy living room, a bright fire burned in the grate.

Martha was tating as usual and Augusta posed near the front window, was reading "The Doll's Life" for the tenth time.

Bingo lay on a cushion before the fire. Silence reigned because the sisters were not speaking. Suddenly they were startled by a loud knocking at the back door.

Augusta hastened to answer the summons.

When she opened the back door she was surprised to find an expressman, on the step beside him stood a good-sized crate. The man touched his cap and held out an open book.

"Sign here, ma'am," he said in a businesslike way.

Augusta took the book and pencil he offered and signed as directed.

Whereupon the expressman slid the crate through the open door and turned and walked briskly away.

Augusta stood eyeing the crate and was just bending to get a closer look when she was startled by a high-pitched voice saying in a snatched way:

"Oh, spare my tender blushes!"

Augusta recoiled in consternation.

"Let me out! Let me out!" demanded a quite different voice, a man's voice this time. "You poor dear! Quit quinking!"

Clinging to the bars of the huge cage which the crate contained, scurrying with wings and beak, was a large, gray bird with a wicked beak and watchful eyes. A parrot!

Now Augusta had always looked for a parrot and this was a superb specimen of its kind. But upon the large card attached she read her sister's name as well as hers. In fact Martha's came first.

"What! Martha!" she cried.

And Martha came as fast as her thick legs would permit.

Together they knocked the cleats off the crate and removed the gleaming wire cage.

A table was brought and the cage placed upon it. And then wondering very much, the two women sat down to look at their unexpected guest.

The parrot danced and capered on his perch; he swung his side up, he spit out seeds, he laughed, screamed and sang.

When Martha attempted to speak, he bade her "shut up, strawberry."

Martha's face was naturally red. He called Augusta "old goose!" and he yelled "scat!" until Bingo fled in a panic.

"Who could have made us a present of such a beast?" Martha gasped.

"I don't know," Augusta shook her head.

Mrs. Bell came in to see Polly.

"He's probably 70 years old," she said. The sisters stared aghast.

"And worth several hundred dol-

News from SARDIS

Most of the flu victims are up and going around again and health in the community is very good at present.

We held our monthly singing Sunday evening afternoon. Our pastor, Brother Weaver, was present, also a number from Alpine were present. We are always glad to have those from other communities to come and help with our singing.

Our B.Y.P.U. is progressing fine. We had a nice crowd Sunday night. We want to build up our Sunday School and as Brother Weaver will be present next Sunday let's everyone strive to be present and get our Sunday School going.

Brother Weaver will preach next Sunday morning and Sunday night.

Brother Ruben Bearden, one of our young preachers, preached at Joe Fisher's home Sunday afternoon. He brought a very inspiring message.

MAPLESVILLE GIRL TO SING IN BROADCAST

Miss Ozelle Deason of Maplesville, member of the Alabama College Glee Club, is one of a small group selected by Mr. H. D. LeBaron, head of the school of Music, to sing in a program to be broadcast from Birmingham over the entire network facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System, January 20, at 9:30 P.M.

The Glee Club from Montevallo on this occasion sings for its largest audience. It is estimated that the 119 Columbia Broadcasting System stations and the 13 Alabama stations, reach a listening audience of 5,000,000. The half-hour program is built around the theme, "Alabama—A Symphony of the New South." Gov. Frank M. Dixon will be master of ceremonies. The program will originate in Birmingham's Municipal Auditorium.

TWO CHILTON GIRLS IN NEW DORMITORIES

Auburn, Ala.—When Auburn co-eds moved into their new $500,000 dormitories here last week there were two young women from Chilton County among those moving.

Housing 400 women students, the dormitories are equipped with new and modern furnishings that have met the full approval of the girls. A bath joins each two bedrooms and there are facilities for 100 girls in each of the four buildings. In addition, a new dining hall and a social center adjoins the dormitories with colonnades.

Dr. Rosa Lee Watson, director of women students, and her staff of seven assistants are in charge of the Women's Quadrangle. Completion of the dormitories marks the fulfillment of a long-life plan of President L. N. Duncan to provide comfortable and ample facilities for Auburn women students.

The Chilton County girls in the new dormitories include: Annie Polk Clanton; and Katherine Schurter, Stanton.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. MADDOX

In memory of our dearest beloved aunt, Mrs. D. J. Maddox, whom the angels gently received January 10, 1940.

Dearest beloved, we are lonely here without you, but your noble record and sweet memories cheer us. As we are here on the stormy side of life, we miss you, yes we miss you. Your face no more on earth we can see. But we know you are in heaven where we all long to be. A vacant place you have left, where no other can fill. Your voice we all loved so well is stilled.

Farewell! Dearest aunt, farewell, while we travel on in toil and pain, but when our lives on earth are done, and the gates of heaven swing open we will meet you where no parting comes.

—One who loved her, Wildean Maddox.

SINGING NEW SALE

There will be a singing at New Salem Church next Sunday, January 20th, we have been asked to announce. Singing will begin at 1:30 P.M., and Mr. Dock Harris will be in charge.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend and bring their new books.

GENERAL R. E. LEE'S BIRTHDAY

Montgomery.—The Gradle of the Confederacy will observe its Confederate past with a state holiday Friday, the birthday of Gen. Robt. E. Lee.

Montgomery was the first Confederate capital and Jefferson Davis took oath of office as Confederate President there.

CARD OF THANKS

To our many friends who wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindness and sympathy shown to us during the recent illness and death of our husband and father, Calvin Glenn, of Cooper.—Mrs. Calvin Glenn and Oliver.

Anger is one of the sinews of the soul. Feller.

State Farmers Face Corn Shortage

Alabama farmers face a corn shortage before the next harvest season, but the decreased supply is expected by the State Crop Reporting Service to be offset partly by an above-average hay crop.

J. C. Garrett, agricultural statistician, said that on January 1, farmers had only 22,644,000 bushels of corn on hand, and described this as an "unfavorable comparison" with the previous year's 36,676,000 bushels.

Wheat stock declined "less than usual," the supply of oats was slightly above that of the previous January and hay on hand, while "somewhat below" last year, was reported as "probably substantially above average."

"Present supplies (of hay) should partly offset the shortage of corn," Garrett added.

IN MEMORY OF LLOYD TRAYWICK

It has been one year Saturday since Lloyd passed away. He is gone but not forgotten. Over in the graveyard not far away, where the flowers nod and wave, lies the one we love so dear, in his cold and silent grave.

We look for him but we look in vain. We'll never see him on this earth again. We loved him, oh, we loved him, but the angels loved him more, and they safely carried him to that bright and shining shore, where he'll die no more.

I can travel this world from shore to shore, and no one on earth will be as dear to me as he. So let us all live so that we will be safe when we cross the dark stream, and His face we can see.

So loved ones, cease your weeping. He is not dead, only sleeping. Let us hope and pray to join him some glad day.—Dorothy Jean Rush.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN DECORATOR

By Helen Koues

"What shall I put on my mantel?" This is one of the questions I'm most frequently asked. First, of course, it depends on what type of mantel you have and in what type of room the mantel is placed. You put the type of ornaments on your mantel which suit the type of the room, but the articles themselves are often the same: a clock for instance or candlesticks are often used articles. The difference is that in a Colonial room, use a Colonial clock and brass or crystal candlesticks on a Colonial wooden mantel painted white or a light color. On a stone mantel in an early English room, or one of deep brown walnut, heavier types are right. Iron candlesticks, or those of heavy brass or pewter and a clock with a heavy case, are in keeping. There are not many clocks of the 17th Century type to be found. The old "wag on the wall" was used in those days, the forerunner of the grandfather clock. It has a brass face and the long pendulum hangs exposed. It is not a mantel clock, of course, but following it came a brass faced clock in a wooden case which looks well with a heavy mantel. But on such a mantel why struggle with a clock at all? Instead put a row of small books between heavy book ends in the center of the shelf with the candlesticks on each side. Or, again perhaps you are a collector of something, and if you are not, why not start now and be one? Collect pewter jugs or Toby jugs or china animals and put a row on the mantel, using your choice of three or five.

It's a great thing to have a hobby. But "life is real, life is earnest" and you haven't time, or money, I hear you say. I wonder if you really haven't the time and if you wouldn't be happier yourself and make those around you happier by a harmless hobby. It's not a matter of having either time or money. It's a relaxation, cultivates that good old humor, a sense of humor, and the less serious side of life. It's something to laugh over. It's rather like knitting. The busiest people knit, if they once get started—so try "collecting" if you are interested in decorating your house, and you'll be surprised at the attractive small articles you will pick up, not to mention the knowledge you will acquire of history and how our forefathers lived.

But there are lots of other things to be put on mantels—vases or urns at each end, trophy cups, figures, or even small pictures placed against the wall. There seem to be three low tant things to consider. First, as I have said, type of mantel and room; second, what you have over the mantel; third, what you like to look at. This is a case of pleasing yourself. Have things you like to look at and place them with consideration for some simple rules of decorative value. If you have a picture you like, hang it over the mantel. If it's a fine mirror, then hang that. Perhaps you have some and can't afford to buy them. Then get a piece of decorative chintz and hang it from the picture molding to within four inches of mantel, leaving about six inches on each side. Or perhaps you have two or three small pictures. In such a case use a plain white or cream fabric as a background and group your small pictures on it in the center. It's amazing the attractive small pictures the ten cent store has, if you don't happen to have any.

The question of side lights is important. If you have side lights you don't want candlesticks, so instead of something comparatively low in the center and high on each side of the mantel shelf, you may want something high in the center and low on the ends. And then what to choose? Dozens of things. A pair of vases or figures which are ornaments in themselves—or small ornate things filled with ivy or Chinese lilies which decorate the space between the side light and the mantel shelf. If decorative china vases are used at the ends, then a shallow bowl for flowers may be put in the center. In a 17th century room, old pewter tankards may be used, or a row of small, round, metal art objects such as Scott's dog. (If you like them) in the center.

It is ordered that the 22 day of February, 1940, be appointed a day on which to make such final settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand, this 15 day of January, 1940.

J. LEE SMITH,
Judge of Probate.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court, in Equity, No. 1577. January 16th, 1940.

Pearl Gentry, Complainant, vs. Euel Gentry, et al, Defendants.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Lawrence F. Gerald, Solicitor, that record for the Complainant that the Defendant, Frances Ragland, Virginia Bears, and John J. Hicks, Jr., are non-residents, and that their place of residence and post office address is 549 Clinton Avenue, Newark, New Jersey, and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant the Defendants are of the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring that the said Frances Ragland, Virginia Bears, and John J. Hicks, Jr., to, to plaintiff, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint as amended in this cause by the 11th day of February, 1940, or, in their default, a decree of the court may be taken against them.

Witness my office in Clanton, this 16th day of January, 1940.

SALLY JOHNS N ROBERTS, Register.

the typhus export. A rat extermination campaign is the best single measure which can be used to prevent the spread of typhus fever which is transmitted by the bite of the rat flea.

Dr. Sturkie, County Health Officer, said regarding the project: "I think Mr. Jones has shown excellent judgment in promising the City's cooperation with the Health Department and the WPA in the institution of a typhus control program here. We shall probably know definitely whether or not Clanton's application is approved within a month. In the meantime the Health Department in a series of articles will inform the public about typhus fever and the menace of rats to the public health."

toric fashion, the Life, Crucifixion, and Resurrection of Jesus. The film was produced in Europe, Palestine and Egypt, and has won the profound admiration and approval of more than one thousand of the largest Churches in the United States and Canada, having been exhibited to more than one million people during the past two years many times to overflowing audiences.

Spiritual Atmosphere

A very spiritual and reverent atmosphere is established and maintained throughout the entire program and leaves the audience in a meditative, prayerful, and heart-searching mood, provoking thought concerning the reality of the Christian principles in their daily lives. The film is one of unusual beauty, and has been highly praised wherever it has been shown. The public are cordially invited, and tickets are not required to gain admission. A free-will offering will be taken to assist in defraying expenses.

Besides being a powerful advocate at the bar, Mr. Milner is an interesting and instructive platform speaker, and his services in that capacity are frequently in demand. His style as a speaker is not of the flowery and oratorical type, but that of the deep and well informed thinker. He is a firm believer in the common schools, and his speeches at numerous commencement exercises reveal deep study of educational problems and thorough understanding of them.

He is a man of integrity and honor, a clean and wholesome character and with his broad educational training and well trained analytical mind, his friends firmly believe that Mr. Milner will win this race and make this Circuit a Judge to whom all may point with pride.

JUDGE J. LEE SMITH TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

ASKS VOTERS OF COUNTY TO LOOK OVER PAST RECORD AS CITIZEN, BUSINESS MAN AND PUBLIC OFFICIAL

First to throw his hat in the ring for Probate Judge of Chilton County on the Democratic ticket is Judge J. Lee Smith, incumbent. Judge Smith, with a long list of accomplishments to his credit in public service of the past five years, is well qualified for the post he seeks.

When elected to the highest office in the County five years ago, Judge Smith promised a business administration to the people of this county. Today he can point to his record with pride and challenge any man to deny that this has been carried out to the letter.

In making his announcement to the press Judge Smith says: "In making my announcement as a candidate for nomination to succeed myself as Probate Judge of our County, I invite the people to look back over my past record as a citizen, a business man and a public servant.

"During the campaign of 1934 I promised the people that if they elected me as their Probate Judge that I would give them a business administration and that I would not run our county in debt, or permit it to be done. I am glad to tell you, as you already know from the Treasurer's report, that our county is in an excellent financial condition, and if I am re-elected to office I will not permit our county to go into debt, unless the people vote for it. All I have to say at this time is that I have served my people and my county in the past the very best I could, and my record is well known to the people of Chilton County.

"I wish to thank the people for their splendid cooperation in making my administration a success, something that could not have been accomplished without their help. If the voters of Chilton County elect me, for another term as their Probate Judge I shall with all my strength serve them the best that I know how. I appreciate the confidence and good will of everyone."

DR. V. J. GRAGG IMPROVING FROM ILLNESS AT HIS HOME

The many friends of Dr. V. J. Gragg, will be pleased to know that he is recovering from an illness that has kept him in bed at his home for some time. Latest reports on Dr. Gragg's condition this week was that he was definitely on the road to recovery.

KIWANIANS GET SET FOR NEW YEAR WITH OBJECTIVES SET

A meeting of the directors and committee chairman at the office of President O. M. Webb last Monday night, found the Club getting set for the year's work. Objectives were set out and approved and the Club plans to get down to work for the year 1940.

Minstrel At City Hall Tonight And Collins Chapel Fri

Near zero weather forced the postponement of the Kiwanis Club minstrel at the City Hall last Friday night, but Prof. J. Hollis Jackson, in charge, stated this week that the minstrel will be presented Thursday (tonight) at the City Hall at 7:30, and on the following night, Friday, the Club will present the minstrel at the Collins Chapel School 8:15 to 9:30.

One presentation at the City Hall some time ago drew a large crowd despite heavy rains, and many have requested that the minstrel be presented again. This is a benefit show, and the people of the Collins Chapel community as well as Clanton, are urged to see this blackface show, the characters being members of the Club; as: John Hollis, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, T. E. Wyatt, Charlie Breedlove, Bonnie Lane, Rev. Oscar Davis, Burton Mullins, Sam Powers, Dick Hayes, Horton Walker, R. W. Lowe and C. E. Stapp's interlocutor.

Remember the date—City Hall tonight, and Collins Chapel tomorrow night, both at 7:30. This real fun-entertainment is well worth the admission price of fifteen and twenty-five cents.

JUDGE J. LEE SMITH

Chilton A Commercial Peanut County

A. W. Jones, state administrative officer, has named 30 Alabama counties as commercial peanut counties, Chilton is included. Allotments will be given to all farmers producing market peanuts in each of the 30 counties.

Counties now listed as commercial peanut counties are Autauga, Barbour, Bullock, Butler, Chambers, Chilton, Clark, Coffee, Conecuh, Covington, Crenshaw, Dallas, Dale, Elmore, Escambia, Geneva, Hale, Henry, Houston, Lee, Lowndes, Macon, Marengo, Monroe, Montgomery, Perry, Pike, Russell, Sumter and Wilcox.

Cold Wave Causes Flu, Colds In County

The cold weather which has prevailed in Chilton County for the past several days has caused an epidemic of flu, colds and several cases of pneumonia over the county.

County physicians have been busy day and night administering to those who have fallen victims, however, there is no cause for alarm as the outbreak is being kept well in hand by the doctors.

Menace Of Rats To Human Health Discussed

In preparation for a city-wide campaign of rat extermination in Clanton, the County Health Officer today named the rat as one of man's worst enemies. A list of seven diseases transmitted either directly or indirectly by rats to man was compiled by the local Health Officer. These include epidemic typhus fever better known as Brill's disease, bubonic plague, infectious jaundice, amebic dysentery, food poisoning, trichinosis, and rat bite fever. Besides these human diseases the rat plays a part in the transmission of diseases to other animals, notably hog cholera, swine erysipelas, four tuberculosis, and hoof and mouth disease.

Brill fever of the rat borne diseases named, according to the Health Officer, is the most important as a health problem in this locality. The disease was first differentiated from typhoid fever by Dr. Brill in New York in 1927. Later A. Dr. Maxy, working in South Alabama, showed that the disease was transmitted from rat to man by the bite of the rat flea. The disease has been shown to be highly prevalent in the southern counties of Alabama and now shows a tendency of spreading northward. Dr. Perollo, typhus expert of the State Health Department, warns that the occurrence of 2 cases in Clanton in 1939 may herald the development of a focus here with a definite outbreak sometimes in the near future unless steps are taken to prevent it. Rat proofing food handling establishments, destruction of rat harborage, a campaign of rat extermination by trapping and poisoning, constitute the best known measures against the disease.

FROM REV. LUTHER BALLOU

Rev. Luther Ballou has been called to Boston, Mass., owing to the sudden death of his mother. The regular Sunday services at the Mt. Creek Congregational Church will therefore be held next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Sunday evening at 7:00 P.M. instead of the third Sunday as usual. Church School at 10 A.M.—Luther Ballou.

RED CROSS OF COUNTY MAKES AN APPEAL

ISSUES CALL FOR CLOTHES FOR NEEDY SUFFERING FROM COLD WEATHER

The Chilton County Chapter of the Red Cross this week is issuing a call to the people of the county to donate to a cause which is worthy of every citizen's consideration. Your help may spell the difference between comfort and suffering for many of the county's needy, who are finding that the unusually hard winter calls for more clothing than they possess.

Following is a statement by J. Mel Martin, Disaster chairman of the Chilton County Chapter:

"In consideration of the fact that there is real need on the part of so many of the people of the county for clothes to keep them warm during this cold weather, the Red Cross is asking every person in the county who has old shoes or clothes to give away to send them to my office as soon as possible. The great number of school children who are out of school because they have no sweater, no coat or shoes, should be in school.

"The clothes will be given to the most needy cases thru the Department of Public Welfare and the School Attendance officer. You who have comfortable clothes must have something which can be used by the people who are cold in our County. Any clothes sent into the schools will be sent to me by the teachers."

TWO CLANTON BOYS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT SUNDAY

Two Clanton youths were injured last Sunday night when the car in which they were riding collided with a car said to have been driven by Charlie Burnett, south of Clanton, the News was informed.

The two boys were Carl Foss and T. J. Rasberry. Both were injured, but Rasberry's injuries were more painful, with a broken nose being suffered by him along with other lacerations. Foss received an injured knee.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT ANNUAL REPORTS READY

Printed annual reports of the vital statistics and the activities of the Health Department are now ready for distribution. It was announced by the Health Officer, Dr. S. D. Sturkie. The Department has a plentiful supply of these reports and urges anyone who is interested in the public health program in Chilton County to come to the Health Office and obtain a copy.

Besides the tables which show the statistics and the work done by the Department, there is a narrative description of the progress made by the Department during the year.

Mrs. Willie Phillip Jones and son, Ralph, have returned from Montgomery where he was confined to the hospital for several days.

Board Of Registrars Now In Session

The Chilton County Board of Registrars, composed of E. R. Piper, W. W. Wingard and A. J. Lecroy, are now in session at the Court House and will be in session until February 1, the public is reminded.

The business of the Board is to register those who, for any reason, have failed to register so far. They are urging the people to bear this in mind.

R. W. LOWE GETS PERMANENT APPOINTMENT AS POSTMASTER

R. W. Lowe, for several months Acting Postmaster at Clanton, was ratified by the Senate Tuesday of this week as official postmaster at Clanton.

HEAVIEST SNOW IN YEARS FALLS HERE THIS WEEK

WHITE BLANKET COVERS THE COUNTY FOLLOWING SEVERE COLD WAVE

Chilton County received a blanket of white last Tuesday when one of the heaviest snowfalls ever recorded in the County descended to top off the severe cold wave suffered by the whole state last week.

Snow began falling in the early part of Monday night, and fell heavily during the morning part of Tuesday, but only slightly during the afternoon. A fall of approximately two inches was recorded at Clanton before freezing weather again set in which left the ground a mass of frozen snow and ice Tuesday night. Traffic over the county was almost impossible Tuesday and Wednesday. Fair skies greeted the eye Wednesday morning, however, and the sun began the task of thawing out the ice and snow, but a low temperature still prevailed Wednesday until noon.

Last Thursday and Friday found the thermometer down to a level that threatened the zero mark, and Chilton joined the remainder of the state in experiencing one of the coldest spells on record. A reading of eight degrees and probably lower was reached during the night Friday of last week. Many water pipes over the City of Clanton wanted and split, leaving many residents minus the facilities of water-works.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES SET FOR MAY 7TH AND JUNE 11TH

The Chilton County Republican Executive Committee has set May 7 and June 11 as the dates for holding the Republican primaries, Chairman T. E. Wyatt has announced. This is the same dates as that set by Democratic Committee.

Mrs. Mamie Newell returned to her home in Samson Saturday morning after a visit to her son and his family, Mr. Herbert Newell.

A MATTER DESERVING ATTENTION (AN EDITORIAL)

Several months ago an American diplomat just returned from troubled Europe was interviewed by the press. This diplomat had spent some time in Europe and was well qualified to speak on conditions there. On being asked to tell the press which of the many things he observed there was the most impressive to him he replied substantially as follows: There is not a man or woman in Europe today who would not give all he possesses to come to America and enjoy the benefits and privileges we Americans enjoy."

If America can mean that much to Europeans, can it mean any less to you as an American?

We have something here in this country which is the envy of every other civilized nation on the face of the earth. You are the final arbiter of its destiny. Upon you as a voter falls the responsibility of saying whether or not we shall keep this precious heritage.

The Board of Registrars are in session now. $1.50 is to some people an insignificant sum and to others it represents real sacrifice. But no matter how great a sacrifice, go to the Courthouse today and see that your poll tax is paid and that you are qualified to vote this year. February first is the last day to do this. Time is deceptive. Don't delay. PAY YOUR POLL TAX TODAY AND VOTE!

No School At County High This Week

The Chilton County High School has not been in session this week due to the fact that the boiler at the Clanton Baptist Church, where school is being held, burst as a result of the freeze over the week end.

Supt. of Education Maddox stated that repairs are being made on the damaged boiler but that this would probably take the remainder of this week.

Mr. Maddox stated that the remainder of the schools over the county were going forward as usual despite the bad weather. He stated that whether or not the school buses could make their usual runs was being left to the discretion of the bus drivers.

THE BANK OF THORSBY ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1940

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Thorsby, held January 16, 1940, the following officers were elected:

Mrs. A. M. Grimsley, Chairman of the Board; S. M. Pate, President; Wm. R. Ross, Cashier; S. J. Davenport, E. R. Piper.

Directors—Mrs. A. M. Grimsley, S. M. Pate, A. J. Robinson, S. J. Davenport, Assistant Cashier; A. J. Robinson, Vice President.

At this meeting a dividend of ten per cent was declared.

Taxes Now Delinquent

The taxpayers of Chilton County will please take notice and are hereby informed that all state and county taxes became delinquent on January 1st, 1940. The longer payment of taxes are delayed, the more extra charges, interest, etc., there will accrue. It is my desire to save the taxpayers of the county as much expense and trouble as possible, so you are urged to look after these matters as promptly as possible. Remember, February 1st is the last day to pay your poll tax—T. M. TAYLOR, Tax Collector.

TWO PLACES ON COUNTY BOARD OF ED. TO BE FILLED

In addition to the offices to be filled in the coming 1940 elections in Chilton County, as given by the News week before last, there are also two places on the County Board of Education for which races will be made.

These two places are at present held by Messrs. J. P. Payne of Maplesville and H. H. Armstrong of Jemison. So far no one has announced as the Democratic ticket for these two offices.

The announcement for re-election as made this week by Probate Judge J. Lee Smith brings to a total four candidates who have announced their intentions to seek re-election on the Democratic ticket for re-election. They are: J. Monroe Parrish, Commissioner of the Fourth District; R. L. Ousley, commissioner of the Third District; C. Pattillo, Circuit Clerk and Judge Smith. Hon. R. T. Milner of Wetumpka has announced his candidacy for the office of Circuit Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit. This office is at present held by Hon. Arthur Glover also of Wetumpka.

SMITH-MERCHANT WEDDING IS EVENT OF MUCH INTEREST

A wedding of much interest of recent date was that of Nell Kathleen Smith to John Hollis Merchant, which took place at the bride's home, January 20th at 2:00 P.M.

An impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Homer Carroll in the presence of only a few close friends and relatives of the couple. The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Smith. She has been employed by one of Clanton's leading dry goods stores since her graduation from Chilton County High School in 1937.

Mr. Merchant is a popular young man of Birmingham where he holds a responsible position with the T.C.I. Company.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for their home at 433 Ave. E, Birmingham, Alabama.

Their many friends throughout this section wish for them much good luck and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Teel of Montgomery were here last week visiting friends and relatives.

LOCAL OFFICERS CAPTURE TWO 'KIDNAPERS'

NIGHT CITY OFFICERS WILLIS AND PLYLER DO GOOD WORK IN MACON, GEORGIA CASE

Night Officers W. A. Willis and E. R. Plyler of Clanton again demonstrated that they are "on the job" late in the night. The two boys, last Monday night when they captured two Macon, Georgia boys at the Tourist Cafe five miles south of Clanton last Monday night. The two boys, J. D. Newton and James Taylor, of Macon were charged with kidnapping Mrs. W. A. Bootle, wife of the dean of law at Mercer University, and taking her car after putting her out on the outskirts of the City of Macon.

Terah Parrish, operator of the Tourist Cafe, called Officers Willis and Plyler about 2 A.M. Tuesday and informed them that two young boys were at his place in a car that they appeared to know little about and were acting queer. The officers drove down to the place and made the arrest, after the two youths had confessed they had kidnaped Mrs. Bootle, put her out of the car and fled to other parts.

A story in The Montgomery Advertiser Wednesday morning is as follows:

Two grinning boys, sixteen years of age, accused of abducting a prominent Macon, Ga., matron and stealing her automobile at the point of a pistol Monday, became more sober when the door of a Montgomery cell clanged to on them early last night.

The two, listed as J. D. Newton and James Taylor, on their way from Clanton back to Macon in company of a police escort, were temporarily lodged at the jail for finger printing.

The youths arrested early yesterday by Clanton night officers W. A. Willis and E. R. Plyler, confessed that the automobile in which they had crossed the State line was stolen, and admitted abducting Mrs. W. A. Bootle, wife of the dean of law at Mercer University, and forcing her from her automobile a few miles beyond the Macon city limits Monday.

Chilton Will Be Represented At Inter-High School Meet

Prof. Patterson Hicks, principal of the Chilton County High School, and other school leaders in Chilton County received invitations this week from Alabama College, Montevallo, to send a representative group of women students to Montevallo April 4-5 to take part in the Inter-High School Meet.

For the two day period girls chosen from Chilton County will be the guests of the college which is to care for their board and lodging. Activities will include the fields of art, music, speech, home economics, and physical education. All Alabama high schools, both accredited and non-accredited, may participate. Entry blanks accompanied the bulletin of explanation mailed to the principal, and the General Chairman, Mr. W. J. Kennerly, of the Alabama College science department, stated that he is prepared to mail others on request. Each student group coming to Montevallo will be accompanied by its own chaperons who will also be guests of the College.

Play Day, held in connection with the Inter-High School Meet, will feature a program of soccer, rope jumping, baseball, volleyball, mass badminton, ping pong, shuffle board, relays, folk dancing, and other physical education pursuits of the typical Alabama College girl.

At the close of the Inter-High School Meet, awards will be made indicating the ranking of participants. Between one thousand and fifteen hundred high school girls annually take part in this event at Montevallo.

A CORRECTION

In giving the account of the death of Miss Rena Rember last week a typographical error caused Miss Rember's name to appear "Miss Rena Hawkins." This was an error that the News is glad to correct. Miss Rember is survived by a nephew, Mr. Hawkins, which evidently caused the confusion. We apologize to those concerned.

Most of these who complain now were shouting optimists of 1929. I do not believe that the American people who swallowed that canned optimism in 1929 will swallow canned pessimism in 1940—particularly at the same can.—President Roosevelt at Jackson Day dinner.

Five out of a family of six died last Thursday, when the coupe in which they were riding plunged into Spring Creek in Bullock County. Isn't it about time that we gave a little less attention to the slaughtering in other countries, and a little more to the slaughtering here at home?

Every thinking person in the world knows that every nation at war is playing a losing game every day through diminishing resources of every kind; yet, greed, hate and stubbornness, clothed with power, continue to drive millions on to slaughter and destruction.

Lockhart, home of the Jackson Lumber Company, is to be abandoned by that industry. We have never been able to see where Alabama benefitted by encouraging "foreign" capital to come into the state, exploit it and send the profits away to other states. There are numbers of "ghost towns" in Alabama left by "foreign capital" that came into the State to "help develop" it.

Was mighty sorry that I was denied the opportunity to again mix and mingle with my old and young friends of Alabama's Press Association at its Birmingham meeting Friday and Saturday. But you see, it was this-a-way: I got up early Friday morning, not feeling so good, determined that I was going to attend that meeting, but while washing my face and hands, locking after my permanent wave, and applying the shaving lotion that I got Christmas, I kept hearing something outside going w-h-a-r-r-r-r-r! W-h-o-i-e-e-r-r-r-r! Deciding to warm up good before leaving, I grabbed a shovel and scuttle and stepped out to investigate, and sitting there on the coal pile was old General Boreas, his face beaming in the sunshine, and rubbing his hands together in glee. I says to him: Old Duffer, so you are trying to keep me from going to that Press meeting, are you? And I tackled him and that coal pile—thinking to get warmed up good before starting, when up from behind the coal pile came that darned hard-boiled French top sergeant of his, Flu Grippe, who grabbed me by the throat and dragged me back into the house, threw me on the bed and sat down on me. And that's why you didn't see my smiling countenance at the cocktail party. But there is compensation in everything—I see my old friends H. H. Golson, was elected president, J. H. Faulkner, vice-president and R. C. Bryan, re-elected secretary so APA membership may expect a lively year under this leadership, with Doyle Buckles popping the whip. —MARK.

Award Of Merit

The Award of Merit conferred by Holland's Southern Institute upon the Selma Times-Journal, was gratifying indeed to this writer—who is perhaps the oldest living person to have begun the study of the "art preservative of all arts," as "office boy" in the business office of the The Selma Times-Mail.

The Award of Merit was "for outstanding service in town building; for its noble civic attitude; its many successful efforts to make Selma a better, more prosperous town in which to live."

Congratulations to every member of the organization—for it requires team work and hearty cooperation to merit such an award. —MARK.

The Price Of Liberty

A short time ago Joseph Stalin, director of Communist Russia, was re-elected to his seat on the Moscow municipal soviet. His majority was exactly 100 per cent—every vote was cast for him. According to the press dispatch telling of this, it was obvious that the most strenuous methods were used by officials to get out the largest possible vote.

Those who have watched the technique of dictatorship can judge what those methods were—you support the man in the saddle "or else." And this little event, while it didn't make the headlines, is a biting commentary on what happens when the people surrender their rights and liberties to iron-clad political rule. No one attempts to win over the opposition by argument, as in a democratic nation—after all, machine guns, exile and brutal persecution are temporarily more effective instruments for keeping in power. The man who raises his voice in dissent gets short shrift indeed.

Here in America we pride ourselves on the fact that we may still speak our minds—that no man is master of our destinies—that the forces of dictatorship have been kept firmly in leash. But pride in this is not enough. It cannot too often be repeated that the price of liberty is eternal vigilance at home. We can unconsciously surrender rights until one day we awake to realize too late, that liberty is gone.

America watches events abroad with wonder and horror. Let America also learn from them.—Prattville Progress.

Only $3,600 For Coosa Alabama's Aquatic Stepchild

Army engineers have recommended how $1,391,000 can be profitably expended during the coming year on waterways, and among the recommendations are $75,000 for the Alabama river and $3,600 for the Coosa river in Georgia and Alabama. Some day the needs of the Coosa will receive recognition and come into its own. It is already generating a lot of hydroelectric power but it has enormous possibilities for water traffic and flood control as well as additional power that ought to be made available.—Alabama Journal.

Friends

By Wright A. Patterson
An American country town, where no one is alone.

Where all are friends, where neighborliness and kindness prevail, where each is his brother's keeper, where no one is alone.

Where life is simple, where there is kindness and warmth and friendliness for all and from all.

Where homes are the abiding places of happy families and into which all are welcomed without distinction.

Where unselfishness prevails, and affection and thoughtfulness is evidenced each day and hour.

Where Banker Brown is the friend and associate of Drayman Stine, and lends a helping hand when Mrs. Stine or little Jimmy Stine is ill.

Where Merchant Smith puts crippled Jerry Murphy's touselled head and hands him a bit of candy or a cookie which Jerry's widowed mother could not buy.

Where neighbors drop in hour by hour on feeble Grandma Goodman, carrying nourishing foods to tempt her failing appetite, so she may not feel alone.

Where every home is open to Sam Plover, the town barber, and his small son, Willie, while Mrs. Plover languishes in the hospital, that they may not feel alone.

Where there are no class distinctions, and no social outcasts no one without friends. Where no one is alone.

That is the American country town. As near a paradise as this earth can provide.

To be a part of such a community is a privilege. To perform a service for its kindly people week after week is the even greater privilege that comes to every editor of a country community newspaper.

He records the arrival of little Mary Jones and the joy of her parents. He has a mention of her when she enters the first grade in school. He prints a brief story of her parties. He records her name as a graduate from the grade school and when she enters high school, again when she goes away to college, and then welcomes her home when her college days are over. He carries in his columns the announcement of her engagement to Sam Coles and a column or more about the wedding and the establishment of her new home.

He prepares with a loving heart a tribute for Grandma Goodman when she passes to the great beyond.

He records from week to week the comings and goings of the people of the community without distinction as to class or social standing. They are all people of the community, all of equal merit.

His job and his privilege is to protect and promote the interests of such a town and such people—a job when well done that is worth having.

May America keep and preserve her country communities, where kindness and friendships and real culture reign.—Where no one is alone.—Publishers Auxiliary.

Don't Sit On The Stool

Here is an item that will be interesting (though unpleasant to contemplate, perhaps) to the merchants of Montevallo.

A whole truck load of catalogs from a well known mail order house were distributed through the mails this week a copy going to every mail box in our rural areas, and doubtless to most of the folks in town too.

The mail was so heavy with them that some of the carriers are reported to have made deliveries in relays or some such manner.

Anyway, the point is the catalogs are out. It is the manner in which the mail order house advertises and the means by which they get business.

Those fellows are not "sitting on the stool waiting for the cow to back up to them."

What shall we do about this, local merchants? We need that money to stay in Montevallo instead of going to far away places. You have a better chance to sell merchandise to our neighbors on the farms than has the mail order house, if you will get busy "sit on the stool and wait for the cow and do it. But you can't do it if you to back up to you."

—Montevallo Times.

"I Hereby Resolve"

It's New Year's—1940!

It's time to reminisce—remember year ago today? Remember the high lights? When you hit bottom? What takes you made? Dreams you dreamed, realized, and forgot? Remember friends? School? Graduation? What School again?

And now it's all over. The slate has been wiped clean and we're ready to travel the same road again—not the same, for now our hopes, dreams, ambitions are greater than ever before.

Happy New Year to everyone in the ALABAMIAN staff! We'll find life to the fullest of expectations.

Still Comin' Through

The State Chamber of Commerce press agent Harold Fisher, relates on a trip from Montgomery to Birmingham, he counted 39 foreign out-of-state automobile tags in distance of approximately 40 miles between Clanton and the Jefferson County line.

"This," says The Alabama Journal in commenting thereon, "is taken mean that the state's advertising promotion campaign is having substantial results and that we are now living and will continue to have visitors from other states than before."

There have never been so many foreign automobile tags seen in Tusloosa as during the past few weeks. Whether it's the war, or the advertising campaign undertaken by Alabama or something else, the cars are welcome.—Tuscaloosa News.

That Musty Old Refrain Persists

Still persisting as the loudest among the accusations against Roosevelt administration is the old refrain that it is putting a brake on private enterprise, that the Government is interfering with business, preventing recovery. And every time that it is now uttered business in the shape of an annual declaration of dividend, or announcement of new orders, rises up and smacks the criticism down.

It is not possible in limited space to note all the reports of good that have been made during the months of 1939 and at the close of the year. But two significant items indicative of the character of the year.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., whose real estate board that more than 100,000 would be spent on new trial construction in Pennsylvania in 1940. He said this was the amount that had been spent by the firm in that field in any recent year.

A part of this construction, 100,000 worth, will be undertaken by the Sun Oil Co., whose principal owners the Pews, are among the financial backers of the Republican campaign against the New Deal, spending millions in expanding business in view of favorable conditions, they give "thousands of dollars to the Republican party."

The public that business is throttled and destroyed by the velvet administration. To the public facts will speak louder than words of Republican propaganda show not only how little basis for the complaints of big business but also how little honesty there is in publishing them.

The one thing for America member is it is a European for and by Europeans.

We Asked For And Got

DURING the Fall, we extended an invitation to our 143,000 customers to write us their criticisms or suggestions. We asked them to write frankly—in other words, to heave brickbats if they cared to.

Nearly 7,000 customers wrote, BUT—although we asked for no praise—about 90 percent of them, instead of being critical, were highly commendatory of our employees and the quality of electric service being supplied.

Of the remaining 10 percent, some were justifiably critical, and where the criticism arose from a condition within our control, steps were taken to correct it. Others made suggestions which are being carefully considered. In some cases, criticism resulted from a lack of understanding of problems involved, and it was a pleasure to have the opportunity to discuss personally with our customers the interesting questions raised.

"Only Angels Are Perfect"—however, it is our ideal to supply electric service as nearly perfect as humanly possible. Your criticisms and suggestions may be helpful; for that reason they are always welcome. They may be directed to Dept. 1203, Birmingham, where they will receive personal attention.

Old Age Pension Is Misleading To Aged People of Co.

Much of the publicity found in the daily papers regarding the incorrectly called "Old Age Pension" is misleading to the aged people who are interested in it. There is really no such thing as an "Old Age Pension" but, under the Social Security Act we have Old Age Assistance and Old Age Benefits. For the past several years Old Age Assistance has been received by some of needy aged who have insufficient income and no children who can assist them.

On January 1, 1940, workers whose employers had paid to the Federal Government a per cent of their wages since 1936 could begin to draw a small monthly benefit when they become 65 unless these workers have been employed by individuals or firms who cooperated with the government and paid this tax under the Social Security Act, they are not eligible to receive Old Age Benefits. These benefits have been publicized as an "Old Age Pension" which is not a true statement of fact and it is unfair to our people in that it has raised their hopes of receiving a large monthly income when there is little possibility of this ever happening.—Laverne Journal.

STAPP URGES MORE ACTIVE INTELLIGENT CITIZENSHIP

Points Out That Citizenship Responsibility Is One That Should Not Be Treated Lightly If Proper Government Is To Survive

Editor, Chilton County News:

During the past thirteen years I have talked to the boys and girls in every school in Chilton County, on good active citizenship. I have urged them to take advantage of every opportunity to develop into real men and women capable of analysing problems that are sure to confront them as they reach maturity. I have urged them to qualify to vote as soon as they are twenty-one years of age and to stay qualified and vote. I have tried to impress upon them the importance of studying policies, platforms and candidates and then have the courage to express their convictions with their vote.

The Constitution of the United States is the product of a few great minds assembled in convention more than 150 years ago.

Following the Revolutionary War and the time the Colonies were declared free and independent, the Colonies found themselves in dire circumstances economically and otherwise. Condition were so serious that the Congress of the Colonies provided for a convention of representatives from each of the thirteen colonies for the purpose of drafting a constitution which would strengthen them and under which we might prosper and attain our rightful position with the other countries of the world.

The Honorable George Washington was persuaded to attend and was elected President of the convention. The convention was composed of 55 of America's ablest men including Washington. Records reveal that 51 of the 55 took part in the debates and that 39 signed the final draft. It is generally assumed that Washington took no part in the debates. Early in the convention, it was suggested that tentative, evasive and half-measures would be far more likely to find favor with the people than would any thoroughgoing reform. At this suggestion Washington interposed with a brief but immortal speech, which someone has said "should be blazoned in letters of gold, and posted on the wall of every American assembly that shall meet to nominate a candidate or, declare a policy or pass a law, as long as the weakness of human nature shall endure."

Rising from the President's chair, his tall figure drawn to its full height, Washington exclaimed in tones unwontedly solemn, with suppressed emotion: "Gentlemen, it is too probable that no plan we propose will be adopted. Perhaps another great conflict is to be sustained. If, to please the people we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterward defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair; the event is in the hand of God." From May until the middle of September, those great leaders in that memorable convention labored under the guiding hand of Almighty God and produced a Constitution which has stood for more than 150 years with only 19 amendments and none of those revolutionary.

The ancient wisdom never knew the meaning of citizenship. Rome attached some significance to it, but Democracy found expression of citizenship. (I refer to Democracy in the broad sense of the word, that is a government, of the people, for the people and by the people.)

In our Democratic form of Government to be a citizen is a tremendous privilege. The poorest man has the same power with his vote as the richest. Citizenship in America gives to us the right to advocate policies, platforms and candidates. Our Declaration of Independence set before the world four great truths, which were declared to be self-evident; first, that all men are created equal; second, that they have inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; third, that governments are instituted among men to secure these rights; fourth, that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

Upon these four pillars rests our Government; but if we are to continue to enjoy these blessings of liberty which we love and believe in; if we are to continue to enjoy our freedom of speech, our freedom of press, our freedom of assembly, I believe that it is vital that we assume our responsibilities and duties. Among our responsibilities and duties are the following:

1. To study policies, platforms and candidates that we may be able to cast an intelligent ballot.
2. To practice Democracy by voting.

Statistics show that approximately 18 per cent of men and women 21 years old and over vote. We know that many of that distressingly small percent vote, not their convictions but as they are directed by some group, clique or employer thru fear from threat of loss of job or promise or otherwise. I think that it is well that the 1939 regular session of Alabama Legislature passed Act Number 209 which provides that in future elections in Alabama, a seal shall be placed over the number on the ballot in the presence of the voter before it is placed in the ballot box and that it shall be a penitentiary offense to tamper with the seal except in case of contests. This will prevent watchers, at time ballots are being tabulated, from determining how individuals voted.

3. To condemn enemies of Democracy among which are: (a) selfishness. You and I have seen those whom we have elected to responsible places do things for their own self-gain with, apparently, no regard for, expense to, or the welfare of, the governed Group and clique control; (c), Political racketeering. We have seen and known of people seeking offices, in various units of governments, seek and get money from manufacturers and jobbers on the promise that if and when elected the purchases for the unit of government would be made from said company or individual making the donation of money to be used for corrupt and undemocratic practices. This should be condemned.

4. Another responsibility is that we be vigilant, alert and courageous. Weigh questions carefully and when we are convinced, have the backbone to back our convictions.

The Registration Board will be in session at the Court House in Clanton, January 22 to 31. If you know of any young people who have attained the age of 21 or any new residents of the county and who have not registered, urge them to register and qualify before February 1 and then to stay qualified that they may at all times in the future be able to have an active voice in maintaining the form of Government which those great leaders had

A BALANCED BUDGET

ALABAMA'S budget, thanks to our state constitution, cannot be unbalanced. If the cost of activities exceeds actual income, then these activities must be cut down. When state revenue is low, the activities of the schools, health department, and other public services are curtailed and their efficiency impaired.

The beer industry of Alabama pays more than $600,000 annually to the state—and a like amount to counties and cities. This revenue aids in keeping our State's even financial keel.

If you drink beer, won't you help insure this income by patronizing only reputable, law-abiding retail beer outlets?

Congregational Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Arnett, for more than 28 years missionaries in India, will be in Thorsby on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Meetings will be held in the Church and at the Institute at the Church at 7:00 o'clock Wednesday evening and at the Institute on Thursday at the Chapel hour—8:30 A.M. It is hoped, also, that Mrs. Arnett will speak to the members of the Ladies Guild in the Institute dining room at their regular meeting on Thursday at 2:00 P.M.

Mr. Arnett has been General Secretary of the India S. S. Union as a worker in this field. Mr. Arnett has been associated with all Mission Boards and Churches working in that great field. The public is cordially invited. A silver offering will be taken at the meeting on Wednesday to care for the travel expense of these visitors.

In spite of the cold our attendance at all services on Sunday was up to the average. Our officers and leaders greatly appreciate this indication of interest and loyalty. A fine text from Revelation reads—Rev. 2:10 last clause "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee the crown of life" and Jesus promised rich rewards to those who are "faithful in the least things." Everyone come again next Sunday and bring some non-going church friend with you.

Regular services Sunday, January 28th. Sunday School at 9:45. Morning worship and sermon at 11:00. Sermon theme: "Chosen and Ordained Men and Women." Christian Endeavor prayer meeting at 6:20. (Missionary Service). Leader, Miss Jeanette Plant. Evening service at 7:00. Sermon theme, "The Sabbath Made For Man."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. A. J. WILLIAMS

The sweetest mother and grandmother has just gone. God and His Angels have prepared for her a place in that sweet home. We on earth pray and trust that we may shake her hand.

We all here on earth with broken hearts pray and trust that we will meet her in that land where we will never part.

Grandmother had many friends and loved ones, but she has gone to that land where there will never be an end.

On January 15th the Angels came after her and if we live we will see that day again, and we pray and trust that we shake Grandmother's hand. She is gone but not forgotten—the sweetest Grandmother I ever had, and that is why I feel so sad.—Written by Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Williams.

Surviving are three sisters; one son, Mack Parrish, Clanton; four daughters, Mrs. A. N. Minor, Clanton; Mrs. Martha Powell, Clanton; Mrs. S. P. Mims, Clanton and Mrs. Henry Easterling. Fourteen grandchildren and seven great grandchildren also survive.

Pallbearers were Dr. W. L. Parrish, S. M. Devaughn, G. C. Armstrong, L. E. Gentry, J. M. Parrish and G. F. Harris.

IN MEMORY OF LLOYD F. WARD

In memory of our dear loved one, Lloyd, who left us nine months ago today. We cannot say and will not say that he is dead. He just passed away with a cheery smile and a wave of the hand. He has wandered into an unknown land. We think of him as faring on as dear, and his love up there as his love down here. Though we know he is at rest in that great home of the blessed—By the family, Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Ward.

Many Insects Have Five Eyes

Many insects, including ants, bees and wasps, have five eyes—two compound eyes and three ocelli, or simple eyes, reports the Better Vision Institute. The compound eyes are usually large and well developed. The three simple eyes in ants are usually well developed and form a triangle on the back of the head known as the ocellar region. Just how this double set of eyes are for distinguishing movement near at hand and that the ocelli are used like a thermometer in detecting differences in light and dark.

Although the ants stand out among the insects as having the best developed supplementary ocelli (probably because they go from darkness to light as they go in and out of their nests in the ground), other insects have one, two or even three well developed ocelli in addition to their two compound eyes. The hover fly, for example, (which many persons might mistake for a wasp or bee) has well developed ocelli that are plainly visible.

There are 15,000 Indians in North Carolina.

Another Alabama school house was destroyed by fire Saturday at Henagar in DeKalb County.

Clara Mullins Circle Met Monday

The Clara Mullins Circle met Monday night, at the home of Mrs. J. E. Edgar. The program was presided over by Mrs. Ira Smith. Mrs. Burton Mullins brought us news from the Missionary Bulletin. Mrs. Joe Edgar told how a Japanese family turned to Christ and Mrs. Joe Mullins spoke of clinic cases in rural Mexico.

A welcomed visitor was Mrs. W. M. Polk. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Circle Six Met Monday With Mrs. Mullins

Circle Six of the Clanton Baptist Church met last Monday at the home of Mrs. John Mullins for their monthly business meeting. Mrs. Frank Scott gave the devotional which was most interesting as she used the W.M.U. watchword as her topic.

Business for the month was discussed and committees for the year appointed. After the business session everyone enjoyed a very delightful social hour.

Musical Club Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Clanton Music Appreciation Club was held January 16th at the home of Mrs. Edwin Mullins in Clanton, according to a report by the secretary.

Announcement by a special committee headed by Mrs. Erle Ellis of plans for a Clanton Club broadcast from the Jefferson Davis Hotel over W.S.F.A. in Montgomery scheduled for 4:00 o'clock P.M. on Wednesday, January 24th highlighted the business session. A vocal solo by Mrs. Ellis and a piano duet by James Duke Hefflin and Mrs. Ellis, a violin solo by Miss Lillian McKee comprise the program for the broadcast. Mrs. Reid Mullins is to announce the numbers; Mrs. Thelma White Dunlap will be the accompanist.

The acceptance of bids to membership in the Club by Mrs. Burton Mullins and Mrs. Curry Thomas was announced.

The program leader for the afternoon was Mrs. Reid Mullins. The first number was a piano solo by James Duke Hefflin, then next appeared Mrs. Sophia Jones, who contributed a paper, "The Life of Jose Turburi." This was followed with a piano duet played by Mrs. Erle Ellis and Mr. James Duke Hefflin. The program having been completed, Club members and guests were served a salad plate and a fruit beverage by the hostess.

Regular Club members attending the meeting include: Mrs. George McCain, Mrs. J. C. Jones, Mrs. Grady Hefflin, Mrs. J. J. Hayes, Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, Mrs. Reid Mullins, Mrs. J. T. Searcy, Mrs. C. N. Parnell, Miss Lillian McKee, Mrs. W. A. Willis, Mrs. Erle Ellis, Mrs. S. D. Sturkie and Mrs. Edwin Mullins.

JOHNSTON-NIVENS

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nivens of Clanton announce the marriage of their daughter, Hazel, to Ralph Johnson. The wedding took place at the home of Rev. and Mrs. O. A. Davis Saturday, January 20th at 8:00 o'clock in the evening. Rev. Davis performing the ceremony in the presence of a few friends. After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home to their friends in Mrs. Fannie Latham's apartment.

Mrs. T. C. McSwain and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford spent last Thursday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Hefflin Honors Mrs. Ellis With Miscellaneous Shower

At her home in Clanton, Mrs. Grady Hefflin entertained Wednesday, January 17, 1940, at a miscellaneous shower, in honor of Mrs. Erle Ellis, nee Kathryn Foss.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. E. E. Upchurch. Receiving the guests were Mrs. Grady Hefflin, who wore a gown of black crepe; the bride was lovely in a gown of pale blue tulle. Her only jewelry was a necklace of rhinestones. Her corsage of Taisman roses and gladioli. Mrs. John T. Ellis, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of black crepe; and Mrs. C. E. Fortenberry of Montgomery, a former classmate of the bride, who wore black tulle.

Appropriate decorations in the bride's chosen colors were used on the serving table which was covered with a beautiful lace cloth and decorated at the corners with bows of white tulle fastened with clusters of white narcissus. A centerpiece of peach gladioli and white narcissus accented with delicate ferns flanked by tall white taper in crystal holders. From the chandelier above the table miniature silver and white umbrellas were shown.

MRS. JULIA E. LAWLEY

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia E. Lawley, age 89, who died at her residence at Jemison at 10:35 Friday, January 19, were held at 2:30 P.M. Saturday from the Spigner Funeral Parlor conducted by Rev. Homer Carroll. Interment was in the Clanton cemetery with Spigner in charge.

Mrs. Lawley was for a number of years a resident of Clanton. She died following an illness of several weeks. She was the widow of the late Jim Lawley.

Surviving are one brother, D. O. Robinson of Tuscaloosa; three nephews, Grady Robinson, Jemison; J. P. Robinson, Birmingham; E. J. Robinson, Birmingham; nine nieces, Mrs. M. Thompson, Mrs. L. M. Matthews, Mrs. Lucy Crossley, Mrs. Annie Reynolds and Mrs. C. O. ed down from a bower of white and narcissus.

The bride's chosen colors of white and white were also carried out in refreshments which were served by Mrs. John Higgins, Miss Ann C. Smith, and Miss Mary Fra Duke.

Incidental piano music was furnished throughout the afternoon by W. E. Huddleston. Mrs. C. E. Fortenberry, of Montgomery, sang a group of vocal solos. Miss Frances Ellis, Mr. James Duke Hefflin presented special piano numbers.

The bride's book, in which the guests registered, was kept by Mrs. Christiansa Bosworth, of Thorsby. Guests were shown into the gift registry by Mrs. A. E. Reagan, Mrs. Ann Willis, and Miss Della Latham.

MRS. GRAVES IMPROVES

Word comes from the bedside of Mrs. Dixie Bibb Graves, wife of Senator Bibb Graves, and former United States Senator from Alabama, that she is regarded as definitely out of danger from the serious attack of typhus fever from which she has been suffering. Widespread sympathy has been expressed from over the state for Mrs. Graves during this illness.—Alabama Journal.

They "Clicked"

"I don't think she knew they'd click, and fasten," said the Montgomery deputy who was called to take handcuffs off his mother Monday night.

The story went that the lady there's always one in the house—presented her guardian with an interesting play pretty (the handed) and the good lady had slipped it on to show how they worked.

There was a realistic click and demonstration became convincing. That was at 8:30.

The deputy, who had been out on a call, returned to his office at 11. The phone had been ringing for 9 time.

"She was rather resigned," explained the liberator. "She had taken her bed with her"—Allen Rankin, Montgomery Advertiser.

MARTHA THOMAS ELLIS JR. G. A. FIRST 1940 MEETING

The Martha Thomas Ellis Jr. G. A. held the first meeting of the new year on last Thursday at the home of leader, Mrs. J. W. Fant.

The meeting, which was a combination business and program, resulted in the election of the following officers to serve for the first half of this year: Warren Wingard, President; W. L. Thomas, Vice President; S. Gowan, Treasurer; Sara Alice Berry, Secretary; Billie Ruth Berry, Reporter; Mary Lee Gray, Chairman of Membership Committee; Elizabeth Wade, Chairman of Social Committee.

A review of the Star Ideas presented as the rays of a flashlight with the having passed their Maiden Test Forward Steps taking part made the major part of the program.

Another interesting feature was story told by the leader about a "Did-der" which made a member want to be an "I Did-der." During the afternoon a scrap book was made to be given to the Central Alabama Hospital.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, January 25, at the home of S. Gowan.

Ten members and one visitor were present.

MRS. SUSIE BAKER

Mrs. Susie Baker, age 67, died at her residence Sunday, January 21. Funeral services were held Monday at 11:30 A.M. at Mt. Springs Church conducted by Rev. Rufus Biler. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery with Spigner Funeral Home in charge. She is survived by one son, L. Baker of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. Pearl Kirkland, Mrs. Kate L. Linton, Mrs. Nettie Noah, all of Clanton.

Pallbearers were E. Jones, Matt Vines, C. M. Wilkerson, C. W. Jones and Floyd Ellison.

MRS. MARGIE PINSON

Mrs. Margie Pinson, age 22, died at her residence at Lay Dam January 21 at 1:00 P.M. Funeral services were held at 3:00 P.M. Thursday at the residence of her sister, Mrs. F. E. Ellison of Clanton, with the Rev. Aaron Parker conducting. Interment was in Harmony cemetery with Spigner Funeral Home in charge.

Surviving are her husband, Herpinson; one son, Chester Lee; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Robinson, Clanton Route 5; one brother, Howard Robinson, Clanton Route 5; four sisters, Mrs. F. E. Ellison, Clanton; Mrs. O. M. Lockhart, Clanton.

Pallbearers were Hugh Melton, Marvin Vines, A. W. Jones, Phil Smith, Charlie Wilkerson and Leonard Hand.

In this cause it being made to appear to the Clerk by the affidavit of the plaintiff, J. P. Payne, and of Lawrence F. Gerald, his attorney at law, that the defendant has absconded and that he conceals himself so that process cannot be served upon him, and that his residence and postoffice address is unknown and cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; that said defendant is over the age of 21 years.

It is, therefore, ordered by the Clerk that publication be made in the Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for three successive weeks, requiring him, the said O. A. Lacey, to demur, plead to, or answer the complaint in this cause by the 8th day of March, 1940 and you are hereby further notified that on the 10th day of January, 1940, there was issued out of this Court a writ of attachment in said cause, which writ of attachment was levied by the sheriff of Chilton County, Alabama, on the 12th day of January, 1940, upon the following described property, as your property, to-wit:

WPA Offices To Be Consolidated

Consolidation of WPA area offices in Montgomery and Andalusia, effective February 1 has been announced by W. G. Henderson, state administrator.

Offices in Montgomery, Mobile, Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Gadsden, Decatur and Jasper will be known as district headquarters, instead of area offices, effective February 1, also.

The consolidated Montgomery headquarters will direct operations in Autauga, Barbour, Bullock, Butler, Chambers, Chilton, Coffee, Coosa, Conecuh, Covington, Crenshaw, Dale, Dallas, Elmore, Escambia, Geneva, Henry, Houston, Lee, Lowndes, Macon, Montgomery, Pike, Russell, and Tallapoosa.

POTATO SWAP PLAN IS GOING FORWARD

AUBURN, ALA.—Lyle Brown, Extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, announces that the "second" step in the program for swapping North Alabama and South Alabama Irish potato seed will take place in mid-January. This program to keep Irish potato seed money in the state is receiving good support from both farmers and agricultural workers, he pointed out.

Last spring farmers in North Alabama secured from Baldwin County potato seed from the spring crop to grow their own fall crop, with a view to sending seed back to South Alabama for the spring crop this year, according to Brown. Experiment station results have indicated that these North Alabama seed will give as good results as seed grown in Western States.

"These South Alabama seed were selected from fields where the crop was grown from the highest yielding and cleanest Western certified seed, he said. The resulting yields were most encouraging, with the South Alabama seed giving higher yields in practically all cases and as much as double those from home grown seed in some cases. This was partially because of a longer rest period before replanting, which is very important for Irish potatoes.

These fall grown potatoes from the South Alabama seed were inspected and certified by the State Department of Agriculture and growers in Baldwin and Escambia Counties will have about 15 acres in ten or twelve demonstration plantings this spring. It is expected that, as a result of the good performance of these South Alabama seed, there will be many more secured by North Alabama farmers for this fall's crop.

A TRUE CONFESSION

I have 2 boys married; they have 2 girls apiece. I have 2 girls married, which has three. I have 2 boys in the Army, and one in the CCC; one boy that wants to be 2 girls at home with me; 2 grandchildren lie asleep. In all, how many have I?

Now if you are done, you find wife and me make 21; 2 daughters-in-law, nice and kind; 2 sons-in-law, not far behind. I am 47, my wife is 49. We live south of M. & O. Dixie Line.

"I learn a lesson, from this true confession; how you love and cheer one another, for we want to be your sister and brother—Fonza S. Headley and wife.

SPECIAL COUNTIES NAMED FOR AAA PROGRAM IN 1940

AUBURN, ALA.—Extension of commercial peanut counties and the addition of commercial potato and vegetable counties under the 1940 AAA farm program was announced here today by A. W. Jones, state administrative officer. Under the program there will be two commercial potato counties, seven commercial vegetable counties and 30 commercial peanut counties, he said.

Jones says any farmer who produces more than three acres of vegetables for market will be given an allotment and allowed to produce all of the vegetables possible on that acreage without penalty. Over planting of allotment will draw penalties, however. Any farmer producing less than three acres will not be given an allotment, and therefore, will not be subject to penalty, he said.

Commercial vegetable counties are: Baldwin, Blount, Cullman, Houston, Jefferson, Mobile and St. Clair. Commercial potato counties are Baldwin and Escambia.

The AAA officer said provisions of the AAA program which state that any county which produces more than 300 acres of peanuts for market will be classified as a commercial peanut county, has necessitated the extension of commercial peanut counties from 17 to 30. Allotments will be given to all farmers producing market peanuts in each of the 30 counties.

Questions and Answers on W. P. A.

1. What is the WPA?

The Works Projects Administration is that part of the Federal Works Agency which conducts a program of useful public works, in cooperation with State and local governments, in order to provide work and wages for the needy able-bodied unemployed. The State and local governments plan and sponsor various projects, and the WPA helps to operate them.

2. What other organizations, besides the WPA, are included in the Federal Works Agency?

The Public Buildings Administration; the Public Roads Administration; the Public Works Administration (PWA); and the United States Housing Authority (USHA). (See question 65.)

3. Does the WPA give relief without work?

No Direct relief, where given, is provided by State and localities.

4. Why does the Federal Government give work to the able-bodied needy unemployed, instead of direct relief?

This policy was adopted in the conviction that work is better than direct relief—because work preserves the skills and self-respect of the workers and makes them fit to return to private industry; because our communities are greatly in need of the public projects on which the unemployed are set to work; and because work projects bring a valuable return to the communities and the Nation for money expended in assisting the unemployed.

5. What is a WPA project?

It is any useful public work on which the Federal Government and some tax-supported public body have agreed to cooperate, through the WPA, in order to provide work for the needy unemployed. The project is a community or State enterprise which the WPA helps to carry out; the completed project belongs to the community or State.

6. Are WPA projects planned locally or federally?

All are planned by such local sponsors as city councils, county commissioners, and boards of education, or State agencies; except a small number planned and sponsored by other Federal agencies than the WPA. (See Question 65-p. 26, 11. 9-22.)

7. What is the sponsor of a WPA project?

The sponsor of a WPA project is a State, municipal, or other governmental agency which proposes that the WPA assist it in carrying out a local public improvement or public service. Plans and specifications for the work are submitted by the sponsor. The proposed work must be work which the sponsor has legal authority to do. Since the WPA must use its funds largely for wages, the sponsor must agree to provide most of the necessary materials and equipment. The sponsor's share of the total cost of a project is correspondingly larger when the local improvement desired by the community requires large quantities of material or equipment.

8. On what basis does the WPA approve a proposed project?

There must be needy unemployed workers in the locality with the skills required for doing the work. The project must be on public property. It must be socially useful. It must not be a part of the regular work of the sponsoring agency, such as should be wholly financed out of its own regular funds. And most of the Federal funds requested must be used for wages.

9. Does work begin on a WPA project as soon as it is approved?

Not necessarily. Communities are encouraged to maintain a reserve of approved projects so that there will be no delay in starting a new project when it is needed to provide employment.

10. What are the chief kinds of work done by the WPA?

The proportions of WPA funds spent on different types of work up to July 1939 were as follows:

- 37 per cent for highways, roads, and streets—of which a large proportion are farm-to-market roads.
- 12 per cent for education, library projects, statistical surveys, recreation, and similar white-collar and professional projects.
- 10 per cent for construction and rehabilitation of public buildings—schools, hospitals, courthouses, recreation buildings, etc.

10 per cent for sewer systems and other public utilities.

10 per cent for parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, and other outdoor recreation facilities.

8 per cent for sewing projects (which employ about half of all women WPA workers).

4 per cent for conservation projects—forestation, erosion control, irrigation, and water control.

2 per cent for new municipal airports and the enlargement and improvement of old ones, and transportation and navigation projects.

2 per cent for sanitation projects, other than sewers, such as elimination of stream pollution and eradication of mosquitoes and other pests.

2 per cent for music, art, theater, and writers' projects.

3 per cent for all other types of projects.

The WPA also does emergency work in times of flood, storm, and other disasters. It is able to supply a large force of workers quickly to meet an emergency. For the purpose of supplying such help, WPA projects are immediately closed in the disaster area and the workers are made available for rescue and rehabilitation work. Although men perform most of the heavy or dangerous tasks, frequently many women WPA workers serve as emergency cooks, nurses, and helpers. Rescue work, the moving of families from danger, care for the homeless, the distribution of food and clothing, the reconditioning of water mains and other public utilities, the removal of debris from public roads, and the work of restoring sanitary conditions—all these tasks fall largely on WPA workers. When in 1938 a hurricane struck New England, 100,000 WPA workers were immediately mobilized and thrown into the work of rescue, relief, and restoration. During and after the Mississippi and Ohio floods of 1937 the WPA gave the same kind of help to stricken communities.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

An artist drew two pictures of the same mountainside. In one picture he only used one color. As I looked upon that picture it was dark and unattractive. The artist used all the colors of the mountain in his other picture and when I turned to look upon it, the colors were so numerous and so perfectly blended that it was a thing of reality and beauty. One color will not make a picture. One note will not make a song. If all the days were sunshine, we would become vexed with them. The best in us is woven into beauty when we meet with the contrasting moods of life God has ordained that life should be varied and that is what makes it a thing of beauty. Do not complain when you have your joys and your sorrows, God is just painting the picture of your life.

In Brussels there is a church that was erected to the memory of a good woman. The story is told that one night this woman went out on a mission of mercy and that the devil saw her with her light, and to stop her, he drew near and blew out the light. She stumbled on in the darkness, determined to carry out her purpose, and all the time she was praying for light. An angel lighted her lantern and the devil blew it out again. This continued until the devil was winded and he could not blow it out any more. Then the good woman went on and did her deed of mercy. Faint hearts that do not resist the evil of life will soon be mastered by them, but that one who stands up and fights and prays at the same time will soon gain a victory over the world, the flesh and the devil. If you go down once, get up and try again. If the devil blows out your light, pray to God and the angels will give you more light.

At the hatchery the chicks were ready to be removed to the brooder. The trained care taker lifted them out tenderly, placing them on a larger platter. Then he ran his hands over them, knocking them down. The little chicks that jumped up after being knocked down were removed to the brooder, but those little weaklings that lay there and kicked, they were pushed aside as culls. In other words, the little chicks that did not possess the life and the fighting qualities of life, to get up when they were knocked down, there was no use to place them in the brooder. Learn from this the truth that no one need expect success easily. If we are knocked down, get up and get up without delay. If you fail to do this you may be just a cull, you may be counted out of the fight.

In hunting moose we are told that one should paddle his boat a distance from the shore and remain there in silence for another hour. Hour after hour he calls softly and waits. Then he will hear the faint answer of a moose. To find his game he must be silent and wait. The same method must be used for one to find God. We pray and then rush out to business or pleasure and we are so noisy that we drive God away. Enter into thy closet and pray. Enter. Be still and know that I am God. If you want to find God when you pray spend some time in expectant silence and waiting. In that quiet moment you will surely hear the voice of God calling to you.

A preacher was spending the night at our home. He wanted to catch a train at three-thirty the next morning. The alarm clock was called into service and being wound and the alarm placed at the rising moment, we went to bed satisfied. The next morning right on the minute the clock called our guest, telling him that it was time for him to meet his train. The preacher did not argue with the clock. He arose and was soon on his train. When you joined the church you set the alarm clock of your soul for the hour of worship on the holy Sabbath. What are you doing about this call. The clock of your conscience rings out at every service. I fear that many are arguing with the voice that calls them into God's temple. They refuse to arise and go. I fear that many will miss the train to glory and all because they will not be loyal to their conscience and to their God.

New Industries For Alabama

Montgomery, Ala.—Six new industries, involving a capital outlay of more than $100,000 and providing employment for several hundred Alabama workers, were established in Alabama during December, it is shown in the monthly industrial survey of the Alabama State Chamber-of Commerce.

The new concerns are located in Conecuh, Mobile, Cherokee, Limestone and Etowah Counties, the latter obtaining two new concerns during the month.

At the same time the State Chamber announced expansions had been started or completed by three existing industries in the state.

Industrial developments during December included the following:

New Concerns
The Standard Ribbon Corporation which has plants in New York and Pennsylvania, will open a branch plant at Brewton. A payroll of more than $50,000 annually will result from the new concern.

The Cleaners Hanger Company, of Detroit, will open a branch plant at Gadsden. The new plant will use several thousand tons of Alabama wire a year and will have a capacity of about 15,000 hangers annually.

A new plant built at a cost of approximately $15,000 has been placed in operation by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Mobile.

A new concern—Ward & Ingram—has started operation of a meat curing plant at Centre. The new plant will provide a market for hogs throughout the year.

Formation of the Acme Shuttle Release Company to manufacture a newly invented textile shuttle has been announced at Gadsden.

Establishment of a silk hosiery mill at Athens to be operated by students of Athens College has been announced by Dr. E. R. Naylor, college president. The first unit will cost approximately $50,000.

Plant Expansions
Installation of an all-electric hatchery by the Farmers Bonded Warehouse at Evergreen has been announced by C. C. Millers, manager. The hatchery will use only eggs from blood-tested flocks.

Installation of new equipment and renovation of the entire plant of the Crowned Mills, near Clanton, is announced by A. C. White, manager. The plant is a food and feed mill.

Construction of a new building to provide additional warehouse facilities at its Montgomery plant is announced by officials of Southern Dairies.

Explosion of a water tank in Tuscaloosa, wrecked a five-room house and injured three persons.

The Short quadruplets were born in Winston, and not in Walker County, as was stated at first.

Work Soon To Begin Widening Bee-Line Highway

Announcement has just been made by State Highway Director Chris J. Sherlock, that with all needed right-of-way at last obtained work will begin within the next few days, on elimination of one of the most dangerous hazards to motorists on Alabama's entire highway system—the present "switchback" and "hair-pin curve" route followed by the U. S. 31 (Montgomery-Birmingham Highway) up the North side of Shades Mountain on the outskirts of Birmingham.

This present tortuous, dangerous section of the principal motor traffic artery extending through the State from North to South is to be eliminated completely and permanently by a relocation project. The relocated section, 2.3 miles in length cutting out the "hair-pin" and "switchback" hazards will extend from the last "hair-pin" at the South end near the top of the mountain, northward to adjoin the present pavement near the Sales Road. It will include in addition a series of fills and cuts, a modern bridge over Shades Creek, the new roadway will provide four traffic lanes, the pavement extending 20 feet on each side of a raised dividing-strip ranging from 4 to 6 feet in width.

The undertaking, regarded as one of the outstanding improvements of the State Highway system in recent years, will be a WPA project financed on the basis of 73 per cent of the cost to be paid by the Federal Government and 27 per cent by the State. The bridge over Shades Creek will be erected by the State without WPA aid. At the peak of construction work a minimum of 350 WPA workers will be employed. As soon as all grading operations are finished, a bituminous surface treatment will be placed on the new section. It is estimated that the work will be completed in the Summer of 1941.

This individual project features a program of highway paving and improvement in Jefferson county. WPA funds, that is to involve the expenditure of approximately $1,000,000. The complete program will be made public as soon as a few remaining minor details with reference to individual jobs have been cleared up.

Improvement on the Shade's Mountain section of U. S. 31 is of exceptional importance in view of the fact that this is one of Alabama's principal arterial highways, and the main North and South motor route through the State. Trailers will be able to proceed with dispatch and ease over the located section, doing away with delays and inconveniences now encountered because of the necessity for trailer vehicles having to use the paved by-pass around the existing "hairpins" and "switchbacks" where curves are so abrupt that no truck can successfully negotiate them. Difficult for automobiles and non-trailer vehicles to traverse in perfect weather these curves are extremely dangerous during or after falls of snow or ice that are not infrequent in that part of the State during winter months.

Ninety per cent of the total cost of the project is being paid by the Federal Government under other names than the names of the funds.

Gift to World's Refugee Children

This bus, specially equipped to serve as freight or passenger transport, or as a soup kitchen, is the first of several which will be used in France to aid refugee children for whom the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children is caring. It is the gift of friends in America to the refugee children of the world. Originally established for the benefit of children in the bombed areas of Spain, the Foster Parents' Plan has now been extended to include Polish and Finnish refugees. Some 12,000 children are being cared for in nine colonies near Biarritz, France. Besides the project is E. G. Musgerger, executive secretary of the Plan.

"Little Colonel" Beams "Miss Dixie" Is Better

(Atticus Mullin in Montgomery Advertiser)

The round face and rosy cheeks of the Little Colonel were ablaze with color and his eyes were twinkling as he stepped briskly into the postoffice building Monday morning. A friend accosted him to know why he looked so happy, so radiant and why the beams on his beaming countenance.

"Well, it's the first day I have been downtown since the new year began," he said. "Mrs. Graves is much better this morning and I decided I could get away from her bedside for a few minutes at least."

Since Monday morning, when Gov. Graves was at the postoffice building, Mrs. Graves has continued to improve and is now regarded as being out of danger.

The whole State was interested in the condition of Mrs. Graves. On the streets and wherever the writer went while Mrs. Graves was so gravely ill the question was asked, "have you heard how Mrs. Graves is today?"

And politics and political differences were forgotten in the general anxiety over Mrs. Graves's condition. Her recovery no doubt, would be much more rapid if she just knew how many men and women in Alabama were wishing for her recovery. No wonder the Little Colonel beamed Monday! He had a mighty good reason and the whole State has a reason to beam over the same thing.

Statistics for 1938 show that one out of every 11.6 persons in Alabama owned an automobile.

Headache, Bad Breath May Be Your Warning

The sea's thrilling S.O.S. means "Help is needed now!" And, so do most of those headaches, that biliousness, coated tongue, or bad breath which are often signs of constipation.

To disregard these symptoms may bring on a host of other discomforts, from sluggish bowels, sour stomach, belching, loss of appetite. See how much better you feel the day after taking spicy, all vegetable BLACK DRAUGHT. By simple directions, it acts gently, cleanses promptly, thoroughly. Its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic laxative; imparts tone to lazy bowels muscles. Next time try BLACK DRAUGHT.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN DECORATOR

By

Helen Koues

New Year is the age-old time to make new resolutions

Why not resolve to redecorate your house? Now don't lift your hands in horror and say—"now, with a war on, spend money on redoing a house!" Yes, do it now. Do it right. Do it inexpensively—and here is how. You probably have some sort of piece of furniture which needs attention, or a "pet hate" of a piece of furniture that you long to get rid of, or the upholstery on a sofa and chair is shabby beyond words.

Why not start with any one of these as a point of departure for new decorating? One of the great mistakes people make is, that they think unless they can do a room over entirely, they can do nothing. Quite wrong. It's amazing what a transformation can be made with a few strategic changes. But first, when you are redecorating gradually, it is important that you think out what you want the room to be, to be ultimately, as a whole, and work toward it gradually. In other words, have a complete scheme and stick to it, but be content to get what you want, little by little, as you can afford to do so. Each new thing or improvement will be a help in the room and a "job begun is half done" the old adage tells us.

Let's take the case of the shabby sofa and chairs. Have new slip covers made for them, or make them yourself, instead of upholstering them. Two things are involved in choosing the material: type of room and the color scheme. Today, however, with the splendid modern materials on the market, and the trend of modern decorating, which, like the younger generation, is much more independent than the hide-bound rules of even a few years back, is to pick a rough surfaced self-toned fabric, in brown, or blue, or green which will harmonize with your present room as well as your future redecorated room. Sofa and easy chairs, being large surfaces, can well be of plain material and are No. 1 in your plan, with the window draperies of etretone or of chintz of a gay pattern.

Decide, let us say, that your future room is to have tinted walls—pale blue, rose cream, pale straw, being smart color trends—paint now if you can; if not make it No. 2 in your plan, and choose the slip cover fabric in a deep dark color of the walls. The carpet or rug of the future will come No. 3 or 4 in your plan, depending on whether you need new window draperies or a new rug the most.

If you have a basic color scheme such as blue, or brown, you will always be able to find figured or striped curtain fabric which will have blue with yellow and rose and green in it, to give the gay pattern you will want in the room. The same fundamental rule is true of the rug. You will have no difficulty in finding one with the right colors in it, either self-toned, or patterned, or a tone of the color you are using, if you want a solid plain color for your floor.

When you buy your window draperies, you will want to cover at least one easy chair with the same material, so leave the recovering of one chair to the future. Also you can at that time cover sofa pillows with the drapery material to tie-in the sofa and windows and balance the pattern in the room.

Gradually will come the replacement of lamps, pictures and ornaments, which you will always select with the thought of the room you ultimately want to have.

There is something you may be able to do right now and that is rearrange your furniture in the style of today, for there is as definite a style in the way furniture is placed in a room, as there is in furniture design, or type of fabrics, or color schemes.

If you have a fireplace here is a suggestion of how to arrange the furniture you now have. If you have a fire place, here is another suggestion. Doing this, and slip covering two or three pieces will definitely start your redecorating. Think about the plan and see if you can't work it out. I know one woman who has done it (and that's myself), and it works beautifully. Now, after ten years, I have just gotten something I have waited for and it's as satisfactory as my visions of it. There is nothing like making a start toward something you want to accomplish.

Securing Homes Through FCA

Financing through units under the supervision of the Farm Credit Administration was responsible for 3,867 Alabama farmers becoming farm and home owners during the period between October 1, 1935, and the end of last year, according to figures made public by Roy L. Thompson, President of the forty-eight states of the nation, "Alabama farmers purchased the second largest number of farms during this four and one quarter year period with credit made available through the Federal Land Bank and the Land Bank Commissioner. This large number of farm purchases involved credit amounting to $5,413,044 which was in addition to the down payments which all farmers made on the properties which they purchased. Last year 516 farms were purchased in Alabama with the assistance of $790,244 of credit obtained through the Land Bank and the Commissioner.

"Broader opportunities for farm ownership were made possible by the 1935 Farm Credit Act and administrative measures of the Farm Credit Administration," Thompson said. The credit assistance supplied by the Bank has produced a group of new owners in every county in the State. Many of these purchasers were tenant farmers who have become land owners for the first time in their lives. These are responsible tenants who had saved some money for the down payment and had the necessary experience and their own equipment for the satisfactory operation of the farm. The Land Bank and Land Bank Commissioner cannot lend to farmers who are unable to pay a portion of the purchase price. However, this financing opens the road to farm ownership for many farmers and tenants who do not have all cash to pay for the farm they want but who have moderate savings with which to meet the requirements of the Land Bank and the Commissioner from whom they obtain the balance of the purchase price. The average amount of credit extended by the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans and the Commissioner for financing of farm purchases has been about $14,000, which in some instances represented about 75 per cent of the value of the property purchased.

"In the entire New Orleans district, including Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi more than 13,000 farm families purchased farm homes with the assistance of Farm Credit Administration financing, obtaining credit amounting to nearly 20 million dollars."

High School Club News Tribunal Orders

(Too Late For Last Week)
Diversified Occupations Club

Tuesday night, January 16th, the Diversified Occupations Club met at the Thomason Hotel for a business meeting. This was to have been a "get-together" meeting for the D. O. members this year and those who graduated last year, but due to different reasons, there were only two of the members of last year present who were Grady Jones and L. P. Vines.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Charles Honeycutt, after which the secretary, Doris Newell, called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. Then, the president turned the meeting over to the Coordinator, Mr. Ben Evans, who introduced the speaker, Judge Raymond Mims. Mr. Mims gave a very educational as well as informational talk on "The Courts of this County," dwelling principally on the Inferior Law Court.

After the program, the Club adjourned and refreshments were served at Upchurch Drug Company to the following:

Mr. Ben E. Evans, Doris Newell, Charles Honeycutt, T. J. Rasberry, James Carl Martin, Dempsey Atchison, L. P. Vines, Grady Jones, James Sims, Kenneth Thompson and the speaker, Judge Mims.

The Sub-Deb Club

Friday evening, January 12, the Sub-Deb Club entertained at a Dance at the City Hall. This was a leap-year, girl-break, dutch date dance and according to reports, everyone enjoyed the novelty of such a dance.

The Hall was decorated in the colors of the Club, blue and white tied in the traditional Friendship bow. At the door each member of the Club received a badge in the same colors with their names on them, while others received ribbons of blue.

There was an immense crowd and guests included the mothers of the sub-deb girls and Mr. and Mrs. R.M. Tucker. The Club wishes to thank Mr. and Mrs. Tucker for their help by officiating at the door.

The Beta Club

The Beta Club at C.C.H.S. is rapidly gaining recognition as an outstanding part of the High School by sponsoring so many projects.

Plans are gradually materializing for the setting up of a Student Council. It is true that this project has been causing a fury of excitement among High School students in past years but the Beta Club is hoping to establish a Senate that will benefit and live in the school for the ensuing years.

A program has been arranged for the chapel period on this coming Monday on the subject, "Student Council in our High School." The program is under the direction of Mr. Patterson Hicks, Doris Newell, Dorothy Arnold and Willodean Stewart.

Large Registration In Dallas County

Announcement that registration books of Dallas County will open January 22 when all who have become 21 years of age since the books last were open, or who otherwise are entitled to register, may apply, was accompanied Saturday by the prediction that the number of persons who will register in the ten day period the books will be open probably will be large.

The reason is that 1940 will be a year of elections, with voters in municipal, county and general elections eager to make their wishes known as to candidates.

Poll tax payments, also a requirement to voting, also are expected to be heavy this year, although the rush has not been felt at the office of Tax Collector H. E. Kendrick where the poll tax is paid.

The poll tax cannot be paid after February 1.—Selma Times-Journal.

NAUVOO QUADRUPLETS ARE FIRST ONES FOR ALABAMA

Birth of quadruplets at Nauvoo, Walker County, was the first on record in Alabama, said the State Health Department.

A search of vital statistics reports, dating back 25 years, revealed no other four-fold birth.

Twins and triplets are not unusual in Alabama. The Health Department recorded 722 sets of twins born in 1938, with 10 sets of triplets the same year. There were 13 sets of triplets born in the state in 1937 and seven in 1936.

A fire at Fort McClellan caused the death of one soldier and injured two others.

Parents Be Given Custody Of Child

Montgomery.—Little Loree Esco, by order of the Alabama Supreme Court is going to live with her Chilton County parents for the first time in six years.

She's 11 now, and Montgomery Circuit Court, which was reversed by the Supreme Court, had given her custody to an aunt, Mrs. Emma (J. C.) Davidson, of Montgomery, with whom Loree had lived since she was 5.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Esco, brought suit to regain custody of their daughter, but Mrs. Davidson, paternal aunt of Loree, contended the father gave her "permanent care custody and control" of the child six years ago, and asserted she had given her all the care and supervision "a child of such tender age needs."

The father denied he had given permanent custody to Mrs. Davidson, but only permitted the child to remain in Montgomery for certain periods.

School Children Are Enjoying Hot Lunches

The school children in the county are being greatly benefited by the hot lunches which are being served in nine schools. These lunch rooms have been made possible by the work of the patrons of the schools, the teachers, the WPA, the Surplus Commodity Corporation, Health Department, Department of Public Welfare and Board of Education which has given a small amount to each school to help with equipment. Miss Lillian McKee is Attendance Supervisor.

These nine lunch rooms serve around 400 free lunches and 600 for five cents each day.

We feel that the Parent-Teacher Associations have done a very fine thing in promoting these lunch rooms. Some teachers report an improvement in the attendance of the children and in their attitudes and ability to learn.

Three of the schools have small kitchens where the lunches are prepared then served on the plates and sent to the classrooms where the children eat at their desks. The others have space enough to seat 30 or 40 children at one time with a teacher in charge eating with each group. The Clanton and Maileville negro schools have built small lunchrooms near the school building space to cook and serve the meals.

Some of the children are coming in contact with foods served differently from what they have known them in their homes. The first day that cabbage slaw was served in one school one little girl was asked why she was not eating her lunch. She said, "They forgot to cook the cabbage." None of the lunch rooms have failed to make enough to pay the expenses, a few have made enough above the cost of the food to add needed equipment. We feel that the hot lunches are a necessary and vital part of the school program and that it should be the goal of every Parent-Teacher Association in the county to have one operating in their school.

Women's Activities Bring Returns

Auburn.—Etna McGaugh, State home demonstration agent of the Alabama Extension Service, in a review of women's activities said that food preservation, home improvement, curb markets, and foods and nutrition were the big accomplishments of farm women in 1939.

At the same time Miss McGaugh said plans of the Extension Service for 1940 would not only make it possible to reach more farm women, but would help in increasing the farm income of the state.

A total of 31,761 home demonstration club members took active part in better home making programs in 1939, and plans are to reach more than 40,000 of the white farm families in 1940, she said.

The home demonstration program reached 10,536 Negro farm women in 35 counties last year and plans are to increase this number to over 14,000 in those 35 counties, and also extend the Negro program into other counties.

Through 18 curb markets sponsored by home demonstration club women, $420,622.17 worth of farm produce was sold. Farm women canned 3,007,291 quarts of food valued at $472,554. This amount was supplemented by year-round gardens, butter and milk, poultry and eggs, pork, beef and truck crops which were valued at thousands of dollars.

In 1939, 16,142 all-cotton mattresses were made by women in 60 counties with a total value of $63,658. This brings the total number of homemade mattresses to 34,762 since the Extension Service started the campaign in 1938.

HEALTH PROJECT IS POPULAR WITH 4-H'ers

AUBURN, ALA.—Being happy is being healthy, believes Elizabeth S. DeLony, girls' State 4-H club leader, who reports that 13,668 4-H club boys and girls of Alabama practiced good health habits in 1939.

Alma Bolling of Perry County and Ira Till of Lowndes County, who were named Alabama's health champions during the past year, were selected first as county champions, then district champions and last State champions before they were awarded a trip to the National Club Congress in Chicago in December. Choosing the healthiest boy and girl among 4-H club members of the state was not easy, according to Miss DeLony. She quotes Dr. B. F. Austin of the State Department of Health who says, "Alabama's Rural Health is improving rapidly each year."

Here are some of the health habits the more than 13,000 club members practice in the 2,364 clubs in Alabama. Each day they brush their teeth twice and wash their hands before each meal. They drink a quart of sweet milk and eat two kinds of vegetables besides potatoes, two kinds of fruit, two servings of whole grain cereals, and two servings of meat, eggs, fish, or dried peas or beans. They also drink six glasses of water daily, starting the day by drinking at least one glass of water before breakfast. Correct posture habits are also observed.

"Health is a very definite part of the Alabama 4-H club program and it is expected that in 1940 still more rural boys and girls will be reached with information on good health habits," Miss DeLony said.

The total number of drivers licenses issued in Chilton County for the fiscal year 1939, ended October 1st, was 6330. The total number of 1940 drivers licenses issued to January 1st was 4391. A total of 31 minerals are found in Alabama in sufficient quantity for commercial development, according to the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Plenty of Potash!

POTASH supplies are adequate. The situation concerning this necessary plant food is very different from that brought about by the last war, when this country was dependent upon imports which were suddenly and completely terminated. During the intervening years, discovery of potash deposits in this country has led to the development of a domestic industry capable of expansion to meet the requirements of American farmers. Therefore, wherever profitable yield and quality of crops demand plenty of potash, the proper amount should be used.

Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil and what fertilizer you should use. See your fertilizer dealer. You will be surprised how little extra it costs to apply enough potash to insure good yields and high quality. Write us for further information and free literature on growing profitable crops.

KIDNAPING

Mrs. Bootle was released unharmed, it was said, after her car was boarded when she was returning from taking her small child to a Macon kindergarten Monday morning.

Well Guarded

The boys, shackled together and escorted by Chief of Macon Police, Ben T. Wilkins; Chief of Macon Detectives, R. L. Miller, and a detective J. P. Newman, grinned good naturedly at questions presented by officers here last night. The full meaning of facing probable charges for armed robbery (a capital offense in Georgia) on charges of driving a stolen automobile across a State line, apparently did not dawn until after the cell doors closed.

In the fingerprint room both cheerfully admitted they had boarded Mrs. Bootle's parked car about 10 A.M. Monday, one opening a door on each side of the car, while Taylor held the cap pistol on its occupant, concealing the red unconvincing handle, in a fold of his jacket.

"We had looked at two or three cars," explained Newton, "but none of them had the keys in them. Mrs. Bootle was just getting in the car in the city limits and it looked easy."

"We got together Sunday night," he said, "and decided to go to Texas."

"A Good Place To Go"

Why Texas? "Well, it just looked like a good place to go."

"But," added Taylor, "we didn't have any idea of sticking up a car Sunday night. Just thought we ought to get one."

"Editor, Chilton County News,
"Clanton, Alabama:
"I would like to write a few words in regards of improvements of working the roads since the Republican administration went out.
"Back in 1925, 1926 and 1927 my father was overseer during those years in Beat 10. I worked under him a great deal during that time, and I cannot remember the number of people living off main public roads that came to my father asking him to repair their roads by graveling or putting in water pipes, and he had to always refuse because during that Republican administration he was not allowed to do any work on any road except public roads. I know of one instance where they slipped a load of gravel on a short road leading to a man's house living off of the public road, and this came very near causing a fight. This man was a Republican, a land-owner, a taxpayer and at times he could not get his car to the main road, and at times you visited him you would have to leave your car on the main road and walk to his home and there were lots of other roads just as bad as that.
"I have worked the roads a great deal during this Democratic administration and know it to be true that there has been water ways built and roads gravelled where it was needed to private homes as well as public roads. If anyone is in any doubt of what I have written go to the people who live on roads leading off main roads and ask them.
"I am glad to see this improvement, since they are taxpayers and are entitled to a way of getting to and from their homes the same as we that live on public roads.
"Respectfully,
"CLAUDE M. DOWNS"

OF INTEREST TO VETERANS

Montgomery.—Of special interest throughout the World War veteran population of Alabama is the efforts now underway for the compilation of the war record and civil record since discharge of every person in the state that served the colors during the dark days of 1917-1918. This information is to be recorded in a great volume and placed in the Department of Archives and History at Montgomery.
These historical records will prove of lasting benefit to the veterans as well as prove of untold advantage in compiling the history of the state, it is pointed out. As for the veterans, many have occasion at various times to refer to their war record in matters pertaining to claims and other

Mitchell Dam To Play All-Stars

The Mitchell Dam Basketball Team will meet the strong Birmingham All-Stars on their home court next Friday night. This is expected to be a game replete with thrills, and Mitchell Dam will do well to hold their own when they face this strong aggregation from the Magic City.

Tuesday night, January 30, the Mitchell Dam team will tackle Bemiston of Talladega on the home court. This team boasts of such stars as Long, and Avery, formerly with the Bevell team.

MITCHELL DAM SUFFERS DEFEAT AT HANDS OF SYCAMORE

After winning twelve consecutive games the Mitchell team suffered defeat in the thirteenth and what proved to be the real unlucky game. The Sycamore boys downed the Dammers by a score of 33-24.

This was a good game, but Mitchell Dam was playing under a handicap. Doc Baker was out due to illness and Cobb was playing for the first time in several weeks.

Mitchell Dam will travel over to Selma Friday night of this week and meet that strong quintet.

Woco-Tiffin Team To Play Thorsby, Selma

The Clanton Woco-Tiffin team continues their winning streak by defeating Buck Creek by a margin of 12 points last Tuesday night. They also downed Calera 64-55 on the following Wednesday night.

To add another victory to the list this team defeated the strong Maxwell aggregation last Friday night on the Mitchell Dam court by a score of 74-64. This was THE game and was replete with action from start to finish. Melton was given credit for 26 points in this game and Tiffin also rang up 26 points.

On Saturday night the locals went to Selma and handed those boys a licking by a score of 46-38.

Tonight (Thursday) this team will play Thorsby at 7:30. The Thorsby boys are one of the strongest teams in this section and a good game is predicted.

Selma Y comes next on Saturday night.

MT. CREEK AGED RESIDENT
PASSED AWAY MONDAY NIGHT

Zakariah Eiland, age 83, passed away at his residence at Mt. Creek Monday night about 9:00 o'clock.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 11:00 A.M. from the Bethelsalem Church conducted by Rev. W. A. Doss. Burial was in the nearby cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Mr. Eiland was one of the county's oldest and most respected citizens. He is survived by his wife and seven sons: Dr. J. D. Eiland of Verbena, W. L. of Deatsville; Sam of Dothan; C. L. of Montgomery; E. H. of Benton Ala.; J. C. of Tuinton, Va.; and three daughters, Mrs. Ruth Bower of New York; Mrs. Calloway of Cooper and Mrs. J. W. Lake of Troy, Ala.

Sons served as pallbearers.

Farm Agent's News

J. W. FANT, County Agent

Seventy-one farmers brought one hundred and eleven work animals to workstock clinics last week and had them examined. Most of these work animals received treatment of one kind or another. Sixty-two of these animals received treatment.

WIAS had teeth which were treated. Ninety-five were given bots treatment.

We are scheduling another group of clinics for next week. We would be glad to see every farmer in reach of one of these clinics bring their workstock and have the veterinarian examine their work animals. There is no obligation for the examination. If you want them treated, the veterinarian will give the needed treatment at half regular price. He will charge $1.00 for treatment of teeth and 50c for bots treatment.

This arrangement has been worked out with the veterinarian for the purpose of saving the farmer money and to give each farmer an opportunity to have his workstock examined to determine the condition they are in before plow time.

Since this work is being done at reduced prices, the veterinarian asks that all work at the clinics be strictly cash.

The schedule for next week is as follows:
Enterprise, C. L. Wilkin's barn—Wednesday at 9:00 to 11:00, a January 31
Shiloh, W. L. Henderson's barn—Wednesday, 2:00 to 4:00, January 31

STAPP ENTERS RACE FOR JUDGE OF PROBATE

HIS RECORD OF LEADERSHIP IS OUTSTANDING; HAS SERVED
CHILTON AS COUNTY AGENT

Chilton County News is this week carrying the formal announcement of C. E. Stapp that he will be a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton County on the Democratic ticket.

This announcement will come as good news to many voters of this county, but is not an announcement unexpected. C. E. Stapp is a man practically every man, woman and child in Chilton County knows personally or has heard of. His record of leadership in the past years is one that is outstanding, and this record is well known in Chilton County. He has served as County Agent of this county and has been in the insurance business in Clanton for the past several months. He has at all times taken an active part in all social and civic activities in Chilton County.

Mr. Stapp had the following to say in making his announcement this week: "I was born and reared on a farm and have loved the farm all my life. After finishing high school I entered our agricultural college at Auburn. During my first year at Auburn I made arrangements that enabled me to work and pay all my expenses the next three years. I worked my way through Auburn in order to help my father send my five sisters to college. "During my four years in the college I took an active part in the college activities. I served two terms as president of one of the two literary and debating societies of Auburn. I served one year as president of the Young Men's Christian Association, during which time it was said we had more character building books as 'The Masochist' or 'The Master' than had ever been observed among the Auburn student body.

"My junior year at Auburn I was elected Class Orator and delivered the Class Oration at our graduation exercises in 1919. I joined the Baptist Church when I was 12 years old and was elected to the Board of Deacons at the age of 16. I served continuously as a Deacon, a part of the time as chairman of the Board and Supt. of the Sunday School, until I was 27 years old, when I joined the Methodist Church. I have served with the exception of five months, as a member of the Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church, being honored at various times with the responsibility of chairman of the Board, Lay Leader, Sunday School teacher and Superintendent. "Before I finished Auburn, I was offered places as County Agent in Alabama and in Missouri, but having already accepted a position as superintendent of a large farm, to begin work upon graduation from Auburn, I carried out my contract for that year then accepted a place with Alabama Extension Service as County Agent. I was County Agent for about seventeen years, during which time I received several promotions, attaining the distinction of being the highest paid County Agent in the State at the time of my resignation from the Extension Service.

"I resigned from the Alabama Extension Service to become manager of a Corporation, capitalized at one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. During my term of service with that company we paid the largest dividend to the stockholders of any like period in the company's sixty years of service. Popular Citizen Will Make Race For Judge

C. E. STAPP

When Deputies Arrest Man--That's Not News; But When Deputies Get Arrested--That's News

You've no doubt heard the saying that when a dog bites a man—that's not news; but when a man bites a dog—that's news. Well, we've never heard of a man biting a dog in this county, but we once carried a story of a squirrel shooting a man.

We could have omitted this story, but a good story is a good story, and so here goes. We are told by reliable parties that our popular deputies Ed Littlejohn and George Murrah were arrested near Thorsby one day this week by a State game warden, charged with shooting doves on a baited field and not having in their possession a plugged gun. It just goes to show that most anything can happen these days— isn't that right, deputies?

Grand Jury To Convene February 5th

A session of the Chilton County Grand Jury has been called for next Tuesday, February 6th, it was announced early this week by Circuit Clerk J. C. Pattillo.

Aside from the routine investigations, nothing of pressing importance is expected to come before this body at this session.

A session of the Chilton County Circuit Court disposed of nineteen cases last week as follows:

Dallas Dickerson, VPL—$50 and costs.
Lonnie McDowell, Public drunkenness—$10 and costs.
Mrs. Albert Thomas, VPL—$50 and costs.
Prude Fuller, Public drunkenness—$10 and costs.
J. C. Headley, Public drunkenness and VPL—266 days.
Samuel Headley, Petit larceny—142 days.
Elzie Mott, Assault and battery—113 days.
John B. Nunn, Carrying concealed pistol—228 days.
Houston Headley, Abusive language—115 days.

Thorsby Lions Hear Institute Principal

Miss Helen Jenkins, principal of Thorsby Institute, was the speaker at the last regular meeting of the Thorsby Lions Club. Miss Jenkins discussed the Institute's background, methods of operation, and its influence on the community.

Since 1907, Thorsby Institute has offered schooling to local boys and girls, and its outstanding record has interested every member of the Thorsby Lions Club.

The program was arranged in connection with the Lions' work with boys and girls. One of the principles of the Lions Club is betterment of the community and promotion of citizenship through education.

The Thorsby Lions are already making plans to assist underprivileged children in the community, although the club has only been organized a short while.

IT'S GIRLS

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hoque announce the birth of twin girls, which have been named Joyce Elaine and Mildred Zane. Mother and babies are doing fine.

Red Cross Still Taking Contributions

Disaster Chairman J. M. Martin is urging the people who can make contributions to the relief fund for the people of the county who are suffering from the extreme cold due to lack of clothing.

Response so far has been reasonably good, Mr. Martin stated. Those planning to contribute clothing or any kind are urged to do so at once. Bring or send your contribution to Mr. Martin's office as early as possible. The sincere appreciation of the local chapter of the Red Cross is extended to those who have contributed so far.

FREEZE CAUSES CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE TO CITY WATER PIPES

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated Monday that the cold spell left many of the City's water pipes damaged to some extent. Workmen of the city crew have been quite busy repairing the damaged lines.

Mayor Jones asked to the News to request that the citizens of the city refrain from building fires around the meters when freezes occur. This, he stated, did little good to relieve the situation, but was very harmful to the meters.

The City received 600 sacks of cement recently to be used on the bridge work below town on the old highway. This cement was part of the Government's share of the project. Work on repairing this bridge washed out some time ago by heavy rains, is now going forward at a rapid rate. No persons appeared in Mayor's Court Monday morning.

LAWRENCE GERALD, JR., GETS LAW DEGREE AT UNIVERSITY

Lawrence F. Gerald, Jr., Clanton young man, last Saturday received his law degree from the University of Alabama Law School, on the termination of the semester.

Lawrence, Jr., is a promising young man. He was graduated from the Thorsby Institute prior to entering the University to study law. His record at the University was outstanding, and it is predicted that he will follow in the footsteps of his father, Lawrence F. Gerald, Clanton attorney and one of the State's most brilliant lawyers.

While at the University Lawrence was a member of the Delta Chi and Phi Alpha Delta, a legal fraternity. Young Gerald will practice law here in the office with his father, it is understood.

J. E. EASTERLING

J. E. EASTERLING SEEKS 2ND TERM AS TREASURER

POPULAR AND EFFICIENT OFFICIAL WILL MAKE RACE FOR SECOND TERM

J. E. Easterling, present County Treasurer and popular young business man, of Clanton announces his candidacy for re-election in this issue of the News.

Well known in Chilton County and with an enviable record for the past services in the position he seeks, J. E. as everyone knows him, is one of the best liked young business men in the County.

In the election of 1936 he led the Democratic ticket and has gained in popularity steadily since.

Efficient, capable and honest, he has devoted himself wholeheartedly to his responsibility and assures the voters of this county that the same faithful service will mark a second term should the people favor him with this honor.

Social Security Representative Here

The News has been requested to announce that a representative of the Social Security Board will be in Clanton at the City Hall every Tuesday until further notice, from 10 o'clock A.M. until 4 P.M., for the purpose of giving information regarding the functions of the Board.

This representative, it was announced, will give information to those who are entitled to the benefits of their social security—those who have become 65 years of age and have been registered under the Act. The public is asked to keep this in mind.

Rat Extermination Campaign Set For February 5th

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announces this week that twenty men and a supervisor have been assigned to go to work in Clanton on the WPA rat extermination campaign beginning February 5th.

The rat is not only a reservoir of disease for man but inflicts heavy material and economic loss annually, it was brought out in a statement by the Health Officer. According to government experts, he points out, the feed bill alone in the United States exceeds $182,000,000 annually. It is estimated that the cost of feeding a rat amounts to one-half a cent per day and that there is one rat for each human being in the United States.

This does not include damage to grain, flour, lard, silks, carpets, furs, and vegetables, the cost of which will amount to twice the feed bill.

Minstrel At Isabella Friday Night

If the weather man is anything like reasonable the people of the Isabella community are in for a real treat Friday night, February 2, when the Clanton Kiwanis Club presents their show, "Coom Valley Minstrel." The members of the cast have been practicing this show for a month and after two performances in Clanton they are now ready to perform before strangers.

This minstrel is a very clever evening of fun, and well worth the price of admission. You will be surprised at the way such boys as John Hollis, Dick Hayes, Gene Wyatt, Horner Walker, Bonnie Hand and several others sing with a good black-face show.

The time is 7:30 Friday night, February 2. The place is Isabella School. The Parent-Teachers of this school are sponsoring this show.

Annual School Immunization Program To Begin Soon

With the routine medical examinations of school children practically completed for the current school year, the County Health Department starts early in February on its annual program of immunizing school children against smallpox and diphtheria, according to an announcement by the Health Officer.

Two visits to each school are planned to offer protection against these diseases to the school children of the County. School principals will be notified to urge parents to bring pre-school children to the school at the time of the Health Officer's visit for protection against smallpox and diphtheria.

Referring to the results of previous campaigns to vaccinate Chilton County's school children, Dr. Sturkie said that a majority of Chilton County parents seemed willing to cooperate with school and health authorities in this matter. At the present about 60 percent of the school population is vaccinated successfully against smallpox as shown by Health Department records.

An announcement of vital importance with regard to diphtheria toxoid which is used to protect children against diphtheria is herewith made by the Health Department. Beginning now it will be the policy of the Health Department to give, instead of one injection of diphtheria toxoid, two a month apart at six months of age or during the pre-school period and a third dose when the child enters school. This is in accordance with instructions sent by the Alabama State Health Department.

The change was necessitated by studies made over a period of years which show definitely that two injections of toxoid are much more effective than a single dose and that a third dose is needed to stimulate the immunity which wanes after a lapse of several years.

LOCAL COLLEGE YOUNG LADIES TO TOUR WITH COLLEGE GROUP

Columbia, Mo.—The palaces, market places and museums of Old Mexico will be transformed into classrooms late in March for Misses Olive Rainer Elmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Elmore and Peggy Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Page, of this city. Both will participate in the fifteenth annual Stephens College spring educational tour recently announced by President James W. Wood.

Offered each year as a part of the Stephens program of functional education, this year's trip, lasting two weeks, will give students an opportunity to study the life and culture of the Republic of Mexico. During their travels they will observe the present civilization and contrast it with the life which gave romance to those areas four hundred years ago, President Wood said.

The trip was planned by the Instructional Committee of Stephens College with the cooperation of the Mexican Department of Education and the National University of Mexico.

On March 21 the "City of Mexico Special" an all-rail train, will leave Columbia, heading southward with the "aveiling college" aboard in southern Missouri the Iron Mountains will be the first subject in the course of study.

The historic Alamo, reminder of Mexican-American relations in the nineteenth century, and Randolph Field, "West Point of the Air" in San Antonio will be other stops before the tour reaches the border.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN WIDOW DIES AT JEMISON

Mrs. Paralee Edwards, age 99, wife of one of Chilton County's Confederate veterans, died at her residence near Jemison at 1:00 A.M. Tuesday, January 30. If Mrs. Edwards had lived until February 10, she would have been 100 years old.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2:00 P.M. from the Mars Hill Church, conducted by Rev. T. W. Davis. Burial was in the nearby cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge. Grandsons served as pallbearers.

Surviving are one son, R. N. Edwards, of Ensley Ala.; two daughters, Mrs. Lizzie Brackin of Florida; Mrs. J. R. Marler, Jemison, Ala. She is also survived by 25 grandchildren and 50 great-grandchildren.

Miss Kathryn Pratt, who is attending Thorsby Institute, spent the week end in Clanton with her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Pratt.

At a recent meeting of the Clanton Berry Growers Association new officers for the coming year were elected and one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the Association pointed to a year filled with possibilities for the produce and fruit growers of the County.

At this meeting held at the Court House, Roy Roper, for the past several years president of the Association, and himself one of the county's leading fruit and produce growers, was re-elected as president for another year. J. N. Dennis, another of the county's most progressive and successful farmers, was re-elected to serve another year as secretary-treasurer. L. E. Diefenderfer, who has had a big hand in making this organization beneficial to the farmers of the county, was named as sales manager. He has served in this capacity for a number of years. M. C. Wyatt was elected vice president and the following were elected as directors: E. H. Headley, Charles Mitchell and Phillip Eiland.

The record of the Clanton Berry Growers Association is well known throughout the State. The Association was formed several years ago, and at that time only strawberries were handled to any great extent. But in recent years peaches have been included in the fruits shipped, and last year the Association purchased a peach grading machine, when it was found that peach growing had become an industry within itself, and that proper grading and packing was vitally necessary.

Last year's undertaking was a decided success. Several thousands of bushels of peaches left Chilton County under the brand of "Chilton" and the markets of the north found that Chilton was a brand of quality. A most successful strawberry season was enjoyed—one of the biggest in the history of the Association.

Overcoming obstacles that confront such an enterprise, the Clanton Berry Growers Association met with hearty cooperation as a whole from the peach growers, and are looking forward to this year as a banner one for the fruit and produce growers, for plans are being rapidly formulated to include several other items of produce that may be grown in sufficient quantities to merit shipment cooperatively.

The outlook for the berry crop is most promising. President Roper stated that approximately 200,000 extra plants was expected to be set out in the county. The Association is planning to gravitate to the one variety of berries known as Blakemore which is more adapted to this section of the county.

It is the present plans of the Association to ship under the label of Chilton this year nothing but the number one peaches, however the handling of the other grades of fruit and berries will continue and to see that the surplus reaches a market will be one of the aims of the Association.

This year will find something over 600 additional acres of peaches being cultivated. An official of the organization stated that he believed between 250 and 500 cars of peaches will be leaving Clanton every year if proper care is taken of the trees. Some discussion has been accorded the idea of securing a horticulturist to supervise the care of the trees in the future, however, nothing definite has been decided about this. There is a distinct need for this service in the Association, it was learned.

The handling of beans is the aim this year of the Association, and already enough acreage has been subscribed to ship these commercially. One variety adapted to this section of the county is the Stringless Black Valentine, and it is the aim at present to encourage the growing of this variety by the farmers who desire to raise them for commercial purposes.

All in all, Clanton and Chilton County are making rapid progress in getting away from the one-crop system of farming. The raising of produce crops pays dividends. Not only is Clanton Berry Growers Association striving for crop rotation but other Associations over the County, including Thorsby, Maplesville and Jemison, are doing the same with success, which means more money in the pockets of the growers of the County.

Grady Williams, Jr., son of Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Williams, who is attending the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, was home the past week following semester examinations. Friends of Grady, Jr., will be pleased to learn that he is doing well at college. His semester average was 85.5, which is counted the upper half of the classes.

Helping Alabama's Distressed Farmers Toward Security

An Outline Of The Program Of The United States Department Of Agriculture Farm Security Administration To Assist Tenants, Sharecroppers And Other Low-Income Rural Families To Become Self-Supporting And Independent

Why Help Is Needed—

The annual income of Southern farmers is the lowest of any group in the country. At the bottom of that group are the landless tenants.

When the depression was at its worst over a million American farm families were in urgent need of relief. In the South—where tenancy is most widespread—soil erosion, years of ruinous crop prices, faulty farming and credit practices, unsound tenure systems and burdensome debt were factors explaining the destitution to which thousands were reduced.

In Alabama the 1935 census showed 64.5 per cent of all farmers were tenants or sharecroppers. Considering conditions, it was not especially surprising to learn possessions of some 13,000 rural families transferred them from relief rolls to what is now the Farm Security Administration averaged but $3.03 per family. Their average cash income had been only $91 per family for the previous year, or $15 per person. They lacked livestock, farming tools, food, seed, and adequate household equipment. The shacks in which they lived ranked with the worst city slums. Their diet was mainly bread, "fatback" bacon and syrup—with pellagra and other deficiency diseases resulting. A heavy toll was taken through illness and death due to lack of medical care and sanitation. With no credit and virtually no assets they were at the bottom of the ladder economically, in body and in spirit.

How Help Is Given—

Needs of such families are many and varied. The Farm Security Administration has the task of doing what is necessary for their rehabilitation, making it possible for them and others like them to get a new start.

Rehabilitation involves far more than lending money. With the moderate loans go technical help and advice on management of farm and home. Such aid enables these low-income farmers, who cannot get credit from any source to make the most of the opportunity to become self-supporting and independent.

A balanced farming program to meet each family's needs is worked out with the cooperation of FSA supervisors who are trained in modern farm and some management. The families are visited, the year's work planned and particular problems—such as, providing ways and means for all children to attend school, and making it possible for the family to get necessary medical attention—are faced as they arise.

Aside from basic rehabilitation activities, various other steps are taken to improve the lot of the rural needy. Loans are made to a limited number of deserving tenants, sharecroppers and farm laborers to purchase family-size farms. Those overburdened with debt may receive help in effecting adjustments satisfactory to the creditor. Loans are made to groups of low-income farmers for heavy farm machinery, pure-bred sires or other needs individuals cannot meet. Resettlement or homestead projects of various types have been established to provide security for needy farm families on good land.

Progress Made—

Records reveal outstanding progress has been made by needy families of rural Alabama since they started farming under the rehabilitation program of the Farm Security Administration. Although no figures can be given to show gains in health, knowledge and other important factors, the net worth of families aided jumped from the low average of $3.03 in 1935 to $317.07 in 1936, $362.00 in 1937, and $442.15 at the end of 1938.

There is a reason for this economic advance, made at a time when unfavorable conditions handicapped agriculture generally. It is the result of reasonable credit, plus better planning and improved methods. Each farmer follows a farm and home plan drawn according to his own needs. Through FSA supervision he benefits in being guided along lines tested and proven by agricultural experts. By such means he is better prepared to push on toward security and independence.

A total of 31,861 of the 273,773 farm families of the state were receiving FSA assistance on June 30, 1939. This number includes some on the original 1935 list not yet rehabilitated, as well as others added in years since. A survey embracing a representative group of 11,791 of these families, averaging 6.2 persons, based on figures taken from files of supervisors in the various counties, discloses in detail how this advance has been brought about.

Repayment Of Loans—

As rehabilitation families become more self-supporting, the loan average falls. By producing food and feed needed for home use, they have more of their cash income available for purchase of farm and home necessities and to repay loans from the Farm Security Administration.

Rural rehabilitation loans in Alabama since the program was started in 1935 up to July 31, 1939, totaled $14,540,224.10. As the money was advanced for immediate needs, it went along almost at once into local channels of trade, bringing new business to many and varied companies. These loans averaged $253.36 per family during the fiscal year from June 30, 1936, to June 30, 1937. The average during the year ending June 30, 1938, was $186.87. An increase of 107.5 per cent was made during the 1938-39 fiscal year in the number of families assisted and the more extensive needs of the new ones figured in raising the loans to an average of $300.69. In that year, also, a change was made in the general lending plan, with the new loans being based on a five-year period. Under this plan the borrower agrees to deposit in the bank the amount of operating capital at the end of the year for use again the next year, and to pay one-fifth of the total on each year, representing payment for necessary livestock, tools, and other equipment of long-range value.

Better Living—
A better living is being made by rehabilitation families and their future has been brightened. Provided with livestock, tools and other necessities through loans they could not otherwise get, together with friendly advice they have developed higher standards while adding to their subsistence and income.

Production of food and feed to meet the needs of family and livestock is a fundamental part of the FSA program. As this is accomplished correspondingly less of the cash income is required for current expenses while more of it may be used to repay loans, add to household equipment and otherwise improve living conditions. Failure to do this while taking a one-crop risk largely explains the near-destitution to which they had fallen.

Gardens And Canning—
A fenced, year-round garden of adequate size is one of the requirements to be met by those receiving rehabilitation loans. Previously, few had such gardens and in consequence health had suffered from ill-balanced diets. In addition to supplying fresh vegetables of many varieties, the surplus is preserved to wintertime meals may be balanced and wholesome. In 1938 first-year families averaged canning 181 quarts of fruits and vegetables, an increase of 106 over the total for the year prior to acceptance on the program. Second and third-year families showed an increase of 174 quarts per family in 1938 over what they canned in the year before acceptance, when they averaged just one quart.

Encouraged and aided directly by FSA home management supervisors, it is not rare that housewives preserve as many as three dozen varieties of fruits and vegetables and an increasing number are canning meat. To start a family on the road to adequate food preservation, provision is made in loans for purchase of sufficient jars and a pressure cooker that serves both as a small canning plant and utensil for preparation of wholesome meals. 58.3 per cent of the Alabama rehabilitation families have cookers.

Meat And Milk—
Formerly too much of the income of these families went for the purchase of meat and still they had little. Lack of sufficient milk had been one of the main handicaps, especially for children. Practically none of these families had adequate food of this kind but notable gains have been made. In 1938 the Alabama rehabilitation families had an average of 1.6 subsistence cattle, 3.2 hogs, and 28 chickens. They had an average of 318 pounds more meat, 278 more gallons of milk and 60 dozen more eggs for home use, representing a large margin of difference in their previous condition. In 1935 only 47.5 per cent had any cows, only 61 per cent had hogs, and 79.1 per cent had chickens. In virtually no case were subsistence needs being adequately and wholesomely met at that time.

More Food—Feed Acreage—

Low-income farmers being assisted by the Farm Security Administration are cooperating with the AAA program in the same way as all other farmers in the state, and the progress shown had been made without increasing cotton acreage. However, acreage in feed and food crops has been greatly increased.

As problems of individual families are studied, it is often found they do not have sufficient land, or land capable of successful farming. Loans are not made by the FSA until the applicant secures sufficient acreage on which his particular rehabilitation program may be based. Otherwise he would be foredoomed to failure and repayment of the loan would be rendered impossible.

All of the Alabama rehabilitation borrowers at the end of 1938 showed an average increase in acres operated of 21 over what they had before acceptance on the program. It is a notable coincidence that the acreage devoted to production for farm and home use averaged 21 also. An average of 9 acres was planted to cash crops.

Longer Leases—Better Soil—

With approximately two-thirds of all Alabama farmers being tenants, the matter of tenure is important. The Farm Security Administration is definitely interested in tenure arrangements as they may advance or retard efforts to get needy farm families on a self-sustaining basis. In addition to the tenant, the landlord and public are concerned, along with the FSA, with improving a system contributing to dissipation of the soil through misuse, neglect and erosion.

Results are becoming clearly evident. Families receiving rehabilitation loans are now required to have a satisfactory written lease. In Alabama last year 99 per cent had written leases and 41 per cent were for more than one year, in contrast to the verbal one-year leases formerly prevailing. Ninety-seven per cent of those farming for the first time under FSA guidance in 1938 had written leases; whereas only 13 per cent had them in 1937. 34 per cent of these first-year farmers had written leases for more than one year, compared with 2 per cent the previous year.

Census surveys show that two out of every three tenant farmers in Alabama move to a different place each year. Such families naturally take as much as possible from the land and pay scant attention to soil improvement, fence and building repairs, or other constructive, long range activities. In the fall of 1935 only 2.7 per cent of the rehabilitation families of the state helped to rebuild the soil by planting winter cover crops. Over 30 per cent did so in the fall of 1937 and in 1938 the average of all borrowers was three acres, with first-year families trebling their acreage in such crops. Only 24 per cent changed farms during the year and first year families showed a 14 per cent improvement during 1938 in this respect.

More, Better Work Animals—

Over one-fourth of the rehabilitation borrowers in the state advanced last year from the status of sharecropper to tenant. This was made possible largely by enabling them to secure work animals needed for successful farming.

Pride is taken in owning their own mares and mules, with morale being boosted accordingly. Also, adequate workstock enables them to carry out a complete farming program, providing for crop rotation and make more effective use of available labor.

In 1935 not only was the quality of work animals low and the number inadequate, but 87 per cent of all Alabama rehabilitation families had to depend on steers. By 1937 the percentage of steers had been reduced to 18.63 and 81.37 per cent of workstock was mules or mares. In 1938 those having mules or mares represented 99 per cent and at the end of that year the average increase over what they had before coming on the program was almost one work animal to the family.

Cooperation—

Farmers operating under the FSA program are encouraged to take part in various activities involving the welfare of the community, as well as the farming population in general. At the end of 1938 reports from all county supervisors of the state showed 98 per cent were participating in the AAA program. Twenty-nine per cent were cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service and 31 per cent were practicing definite erosion control.

As tenant and sharecropper families become more secure, it is possible their children to make a better start at school attendance. The FSA has many boys and girls had not attended for various reasons. Lack of clothing, adequate lunches or the necessity of staying at home to help eking out an existence for the family were some of the explanations. Farm and home plans were drawn, giving for well-rounded, more businesslike operations, resulting in increased income, attendance has spurred. In children of FSA families in Alabama had a record of 95.7 as compared enrollment for the state as a whole the same period of 75.8 per cent, according to A. H. Collins, state superintendent of education.

Better Housing—

According to estimates based on a survey in 1934 under direction of Bureau of Home Economics, it cost about $85,000,000 to put farm homes of the United States good repair if all materials were chased and all labor hired at prevailing rates.

The survey shows housing conditions in the South to be much worse than in any other section of the country. In Alabama 88.4 per cent of the houses are inadequately screened, per cent have inadequate paint, per cent have no indoor toilets, per cent have no water piped in, and 97.2 per cent have no bathing.

In seeking to remedy this situation as far as possible, the Farm Security Administration has set up minimum standards for houses and other structures or tenant-purchase farms. Generally emphasizes better housing one of the most pressing needs of low-income families. The standard tenant-purchase construction, which given in plans for low-cost rural housing available to other farmers, follows:

"Windows and doors should be in good repair and properly screened; sanitary privies or toilets designed to meet the acceptable standards of state health departments shall be provided; the water supply shall be adequate for family and livestock; the water for domestic use shall be tested by a qualified public authority protected against contamination; drainage from privies, surface water or otherwise; foundations must be adequate and sound, and floors in good condition; roofs must be water-tight and exterior walls protected by paint or other wood preservative; chimneys must be in such state of repair that they do not constitute fire hazards; sleeping quarters should be adequate to meet family needs; there should be adequate provision for storing clothing, utensils, tools, produce, etc.; there should be adequate shelter for poultry and livestock; attempt should be made to repair buildings that are in such condition that they should be demolished and replaced with new structures."

Health And Sanitation—

Farm families handicapped by illness and close to poverty are more likely to be successful. The Farm Security Administration cooperates with health agencies to combat disease and to improve their physical well-being. Much is accomplished through standards of living made possible by better farming under the FSA program. More home-produced fruits, vegetables, milk, butter, eggs and nourishing food helps. An increasing number of pressure cookers, stoves, improved facilities for butchering, foodstuffs, more screening, salt water supply and sanitary privies important factors.

In Alabama a total of 10,566 families had been constructed on farms occupied by rehabilitation families to June 30, 1939. Families with pressure cookers number 12,506. Preserves and good water were produced on 837 farms. Various improvements in the home and furnishings have been made possible. Whereas a large number of families had previously their meals over hearth fires, centuries past, it was estimated that had adequate cook stoves at the end of 1938. Fifty-one per cent adequate sleeping facilities and 61 per cent coming on the program at the end of the year showed a 13 per cent improvement in this respect during the year.

Help In Emergencies—

When floods, drought, sickness, accidents or other emergencies result in situation of needy families still acute, temporary assistance in the form of grants is given by the FSA. Those stricken are able to carry on normally. Some of these grants made where conditions are such that farm loans could not be made to provide necessary food, clothing, medical attention. Help of this kind was rendered, for example, during

No Time to Play?

BABY'S YEARS of winsome cunningness pass all too swiftly for the mother whose numerous household cares keep her so busily engaged that she often must experience the tragedy of "no time to play with baby." Or that of "no time for outside diversion," with the consequence that her daily household duties become a drudge instead of the joy they could be.

Thanks to the planners in industry, electrical devices have been perfected which eliminate much of the drudgery of household work. The modern industrial viewpoint of "the greatest possible value for the least amount of money" has made them available at prices so moderate that even families with modest incomes can—by the step-at-a-time plan—enjoy completely electrified homes.

The electrical utility industry has so improved the generation and distribution of electricity that it has become one of the most dependable services known, delivered at a price which many users describe as being "the cheapest thing I buy."

Especially recommended as time and labor savers in the home (and also contributing to better living) are electric ranges and water heaters, electric dishwashers, electric refrigerators, electric washing machines and ironers, vacuum cleaners. There are sizes and models to suit all tastes and most pocketbooks.

Electrify Now—Electricity is Cheap in Alabama

THURSDAY

Following the disastrous flood that devastated extensive damage in central and southern Alabama in the summer of 1938.

Medical Care—

progress of a family toward rehabilitation is largely governed by its health. In Alabama, where the state medical association has approved the plan, medical service associations have been formed to assure adequate medical treatment. Nine per cent of rehabilitation families in the state had this protection in 1938, with medical societies endorsing and cooperating in counties where such associations were formed. The average cost per year per family ranges from $12 to $18. This fixed sum is written into the farm and home management plan of each borrower.

Adjusting Farm Debts—

Debt-burdened farmers, who are handicapped in making a new start, may secure help from local farm debt adjustment committees that have the assistance of trained farm debt adjustment representatives of the Farm Security Administration. Efforts are directed toward enabling debtor and creditor to reach a mutually satisfactory agreement. In Alabama, creditors had reached voluntary agreements under this plan with 4,724 families living on farms totalling 429,416 acres up to July 31, 1939. Their debts, formerly amounting to $4,037,719, were adjusted downward to $3,088,198. Through this means farmers are often saved from foreclosure and creditors get substantial payments on what might otherwise be bad debts. This service is available to all farmers and their creditors regardless of whether they are FSA borrowers.

Community Aid and Cooperative Services—

Progress has been made in utilizing community and cooperative services as a factor in the rural rehabilitation program. Emphasis has been placed on providing facilities and services that cannot be justified economically on the basis of individual use only. An increasing need for improved livestock, harvesting machinery and other farming equipment has developed due to the change in many sections from the one-crop system to diversified farming.

In Alabama a total of $190,837.13 had been loaned in the period from July 1936 to October 1, 1939, so that groups of families in the same neighborhood might have needed facilities. This amount included 248 loans, which provided 215 services. The number of participating farmers served was 2,557.

Tenants Become Owners—

Enactment by Congress of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, which is administered by the Farm Security Administration, is making it possible for worthy tenants and sharecroppers to become farm owners. Permanent self-support for low-income families is the goal of the rehabilitation program and under the tenant-purchase provisions many "graduates" from that group are given the opportunity to achieve security through ownership of a family size farm. A liberal loan policy is the basis of the tenant-purchase program. The loans are repayable over a period of 40 years and bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent.

Fifty-seven counties of Alabama have been selected for tenant-purchase loans, the selection being made on the basis of farm population, prevalence of tenancy, good land at reasonable prices, and other factors. Before loans are made a committee of three farmers in each county, who are familiar with land values and people, pass on both the farmers to receive loans and the farms to be purchased. Their assistance has facilitated selection of worthy and able applicants and farms productive enough to enable the borrowers to pay taxes and insurance, keep up the property, provide a satisfactory living and repay the loan. The annual payments, including insurance and interest, generally average less than rent formerly paid for the same or similar farms with inferior improvements.

Due to limited funds—$25,000,000 was available for the country as a whole during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, and $40,000,000 was appropriated for the succeeding fiscal year—only a small percentage of those desiring such loans may obtain them. Applications received in this state up to September 1, 1939, totalled 28,000 but of this number only 541 were established on farms of their own in the two years prior to June 30, 1939. About 557 are expected to get loans during the 1939-40 fiscal year.

The average tenant-purchase loan in Alabama for the first two years was $4,017. The average farm size was 115 acres. Improvements—including many new houses, barns, fencing, terracing and such other facilities necessary for a well-balanced farm unit—are provided in each loan. During the first year of the program in Alabama 25 per cent of the loans went for improvements and the second year it rose to 34 per cent, due to the necessity of erecting more new buildings as the scarcity of suitable farms with adequate construction became evident.

Alabama counties in which the tenant-purchase program is now under way are: Autauga, Barbour, Blount, Butler, Bullock, Calhoun, Chilton, Chambers, Conecuh, Cherokee, Dallas, Choctaw, DeKalb, Clarke, Clay, Elmore, Cleburne, Geneva, Greene, Colbert, Crenshaw, Hale, Lawrence, Cullman, Lee, Madison, Dale, Marengo, Escambia, Marion, Fayette, Etowah, Monroe, Montgomery, Franklin, Morgan, Henry, Pickens, Houston, Pike, Lamar, Talladega, Lauderdale, Tallapoosa, Limestone, Walker, Lowndes, Wilcox, Macon, Marshall, Perry, Randolph, Russell, Shelby, Sumter, Tuscaloosa.

Resettling Stranded Farmers—

The Resettlement Division of the Farm Security Administration has established rural projects in Alabama to meet the needs of low-income families and to give them a start toward independence. Under this program large tracts of good land are purchased, subdivided into individual units, buildings constructed and other necessary improvements made. Rentals are collected at first, but applicants are accepted with the expectation they will become purchasers of the units they occupy.

Technical guidance is provided for project families, as with those in rehabilitation and tenant-purchase classifications. The rural community projects offer farm families, many of whom had been drifting into destitution by cultivating submarginal land incapable of adequate production, an opportunity to plan long-range improvements. Further, being in a community with other project farmers, the efficiency of individual farm operations is increased through cooperative action by an entire neighborhood. These small farmers, by banding together, are able to secure tractors, other heavy machinery, purebred sires and additional facilities they could not afford as individuals.

Farm-community and subsistence-homestead projects are located in Alabama. The latter, including Bankhead Farms near Jasper; and Cahaba, Palmetto, Greenwood, and Mount Olive homesteads on the outskirts of Birmingham, embrace a total of 647 units, made up of families whose security is increased by supplemental income derived from garden plots, poultry hogs and other resources. Farm-community projects are Skyline Farms near Scottsboro, with 181 units; Coffee County Homesteads, in Coffee County 320 units; and two projects for negro families, Prairie Farms, in Macon County, 34 units, and Gee's Bend in Wilcox County, near Camden, 107 units; Alabama Farm Tenant Security 96 units, in 18 counties, of all sections of the state; and Alabama Scattered Farms 38 units, in Mobile, Autauga, Cullman and Lawrence counties.

Looking Ahead—

With the help of the Farm Security Administration, these families are doing much more than making material progress toward successful farming. Living standards have been raised. Health has been improved by better and more balanced diets. A much better record of school attendance is being made by their children, indicating the next generation will be equipped to take a more constructive part in rebuilding of rural areas. Community life, from which many had become almost isolated because of their previous condition, is bringing new benefits and pleasure. Fifty-seven per cent of all FSA families in Alabama in 1938 had one or more members participating in community organizations such as 4-H Clubs, home demonstration clubs and others of similar nature. Farm and home record books are supplied them and they are able to operate on a more effective and businesslike basis as a result.

WILD BOARDERS PAY WAY

Forests shelter and feed wildlife, but the birds and animals are not free boarders—they pay their way in helping to protect the forests from diseases and insect pests. Dr. W. R. VanDereal, of the Soil Conservation Service, points out. "Although wildlife is unable to cope with spectacular outbreaks of forest insects," he says, "its continued repressive action is of value in the maintenance of healthy stands."

The United States Department of Agriculture is interested in farm woodlands because well-managed woodlands help control erosion, contribute to good land use, and improve the farm income. A thirty forest with a normal growth of underbrush and seeding trees for replacement is safe from abnormal erosion—and is also a first-class home for wildlife. Many of the forest trees—oaks, pines, maples and others—provide feed for animals and birds, as do seeds and berries of the underbrush. The wildlife in turn protects the forests and are effective as seed planters as well as seed eaters.

MRS. CLARA EUNICE EDWARDS

Mrs. Clara Eunice Edwards, age 36, wife of Ed E. Edwards, well known cement builder of Clanton, passed away at the Central Alabama Hospital here Sunday, January 21, after a lingering illness.

Funeral services were held from the Mt. Pisgah Church the following Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock conducted by Rev. J. L. Daniel. Martin & Sons were in charge of interment in the nearby cemetery.

Besides her husband Mrs. Edwards is survived by six children—three boys and three girls—; father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Garner of South Carolina, also one brother and several sisters of South Carolina.

when farmers in general were having a multitude of troubles, they are able to look ahead with more optimism. Being schooled in diversification, being farming methods and otherwise trained in self-help their chances of becoming independent and secure are now better than many of them have ever known.

KUDZU-FED PIGS AROUSE INTEREST

Folks who think that milk-fed chickens are "the last word," probably just haven't heard about John L. Smith's kudzu-fed pigs.

As a part of the erosion-control program on his farm in the CCC camp near Clanton, Smith retired three acres of his land to kudzu back in 1936. On March 15, 1939, he put two pigs on the kudzu when they weighed 30 and 65 pounds, respectively.

The pigs received no grain or concentrates during the grazing period and on September 28 they had made a combined gain in weight of 265 pounds. The pair of pigs created quite a bit of comment when they were placed on exhibit in the Chilton County Fair, where they were fed only green kudzu from a rack.

In addition to these two pigs, Smith reports that he grazed four other young hogs, a sow, and a litter of six pigs, and two cows on the three acre of kudzu on his farm.

DEATH SETTLES DISPUTE

For more than a year Wallace Boaz and M. J. Clitt wrangled over who should be mayor of Childersburg.

Mayor Boaz died Friday morning at a Subalanza hospital, less than 48 hours after the death of former Mayor Clitt, his opponent in the long legal controversy.

Keeps Knowledge Of Suicide Plant For 3 Centuries

Women of Iroquois Tribes, Deserted by Husbands, Used Poison Weed.

WASHINGTON.—Some of the Iroquois tribes in New York state and Canada until very recently used the roots of the same poisonous plant to commit suicide that their ancestors used 800 years ago. Middle-aged women, deserted by their husbands, were known to poison themselves in this way.

The plant widely used for suicide purposes was the water hemlock, or poison hemlock (Cicuta maculata), that grows in the wet meadows and pastures of the region. It is mentioned as early as 1832 among the Hurons by Father Sagard.

Discovered by Ethnologist.

This remarkable survival of a native custom through so many years of the white man's influence was noted this summer by Dr. W. N. Fenton of the Smithsonian Bureau of American Ethnology. Dr. Fenton, who has just returned to Washington after two months' study of the medicinal use of herbs by the Iroquois tribes, reports that certain of these medicinal herbs are known by the same names and used for the same ailments by tribes that speak different dialects and are located hundreds of miles apart.

For several seasons Dr. Fenton has been collecting comparative material for use in a comprehensive work on Iroquois medicine, completed 30 years ago by the late F. W. Waugh of the National Museum of Canada. This year Dr. Fenton visited the St. Regis reservation on the Canadian-United States border; the Mohawk reservation at Caughawaga, near Montreal; the Huron reservation at La Poudre Lorette, Que.; the Six Nations reserve at Brantford, Ont., and the Allegheny reservation at Salamanca, N. Y.

Accurate Knowledge of Flora.

Indians all over the country, of course, used herbs for medicinal purposes, but the Iroquois tribes of the northeastern United States and adjoining parts of Canada have surprisingly accurate knowledge of the plant life of the region. They use particular herbs as pneumonia remedies, certain barks as worm medicines, cathartics, and emetics, and others as blood tonics for run-down condition. The blood tonics are especially widely used, and nearly every family has its particular concoction of herbs for this purpose. They may contain as many as 20 different ingredients, some of the better-known of which are blue root, sarsaparilla, lobelia, spike-nard, freeweed and partridgeberry.

At the reservation at Brantford, Ont., Dr. Fenton was much pleased to observe the great esteem in which the Indians held the late Dr. J. N. B. Hewitt, Smithsonian ethnologist, who up to the time of his death in 1937 had spent many field seasons among them recording in the native languages texts on old Iroquois history and customs surrounding the founding of the League of the Iroquois. Dr. Fenton hopes eventually, with the help of these Indians, to complete for publication the voluminous manuscript material which Dr. Hewitt left at his death.

Woman Kill Her Husband Despite Of Love for Him

Fifteen Years of Brutality Too Much for Mother Of Four Boys.

AKRON, OHIO.—"I'm sorry," said the soft-spoken middle-aged mother as she showed policemen the body of her husband. "I loved this man, but I had to do it."

Fifteen years of brutality, according to that dry-eyed woman, obliged her to shoot H. Sherman Hubbard, 44 years old, of Akron, Ohio, for whom a street there was named, superintendent of the Davis Laundry and Cleaning company.

Six weeks before fear of what he might do prompted Mrs. Maud Hubbard, 42 years old, mother of four boys, to purchase a revolver, she told the squad car crew which answered her telephone summons.

That summons itself was something of a jolt to the police radio dispatcher.

She notified Police. "I just shot my husband," said a clear, calm voice.

Taken aback, the dispatcher could only inquire: "Is he dead?"

"He's dead, all right," the voice replied, giving the name and address.

Later it developed that, although the shooting occurred at about 7 a. m., Mrs. Hubbard did not call police until 7:40. In the meantime she had phoned her sister, Mrs. Ada Stull, in Cleveland.

At the police station she elaborated on the difficulties that had led to the tragedy.

Her husband had treated her brutally for years, she said. He had threatened her life and had been going with other women, she declared.

"My husband constantly threw the other woman up to me in the last two years," asserted Mrs. Hubbard.

"Just yesterday he said to me, 'Why don't you go out and get a sugar daddy for yourself, too?'"

"I asked him, 'What has she ever done for you?' meaning the other woman. 'She didn't bear your children, did she?' I said. I really felt as if he was out of his mind during those last two years—he acted so strangely."

"A Mighty Good Mother." "I was clean and good and kind when he was nasty," she added.

The Hubbards had been married for 23 years. Their four sons are Donald, 21; Robert, 20; Russell, 19; and Randall, 11.

Mrs. Hubbard's first tears at the police station came when the youngest boy, Randall, told officers, "She's a mighty good mother."

His father always started the disputes, he said.

Mrs. Hubbard said that her husband started leaving her for days at a time just before Randall was born.

Earlier, however, he had sometimes been cruel, she maintained.

"He had an ungovernable temper," she said. "When Bobby was only five he hit him 10 times with a lath that had a nail in it."

Mrs. Hubbard said her husband frequently had threatened to kill her. Once, she declared, he threatened to kill their son Russell for installing a hot water pipe in the bathtub.

Questioned about her gun, she said she bought it six weeks ago at a loan company's shop. She felt that she needed it for protection because he was away so much.

Overlay Glass Process Was Used by Romans

Overlay or cased glass was a product of the Nineteenth century. But although different in technique it stemmed back, artistically at least, to the colorful enameled glass of the Romans which they first fashioned some 2,000 years ago. This process the Arabs later perfected and the Syrian glass of Damascus and Aleppo presently found its way to Europe, where Venetian and later Bohemian glassmakers also learned the process. By the Fifteenth and Sixteenth centuries the latter were fashioning such elaborate and beautiful pieces as the Reichsaderhumpen, a large beaker enameled with a double-headed eagle of the Holy Roman empire and the coats of arms of its dependents.

Glass enameling, however, involved not only the use of many colors but several processes of execution, writes Richmond Huntley in American Collector. So by 1820 the Bohemians found a decorative and pleasing effect by substituting a single color for the many. The process was quite different. Briefly, the steps in its making were as follows: Over clear or colored glass a contrasting shell was applied while the whole was white hot. Then the glass was annealed, after which it went through a grinding and polishing process whereby a pattern was cut through the outer shell, thus revealing the contrasting color beneath. Blue, green, canary and sometimes clear with opaque overlay were used.

Guantanamo Naval Base Is Strategically Located

Guantanamo, one of Uncle Sam's most strategically located naval bases, lies on the south coast of Cuba, only 75 miles from the island's eastern tip. To the United States the Guantanamo base is especially significant. Situated on the south shore of the far eastern end of Cuba, it controls the vital sea lane between Cuba and Haiti, which links north Atlantic and Caribbean traffic.

In case of emergency ships of some European countries must travel for days to reach these waters. United States vessels are not only within easy access of base supplies but also have the advantage of familiarity with the area, due to annual target practice maneuvers thereabouts. Guantanamo is, in fact, a sort of winter home for a considerable part of the United States navy that is in the Atlantic.

Guantanamo bay came into American hands after the Spanish-American war of 1898, when United States marines were landed there for action against the Spaniards. Setting up camp on a nearby hill, they fought off Spanish siege for several days, until reinforcements finally gave them control of the area. In the early 1900s land on both sides of the bay was leased to the United States by the Cuban government for the purpose of establishing the present naval base. Under the jurisdiction of the American navy department this base is maintained solely for the use of the fleet.

Moonlight Lures Deer

Wildlife censuses are interesting details in the life of rangers of the National Park service and often emphasize some trait in animal psychology that indicates the acuteness of instinct and that should be studied by hunters. Few deer, for example, are visible under natural conditions by day, in comparison to those that emerge about sunset from their well-protected haunts deep in the cover. At Zion and Bryce Canyon National parks, Utah, the deer coat recently completed was based upon the numbers seen after six p. m. Moonlight nights also bring the shy creatures out to graze. Deer have been observed as late as one a. m. feeding along the highways. In fact, it is because of this known habit of the deer that automobilists are urged to drive slowly at night in such areas. Blinded by the headlights, many a proud antlered head has been brought low.

Thorsby Green Eagles Defeat Jemison and Long Lewis

On January 22 the Thorsby Green Eagles gave the Jemison Basketeers a sound lacing by the score of 37-26. Then the next night, Tuesday, they pinned back the ears of the Jemison Long-Lewis Team from Bessemer, by the count of 37-30.

The Jemison game was a complete walk-away, with the Green Jackets bouncing into an early lead, and were never threatened thereafter. With only five players to represent them, the Thorsby laid out a savage, yet careful, attack that completely upset the home team. Jemison was trailing 28-12 at the half. The last half found the visitors confining their play to strict defensive passing.

The Long-Lewis game was one of those breath-takers. The Bessemer boys opened the game with a dazzling speed that gave them a 12-3 lead at the end of the first quarter. The second quarter opened with the Thorsby Eagles getting a firmer grip on their defensive tactics, yet finding the range of the basket; and while holding the hardware boys to two foul goals, they uncoiled a volley of shots that netted them 19 points, thus giving them a 22-14 lead at the half.

The third quarter saw the soup spilled again when the Thorsby Greengies blew an 8 point lead, as the defense went to pieces, allowing the Long-Lewis team to count 10 while the homeboys were able to garner only 4. This third closed with the Thorsby Eagles hanging on, with the tenacity of nine bad bulldogs, to their two-point lead—26-24.

Anyway, the lead changed three times. Thorsby quint was behind one point. With three minutes left to play, the Thorsby quint was behind one point. A time out settled their nerves. They came back, bottled up the visitors' attack, sank eight points and rang down the curtain on one of their greatest victories this season—37-30.

Hayes with 10 and Hilyer with 7 points were the big guns for Thorsby, while Seales paced the losers with 11 to his credit.

Blanket Of Snow Leaves Chilton County, Bu Leaves Slush, Damaged Water Pipes Beh

The snow has gone—but not forgotten. There are two types of business that have profited, or will profit, from the snow. They are the coal dealer and the plumber.

The plumbers lay man finds that trudging through slush and doing without the facilities of water works is decidedly against his welfare, financial and physically.

Although one of the biggest in Chilton's history has furnished youngsters, and some not so young, with several hours of amusement, cold bare facts have to be faced. It is estimated that more than 100 per cent of the homes in water works for days without water work, the freeze which accompanied the and preceded it. Hundreds of burst, and water was a premium.

This winter was confronting Mayor Jones last Tuesday night and at least four telephone calls received by him during the snow—all bemoaning the fact that was scarce and please, couldn't thing be done about it? And was being done as could be done.

No waterworks problems of the rural resident, but roads, with snow began melting, were not able. Many of the old-timers this was the coldest spell they have been through in Chilton County.

The snow is gone—that's true, many years from now there will be a recollection of the "two below" in January '40.

U. S. Fur Markets

Once the United States had such great fur resources that it created foreign markets . . . now the demand here is so great that about two-thirds of our furs are imported from the present . . . because, in the event of a general European war which might cut off the outside supply, our own fur resources would be exhausted within a few years! . . . and not only that, but because of lack of state co-operation, the U. S. has no accurate inventory of the amount of wild fur animals being taken each year . . . all that is known is that more fur animals are being taken than are being replaced . . . which is very bad business from any standpoint.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court, January 16th, 1940. Pearl Gentry, Complainant, vs. Euel Gentry, et al, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Lawrence F. Gerald, Solicitor of Record for the Complainant that the Defendant, Frances Ragland, Virginia Bears, and John J. Hicks, Jr., are non-residents, and that their place of residence and post office address is 549 Clinton Avenue, Newark, New Jersey, and further, that, in the absence of said Defendants, the Defendants are of the age of twenty-one years.

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring them, the said Frances Ragland, Virginia Bears and John J. Hicks, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint as amended in this cause by the 21 day of February, 1940, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against them.

Done at office in Clanton, this 16th day of January, 1940.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

I have seen at midnight the gleaming headlights of giant locomotives rushing on through the darkness heedless of danger and I have thought it grand. I have watched the King of Day as he silently climbed out of his grave of darkness and then drove back the last shadows into the valley and caves and I have thought that to be grand. I have seen the lightning leap in the midnight hours atwart the storm-swept sky until all of nature flared with a noon-day splendor and I have thought that was grand and sublime, and it was. But the grandest thing that I have ever seen is none other than the light of a noble life. It shines like the light that steals out from the presence of God, and it sheds a glow over the world that is a benediction to all. A noble life will ever outshine the sun, and it is more beautiful than the glory of any perfect day.

I was riding along between the rice fields that are below Houston, Texas. On one side of the highway the rice was green and beautiful, while on the other side it was dry and dead. I sought for the cause. The water in the lake seemed to be abundant. On the side where the rice was green and growing the channels were open and the life-giving stream flowed in abundance, but on the other side where the rice was dry and dying, the channel was choked. The water that should have fed the rice was held back and the rice died. Brother, you are like one or the other of these rice fields. This is all determined by the channel that connects you with God. If the channel is open and the fullness of God's life is flowing down into your heart, you are green, growing and producing, but if that channel is choked you are dead and dying. See to it that the channel that connects you with God is open.

It was just a little, simple, everyday occurrence that turned Florence Nightengale's life into its correct channel. The shepherd dog on the plantation met with an accident and it was thought that the leg of the poor dog was broken. The men were about to destroy him when Florence drew near and asked the privilege of caring for the crippled animal. Soon he was well. This one act of healing touched the mainspring if the little girl's life and later she became the angel of the Crimea War. She found her field of service. There is a call to service in every life. Just an ordinary occurrence will create in our bosoms an urge to enter a certain field. Pay attention when you hear that voice that is calling you.

Nestune was doing his worst upon the face of the deep. The old sea-man stood at his wheel. After hours of hard fighting to keep his vessel above the water he was heard to say "O Neptune, you can save us if you will; you can send us to the bottom of the sea if you will; but whatever happens, I am going to keep my rudder true." That old salt of the sea was a real man. The thing that makes life worth living is to do our best regardless of what happens. Sink, or swim, live or die, I shall keep my rudder true. "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life," says the Master.

The Mississippi River which empties its wealth of waters into the Gulf of Mexico, is fed by the Missouri, the Ohio, the Tennessee, the Red River and many other streams. The great Amazon River is fed by streams coming in from over a large portion of South America. The great Nile River is almost equally enriched from its tributaries. But no river of the world is more truly fed by its tributaries than this life that belongs to me, that belongs to you. From all directions the streams are flowing in. Some streams are bringing in ideals, some are bringing in knowledge, some are bringing in personality. Just as the Mississippi is flowing and is tied as it flows, so our lives are flowing and we are fed as we flow. God's great universe of wealth and life are making an endless contribution to us as we move on. We gather as we go and we should glow as we gather.

Efforts are under way in Arkansas, Mississippi and Virginia, three of eight states in which the levy of $1 to $3 a year poll tax is collected from voters, to eliminate or revise the governing statutes.

Experience of farmers and experiment station tests show that a top-dressing of some quickly-available nitrogen fertilizer in early spring is most profitable for small grain.

Sen. Bankhead May Oppose Financing Other Nations

Washington—Opposition to new financing of Latin American exports threatened to delay Senate action on proposed expansion of the Export-Import Bank's capital in an indirect move to make a $20,000,000 non-military loan available to Finland.

Senator Bankhead (D. Ala.) said he may ask the Senate to forbid the bank's advancing funds to any government.

"I believe there is a great deal of sentiment in this country against this nation serving as a banker for any foreign government," Bankhead declared. "If we start with Finland, then we must start with Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Latin American nations. The end is not in sight."

The banking committee approved a bill by Senator Brown (D. Mich.) to increase the bank's lending power $100,000,000, but it must yet be acted on by the foreign relations committee. The measure would prohibit loans for arms or any loans in violation of international law as interpreted by the State Department.

In effect, the bill restricted to $20,000,000 any additional extension of credit to Finland by limiting to $30,000,000 the cumulative total that might be advanced to any borrower. Finland already has obtained a $10,000,000 credit from the bank.

Senator Taft (R. Ohio), announcing that he would try to trim the capital expansion to $50,000,000, the financing of South American exports would meet with strong opposition in the Senate.

"I don't think that loans to South American governments are necessary to maintain the good neighbor policy," he declared.

There appeared to be little opposition, on the other hand, to advancing funds to Sweden and Norway. Taft said he thought that a loan to Sweden would be a good commercial risk "because I don't think there is much danger of Russia swallowing up Sweden."

A New Short Story Complete in This Issue—

DAN O'SHEA GROWS UP

By SCOTT W. RYALL
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

DAN O'SHEA did not see the man who shot him Jim Casey, the genial policeman, guardian of the Ninth ward's morals.

He was walking the beat with the officer, Casey had objected. He had said he didn't want kids under his heels when he had to catch master crooks.

But Dan, the red-headed newsboy, was insistent and Casey at last relinquished his night-stick because he didn't want a man unarmed with him through the dangerous Ninth ward.

Then he guffawed, quieted enough to ring in from the Grimm street post, then turned in the alley back of Silverstein's warehouse. "He did insist on Dan waiting outside for him there and even relieved him of his temporary custody of the long club."

"Wait under the light," he ordered and Dan did not argue.

The attachment had reached that fine point where little differences of meaning and thought were immediately known. Casey did not want him in Silverstein's alley. There was no doubt of it, no joke, no denial.

The newsboy looked at the stars which shine even on the Ninth ward, wondered absently what would happen if one dropped, then leapt as if it had when Casey's roar rolled up the alley.

"Hi!"

There was the sharp report of a gun, sounds of running feet, muttered curses, then silence.

Dan's face went white. His tongue seemed stuck to the roof of his mouth and his heart pounded painfully.

"Casey!" he tried to call but the word came only in a whisper.

He steadied himself against the lamp-post, breathed deeply, then precipitated himself into the dark maw of the alley.

The officer was not hard to find. His spotlight had fallen from his hand, rolled a foot away and glared back into his pale face, against closed eyelids.

Dan stopped, walked slowly to the doubled form; looked down at the immobile lips which had so lately been chaffing him.

He tried to stoop, to touch the policeman.

A terrible fear was trembling through him.

Then he turned, raced through the alley and up Grimm street to the police telephone booth, locked and ran down to Mindelbauer's drug store. He was sobbing heavily when he lurched in before the astonished druggist.

"Call—the police—quick!" he gasped. "Casey—he's shot back of—back of Silverstein's!"

Then the matter was out of the boy's hands. They found Casey with the light still shining on his face. He wasn't dead but he was still unconscious when they lifted him into the ambulance.

Dan O'Shea watched and shivered at the back of the crowd. His hands clenched.

He stared at the ground and beheld the fixed gaze a seething volcano of vengeful thoughts mingled with recrimination.

He had been right there. He might have saved Casey. He didn't know how but he was sure he might have done something. He might have taken the bullet.

He sought out Captain Atkinson.

"About Casey," he said wetting his lips bravely, "How—how bad is he hurt?"

Atkinson looked down kindly.

"Not bad. Don't worry, son. A cop takes those things and forgets 'em in a few weeks."

Dan looked intently at the officer. He suspected a doubt in the captain's mind.

Atkinson was watching him curiously, too.

The boy's face seemed pinched, hard. His hands were still clenched and teeth caught his lower lip.

"Captain Atkinson," he said slowly, "would it make Casey feel better—I mean if he—? He stopped abruptly then started over, "Would it make Casey feel better if the guy was caught?"

"I think it would make us all feel better."

Dan looked thoughtfully at his feet.

"Okay," he said soberly.

The captain looked doubtfully at the boy as Dan turned away but did not stay him and early next morning Dan had called the night riders; the boy's gang of the Ninth ward, in solemn session.

Dan took charge. He seemed vastly older since the day before and the boys obeyed his quick orders without question.

He scattered them toward the different city gangs within an hour and waited grimly, as self-appointed chief investigator for the reports.

Eight of the boys had come in with blanks when Izzy Lowenthal returned, proud as a peacock of the news he bore.

"It was a guy named Lefty Peters. Lives in Red Chief Dugan's territory." He fumbled in a pocket.

"Here's the address. I had to screw the dope out of Red Chief Peters passed some of the Silverstein steel on one of the kids' old man. Then he asked another who

Artificial Moonlight And Blackouts

A correspondent of the Associated Press is responsible for this illumination:

Artificial moonlight is helping brighten the way in blacked-out Berlin these long Winter nights.

It isn't exactly what the lovers ordered but the combination of ultraviolet rays and luminous paint is a welcome substitute to those who must be about after dark.

Here's how it works: At nightfall little ultra-violet ray lights are turned on and their rays are reflected against curb stones, street corners, walls and fences painted a light gray color.

The result is a soft, silvery-yellow light which conforms with blackout orders because it is not visible from above, even to low-flying planes.

Potsdamerplatz, one of Berlin's busiest downtown squares, glows nightly under this man-made moonlight, facilitating traffic, and guiding pedestrians in safety zones.

The lighting effect—cheap, durable and efficient—is a by-product of artificial tar production and was developed by the German dye trust.

Numerous other luminous paints have been worked out by chemists of the dye trust. For instance, you may obtain blackout lights in such colors as violet, green, blue, yellow, orange and red.

These paints have replaced simple whitewash which was daubed on curbs, lamp posts and sidewalks when the war brought on strict night-blackouts.

Show windows, movie theater fronts and facades of other public places soon will be luminous-painted to help lighten up the streets at night.

Another adaption to wartime conditions is the switch by many motorists from gasoline to gas. A slight alteration of the carburetor is all that is necessary for the change in fuels.

The gas, a by-product of synthetic gasoline production, was being used by 40,000 heavy trucks and omnibuses in Germany at the end of December.

Private motorists likewise have turned in ever-increasing numbers to the fuel substitute, which they carry in steel cylinders on rear luggage racks.

Right now there is a problem for gas users because of a scarcity of gas filling stations, but the authorities say this difficulty will be overcome shortly with completion of numerous new stations throughout Germany.

TWO CROPS BY SOWING LESPEDEZA

It may be impossible to get something for nothing, but farmers can get two crops from the same land with very little extra effort by sowing lespedeza on their small grain, agricultural workers in Chilton County point out.

Annual lespedeza, where adapted, is also one of the best plants for erosion control when used in rotations on cultivated crop land, according to County Agent, Mr. J. W. Fant and Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service in the CCC camp area, Clanton, Alabama.

Since it does not require extra plowing of the land when sown on small grain and can be seeded when the farmer is not busy with other crops annual lespedeza fits in well with the farmer's rotation. If left a second year it reseeds itself on the land.

Under favorable conditions, annual lespedeza makes large yields of good hay and, if cut early, will make sufficient additional growth before frost to give excellent winter protection to their land and leave considerable material to be turned under. It produces plenty of seed that can be harvested for increasing the acreage of the crop without additional seed cost.

Annual lespedeza responds well to phosphate and on poor soils it is important to apply at least 200 pounds per acre of 16 per cent superphosphate, or its equivalent, either to the oats when it is planted in the fall or to the lespedeza when it is seeded on the oats early in March.

Following penalization of several states for misuse of road funds by withdrawal of a part of their share of Federal highway aid funds, there has been a decline in such misuse of highway user taxes.

Lomax News

We are glad to say that the health of our little town is improving. Everybody is getting better or more used to the cold bad weather.

There were services at the Church of Christ last Sunday, but the night service was postponed on account of the bad weather.

Next Sunday, February 4, Brother Daniel will celebrate his eighteenth birthday and is expecting several preachers and all his children and friends to come help him celebrate. Perhaps we will have several sermons if the weather permits.

Mrs. Killingsworth was visited Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Burnett and daughter, Minnie Ruth; Mrs. E. Shirley and daughter, Miss Mildred Deason and others.

Mr. Earl Ward visited in Clanton Sunday afternoon.

Misses Lou and Pearl Thomas visited Mrs. Killingsworth Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson are on the road to recovery after a siege of the flu.

Miss Mildred Deason visited Miss Obera Jackson Sunday afternoon.

SHOULTS HOME DEM. CLUB

The Shoults Home Demonstration Club met at the regular meeting place Monday, January 22 with fourteen members present.

We enjoyed a discussion of home improvement, and beautification of our outdoor surroundings.

We wish to make an appeal to every woman that is not associated with a Club of their community to take advantage of the opportunity that is brought to their door. Just lay aside their home work one afternoon each month and join in this great work that is being encouraged by our Government.

Read your farm papers, listen in on your radio to the Farm and Home Hour programs and see what great things are being accomplished by the Home Demonstration work throughout our nation.

We feel sure you will become more interested and it will inspire you to want to help to bring our State, County and your community up to the standards of our sister states, counties and communities.

Now, won't you join our band of workers and help us aid Miss Barber in this great work of making better homes, better gardens and last, but not least, better communities?

Why should we not become one of the outstanding counties of our state, with such leaders, as Mr. Fant, Mr. Breedlove and Miss Barber?

ANOTHER MEMORABLE WINTER

It is popular pastime these days to compare this weathering with something in the past, such as the great freeze of February 1899, but this 1940 siege is rapidly making a record with which there will be nothing in Alabama's past to compare.

Among the memorable and historic winters in this part of the country was 1813. On December 23 of that year was fought the battle of the Holy Ground The Holy Ground of the Indians was on the Alabama river a few miles below Montgomery in the area between the mouth of Pintalla creek and Big Swamp creek. The Indians under Weatherford's leadership were defeated and driven out by the men under General Claiborne, but the whites suffered terrible hardship for the next few days because of the bitter cold. It was in this battle that Weatherford made his famous escape on his horse named Arrow by jumping off a 15 foot cliff into the Alabama River and swimming across to the other side.

As we sit by warm radiators and firesides today we owe something to those soldiers who rescued this territory from the Indians in zero weather.—Alabama Journal.

The Selma Charity League has set the date of March 29, the Friday following Easter, for its annual charity dance. The affair will be elaborately staged at Ft. W. W. Quarles, the local armory, and will be carried out in the nature of a county fair dance. Guests will wear farm costumes, as a novelty feature of the occasion.

Trainer Bites Dog:

Says It's Effective

WALTHAM, MASS. — "Man bites dog" may be news to most people, but not to Joseph Lawlor, 32. A dog trainer, he bites dogs as part of his training technique.

Lawlor's theory is that a retaliatory bite quickly teaches a dog how it feels when that same dog has bitten someone.

Boatman Keeps Eye On Bridge Workers

Detailed to Rescue Anyone Who Should Fall.

ST. LOUIS.—Every day for the last six months Ben Dudley, a weather-beaten, 42-year-old life-guard, has rowed out into the Mississippi river. For eight hours each of those days he has sat in his anchored boat, staring up at the Eads bridge and watching painters go about their work, like small spiders in the web of cables, beams and braces.

Dudley keeps his eye on the workmen, because he gets paid for it. If one of them should fall, Dudley is there to fish him out. So far none has fallen. Three paint brushes have been dropped the 100-odd feet from the bridge to the river, and Dudley has retrieved each one.

Once he pulled out the body of a woman, after the workmen called his attention to it. He tied a rope to the dress and towed the body to shore. Otherwise, Dudley says, it's pretty dull.

"I just sit and twiddle with one side to the other," he says. "I'm not even allowed to fish. I have to keep my mind on what I'm doing."

Although he is not an expert swimmer and has never had a chance to fish a workman out of the water, Dudley says he is confident he can do it.

He keeps two gallon cans ready to throw out to keep afloat anyone who should be hapless enough to fall from the bridge. Those would be of little help, however, because if a man fell from the bridge to the water he'd be in no condition to help himself, Dudley says.

Crews on trains crossing the bridge are getting to know him, Dudley says, and they throw him a can of coal as a greeting when they pass overhead. River pilots are becoming friendly, too.

"They used to kick up rollers," Dudley exclaims. "But now they turn the rear of their boats away as they come toward me, sending the rollers toward the shore. There is some kind of law that says if you turn a man over in his boat you got to go after him."

"Yep, I get pretty tired of looking at that bridge, the power plant and the excruciating cold all the time," he says. "But you sure have lots of time to think."

Girl, 19, Watches Long Trap Line on Lonely Isle

KODIAK, ALASKA.—Miss Patricia ("Pat") Haracich, 19-year-old University of California at Los Angeles co-ed, uses a direct approach for the problem of getting a fox fur.

Instead of buying them in Hollywood, today she is on a lonely Aleutian island, trapping foxes in partnership with her father, Edward L. Haracich, Kiska island rancher.

She covers a 20-mile trap line, sleeping at night in a "barabara"—a native shelter made of driftwood and thatched with sod. Miss Haracich, who was to be enrolled as a sophomore at U. C. L. A. this year, is a capable marksman and knows her way around Alaskan wilds as well as Hollywood boulevard.

When she was only 15 she obtained 20 licenses on Adak island and this year expects to equal or better that performance. Until she returns to the United States next spring, her only contact with the states will be a small radio.

Miss Haracich is studying navigation in college and hopes some day to sail a boat to Alaska.

Slingshooting Farmer Drops His Blackbirds

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS.—Thanks to a couple of old-fashioned slingshots, Farmer Virgil Jones saved his maize crops from the blackbirds while neighbors all around him were losing theirs.

Jones rigged up the slingshots for himself and son, Billy Ray, seven years old, when swarms of blackbirds descended on their maize fields. The "ammunition train," keeping cloth bags filled with pebbles and relaying them to the "artillerymen."

For four weeks they patrolled the field almost from dawn to dark, keeping the blackbirds on the move. Finally the discouraged birds left.

BARONS, ALTA.—Residents of this town are smarting under the unconscious irony of a Calgary motorist who recently was caught driving through here at 40 miles an hour.

"Frankly, I wasn't sure I was in Barons," said Withell. "I've never been there before."

Father, 74, Kills His Own Son

Argument Over Insurance Money Leads To Slaying Of Claude Kornegay

The citizens of Bibb County were shocked to learn that Claude B. Kornegay, age 39, had been shot and killed by his father, Mr. Barney O. Kornegay early last Friday morning at the old home place of Mr. Kornegay on Centreville, Route 1.

According to reliable reports, Mr. Kornegay and his son had been in an argument over insurance money, and other family affairs Thursday night. Early Friday morning, Claude went to the barn to feed his stock, and also went by the old home place, when his father approached him and shot him on the side of the face with a .38 calibre pistol. This shot stunned Claude, but he managed to drag himself to his home about three hundred yards away, where his little girl got a pan of water to bathe the wound. Claude sent his wife after the doctor, and before she had gone very far, Claude's father entered the house and shot him two more times in the body.

These last two shots were said to have been fired in the presence of Claude's children. Mr. Kornegay then left his son to die, and carried three of the children to another son's home about two miles away, where the Sheriff found him in bed with his pistol under his pillow which had been reloaded.

When Sheriff Harris and his deputies went to Claude's home looking for Mr. Kornegay, they found Claude sitting in a chair dead, with no one at home.

There had been family arguments for several months, which was climaxed in the killing of his son, Claude. Mr. Kornegay was placed in jail Friday morning about 9:30 by Sheriff Vernon Harris, and Joe McCalla and Percy Cottingham, deputies. He did not resist arrest, but was reported to have been drinking at the time he was placed in jail, where he is being held on a murder charge without bond.—Centreville Press.

TV Aquisitions Cause Tax Losses

Washington — John W. Lapsley, representing the governor of Alabama, told the House military affairs committee Friday that acquisition of Birmingham utilities by the Tennessee Valley Authority would mean a revenue loss to the state of $1,500,000 a year.

This loss, Lapsley said, would amount to one-half of total state revenue from power companies. At present, he added, tax losses in Alabama due to TVA acquisitions amount to $307,000.

The committee is considering a bill which would authorize the TVA to use 10 per cent of its power revenues as a contribution to states and counties which have lost ad valorem taxes formerly paid by private utilities. The amendment, which is sponsored by TVA, would graduate the 10 per cent down to five per cent by 1948.

Alabama, Lapsley asserted, does not stand to lose as much in tax revenues as Tennessee. Therefore, he said, "in a sense, I am appearing more for Tennessee than Alabama."

First Baptist Church

Oscar A. Davis, Pastor
Clanton, Alabama

A brief statement is offered concerning the steam boiler of the First Baptist Church. To correct two errors, the boiler did not burst as a result of the freeze or because of excessive steam pressure on the Sunday of January 21. The boiler, has been broken for years, but by welding processes was deemed fairly adequate for the heating needs of the church. The added load of daily use occasioned by the use of the church for the high school and Sunday services proved too much. The boiler is now repaired and will be operating as soon as the water system will function again, a difficulty that should meet with sympathy from all. The church people regret any delay to the high school people and program, and amid interruptions to the church program as well, rejoice that a fine mutual understanding prevails.—Oscar A. Davis, pastor.

Announcements

Regular services are announced for next Sunday, February 4. The morning service begins with Sunday School at 9:45 and worship at 11:00. The evening hour will begin with Training Union activities at 6:00 and worship service at 7:00. All members are urged to attend both services and visitors are welcome. The pastor will preach at both morning and evening services.

All Circles of the W. M. S. will meet at the church on Monday afternoon at 3:00 for the monthly business meeting. Circle No. 6 giving the devotional.

All groups of the Sunbeams will meet at the church Tuesday at 3:15. All boys and girls ages 3-9 are invited. Mrs. John Higgins, Mrs. Bill Minor and Mrs. Leo Thompson, Counselors.

Members of the Y.W.A. met Monday night at 7:00 o'clock, with Mrs. Martha Jule Blackshear at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullins.

DIEF IS OPTIMISTIC

The other day L. E. Diefenderfer, the Clanton and Chilton County businessman and fruit and vegetable grower, came to Montgomery to confer with officials of the Department of Agriculture.

Dief is authority for the statement that Chilton County will have additional thousands of peach trees come into bearing this year. And he is looking for a much larger strawberry acreage.

Dief is a believer in crops other than cotton. He thinks a little cotton is a good thing but too much cotton is a curse and he has been preaching that doctrine in Chilton for many years and Chilton has snapped out of the one crop idea.—Atticus Mullin in The Montgomery Advertiser.

Canadaian political leaders are setting up campaign machinery for what is expected to be the hottest political campaign in 20 years. The purpose is to determine the sentiment of the people in regard to the European war.

ELMORE'S GROWTH

V. J. Elmore and company with headquarters at Clanton looks back on another successful year. This five and ten cent business established by Mr. Elmore, an Alabama farm boy, shows there is plenty of opportunity left in Alabama. Mr. Elmore had been a clerk and merchant for several years in 1925 at the age of 37 he started his first cash five and ten cent store in Clanton. Every year added to the business. Today he has 33 stores in thirty-three Alabama cities, has 1,200 employees and last year did a million dollar business. He trains his own employees and as they learn the business they are put in charge of new stores.—Alabama Journal.

Among those attending the first showing of "Gone With The Wind" in Montgomery were Mr. and Mrs. Grady Healin and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hayes.

CIRCLE MEETINGS

Circle Four Of Canton Baptist Church Met With Mrs. Bean

Circle Number Four of the Clanton Baptist W. M. S. held its monthly business meeting on Monday afternoon, January 22, at the home of Mrs. Willie Bean. Sixteen members were present, four of them new ones, which were welcomed.

Devotional was given by Mrs. Bean, chairman, and was taken from the 4th chap. of first John. Many outstanding points were given in the theme, which was "Love." Duties of all officers were explained. Mrs. W. C. Golden gave the history of our song for the year, the song being "How Firm A Foundation."

Delicious refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames Alva Mahan, W. C. Golden, Reid Mullins, Mell Martin, Simpson, J. W. Fant, Curlee, J. D. Williams, Parker Taylor, Spurgeon Calloway, L. A. Calloway, Denny Boman, Reeves, Willie Bean and Morris Keen.

The meeting was dismissed with Mizpah.

Circle One Of Baptist W.M.S. Met
Circle Number One of the Baptist W.M.S. gave a program on the eternal and steadfast purpose in a changing world.

Mrs. R. L. Bryson gave the devotional, "Learning to Love The Bible." Mrs. Arthur Willis introduced the watchword and hymn for the year, assisted by Mrs. J. T. Rockett, Mrs. G. C. Walker and Mrs. Ed Cooper. Mrs. Oscar Davis gave the promise of redemption. Mrs. Jimmie Taylor gave the fulfillment of redemption.

The following took part in the proof of redemption.
Mrs. J. R. Hardy—"A Changed Life," Mrs. Charles Wade, "Consecrated Service," Mrs. G. C. Walker, "Passing The Gospel To Others," Mrs. J. P. Hayes, "Sacrificial Living."

Mrs. Davis closed with the poem, "As Year Succeds To Year." Mrs. Ellis gave "Jesus Shall Reign."
Circle Number Three had the largest attendance. Mrs. P. T. Hinkle, Chairman. Circle Number Four came second, Mrs. Willie Bean, Chairman.

Miss Salye Gowan Hostess To Martha Thomas Ellis, Jr. G. A.

Salye Gowan was hostess to the Martha Thomas Ellis Jr. G. A. of the Clanton Baptist Church on Thursday, January 25, at a regular program meeting.

Despite the snow-covered ground, 8 members and 1 visitor were present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Warren Wingard. Mary Lee Gray gave the devotional with several members taking part.

The main thought throughout the devotional and program was reasons for thanksgiving because of the promises and their fulfillment related throughout the Bible.

The meeting closed with the song, "Living For Jesus," as a prayer. Refreshments were served to the following: Salye Gowan, Gwendolyn Atkinson, Martha Wingard, Warren Wingard, Annie Cordelia Smith, Molly Belle Ousley, Bartelle Holmes, Mary Frances Duke and visitors who were The Dunn, Martha Massey, Mary C. Arnold, Kathryn Hoover and Miss Wells.

Martha Jule Blackshear will be hostess at the next Y.W.A. meeting at the home of Mrs. J. R. Mullins on February 5.

Intermediate G.A. Met With Miss Lowe

On Wednesday, January 17, the Intermediate G.A. met at the home of Bernice Lowe.

The topic of the lesson was "What Am I Here For?" Reita Thomas, Hazel Thomas, Mary Frances Griffin, Dorothy Bousinger, Joan Ann Atkinson, Pearl Henley and Dorothy Arnold took part on the program.

Delightful refreshments were served to the following: Dorothy Arnold, Reita Thomas, Hazel Thomas, Doris Bousinger, Dorothy Bousinger, Pearl Henley, Elizabeth Dennis, Mary Frances Griffin, Joan Atkinson, Edna R. Lowe, Bernice Lowe, Kathryn Armstrong, Sybil Littlejohn, Frances Bean, Juanita Miller, Doris Bishop and Bernice Lowe. Visitors were Ruth Vinson, and Jeanette Smith.

Every employer is now required to give a receipt to each employee showing amount of Federal insurance tax deducted from his or her wages. The penalty for failure to do so is $5.

reply to my letter of resignation in April, 1939:

"April 14, 1939.

"Mr. Cohen E. Stapp, Selma, Ala.

"Dear Cohen:

"It is with extreme regret that the Directors of the Dallas Compress Company accept your resignation effective May 1st, as contained in your letter to me of the 12th inst.

"We appreciate greatly the service that you have rendered the Dallas Compress Company during the period of years of your affiliation with same, and your loyal and intelligent services have redounded in every way to the benefit of the Company.

"We understand the reason of your resignation and for that cause I am making no effort to dissuade you from your present ambition for your future career.

"In consideration and appreciation of the service rendered the Company, the Directors unanimously agreed to accept your resignation as of May 1st, but to continue to pay your monthly salary for the months of May, June, July and August to give you some tangible idea of our regard.

"Assuring you of the writer's deep regret at the severance of your active relation with our Company, and hoping that you will find occasion to visit with us often and wishing you every success in your coming race, we are,

"Sincerely yours,

"Dallas Compress Company,

"Maurice Bloch, president."

"In 1933 many of my friends urged me to run in 1934 for the office of Judge of Probate, but I declined the idea. Since 1934 and especially in 1937 and 1938, hardly a week passed but that many of my friends urged me to seek the nomination in 1940. Last Spring I mailed letters to 5500 people asking their idea of my seeking the nomination for the office of Judge of Probate. Some of the letters were returned undelivered because of incorrect addresses, but I received approximately three thousand replies to my letter. Of the 3000 replies 84 per cent advised they would support me, 10 per cent advised that because of party or other reasons they would not support me and 6 per cent advised they were undecided.

"Since then hundreds of my friends have advised me that for various reasons they did not reply to my letter, but that I could count on their support. I appreciate very highly the interest and confidence my friends have displayed. In seeking the nomination, I feel that my training, my knowledge of the people of Chilton County and of their agricultural problems and my interest in seeing Chilton County prosper, that if elected to the highest office in the County, I will be able to give to the people a sympathetic, understanding, fair, honest and progressive administration. I will do my best to bring good will, peace and harmony between all groups for the best interest of the County."

GRAGG FIELD WILL GET LIGHTS BY NEXT JUNE

EXTENSION OF AIR LINE WILL CAUSE LOCAL FIELD TO BE LIGHTED THIS YEAR

Clanton's Airport, Gragg Field, has been designated as a night emergency landing field, and will be lighted sometime between now and June, it is understood.

Dr. V. J. Gragg informed the News Tuesday night that he had received a communication to this effect from Asa Runnaker, State Director of Airfields, several days ago. The Clanton field has been designated as an emergency day port for several months, but due to the fact that an extension of the Memphis-Tampa air line, which will necessitate night flying, is to be made, Clanton's field has been chosen as an emergency night landing field.

Two other landing fields on this air line will be lighted, it is understood, Troy being one. The other field to be lighted was not learned. The line will be extended from Kansas City to Miami.

Pilots Observe Annual "Bosses Night"

"Bosses Night," an annual affair held by the Clanton Pilot Club, was held at the Clanton Methodist Church on Wednesday night, January 31. This was, as in the past, a most enjoyable affair. On "Bosses Night" members of the club, composed of leading business and professional women of Clanton, have their boss as guest at a banquet.

Mrs. Parrish at the piano played the Pilot song as the members and their guests gathered at the banquet table. Invocation was by Miss Nolen McRoney. Introduction of guests followed and the welcome was given by Miss Ruth Sessions.

A most interesting program in charge of Mrs. Luther E. Little, was enjoyed by members and guests. Decorations were in "Chit' colors," green and gold, with place cards bearing out the same idea. The evening came to an end all too soon with the singing of "There Are Bosses" to the tune of "Smiles," and "Smiles" in International.

War On Rats On In City

The rat eradication program being staged by the City of Clanton is well underway this week. Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated that approximately 1500 pounds of ground beef is being used in the work as bait for the rats. This program, which will continue for approximately two months, is being supervised by the Health Department. WPA labor is being used, and the City is paying for the materials used.

Last Monday morning a film made by the State Health Department, was shown at the City Hall, and was viewed by approximately twenty-five men who are to administer the poison and do the work. This film showed the exact procedure to use.

Besides the ground beef, rolled oats is also being used in the eradication work, and a follow-up with traps will be forthcoming near the end of the campaign. There is no doubt, the Mayor stated, that this is one of the most worthwhile programs the City has ever sponsored, and he expressed the wish and belief that the city's business men and residents would cooperate. It is understood that the poison to be used is harmless to any other animals other than rats, and that dog owners may have no fear that their animal would be poisoned.

Old Man Winter Monopolizes Ice Production Here

"I'll furnish the ice," was the statement old man Winter made here one day during the extreme cold spell, it is understood. This old gentleman not only dealt the water pipes of the city misery in Clanton during the past cold spell, but he decided that as long as he was on the job in a big way that he neither needed nor wanted competition, and proceeded to do something about it.

We're told this is what happened: The local ice plant was running as usual, for without a doubt some ice is needed in the coldest of weather, and so the local plant, as a conscientious business, was seeing that no one was wanting for ice. But lo and behold, one of our coldest nights put the "freeze" on the ice plant, and attendants at the plant were unable to furnish ice—the ice plant was frozen up.

Named Chairman Of Finnish Relief Fund

THOMAS W. MARTIN

Thomas W. Martin, President of the Alabama Power Company, last week accepted the chairmanship for Alabama of the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., succeeding Mr. Oscar Wells, chairman of the Board of the First National Bank, who was obliged to resign because of illness.

In his acceptance of the chairmanship for the relief of Finnish women and children, made homeless and destitute by the ravages of war, Mr. Martin stated:

"The Finnish people have come to be greatly admired by many of the American people. They have been the only foreign nation to make prompt payment of their obligations to the United States. In addition, our admiration for the Finns has become crystallized by their fortitude and bravery in the face of unwarranted military invasion.

"In accepting the chairmanship of the Fund for Alabama, I did so feeling confident that many Alabama citizens would want to participate in this humanitarian effort."

DIXON ASSAILS FARM FUND CUT

GOVERNOR TERMS
CONGRESS ACT
MISTAKEN ECONOMY

Trimming of parity payments to farmers and reduction of funds for fighting farm pests and cattle diseases were labeled by Governor Dixon Friday as "mistaken economy."

The executive issued a formal statement attacking the move in congress to reduce appropriations aiding agriculture, and he praised the work of Senator Bankhead (D.), Alabama.

Dixon's statement follows: "Economy, of course, is essential in the operation of any government. But the economy that cuts out parity payments for farmers, appropriations for the control of Bang's disease in cattle and of the white fringed beetle is a mistaken economy.

Three Essentials

"These three things are absolutely essential to agriculture in Alabama. One of the reasons for the lack of balance in our national life in the past has been failure to recognize the needs of the agricultural sections of the country. They have in recent years received this recognition. It simply isn't possible to turn back now.

"Alabama and the other agricultural states are fortunate in having John Hollis Bankhead in the senate to carry on the fight for them. He understands intimately our needs and is able to do something about them. We must give him and the other members of the congressional delegation all the support possible in this fight—Alabama Journal.

MARTIN-KELLEY WEDDING EVENT OF LAST SATURDAY

On last Saturday night, February 3, Miss Rolene Kelley became the bride of Howard Martin at the home of Rev. G. G. Williams, with Rev. Williams performing the ceremony in the presence of a few friends and relatives. Mrs. Martin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kelley and enjoys a wide acquaintance. Mr. Martin is the son of Mrs. Jasper Dennis of Clanton, and is well known in Clanton County. The young couple will make their home in South Clanton.

POPWELL TWINS MAKE ADDITIONS TO BUSINESS

The Popwell Radio & Electric Co. has just purchased a complete line of new parts and tubes for all makes of radios, an adv. in this issue states. Scouts Entertain Lions With One-Act Play

The Clanton Boy Scouts entertained the Clanton Lions at the regular meeting last Friday evening. This entertainment consisted of a one-act play, "Boy For Sale." Scoutmaster Joe Earl Gowan is due much credit and the boys are to be highly complimented on their splendid work in this play. "Boys For Sale" is a play that every mother and father in Clanton should see and think about. The Lions enjoyed it very much.

Next regular meeting of the Club will be held at the same place, First Baptist Church the third Friday night in February at 7:30 o'clock.

CHICAGO GETS DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

NATIONAL CHAIRMAN JAMES A. FARLEY TO SET THE MEETING DATE LATER

Washington—The Democrats chose Chicago, a center of pro-third term activity, as their 1940 convention city Monday and left it to National Chairman James A. Farley to set the date, presumably after he learns when the Republicans will meet.

These decisions were reached at an excited and sometimes turbulent meeting of the party's national committee, which saw Houston, Tex., in Vice President Garner's own state, vainly offer $200,000 for the convention, $50,000 more than Chicago's bid.

Chicago's nearest competitor, in fact was Philadelphia, which also offered $150,000. For a moment, it appeared that Philadelphia, might win, but then members from Western states who had cast their votes for San Francisco and, in some cases for Houston, switched to the Illinois city. The final count was Chicago 48, Philadelphia 38, San Francisco 7 and Houston 2. One of the last two votes was cast by Garner himself.

OAT CROP OF COUNTY SUFFERS FROM THE SEVERE COLD SPELL

It takes a mighty cold spell to permanently damage oats, but County Agent J. W. Fant reports that the oat crop of the County had been hit pretty hard but would probably come out favorably in the spring.

SON OF MR. AND MRS. JOHN M. BRIDGES IN FAMOUS CHOIR

James Louis Bridges, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bridges of Bessemer, and grandson of Judge and Mrs. L.H. Reynolds, became a member of the Apollo Boys Choir, in January.

This world famous choir, under the direction of Coleman Cooper, left Birmingham February 3 for a two months tour of the principal cities of Florida. In the summer the choir will take part in the North Carolina Bach Festival. The friends of the former Miss Winnie Reynolds will be pleased to know of this unique opportunity coming to her son. Aside from its musical requisites, only boys with B plus grades as well as impeccable character are considered for membership in the Apollo Boys Choir.

SUNDAY IS "PAY UP DAY" AT CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Dr. J. E. Edgar, chairman of the Board of Stewards of the Clanton Methodist Church, makes the following statement this week:

"Sunday is 'pay up' day for the Methodist Church. Our first quarterly conference will be held next Wednesday, February 14.

"Those of you who are behind with your pledges, make every effort to bring them up to date Sunday so that we can give a full report at the quarterly conference."

611 NEW VOTERS REGISTERED BY BOARD HERE

2675 PAY POLL TAX; VOTING STRENGTH OF COUNTY INCREASED

2675 persons paid poll tax in Clanton County before the books in the office of the Tax Collector closed February 1st, it was learned by the records in that office this week. Of this number 611 were new voters—those who became of age this year in the coming elections.

It is believed that the voting strength of the county as a whole has been increased to some extent. A list of the county's qualified voters will be compiled and published next month, it was announced by the Probate office here.

NOTICE

The County meeting of F. E. and C. U. of A. will be held at Mt. Pleasant Saturday, February 10, beginning at 10 A. M. The public is cordially invited. We will have with us Rev. Culp, County President.

Federal Insurance Receipts Must Be Given

Employers are now required by law to give their employees receipts for the money taken out of their wages for old-age and survivors insurance taxes, according to A. C. Herzberg, manager of the Social Security Board field office at Montgomery, Alabama. This new requirement of the Social Security Act, he explained, went into effect the first of this year.

Mr. Herzberg pointed out that formerly the employer was only required to furnish the employee with a notation which would permit him to check the accuracy of the deduction. "This," he said, "could be included on a pay check which would, of course, eventually be returned to the employer. But now the law specifically stipulates that 'suitable for retention by the employee.' The employer must furnish a statement He added that the law provides a $5 penalty for each willful violation of this provision.

Certain specified information must be included on the receipt but the wording is left to the employer. In addition to the amount of tax deducted, the receipt must show the name of the employer, the name of the employee, the period of time covered by the receipt, and the total amount of wages paid to the employee during this period.

Employers are required to furnish such receipts at least once a year and may furnish them oftener—every quarter, or every pay day, as they see fit. The receipt must be given to the employee within two months after the end of the pay period which it covers, and, in any case, when the employee leaves the job.

Important Notice

All farmers who are going to grow beans or tomatoes for marketing through this Association will meet at the Court House in Clanton Saturday, February 10 at 1:00 P.M. for final instructions. It is most important for you to come to this meeting as the management must have definite knowledge of the acreage to be planted in order to make proper arrangements for new bean hampers, tomato lugs, and all items pertaining to properly marketing this crop, and this is the final meeting so come Saturday, the 10th—place, Court House; time, 1:00 P.M.—R. M. Roper, pres.; J. N. Dennis, Sec.-Treas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hughes, of Montgomery visited Mrs. C.D. Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Hand over the week end.

LAND PLANNING PROGRAM GETS UNDERWAY

COUNTY AGENT PUSHING LAND USE PLANNING FOR FARMS OF THIS COUNTY

Four meetings were held January 29 and 30 on land use planning in Clanton County. This work was started in the state last year but these meetings are the beginning of this program in Clanton County. There were fifty farmers and viarm women attending these meetings.

Land use planning is an attempt to analyze the natural resources of an area, County Agent J. W. Fant explained this week, then determine the use for which the area is best adapted under present and prospective future conditions. This is done not merely from the standpoint of the individual, but by taking into consideration the welfare of the group as a whole. The attack on the problem of land use planning may be divided into three steps or stages as follows:

1. Analyze the situation and classify the land according to the comparative usefulness for agriculture and other purposes under present and prospective future conditions. The area in question will be mapped taking into consideration the various factors involved, such as climate, soil topography, roads, etc.

2. Determine the type of farming most desirable in each area. Farm and home management, marketing, and outlook data will be important aids in reaching this determination. Data in agronomy, livestock, soil erosion, forestry, and other subject matter. Fields will also be necessary.

3. Assist in bringing about the adjustments necessary for this type of farming and in solving the problems that have been brought out. It means fitting the farm and home management. (Continued to Back Page)

FORMER CHILTON CITIZEN KILLED IN FREAK ACCIDENT

Mr. Charlie C. Smith, formerly of the Enterprise community, in this county, met a tragic death last Thursday shortly after noon when two cars collided and piled up on Mr. Smith and another man, Mr. Gunn, as the two were walking along a side walk in Lanett, Ala.

Mr. Smith, age 62, is the father of Mrs. Orie D. DeLoach of Clanton; Mr. Gunn a next door neighbor of Mr. Smith in Lanett, was 47 years old. The lives of both men were snuffed out so quickly that they likely did not realize what had happened to them. Both legs of Mr. Smith were cut off and the rest of his body mangled. The body of Mr. Gunn was badly mutilated. A double funeral was held at the Lanett Methodist Church Friday afternoon, and burial was in the Lanett cemetery.

Mr. Smith, a brother of Mr. Perry Smith of Enterprise community, had been living in Lanett for several years, having moved away from Enterprise community when a young man. Surviving is the wife, five daughters—Mrs. O. D. DeLoach of Clanton, Mrs. J. C. Day of Milan, Ga., Mrs. Bill Bailey and another married daughter in Lanett, and Miss Alice Smith of Lanett; three sons, Perry L. Smith of Bessemer, Pershing Smith and Leon Smith of Lanett, Ala.

DR. W. L. PARRISH TO BE GUEST SPEAKER AT KIWANIS CLUB

"Livestock In Clanton County," will be the subject discussed at the regular Thursday night luncheon of the Clanton Kiwanis Club at the Thomson Hotel tonight. Dr. W. L. Parrish will be the speaker of the evening and all members are urged to attend and be on time. Dr. Parrish is expected to bring interesting information on this subject.

On the following Thursday night, February 15, Kiwanian Horton Walker will be in charge of a program based on "Preparedness," and a most interesting program is anticipated. An out-of-town speaker will be present to address the Club.

This paper is glad to join in the appeal of the Finnish Relief Fund Inc. Scouting Beckons All Boys

Troop 57, Clanton Boy Scouts, has been active for the past several years. These boys deserve the backing of the entire citizenship of Clanton. The local troop is constantly on the job when it comes to being of assistance on the streets, directing traffic, etc. Twelve boys meet regularly under the leadership of Scoutmaster Joe Earl Gowan. They are as follows: James Carl Martin, Guy Higgins, Paul Gowan, Ferrill Williamson, Billy Callen, Oscar Jones, Thad McSwain, Joe Frank Higgins, Marvin Bates, Roscoe Smelter, Flem Higgins, James Duke Herby.

The Thorsby Boy Scouts are active, also, and to all these young men, Clanton County News joins in extending best wishes on the thirtieth anniversary of their organization.

Value of Aid Rendered Alabamians Through WPA Program

More Than Twenty Millions Go Into Business

WAGES OF WPA WORKERS ARE SPENT QUICKLY FOR THE NECESSITIES OF LIFE

By BILLY SMITH, Publicity Director

Over twenty-three millions of dollars were poured into business coffers of Alabama during 1939 from wages paid to project workers of the Work Projects Administration, according to figures released this week by Col. W. G. Henderson, Alabama Administrator of WPA. This figure does not include salaries paid to administrative staffs nor amounts expended for supplies during the past year. The amount paid workers on WPA projects alone in Alabama in 1939 is $23,196,585.00.

In pointing out that the greatest portion of this amount went into Alabama cash registers, Col. Henderson said, "Wages of WPA workers are spent quickly and spent for the necessities of life, and some of our WPA statisticians in Washington have been figuring out, on the basis of definite information from various places and a survey of the South, just how much money has gone out of WPA wages for different things.

"They have worked out a set of percentages—of proportions which have been found to be fairly accurate. According to this, WPA wages are spent in Alabama in the following percentages for the following items: 39 per cent for food, 17 per cent for rent, 10 per cent for household operation, 4 per cent for street car and bus fare in urban areas, 4 per cent for medical care and so on.

"Taking the total amount paid to WPA workers in Alabama during the past calendar year and applying these percentages, it means that the grocery stores, the butchers and the bakers from the cross roads stores to the modern city stores received about $9,046,608.15 in trade from Alabama WPA workers during 1939.

"Clothing is not bought so much by WPA workers," Col. Henderson continued, "but altogether, according to these percentages, those firms selling cloth, overalls, shoes and other clothing in Alabama had their business boosted last year (by WPA workers) approximately $2,319,658.50. It is very seldom that you will find a WPA worker who owns his home, so, allowing 17 percent of these wages as being paid for rent in Alabama, means that the landlords received almost four millions of dollars last year—$3,943,419.45 to be exact.

"The stores that sell dishes, pots, pans, stoves, furniture, and other items used in household operation received over two millions of dollars in trade from these workers. In urban areas where workers spend their nickels to ride to and from their work on street cars or buses, these percentages show that these companies (realize about $927,863.40 in Alabama alone. Of course this leaves about 20 percent of the total amount paid Alabama WPA workers in wages. Some of this went for medical care, about four percent, and some for what little pleasure or recreation these workers may have, and so on."

Col. Henderson went on to explain that it may not be statistically proper to apply national percentages to one particular state, because WPA workers here may spend more on one item and less on another than WPA workers do elsewhere. But, he said, the results will probably not be far wrong and the percentages used here apply to the Southern States. The figures quoted here do not include salaries paid office personnel of the WPA.

"Each WPA worker with wages in his pocket is an important prop to the economy of this state," Col. Henderson said, "and the same will apply to every other state. These little items I have given here add up to quite a lot so far as the business of our state is concerned. Of course, when you divide this by the 55,000 WPA project workers in Alabama none of these amounts seem extravagant from the standpoint of the individual worker."

"This is only a part of the picture," he continued. "There is no question in our minds, and I believe the people will agree, that under our present economic conditions, Alabama would not have these thousands of customers nor would we have the advanced progress in needed construction, improvements, health, education, and other work available for the unemployed if we did not have the government aid through WPA."

Wherever you find two or three Chilton Countians gathered together these days you can bet the conversation is about the coming political campaign.

Chilton County farmers and truckers, cattle raisers, fruit and vegetable growers, are busy as bees making up for the time lost during the severe cold weather.

Mark Remarks:

The "grandmother" of all rackets is now proposing to "insure teeth."

Peace with victory for either side in Europe's war will not be peace.

All the "livestock" clattering up the highways do not travel on four feet.

If the groundhog is not a liar, we're in for about five weeks' more of winter.

Delegate to one man the power to put the nation into war, or not, when and if he thinks it proper, and we have created a dictatorship.

The U. S. instead of giving too great concern to Europe's war troubles, should be giving its undivided attention to our own No. 1 problem—unemployment.

We do not believe there is a birth control advocate in the world who would not like to be the parent of the Quads or the Quints.

Governor Dixon stated at the "broads" that Alabama was marching into the dawn. She must be mighty lonesome, because most Alabamians don't get up that early.

Every day that President Roosevelt delays in making his intentions known in regard to making the race for a third term makes his election more lonesome, because most Alabamians is one thing—election is another.

A lot of people will agree with President Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, who is quoted as saying: "Football on the whole has been a major handicap to education in the United States."

Horace Hall, formerly business manager of the Dothan Eagle, is now publisher, and his cousin, Harry P. Hall, has been appointed business manager. Two fine young men who will carry on in the true Hall traditional way.

Sooner or later Alabama will discard the unnecessary poll tax requirement of a money payment as a prerequisite to having a voice in the conduct of the State Government. It is neither sane, sensible nor satisfactory to a majority of the white population of the State.

The one thing which I think needs investigating and regulating more than anything else in America is the radio corporation. Here we have one of the world's greatest inventions—with almost unlimited possibilities for good—being used almost exclusively for broadcasting deceptive and unreliable propaganda of every description.

When Congress Friday night refused to restore the proposed $25,000,000 item for loans to convert farm tenants into landowners, it went on record for keeping the door of opportunity closed to millions of just as good Americans as the Congressmen who voted against the restorations. Unhealthy political seeds for a Democracy to be sowing at this critical time of the world's unrest.

Brother W. E. W. Yerby of the Greensboro Watchman remarks: "If you remember when the mercury registered six below in this section you are an old timer. (The date was February 12th, 1899.) I must be an 'old timer' for I remember it very well. I was living in Tuscaloosa, on University Avenue, next door to the William Cochran Pitts home, near the University of Alabama. The mode of 'rapid transit' in those days was a 'dummy.' For the benefit of those who never saw a 'dummy' I will describe it as a small locomotive, pulling one or more small coaches for passengers. It operated from the A. G. S. depot on Greensboro Avenue, via the business section of Tuscaloosa and on out by the University to Lake Loraine on the Warrior river northeast of the State Insane hospital, known then as the Peter Bryce Hospital."

John Cochran, who later built and operated the A. T. & N. Railroad between Reform and Mobile, was superintendent of the "dummy line," but the "dummy" didn't operate on February 12th, 1899; it was frozen up, and along with everybody else, I walked to town and back to get the Sunday papers. It makes me sad to think of the many close friends, among the "old timers" of that day, who have answered the call, and gone on before. I also remember the "big snow" and freeze of 1876, and the "flood" of 1886. Now if Brother Yerby remembers these also, we're both "old timers."

State Bridge Engineer J. B. Trotter says the Edmund Winston Pettus bridge spanning the Alabama River at Selma will be open to traffic by mid-April.

Judge John D. Petree, director of the State Department of Industrial Relations, says unemployed workers in Alabama has received approximately $850,000 in unemployment insurance during the past two years.

Chilton's Crop

We are informed by The Chilton County News that Chilton is looking forward to one of the best fruit and produce seasons in its history.

Long ago, Chilton County learned the futility of pinning its whole faith on cotton, and it turned to fruits, berries and vegetables. By instituting a system of grading—an essential item in the marketing of easily perishable foodstuffs—Chilton County has made a name for itself. Thousands of hamperfuls of peaches were marketed last year under the brand of "Chilco," and Chilton's strawberries have an equally good name for quality.

With Florida's early crops destroyed by the freeze, this gives every indication of being a banner year for the farmers of Alabama who have refused to be wedded to cotton. Chilton County this year will reap larger dividends than ever from its initiative and perseverance.—Tuscaloosa News.

Now—Just—One

The 70th annual meeting of the Alabama Press Association was held in Birmingham last week end. The writer had been making preparations for some time to attend this gathering of Alabama editors and publishers, which of course he did, but by doing so suffered the loss of a newspaper.

Just before leaving for the convention, my wife decided to make the trip with me (which under normal circumstances might have been a good idea), but . . . she decided to attend one of the sessions that the members were having. After doing this, she announced to me that she had learned enough to edit and publish one of my papers, and she said that she had decided that it would be The Columbia Record . . . Well—when a woman makes up her mind to do something, there's not much you can do about it. So, effective with this issue of publications, I, James W. Grant, limit, unilaterally, and under duress, become the publisher of one less newspaper.—Ashford Southeast Alabama News Ad will do the trick.

Too Tired For This?

EVERY mother would like to feel good enough, and have time enough, for a daily romp with the children. But many mothers, because their every minute—from waking time to bedtime—must be devoted to tiresome household duties, lack both the spirit and the time for such joyful play. Sometimes the fatigue brought on by the wearing monotony of work-work-work—much of it drudge-work—results in nervous irritability and depressing half-health, so that even the spirit for play weakens. And one of the great rewards of motherhood—companionship of children—cannot be realized.

We would be the last to claim that home electrification is a cure-all for "that tired feeling," or low spirits, or many other ills which beset the human body. Any doctor will tell you, however, that rest and play are essential to physical and mental well-being. Home electrical devices are time and labor savers—consequently, they do make available more time for rest and more time for play.

"Granted," you may say, "but we are not rich; we cannot afford complete home electrification." A pleasant surprise awaits you if you will visit one of our stores, or that of an electrical appliance merchant. There you will learn that for only a small down-payment and a modest amount each month, you can begin to electrify your home a step at a time, or maybe two steps at a time, and begin at once to enjoy the rewards of more time for companionship with your children. Especially recommended as time and labor savers are electric ranges, washing machines, ironers, dishwashers, vacuum cleaners and electric water heaters.

Because electricity is cheap in Alabama, you will have another surprise when you learn how little it costs to operate these electrical devices. This cost is not an added expense—it takes the place of the expense of the old-fashioned tiresome ways of doing things.

VINE CROPS

IF YOUR cucumbers, cantaloupes, or watermelons do not return the high yields and quality which mean more profit, chances are they are not getting enough potash. All vine crops are greedy feeders on potash. They use more of this important plant food than nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined.

In addition to increasing yields, potash used on cantaloupes produces a better set, more uniform size and shape, and higher sugar content. On cucumbers it makes a deeper green color, firmer flesh, and better shape. It lessens the number of crooked and pinched tips, swollen middles, and lengthy "strings." On watermelons potash reduces white heart and makes the melons sweeter, more uniform in size, and improves shipping quality.

Consult your county agent or experiment station on how much potash your soil will supply. Then make sure that your dealer sells you a fertilizer with enough potash to supply what you need. Write us for our free booklet on producing more profitable Vine Crops.

Townsend Offers
New Pension Plan

Washington.—Dr. Francis E. Townsend has proposed a new plan for paying old-age pensions up to $200 a month.

The suggestion, incorporated in a bill which Senator Downey (D., Calif.) is expected to introduce, differs from the old one mainly in that the pension fund would be derived from a 2 per cent tax on gross income of persons and companies with incomes of more than $250 a month. The old bill, defeated in the last session of Congress, provided a 2 per cent transaction tax. The funds derived from the tax would be divided monthly among citizens over 60, with a $200 limit.

MONTEVALLO WOMANS COLLEGE GETS READY FOR ANNUAL "COLLEGE NIGHT"

CHILTON GIRLS TO TAKE PART IN "COLLEGE NIGHT"

College Night—the twenty-second in the history of the Alabama College—has been slated for Friday and Saturday nights, February 23-24. In this great all-student competitive program the girls from Chilton County taking part include: Flora Jane Abney, Mary Elizabeth Balk, Lera Des Conway, Mary Lou Gaines, Doris Guy, Martha Paralee, Benson, Geraldine Hollis, Frances Mims, Margaret Kelly Moore, Kathleen Lanston, Ola Mae Parrish, Emily Arline Sawyer, Frances Sexton, and Jane Melvin Shanks who are divided into the two traditional sides, the Purples and Golds.

Already the student body has been split in half by the leaders, and an air of secrecy and preparation for this highlight of the student year grips the campus. Leader of the Purples this year is Miss Emily Pratt of Birmingham, and her assistant is Miss Ann Cannon of Opelika; leader of the Golds is Miss Jean Letson of Columbiana, aided by Miss Mary Diamond of Birmingham. Behind both of these leaders are two groups, some 500 strong, who between now and College Night will be devoting all their spare hours to the writing of music, the preparation of stage properties, and all the thousand and one necessary steps to be taken in presenting the elaborate program which the friends of the college have come to expect.

This event annually attracts to Montevallo nearly 4000 visitors—friends, sweethearts, parent, other relatives and school leaders from every corner of the State. From the indications already apparent, the twenty-second renewal of College Night is expected to outstrip all former programs in originality and elaborate detail.

'Americanism Week'
Proclaimed By Dixon
For Feb. 12 To 22

Montgomery, Ala.—Gov. Dixon Saturday proclaimed Feb. 12-22 as "National Americanism Week" and urged that each person "give due consideration to his duty of citizenship, and again renew his pledge of allegiance to the State of Alabama and the United States of America."

The proclamation said the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce was sponsoring the observance, along with Citizenship Day, Feb. 18. It also bears endorsement of President Roosevelt.

Highway transportation creates 7,000,000 jobs and generates $1,500,000 a year in taxes, a sum sufficient to pay 1,000,000 job holders salaries of $3 a week for one whole year.

President Plans
Hospital Construction

Much interest has been shown by residents of a number of Alabama communities in the plan which President Roosevelt now has under consideration for providing hospital care for a number of communities now needing them according to Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, who called attention to the plan a short time ago and urged interested citizens to communicate with him.

The new plan provides that the Federal government will meet all the construction costs of the hospitals to be built in this way and then turn them over to local groups of responsible citizens, who will be expected to give assurance that the institutions thus provided will be operated in a successful and efficient manner," he said. "It should be emphasized that no Federal financial assistance is contemplated in the way of maintenance grants. This expense will have to be assumed by the communities themselves. It is planned in this way to provide sorely needed hospital facilities for a number of communities, necessarily limited, which recognize their needs in this respect but lack the means to supply these needs."

Dr. Baker said he had been frequently impressed by the fact that many Alabama communities were in serious need of better hospital facilities for their people, especially the indigent and medically indigent, and expressed the hope that leaders in these communities would place themselves in a position to take advantage of the assistance promised by the President's plan as soon as the expected Congressional approval of the necessary appropriation is given.

Retailers Praised
For Cooperation
In Beer Clean-Up

Montgomery, Ala.—The fine cooperation by owners of Alabama's retail beer outlets in the Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee's "clean up or close up" drive was clearly reflected today in the report of David E. Dunn, State Director, showing that drastic action was necessary at only 38 of the 315 establishments investigated by the Committee last year.

Mr. Dunn made his report to the Committee's executive board composed of five Alabama wholesalers and five shipping brewers which met here and approved 1939 accomplishments in bringing about a marked improvement in the conduct of detail beer outlets.

Board members include: Wholesalers—W. P. Rollings, Mobile, chairman; David S. Meyer, Birmingham, Secretary-Treasurer; C. E. Ragan, Eufaula; David Mussafer, Montgomery; and W. F. Sparkman, Huntsville; Shipping Brewers—W. J. Hunter, Cincinnati; Richard G. Jones, Victor, Kentucky; and S. A. Schmiedje of New Orleans, and L. S. Buddington of Louisville, Kentucky.

"Owners of great majority of establishments operate in a commendable manner," Mr. Dunn said, "and their cooperation and help made possible the work accomplished last year's work that brought from the ABC Board the word your Committee has done a most constructive job."

Chairman Rollings praised the work of Director Dunn in speaking before outstanding civic and luncheon clubs in Birmingham, Mobile, Montgomery, Greenville, Eufaula, and Troy, declaring: "Your message contained two facts that interested those leaders of Alabama's business and professional life—that our work was making their communities a better place in which to live, and that the millions of tax dollars the beer industry pays annually to Federal, State, County and City Governments helped balance budgets already crippled by decreased revenue from other sources."

COMMON, KOBE, AND TENN.
ESSEE NO. 76 LESPEDEZA

The above lespedezas belong to the same species, and are distinguished chiefly by size. Tennessee No. 76 has a more erect habit of growth than the other annual lespedezas, is late in maturing, but is a heavy yielder of excellent hay. Kobe plants are larger and coarser than those of the common lespedeza, the leaflets are broader, and longer, and the seed is larger and distinctive. Kobe matures usually a little earlier than Tennessee 76. For soil improvement, common lespedeza offers great possibilities. It may be used for green manure, for hay, or for rotating with other cash crops.

While common lespedeza makes but little growth until warm weather, and continues growth until fall, it must be seeded early to get good stands. The seed should be sown either broadcast or in close drills, between January 15th, and March 15th, at the rate of 15-20 pounds per acre. When the plants are allowed to stand sufficiently late to mature seed a volunteer growth will be maintained from year to year.

Cooperators with SCS Camp Ala-7 will plant approximately 1000 pounds of the above varieties this season. Annual lespedezas will grow well in this county, the common variety occurring naturally on some of the poorer types of soil.

Congregational News

Plans are being developed to make the Lenten Season helpful in increasing the spiritual life and activity of our membership and the friends. The prayer meeting themes will fit into the readings suggested by the leaflet, "The Fellowship of Prayer," and the services of the church will follow the same line.

A "School of Religion" will be held through the week of March 17-24. The cardinal doctrines of the Christian churches will be discussed as a basis for decision for Christ and His service.

Next Sunday morning we are dismissing our church service that we may share in the Boy Scout program to be given at the Baptist Church. Our most valuable asset is our boys and girls and surely our churches are interested in any program that looks to their uplift.

Sunday School will be held at 9:45 and no change is made in the evening schedule. Christian Endeavor at 6:20. Topic for discussion, "Liberty and Justice for All—Neither Jew Nor Greek," Miss Alice Burr, leader.

Worship service at 7:00. Theme, "Jesus Mother, Brethren and Sisters."

Steve Stanley, manager of the Mitchell Dam Basketball team, has announced that his boys will meet the strong Tallassee team on the Mitchell Dam court next Monday night. The Tallassee team boasts such players as Blackie Caldwell and Hot O'Brien and many other outstanding players. This game will be worth waiting for.

Then on the following night, Tuesday, February 13, the Dammers will tangle horns with the famous Birmingham All-Stars. This game is scheduled to be played on the Mitchell Dam court, but if the weather is unfavorable and the road leading to the Dam is in bad condition, the game will be played possibly at the hangar at the Clanton Airport. This is a game that basketball fans of this section will certainly want to see, for without a doubt it will be packed with action.

THORSBY EAGLES DEFEAT ISABELLA, SCORE 24-23

The Thorsby Green Eagles hung up victory number 14 last Friday night when they won over Coach Rape's fast-stepping team by the very close score of 24-23. The game was more or less a drab affair at points, while at other periods it was very exciting. The Isabella boys jumped into a 7-3 lead the first quarter, while the Greenies were playing one of their most inconsistent brands of ball. The second quarter, however, was a different story; the Eagles came in strong, gunned up the home team's defense and shot five points to take and 8-7 lead at the half.

Isabella was unable to score this 2nd period. They did very little better the 3rd quarter, scoring only 1 point while the Thorsby lads were drilling out 9 points to command a 17-8 lead at the end of the quarter.

The final quarter saw excessive fouling on the Greenies' part almost ruin their chances for victory. Jackson, stellar center, went out on four personals. Hayes and Hilyer were forced to play cautiously, as each had two fouls pinned on them. Then to add to Thorsby's difficulties, Wee Willie Smith was charged into by an opposing player, resulting in a severely wrenched wrist. He will be out for the remainder of the season.

With Pate, regular guard for the Greenies, absent, Jackson and Smith also out of the line-up, the Isabella boys tore loose and overcame their lead and held a 23-19 lead with 3 minutes left to play. At this point the Greenies took the situation in full charge and Hayes looped 2 goals from the field tying the count. With only 30 seconds to go Thorsby gained possession of the ball and Hayes was once more set to shoot when fouled, just 3 seconds before the whistle was blown ending the game. He took dead-eye aim, flopped the ball through the net to give his teammates their closest victory. All credit to Coach Rape's team. They played a whiz of a game and almost won. If Isabella High doesn't go places in this year's district tourney, this writer will sadly miss the guess.

Coach Rape will bring his team Thorsby tonight (Thursday, Feb. 8) for a return game. The game will be played in the Jr. High auditorium. Come on out folks and see one of Chilton County's best High School teams play the locals.

The Jr. High boys will play Thorsby Jr. as a preliminary at 7:00 o'clock. The feature game will begin at 8:00. Admission will be 10c.

MITCHELL DAM DEFEATS CALERA IN THRILLING GAME

The Mitchell Dam Quint defeated the Calera team at Calera last Monday night in a game replete with thrills. Both teams were working like clockwork, and both were keeping the swinging to and fro with shots that showed they had what it takes. The Mitchell group was noticeably on the toes in this game and played one of the best games of their season.

Tuberculosis Ass'n To Conduct Essay Contest

A Tuberculosis essay contest among the senior high school students of the County is being planned by the local Tuberculosis Association, according to an announcement by the president, Dr. S. D. Sturkie. Thirty dollars in cash prizes are to be awarded senior high school students writing the best papers on tuberculosis. Separate contests are planned for the white and the colored schools of the County. The contest is designed to interest young people in the subject of tuberculosis and to further public knowledge of the real facts concerning the disease.

To assist the students in obtaining facts regarding the disease, Dr. Sturkie plans to place in the school corridors a set of posters which depict the principal facts concerning tuberculosis. Papers are to be judged on neatness, composition and the truthfulness of the facts presented. One ten dollar prize, one five dollar prize and six one dollar prizes are to be distributed among winners in white schools. For the colored school there will be available one five dollar prize, one two dollar prize and two one dollar prizes. The contest is expected to end near the first of April and the winners are to be announced early in that month.

Other active members of the Association which is sponsoring the contest include Judge J. Lee Smith, Mell Martin, Mrs. Sophia Jones, Rescoe Maddox, E. E. Piper, Dr. Harvey Nix, Patterson Hicks, J. A. Peterson and W. A. Gulledge.

Sometimes we wish there were some way in which we could stir some of our members to greater action like a martial band which stirs the Nation's soldiers to action; but God's methods are different. He "works in mysterious ways, His wonders to perform." "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." So, good members, work as earnestly and steadfastly as you ever have and pray without ceasing, as commanded, for our Lord's Church and Kingdom. Unprecedented action will be the result in our Church School, worship services, M. J. Society, Young Church Auxiliary, Christian Soldiers, onward! Know the pride of a job well done. Feel the thrill of a battle won.

Everyone is welcome to all our church services. We want the attendance of members and visitors.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our many friends and relatives for their kindness shown us during the brief illness and death of our beloved baby boy. Also we especially want to thank Rev. Oscar A. Davis and Martin Funeral Home for their words of comfort and kindness. May God's richest blessings be upon each of you.—Mr. and Mrs. Ezell Calfee and Family.

BAD BREATH MAY SHOW YOU NEED THIS HELP

Bad breath is sometimes due to bad teeth and often due to sluggish bowels. It offends, and to neglect it may invite a host of constipation's ills, discomforts; headaches, biliousness, loss of appetite and energy.

Don't let constipation slow you down. Take a little spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT tonight. In the morning there's an evacuation that's generally thorough. You'll feel fine again.

BLACK-DRAUGHT's principal ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative." It helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. Millions of packages used yearly!

Woco-Tiffin Team Schedules Games

The Clanton Woco-Tiffin basketball team announces that they will play the Montgomery "Y" at Montgomery tonight (Thursday). Montgomery "Y" has long been noted for the strong teams they put on the courts of the country.

Next Saturday night this team will meet the Chilton County High School boys at the local airport. As you know, Chilton High walked away with the State Championship last year, and this game will be a thriller, beyond a doubt.

On next Tuesday night Thorby will come down to face the Woco-Tiffin boys. Thorby has defeated this team once this season, so a special effort will probably be made on the part of Thorby to duplicate the order, and a special effort will be put forth by the Clanton boys to prevent just that very thing.

EVERYTHING COMES TO HIM WHO WAITS, IT IS SAID

The old saw above has been proven again. May 16, 1936 found enrollees of SCS Camp Ala-7 taking Civil Service Exams for the position of Junior Assistant to Technicians, in Montgomery, Alabama. To the more fortunate ones appointments were given in a short time; others had to wait.

Among these eligible for appointment was Clarence A. Gilmore, Senior Leader of Co. 3481. But after a long period of waiting "Lefty," as Gilmore is affectionately called, received an appointment assigning him to the SCS Camp at Monroeville, Alabama.

Enrolled in the CCC January 9, 1935 at Co. 1468, Vernon, Tennessee, "Lefty" transferred to Camp SCS Ala-7 on December 1, 1935, and believe you me, we were glad to get him. August 16, 1936 found him Assistant Leader, and April 19, 1937, he was rated Leader, and September 15, 1937 he succeeded Paul Meadows as Senior Leader of the outfit. In 1936 he was awarded the title of outstanding member at Camp SCS Ala-7.

Born at Jemison, Alabama October 25, 1915, Gilmore is outstanding in every phase of life. A good athlete, even tempered but able to take care of himself if the occasion arises. He has won the admiration of everyone connected with the SCS Camp. Only the pleasure in seeing him get his new appointment soothes the regret in losing him to the Monroeville Camp.

MORAL ECHOES
REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

Have you heard the recent story about the death of Hitler? Well, here it is. A man dreamed that Hitler died and that he had the pleasure of attending his funeral. He said that it was the most unusual funeral that he ever saw. Hitler's coffin was lowered into the grave and covered over with dirt, and then it was uncovered and lifted out of the grave. This was done no less than six times and the man asked why they buried him and then uncovered his casket and lifted him out. Imagine his surprise when the pall bearers replied: "We are giving him the benefit of the applause, the curtain calls." We are reminded that our Master said that it would have been better for some had they never been born.

Alexander was full of vanity and bravery. One day he was asked why he never allowed his beard to grow. His reply should induce some of us to think of our future safety. He said: "Gentlemen, I do not grow a beard because a beard in a personal combat would give my foe the advantage over me." His foe in a personal combat could seize him by the beard and thrust his body through. Why some people grow some of the habits and attitudes that they have is beyond me. They have the habit of drinking, stealing, cursing, infidelity in marriage and the like. No wonder they go down in the struggle of life. To grow a bad habit is to offer advantages to all the foes of worthwhile living.

One day 336 years before Christ, old man Diogenes was sitting by his little dog, taking his daily sunbath. A chariot dashed up and a handsome young man stepped out. "I am Alexander the king," said the young man with flowing locks. "I am Diogenes the cynic," replied the old man. "Is there anything that I can do for you?" asked Alexander. "Yes," replied the old man, scarcely looking up, "Don't stand there between me and the sun." There was the selfish young man standing between the old man and the sun. Many a time in my life have I had the selfishness of men to step between me and my sun. This is true in your life. Selfishness never fails to step between some man and his sun. A man is not always a fool when he orders the selfish to get from between him and the sun.

On the battlefield to the west of Germany there are many French villages. When a German air raid is seen coming, the church bells of every town are made to ring out a warning. On hearing the church bells the citizenship of France rushes for safety. Friends, hear me, over here in America, our church bells are sounding out a note of invitation and a note of warning. They call us to service and worship. They tell us that there is an enemy of our souls ready to dash upon us and crash us to ruin. Sad to relate, but in America we are paying but little attention to our church bells. They ring out an invitation to worship, but we pay no attention. They ring out a warning against a churchless life but we say there is no wolf. The church bells of America are warning us against sinful living and calling us to worship the one true God. Better pay attention when you hear the ring of your church bell.

There is a sidewalk in Louisville, North Carolina that has two divisions. One division has this sign: "If you are walking, walk here." The other division says: "If you are loafing, loaf here." It might be well for our churches to divide its membership into two sections. We have just about as many loafers in our churches as we have workers. The workers become confused because they are all mixed up with loafers. The loafers are being jostled because of workers. Both are hindered. Why not set the loafers aside where they will not hinder the workers? If you have made up your mind to be nothing but a loafer in the Church of God, for goodness sake, step aside and give room to the people who have a desire to do something and go places. A man who is busy and in a hurry is likely to run over a loafer.

YOUR PARTNER

THE
"THE OLD RELIABLE"

EVER SO OFTEN A PRUDENT MAN should take stock of the things about him and appraise the worth of those which contribute to his needs and the public welfare.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad modestly presents the following partial evidences of its Partnership with you and your community:

★ It has been a partner with the public in the progressive development of the South for nearly 90 years and today serves directly the people of 13 states with 5,000 miles of railroad.

★ Handles your freight promptly and efficiently at an average cost to you of less than one cent per ton for each mile hauled.

★ Provides pick-up and delivery service on most less-than-carload freight.

★ Carries you safely and comfortably at fares as low as 1½ cents per mile, with a further reduction for round trips.

★ Gives you air-conditioned trains in all main-line through service.

★ Has operated continuously for over 22 years without a single fatality to a passenger in a train accident.

★ Built and maintains its own roadway and other facilities and pays large taxes thereon. A great part of its taxes goes to the support of schools and various other functions of government.

★ Purchases large quantities of coal, steel and other supplies in the territory it serves—thus helping to keep other industries busy.

★ Adds a fine citizenship to its communities by the employment of thousands of men and women whose good wages materially aid the commercial life of its territory.

This railroad recognizes its obligations as a necessary public service institution. It asks no special favors—only that laws and regulations deal with it justly, and place it in equitable relation with its competitors and other business enterprises. Its management and employees sincerely appreciate your patronage, and hope to continue to deserve it by friendly, courteous, economical and efficient service.

EROSION TOLL IS 400 MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR

Washington.—Half of all the land in the United States has been damaged by erosion and the process is costing farmers of the Nation at least $400,000,000 a year in the removal of soil fertility alone, H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service, says in his annual report to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

"Across the farm and range lands of the country," Bennett says, "some 282 million acres either have been ruined or severely damaged by soil erosion. On an additional 775 million acre, the process of erosion is actively underway."

The explosion of a 200-pound drum of nitroglycerine at the Hercules Powder Company plant at McAdory, west of Bessemer, killed two men—Ernest Wesson of McCalla and Chester White of Bessemer.

EUROPE'S WAR

Last Week Second Most Destructive Since War Began

Sunday's Montgomery Advertiser carried the following war news under a Berlin Saturday date line:

German official news agency reported tonight that far-ranging Nazi air raids today sank 14 ships in a blazing climax to a week of mass attacks on British and neutral shipping. Three Nazi planes were destroyed.

The day's reported toll made a total of 32 ships—23 merchantmen, eight British patrol boats and one mine-sweeper—which the Germans said have been sunk in the aerial forays which began last Monday and have ranged the entire length and breadth of the North Sea.

The Germans said all the sunken merchantmen were either armed or converted. (They have contended that all such ships were subject to attack.) This is the same number of ships reported sunk the previous week—the 21st week of the war.

According to an Associated Press report, carried by Sunday's Selma Times-Journal, (Jan. 28), sea warfare cost 11 nations more than 300 lives and 132 ships during the 21st week of the war—the second most destructive week of the European sea conflict.

The losses aggregated 63,804 tons, and in addition to the dead, 184 persons were reported missing.

Only the 12th week was more destructive; it saw 34 ships go down under a wave of mine and submarine warfare.

England, with nine vessels sunk, was the heaviest loser in the week ending Saturday. The two destroyers—the Grenville and Exmouth—which went down with 196 perishing and 68 reported missing.

Neutral Norway suffered nine losses aggregating 12,436 tons. Forty of her seamen were listed as killed or drowned. Other neutrals lost 11 ships.

The latest victim was the French freighter Touray, 2,769 tons, torpedoed off the coast of Spain. Eight were killed, 28 saved.

The known toll of all nations for the war to date rose to 344 ships aggregating 1,199,767 tons. At least 3,074 have been killed or drowned.

Man Thrown From Stalk-Cutter Dies Instantly Monday

GROVER C. STOKES, FATALITY HURT WHEN MULES MAKE EFFORT TO RUN AWAY

While effort was being made to halt a pair of bolting mules hitched to a stalk-cutter Monday morning, Grover C. Stokes, forty-six, of Dothan route five, was instantly killed. Mr. Stokes became entangled in the lines when the mules bolted and fell head foremost into the cutter blades underneath the driver's seat.

Before the team could be halted, Otho Christmas, negro, only eye witness to the scene, said Mr. Stokes was dragged about twenty-five feet.

Mr. Stokes moved to Houston County about 20 years ago from Covington County, and has been a prominent farmer of Houston County ever since.

Surviving are his wife, three sons, Betrand Stokes, Waycross, Ga., and Benova and Billy Green Stokes. Dothan route five; one daughter, Violet Stokes, Dothan route five; five sisters, Mrs. Addie Teel, Andalusia, Fla., and Mary Barton, of Pensacola, Fla., and Mrs. Florence Hicks, Mrs. Nora Parnell and Mrs. Buna Hicks, of Mississippi; and three brothers, Dan and John Stokes of Florida.

Funeral services were held at Beulah Baptist Church at 3 P.M. Tuesday of last week with the Rev. W.T. Cook officiating.

Burial was in the church cemetery with Fellows and Forrester directing.—Houston Herald.

President Roosevelt spent the week end at his home in Hyde Park.

Quilford Smith of Route 2, Plantersville, and Henry J. Adams of Fletcher were killed when the truck in which they were riding struck a concrete culvert and hurtled into a ravine.

Judge W. H. Sanford, distinguished for many years in public life, a member of State Court of Appeals, died in Montgomery Friday.

According to Bill Hamilton, tax collector, Jefferson counties paid more than $42,000 in poll taxes, during the tax-year just closed.

20 Marine Corps Recruiting Offices To Close This Month

Lieutenant Commander J. H. Durrett, U. S. Navy, the Officer in Charge of the C. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station in Birmingham, said today that he had been notified by the Southern Recruiting Division Headquarters that twenty of the Marine Corps recruiting offices recently established in the Southern States would be closed not later than February 29th. He said this would affect two of the three recruiting offices located in Alabama, those located in Mobile and Montgomery to be closed.

Commander Durrett also said that the Marine Corps authorized strength of 25,000 men will be reached about February 10, and that after it has been reached his office would be limited to a quota of 15 men a month, but that until notified that the authorized strength has been reached, he could enlist an unlimited number of men from Alabama. He added that he advised young men who are interested in joining the U. S. Marine Corps to submit their application before it is too late. When the monthly quota of 15 men is set, it will be difficult to enlist without delay, as a waiting list will be established on a "first come, first served" basis. In addition, it is likely that the physical requirements will be harder to meet.

For the information of those interested, the recruiting office is located in the Clark Building, 20th Street and 4th Avenue North, Birmingham, Alabama. The Mobile and Montgomery offices are authorized to accept applications until about February 10th after which time all applications should be addressed to the Birmingham office. Blank application forms can be obtained by applying at any Postoffice, or by writing to the Marine Corps Recruiting Station at the above address.

$4,726,544 Saved By Home Canning

Auburn, Ala.—From the canning of a few jars of tomatoes in 1914 to the canning of 3,172,932 jars of fruits, vegetables, and meats is the story of food preservation told in reports of home demonstration club women in 1939. Euna McLaugh, state home demonstration agent reported today. The preserved food is estimated to have a value of $4,726,544.

The preservation of food was one of the first projects studied by home demonstration club women in 1914 when the Extension Service was first organized, and during the past 25 years it has been a project of primary interest to farm women. The art of canning has been streamlined along with motor cars and trains, with the development of new methods by research, Miss McLaugh said.

"This food preservation program contributes much more than a money saving to the farm family who plans a garden and cans according to a budget," Miss McLaugh said. "It means better health through an adequate diet and it protects the cash income and releases money to buy other necessities and comforts for family use. If everybody in the United States would eat just one more pound of butter each year, our surplus would be pretty well wiped out. If everybody would eat two more pounds each year there would be a shortage."

News from Maplesville

On January 30 Mr. Fant and Miss Barber met with a group of farmers from Beat 3, 7 and 8, known as the "Land Use Committee," to instruct and familiarize this group with the duties that confront them in a great work that is being carried on in this county.

Mr. White of Auburn is in charge of this work in Chilton and fully explained and outlined the work that is and has been accomplished in other counties of the State.

It seems to me the object of this work is "to know your soil better" and to wake up and take stock of the things that we need to do to make our idle acres add dollars to our cash income.

If you are not getting results from your land, maybe there is something wrong. Let it be known by contacting Mr. Fant and he in turn will direct you to your nearby committee man and the group with the assistance of Mr. White will be glad to help you in studying your soil and problems that confront you.

Mr. Fant is very anxious to help and aid every farmer in the County, but with the many burdens he has to bear it's impossible for him to visit each farm and study each case separately, therefore, by organizing groups in each beat to work with Mr. White, he feels that great work can be accomplished so let's all pull together and if you can't pull—push; don't try to hold back. We will prove to Mr. White just what Chilton County can do. Then in turn he can carry the good news and glad tidings back to Auburn and tell other counties just the things that Chilton has accomplished.

Health Officer Warns Against Cancer Quack

A warning to all residents of Chilton County to beware of persons purporting to be "cancer specialists" who travel from home to home promising to cure any and all forms of cancer or tumor, was sounded today by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer. "An incident has just taken place," he states, "which is a sad illustration of what befalls those who place their reliance in the quack."

"Several weeks ago," he relates, "a white man in his sixties had a tumor removed from his chest wall by a man from Hanceville, Alabama, Rt. 2, a self proclaimed "cancer doctor." This so called "doctor" used an acid to cauterize the growth which later sloughed away leaving a scar. Within a short while, there appeared above the site of the original growth small nodules in the skin. The patient then decided to consult the health officer who promptly informed him that he had been defrauded of the twenty dollars fee he paid the quack and that instead of curing him the cancer quack had left him with an extension of the growth. The health officer's suspicion was later confirmed by an examination made by a skin specialist in Birmingham."

An investigation conducted by the health officer reveals that the man mentioned above is not now or never has been the possessor of a certificate to practice medicine in Alabama. This has been certified by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, according to Dr. Sturkie.

The "Flying Bullet," a new fighting plane being tested by the U. S. Army, is said to have a speed of 400 miles per hour. It will carry four machine guns and a small cannon.

ments recommendations to area and the particular type of farming. It may mean changing the emphasis of the marketing work or intensifying some lines already being worked upon. It will certainly result in the need for more and better outlook work. It will result in the need for Extension work along comparatively new lines, such as taxation, local finances, and local government. It may mean helping to establish local industries, helping people move to other areas or occupations; or it may mean public ownership and reforestation of certain areas.

Those attending these meetings and taking part in the discussion were: Mrs. E. L. Thompson, E. L. Lenoir, Marvin Durbin, J. B. Hicks, J. S. Cook, C. D. Bullard, Marion Smith, B. C. Lenoir, A. A. Unity S. S. Convention
Met At Maplesville

The regular monthly Sunday School convention of the Unity Association met at Maplesville Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon, February 4. The opening was directed by T. E. Wyatt and the devotional was conducted by Rev. Charlie Haggard. Mr. J. D. Griffin, president, was in charge; T. E. Wyatt was at the secretary's desk. Before the regular business program was taken up a duet was sung by Misses Dorothy Bossinger and Elzie Atchison of the Clanton Sunday School.

A check-up on attendance revealed that five churches represented, with the following in attendance from each place: Clanton 7, Maplesville 18, Stanton 2, Evergreen 5, Marbury 2; others 4; total attendance 38.

Mr. Griffin spoke briefly concerning the State convention at Birmingham and introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Oscar A. Davis, who spoke most interestingly on "The Standard of Excellence." All ten of the points on the standard were discussed briefly by Rev. Davis.

A few points on building a Sunday School were discussed by Mr. Griffin and responded to by Rev. Wm. E. Robinson. The latter also spoke on Teacher Training and urged all schools to have training courses this spring.

It was voted that the next meeting be held at Evergreen in Autauga County, and the program is to be along the idea of Enlargement of Evangelism and Bible study. Some remarks were made regarding the program and the next place of meeting by Rev. U. L. Higgins of the Tuskegee Association and pastor at Milton, Marbury and Billingsley.

A collection of $1.94 was lifted for the expenses of the Association and the same turned over to the secretary-treasurer.

33 TRUE BILLS PARTIAL REP'T OF GRAND JURY

JURY EMANELLED FOR JAN.
TERM CONSIDERS 42 CASES
AND EXAMINES 80 WITNESSES

The Chilton County Grand Jury, empaneled here last week for the January term of Circuit Court, submits this week the following report:

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court of said County and State.

To the Hon. Arthur Glover, as Judge of said Court:

We, the Grand Jury empaneled for the January Term of the Circuit Court, after receiving Your Honor's most able charge, entered upon our investigation of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors and herewith submit the following report.

During our investigation, we have considered 42 cases and have examined 80 witnesses and have already returned 33 true bills in our partial report.

We have made a personal inspection of the County Jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials, and find that they are ample for the protection of the public and on our examination of the Sheriff's account with the state for feeding prisoners, we find it being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education, we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and in so far as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

The Grand Jury wishes especially to thank Your Honor for the very able charge given us when we were first empaneled as it has been most helpful to us throughout all our investigations.

Sheriff Culp and his deputies and Mr. Culp, the Bailiff for the Grand Jury, were most courteous to us during our investigation and rendered us valuable assistance in the dispatch of the business before us, all of which we greatly appreciate.

The Grand Jury found that the Courthouse toilets are dirty and in an unsanitary condition. We recommend that the water system be repaired and that the toilets be cleaned and have the janitor to keep them clean at all times.

We further reference to the jail we found it in very good shape except the bed clothes were very dirty. We recommend cleaning the bed clothes as often as necessary. Some of the toilets need cleaning and we urge that they be kept clean and in a sanitary condition.

We now having complied to the best of our ability with Your Honor's charge we respectfully ask that we be dismissed until such time as Your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us again convene.

This the 8th day of February, 1940.
J. P. LAWRENCE,
Foreman.

VALENTINE PARTY AT JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL THURSDAY NIGHT

There will be a Valentine party at Jemison High School on Thursday night, February 15, beginning at 7:30 P.M.

There will be three short humorous one-act plays and a folk band by a group of High School students. There will be plenty of eats, candy ice cream, chicken salad sandwiches and peanuts.

The most interesting event of the evening will be the crowning of the King and Queen of Valentine. They will be given a box of candy.

TWENTY SEE INSIDE OF CHILTON COUNTY'S JAIL

The News carried no report of arrests by local officers last week, but a glance at the jail commitment record of this week showed that somebody else has been getting arrested besides the deputies themselves—with the deputies having a hand in the arrests.

Ten persons were jailed for public drunkenness, which heads the list. Other offenses committed were as follows: Manufacturing whiskey, 3; No drivers license, 1; Trespassing, 1; Carrying concealed pistol, 1; Reckless driving, 1; V.P.L., 1; A.O.L., 1; Driving while intoxicated, 1.

Miss Grace Robinson, popular registered head nurse at the Central Alabama Hospital here has been called to Miami for two months' active duty at the Riverside Hospital.

Cattle Of County To Be Tested For Disease

County Agent J. W. Fant announces this week that tests among the cattle of this county for Bang's disease will soon get underway. Mr. Fant explains the particulars of these tests in an article under the Farm Agent's News elsewhere in this issue of Chilton County News. He expressed the desire that cattle owners cooperate in every way possible.

NEW FASHION SHOP TO OPEN HERE FEB. 22ND

JOHNSON'S FASHION SHOP TO OPEN IN FORMER WATTS
HAT SHOP BUILDING

Johnson's Fashion Shop, a store catering to women in ready-to-wear shoes, millinery, and in fact everything that women wear, will open in Clanton on February 22nd, in the building formerly occupied by the Watts Hat Shop.

Mr. Johnson, who is from Greenville, Alabama, is an experienced merchant, having served 20 years in the department store field and in Specialty shops for 14 years. He is devoting his entire time to specialty shops now and promises to give Clanton as modern a store as will be found in any city.

Truly it is a beautiful store. The fixtures are of blond mahogany trimmed walnut, the stock is the highest type of merchandise that money can buy at the price and everything is arranged for the complete convenience of the customer.

Miss Ada Bennett, who will be in charge of the store, has moved to Clanton and will make this her home. She has been in charge of the Halesville, Alabama, store for the past 10 years. To aid Miss Bennett will be Mrs. Estelle Martin, who has been with Johnson's for four years and who has also moved to Clanton to make her home.

Johnson's Fashion Shop will cater to popular priced and better merchandise for cash. Featuring the latest styles and prices to suit everyone. Remember the formal opening on February 22nd. Come in and get acquainted with an up-to-date modern ladies' ready-to-wear store.

County P-T.A. Council Meeting Called

Nelson Fuller To Run

Centerville, Ala.—Nelson Fuller, young Centerville attorney and member of the State Democratic Executive Committee has announced that he will be a candidate for delegate to the Democratic national convention from the Sixth District.

"Of course, I am for Speaker Bankhead," said Fuller in announcing. Fuller is solicitor for Bibb County and a member of the board of trustees at Alabama College. His father, the late Jerome Fuller, was long a power in Alabama politics, having served as a delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention which nominated Roosevelt in 1932.

JASPER YOUTH FOUND DEAD AT MAPLESVILLE

BURNED TO DEATH WHILE SLEEPING NEAR RAILROAD; IDENTIFIED AFTER 3 DAYS

A young man, approximately 24 years of age, lay in a local funeral establishment three days before finally being identified as George Thomas Moreland, resident of near Jasper. The young man was burned almost beyond recognition as he apparently slept on the track of the M. & O. Railroad at Maplesville last Saturday night.

Moreland was seen around Maplesville last Friday and Saturday, where he made efforts to secure food and money. The Maplesville Clinic reported that they dressed a thumb he had cut on a sardine can Friday. He is said to have told several persons in Maplesville that he lived near "where the Short Quads were born," and it was through this that his identity was established.

Coroner J. Mell Martin, who was summoned to the scene of the tragedy, stated that J. W. Gwin, Maplesville depot agent, found the young man early Sunday morning just north of the depot when he went to inspect some railroad cars. Mr. Gwin reported that the youth was lying by a pile of cross ties and a fire had been built nearby. It is supposed that his clothing caught fire as he slept. His body was severely burned.

Contact was made with Jasper by Mr. Martin and some difficulty was experienced before the man could be identified. His father was finally contacted and made the positive identification by scars on his son's body. A telegram Wednesday morning by the father, James Moreland, verified the identity.

ALABAMA COLLEGE PICKS CHILTON AS FIRST TO BE STUDIED IN SURVEY

The Department of Sociology at Alabama College has picked Chilton County as the first to be studied in a survey of the organizational life of Alabama communities. According to Dr. Irwin T. Sanders, Assistant Professor of Sociology, who is in charge of the survey, the project is a joint enterprise being sponsored by Alabama College and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the Department of Agriculture.

"This is not a survey of social conditions, but rather an attempt to see facts combine to make up a well organized community," Dr. Sanders said. "Information of this sort will be helpful not only in preparing teachers for Chilton County communities, but should also prove useful to community leaders in analyzing their own communities. These leaders will be able to compare their communities with others in the state in such respects as leadership, organizations, churches and schools."

Work has already begun in Chilton County and several of the communities have been visited by those conducting the investigation. FOURTEEN MORE DAYS LEFT FOR CANDIDATES TO QUALIFY

According to law there are only 14 more days left during which candidates for public office may qualify for the May primary. Midnight February 29 is the deadline.

So far only one candidate has announced in opposition to the Democratic incumbents. C. E. Stapp has announced that he will seek the nomination for Probate Judge against incumbent J. Lee Smith.

Other Democrat officials who have announced for re-election are: Treasurer, J. E. Easterling; Commissioner District 3, R. L. Osley; Commissioner District 4, J. Monroe Parrish; Clerk of Circuit Court, J. C. Pattillo; Robert T. Milner of Wetumpka has announced that he would seek the office of Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit. He opposes incumbent Arthur Glover, who makes his announcement this week for re-election.

CLANTON GIRL HAS NOTABLE ENTRY IN ART EXHIBIT

Columbia, Mo.—"Somewhere in America" this week will be exhibited the annual Stephens College Traveling Art Exhibit, made up of the work of recent graduates and present students of the Art School.

Included in the exhibit is a drawing of a dormitory room, part of a house design project, by Miss Peggy Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Page of Clanton.

First hung at the William Rockhill Nelson gallery in Kansas City early this month, the exhibit will be sent to various metropolitan galleries about the country.

Chosen by a faculty committee from several hundred possible entries, Peggy's work was picked among the 39 pieces finally chosen for showing.

PIGGY WIGGLY OFFERS CLUBS STUDENTS, AN OPPORTUNITY

For the past several days the local Piggy Wiggle store, owned by Mr. O. D. DeLoach, has had on a contest, in cooperation with the National Piggy Wiggle organization. This contest, of a patriotic nature, offers all participants a chance to win a large sum of money by writing an essay of 100 words or less on the subject: "I'm Glad I'm An American Because..."

To add to the national effort, the local store has announced that it will award the student-grammar school or high school and the Club, Church Circle or other civic, religious, social organization of Clanton or the County, that wins a national prize an additional $50 each. This means one student and one Club will win. But, regardless of whether their entry wins a national prize, Piggy Wiggle will award twenty-five dollars to the local student and Club whose entry receives the highest grade. (All entries will be graded and returned.) This is a splendid chance offered by this local firm, and should find Chilton students and Clubs preparing their entry at an early date in an effort to get in on the prize money. Marvin Marcus at Piggy Wiggle can furnish additional information. An adv. on the contest may be found each week in the News. This month America is celebrating the birthdays of two great Americans—Washington and Lincoln. Their lives should be an incentive to contestants.

"Children Should Be Seen And Not Hurt"— Says Highway Patrol

"Attention all cars and drivers: Children should be seen and not hurt," is being emphasized by our efficient Highway Patrol, and Clanton's Patrolmen are doing their duty by driving this statement home to drivers of their territory.

"We would like to impress upon the bus drivers the importance of having their bus equipped with traffic arms," stated a spokesman for the local Patrol, "and urge all drivers of autos to refrain from passing a school bus when it is stopped to take on or discharge children." A reminder that bus drivers should caution the children when getting off and on to watch their step was also issued by the patrolmen.

The News is heartily behind these guards of public safety, and endorses their statement that "children should be seen and not hurt."

JOINT MEETING OF LIONS AND KIWANIS

GROUP WILL HEAR MAXWELL.
FIELD INSTRUCTOR AT JOINT MEETING TONIGHT

Col. John C. Millnax, Instructor in the Air Corps Tactical School, Maxwell Field, Montgomery, will be the guest speaker at a joint meeting of the Clanton Lions and Kiwanis Clubs tonight at 7:30 in the basement of the Clanton Baptist Church. This meeting will take the place of the regular meetings of both Clubs for this week. Kiwanian Horton Walker, member of the Reserve Officers Chapter of Clanton, who secured the speaker, stated that Col. Millnax is an able speaker and will probably base his talk along the lines of Military Preparedness, a much-discussed subject these days. The local Reserve Officers Chapter is sponsoring the program, and the membership of both Clubs are expected to turn out near 100 per cent to enjoy the program.

Local Health Workers Attend Conference

The entire staff of the Chilton County Health Department attended a conference of county health workers from a district comprising eight middle Alabama counties in Montevallo February 13, according to a weekly news release. This is one of a series of conferences over the State arranged by the State Health Department for the purpose of providing county workers an opportunity to exchange ideas. D. S. D. Sturkie, Chilton County Health Officer, will make a special report of well baby clinics which are being held here. Chilton is the first rural county in the State to inaugurate this service.

Work on a new health office for the Health Department in Maplesville is nearing completion. The building formerly occupied by the Acheson Grocery has been rented by the Health Department and is being renovated. The new set up in Maplesville will include separate waiting rooms for white and colored and a treatment room. The walls and partitions have been painted white and the entire floor space covered with linoleum. This office will compare favorably with branch offices established by many other rural health departments in Alabama, according to Dr. S. D. Sturkie, the Health Officer.

MRS. MARTHA ELIZABETH COLLINS, AGE 68, PASSES

Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Collins, age 68, of Thorsby, died Monday of this week at 7:00 P.M. She was the widow of the late John H. Collins. Funeral services were held at 2:00 P.M. Tuesday from the Collins Chapel Church conducted by the Rev. W. P. Lowery. Interment was in the church cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Surviving are two sons, Akins and Grady Collins of Thorsby; three daughters, Mrs. Genie Robinson, Mrs. Hester Hayes, Miss Hilma Collins, all of Thorsby; two brothers, A. M. Mims of Clanton Route 4 and Valrie E. Mims of Mobile, Alabama. Five grand-children and one great grand-child also survive.

WILLIAM FONZA CULP

William Fonza Culp, widely known and pioneer resident of this county, passed away at his home in Pleasant Grove community Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services had not been announced when the News went to press, but will probably be held today at Pleasant Grove.

JUDGE GLOVER CANDIDATE FOR SECOND TERM

WETUMPKA JURIST SEEKS TO SERVE COUNTIES OF CHILTON
ELMORE AND AUTAUGA AGAIN

The official announcement of Judge Arthur Glover appears in this issue of Chilton County News. He seeks re-election as Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit of Alabama, composed of the counties of Chilton, Elmore and Autauga, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries on May 7th and June 4th, 1940.

Judge Glover was elected Judge of this circuit in 1934, and is just completing his first term in that position. He is asking for re-election to the office he now holds. In his behalf his friends who are legions, are insisting he is entitled to an endorsement, since he has served ably and well during his first term, pointing out that it has always been the unwritten law of the Democratic party to honor a faithful public servant with a second term.

Judge Glover is a native of Barbour County, where he was born and reared on a farm. He moved to Wetumpka many years ago upon the completion of his legal education at the Univ. of Alabama and practiced law there as member of the firm of Huddleston & Glover until elevated to the bench six years ago. He represented his county with distinction in the lower house of the Legislature of Alabama during the Miller administration. Since his election as Circuit Judge he has presided over the Circuit Courts of Elmore, Chilton and Autauga counties with dignity, fairness and rare ability, and that scrupulous regard for his oath of office and his duty to parties litigant that has always distinguished him in every position of honor and trust that he has been called upon to fill.

Firm in his determination to do his duty in enforcing the law, he is yet gentle, kind and merciful; the sole of honor himself, he regards every man as honest until the contrary is clearly proven; he possesses a fine legal mind ripened and mellowed by years of experience as a practicing attorney and presiding judge; diligent and untiring he grapples with the many problems that crowd upon him in an effort to clear his docket and speed the wheels of justice; fairly and impartially he weighs the issues between those who come into his court, knowing neither friend nor foe in the discharge of his official duty.

Judge Arthur Glover is a good citizen, a good lawyer, and a good judge; his friends say that he is entitled to a second term and they insist that he will be overwhelmingly re-nominated in the spring primaries. If they are correct and Judge Glover is re-elected, we can say truthfully that in our opinion he will continue to serve in a way that will reflect credit upon the profession which he graces, and that the issues between litigants touching their property rights and their personal liberties will be fought out before an honorable, capable and upright judge.

MARKERS TO GUIDE TOURISTS VIA CLANTON

BEE LINE TO BECOME BLUE AND GRAY
HIGHWAY

(From the Montgomery Advertiser)
From Chicago south and from Miami north, Montgomery-bound motor traffic will be guided by red, white and blue signs informing drivers that they are on the Blue and Gray Highway and will reach Montgomery if they drive long enough.

Mayor Gunter, originator of the Blue and Gray football game idea, yesterday had completed plans for lining the Bee Line Highway with markers rechristening it the Blue and Gray Highway. The idea of this, of course, is to draw attention to the New Year's football classic and to make it easy for tourists to find their way to Montgomery.

Sponsors and well-wishers of the football fixture have the assurance this year of Gov. Dixon's cooperation. The Governor was so impressed by the last game that he announced he would use his influence to make the next renewal bigger and better than ever.

Mayor Gunter has already set in motion plans for enlarging the seating capacity of Cramton Bowl. With WPA assistance the city expects to add 6,000 concrete seats before 1941.

The Blue and Gray highway markers will be placed in filling stations and hotel lobbies along the way.

Showdown Nearing in Fight Against Alabama's Poll Tax Levy

Two Leading Birmingham Attorneys Will Take Fight To U.S. Court If Necessary

(From The Birmingham Post)

From an entirely new angle in jurisprudence, two Birmingham attorneys are waging a fight against the poll tax as a state requirement for voting in Federal elections.

The attorneys—veteran Crampton Harris and his young partner, George S. Brown—are determined to take the fight to the U. S. Supreme Court.

They represent the Civil Rights Committee of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare in the case which involves, specifically, the case of Henry Firtle, who operates a coal yard in Grundy County Tennessee.

Sought Injunction

Mr. Firtle, through Attorneys Harris and Brown, last September sought an injunction to prevent Nashville election officials from barring him from voting in the congressional election there. The election was to fill the vacancy left by the late Sam McReynolds in the Federal House of Representatives.

The U. S. District Court at Nashville refused to issue the injunction and the case is now before the U. S. Court of Appeals at Cincinnati. Briefs have been filed and the case is expected to be heard in the Spring.

Core of Case

Core of the case is the contention that the poll tax is unconstitutional as a state requirement for voting in Federal elections, in that the sovereignty of the Federal Government is impaired by a state tax upon a Federal franchise.

A brief filed by the two attorneys pressing the case sets out that rights and privileges arising out of the constitution of the United States are not subject to state taxation in any form.

"The doctrine of immunity from taxation by a state finds its origin in the celebrated decision of Chief Justice Marshall in the case of McCulloch against Maryland," the brief points out.

"It is founded upon the essential nature of sovereignty. That nature has not been changed by any decision of the Supreme Court."

Element of Sovereignty

"The privilege of voting and the exercise of that function are most intimately connected with the vital functions of government. The elective franchise furnishes the means by which members of Congress are chosen. The selection of the individuals to perform the legislative function is necessarily governmental. It is an essential element of sovereignty.

"The franchise is conferred on the individual, not for his benefit but for the benefit of the Federal Government and for the purpose of maintaining the established constitutional system.

"If the states have the power to tax this franchise, they have the power to destroy representative government. If they have the power to tax, they have the power to say what the tax shall be. They can, therefore, levy a poll tax so high that rich men only will be able to vote."

Honoring 1,330,000 American Boys

This week Americans will join in observing the 30th anniversary of an organization that teaches 1,330,000 boys this oath:

"On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, to obey the Scout Law, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

It is interesting to speculate upon the good the Boy Scout Movement has done throughout the world.

Supplementing existing institutions such as the home, church and school, the Boy Scouts of America has engaged boys' leisure-time energies in outdoor life and activities of cultural and practical values which have helped thousands to become dependable men.

The movement has inspired many to be brave, clean and reverent.

So let's honor the boys and their leaders next week. May the scope of their work be increased, for the world needs their vital contribution.—Anniston Times.

Three Reasons

Three reasons for agricultural trouble listed by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, are:

1. There was wartime expansion of cultivated crops when farmers patriotically plowed up 40,000,000 extra acres to help win the war.
2. There was the abrupt change of the United States after the war from a debtor to a creditor nation, making it difficult for foreign nations to buy our surplus farm crops.
3. There was the displacement of the horse by the automobile, truck and tractor and the release of 35,000,000 acres that had formerly been used for production of feed.

Big Business is appealing to the President and Congress to restore confidence in the business world. It was Big Business, through its greed and questionable methods, that destroyed the confidence of Little Business and the Public. It is squarely up to Big Business to restore that confidence by injecting honesty and fairness into its methods, instead of demanding all that the traffic will bear.

Mark Remarks:

It seems just now that Erin and India are giving England a worse headache than the Austrian paper hanger.

It is reported that 80 people froze to death in Florida during the cold spell. Won't California jump up and down with glee when it hears this?

Another Southern tradition has gone with the wind. Mobile used tractors instead of mules to draw the floats through the streets in the Mardi Gras parades.

Yes, we Americans often let sentiment run away with our better judgment—but, it's our sentiment and our judgment, isn't it? That's why we are Americans.

American capitalism can find no surer route to economic suicide than through the persistent and insistent demand that agriculture be kept on a starvation wage scale.

Whether or not you don't drink when you drive, or don't drive when you drink—or do drink when you drive, and do drive when you drink—SLOW DOWN AT SUNDOWN.

J. M. Hobbie, Montgomery tax collector, says only 699 eligible voters had paid poll tax. Probate office officials estimated 20,000 were qualified to vote. What legitimate reason can any sensible, honest man give for penalizing the 6949?

If the Finns have killed all the Russian soldiers, captured all the tanks, machine guns, ammunition and other war accoutrements of war, and shot down all the airplanes that they say they have—they certainly don't need any help from any other country. In fact, it looks like they should be helping England and France.

According to The Atlanta Constitution, Walt Disney is planning to produce a series of pictures based on the immortal stories of Joel Chandler Harris. To many movie lovers Uncle Remus, Br'er Rabbit, Br'er Fox and all the woodland creatures will prove more entertaining than "Gone With The Wind."

From all present indications it seems that the world is rapidly approaching what is likely to be the most gigantic slaughter of human beings and destruction of property that the world has ever seen. And for no other reason on earth than that organized and entrenched greed wants more power and more gold.

A brand new Alabama newspaper comes to our exchange table this week—The Southern News Almanac, printed at Birmingham. Quintin P. Gore is editor, S. J. Hall, Jr., business manager, and George Londa managing editor. A bunch of live wires starting out with a healthy looking kid and we predict that they're going to make it do its stuff.

We doubt if five per cent of the soldiers throughout the whole world know what they are fighting for, or are going to fight about. Nor do we believe that five per cent of the populations of the nations at war know what the fighting is all about. Yet it is these soldiers and the great majorities of populations that will pay, and pay, and pay.

Our great President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who has done so much for so many people, high and low, rich and poor great and small, since he became president has done nothing to compare with the long step he is now taking to bring about a restoration of world peace on a sound and lasting basis. Every man, woman and child in America should get squarely back of this program and never let up until peace again reigns throughout the world.

Death has removed one of Birmingham's most colorful political figures, Jimmie Jones, as he was familiarly called, and who, as mayor had steered the city's affairs through the most trying economic period of its existence, passed to his reward last Wednesday afternoon, after a month's illness. Jimmie Jones was a worker and a fighter. From an Alabama farm to head one of the South's greatest cities through the span of a short life proves that in America there is still room at the top for those who have what it takes.

Doyle L. Buckles, field manager, says the Summer Press Association tour may be confined to Alabama. We do not believe any sort of program can be arranged that will bring greater good to the Association and the State, than a tour which will carry the editors and members of their families to many of the interesting and worthwhile places, industries, commercial activities, educational institutions, recreational centers, play grounds and pleasure resorts. A whole week could be consumed by such a program, and at no great expense to anyone. By all means—"Let's see Alabama first."

Dallas Steps Forward Again

A new insight into progress made by Dallas county in livestock production is given by announcement of a meeting tonight at which plans will be made for a cooperative sale of young work animals bred in this county.

Announcing the meeting, Farm Agent John Blake said that there are approximately 200 horse mule colts now available in the Orrville area alone and that other sections of the county are also in a position to contribute substantial offerings for a sale of stock.

It is a distinct achievement when farmers begin to breed enough work animals for their own use and when they reach the point of producing a surplus it can be said with a great deal of assurance that this phase of diversified farm activity has attained a permanent basis in Dallas county.

It is generally known that Dallas counties have made enormous strides in recent months in production of beef and dairy cattle and our informed citizenry will find cause for gratification in learning that the breeding of work stock has not been overlooked by farmers weary of the foibles of bedraggled King Cotton.—Selma Times-Journal.

Bessemer's mayor, Jep Bryant, evidently thinks that dictators are already being made in America.

Work on U. S. 31, Chilton County's super-streamlined highway, is progressing north and south of Clanton, regardless of the inclement weather of recent weeks.

Good Kindlin'

Here is an official looking envelope containing proof of eight full columns of "free articles purporting to give much needed advice to farm people" who have farm families to feed. Every article carries not only the name but the trademark of the concern. These articles are good stuff, too. It's not rubbish. They are well written and carry some good in formation but our rate for that class of matter is measured by the inch and this concern has never spent a dime with us—so not wishing to insult our waste basket, we consign that matter to a good hot fire.—Cherokee Herald.

For every $1 that was paid to workmen for building a car, tax collectors collect $4 during its lifetime.—Greene County Democrat.

You can trade your character for money. But you can't take the money and buy back your character.—Andalusia Star.

Scarcity Amid Plenty

In the hills around Birmingham are many millions, possibly billions, of tons of coal. From several hundred mine openings there comes a production that in some years has run as high as 20,000,000 tons. Even within the city limits coal may be mined.

But today a coal shortage threatens Birmingham. Stocks are running low, and if the weather does not change for the better soon, the coal situation will become acute. Birmingham residents may suffer from lack of fuel, even though their homes may rest above coal seams.—Birmingham News.

No Entanglements

That the United States should under no circumstances attempt to settle the political problems of Europe by military intervention is the conclusion of Hugh G. Grant, former Auburn professor and American minister of Albania for four years.

Mr. Grant, who delivered four lectures last week in Auburn, believes that the only practical role for the U. S. is that of a "good neighbor" who sets the example of a great democracy where the people have learned to live together in peace and harmony—something which Europeans have not yet been able to do.

Governor Dixon has appointed Robert T. Simpson, Jr., of Florence to Alabama Court of Appeals to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Wm. B. Samford.

"I Would Be Companionable"

NOT so long ago, a thousand school children were asked to write a composition on "The Kind of a Parent I Want to Be." More than half, among the other qualities they mentioned as being desirable, said "I would be companionable."

There can be little doubt that the parents, and especially the mothers of most of those children who expressed that ideal, also cherished the desire to be companionable.

But to be companionable takes time, and time is scarce in homes where the household tasks of cleaning, dishwashing, cooking, laundering and ironing are done in the hard, old-fashioned way. Too, it's not easy to be companionable when one is dead tired.

Many thousands of women have learned through experience that the cleanliness, convenience and labor-saving features of home electrical devices not only make possible more time for companionship, but because they are less tiring, makes one feel like wanting to be companionable.

It requires no fat pocketbook to enjoy a completely electrified home. By the "step by step" plan, many a modest home has become completely electrified and because electricity is cheap in Alabama, there is usually no increased expense for operating the electrical equipment. Quite frequently there is a saving.

Inquire about the low operating cost of electric ranges, refrigerators, washing machines, pumps, ironers, dishwashers, the next time you are near one of our stores or a dealer's, and learn how conveniently time- and labor-saving electrical equipment may be had.

Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.

It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is inspired by its 50 years of popularity.

Make Sure THAT YOUR COTTON GETS ENOUGH POTASH

PROFITS from cotton dwindle when the crop cannot get enough potash. Cotton rust is potash starvation. Decreased yields, more wilt injury, and poor quality lint and fiber result when soil and fertilizer do not supply plenty of this important plant food. Experimental work has shown that the value of the crop can be reduced as much as $25 per acre due to lack of potash.

A recommended application at planting time is 400-600 pounds, per acre, of a fertilizer containing 4-10% potash. At chopping time, more can be added in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser containing the equivalent of 50-100 pounds of muriate of potash.

Ask your county agent or experiment station how much potash your soil will supply and how much to add to carry your crop through to profit. Then make sure that your dealer sells you a fertilizer containing enough potash to supply what you need. You will be surprised how little extra it costs.

Helps With Farmer's Terracing

LaFayette, Ala.—Fred Davis, Buffalo community in Chambers County, has learned that the problems of soil erosion can be solved if a person has a willing mind even though his bank account may be rather slim, says H.F. McQueen, county agent.

After attending a demonstration on building terraces by the use of a slip scrape, Mr. Davis secured a slip scrape for $750 and started work. He constructed 4,000 linear feet of approved terraces on ten acres of land at a labor cost of $6. Mr. Davis has spent a total of $13.50 for labor and equipment and has earned $30 in AAA payments, and in addition has a slip scrape and ten acres of properly terraced land, according to Mr. McQueen.

Mr. Davis explains that this is only the beginning and before spring he will have approved terraces on twenty-five acres and within a year's time will have his entire farm properly terraced.

When asked what his opinion was of the future of farmers terracing their lands by the use of this simple inexpensive method, Mr. Davis stated that there was not a farm in Chambers County which could not be properly terraced within a period of two years if farmers would only recognize the importance of terraces and become interested enough to get started.

J. W. FANT, County Agent
- Chilton County Cattle To Be Tested For Bang's Disease During Month Of March
- The State and Federal Governments will begin the test of Chilton County cattle for the above-named disease on or about the first of March. This disease, as its name (infectious abortion) implies, causes premature birth of the young (stillbirth) and once obtaining a foothold on premises where cattle are kept, is very infectious and sometimes contagious from animal to animal.
- Symptoms of the disease vary, but outstanding symptoms are actual abortion of the young, hard breeders, bad milking quarters, reduction in normal amount of milk, and cattle failing to properly right themselves after calving or aborting. At this point it is desired by the writer to emphasize the fact that every cow that aborts does not necessarily have the disease, but other causes of abortion are negligible, and of small consequence. It is further desired to emphasize that a cow does not have to abort to be infected with the disease and be a so-called spreader to other cattle. The loss in dollars and cents to the cattle industry due to this disease throughout the county annually is enormous and no cure is known, hence the use of the eradication method for the elimination and control of the trouble.
- A human factor in the disease is that in many cases the germ that causes the disease is thrown off through the milk and consumed, and not infrequently causes so-called undulant fever in human beings, which in symptoms, to some extent, resembles malaria fever. The duration of undulant fever is often longer than malaria and more debilitating especially is this true in after-effects.
- When the work in the county starts, and through the duration of same, each owner of one or more cows will be notified in advance by the State and Federal veterinarians as to what day their respective cattle will be tested. The test consists of drawing about 1/4 oz. of blood from vein in neck. In turn the sample is sent to Auburn laboratory for examination and its findings are reported back to the field veterinarian.
- In the event that one or more diseased animals are found on a farm or elsewhere, the field veterinarian and the owner of diseased animal or animals will agree on what is believed to be a fair valuation on cattle involved. The diseased animal is condemned to slaughter, the owner getting whatever price such class animal brings on day sold for beef (the meat of such cattle is all right for consumption). The amount bought for beef is deducted from what the animal was valued, and the State and Federal Governments pay the owner 2-3 of the difference. That is, if a cow was appraised at $60 and its owner sold the animal at slaughter for $30, the State and Federal Governments would pay said
- owner 2-3 of the difference, or $20, same being paid on equal basis by the two Governments. On moving diseased animals to slaughter, the owner should comply with instructions given by the veterinarian.
- The handling of cattle is similar to the T.B. test, except if no disease is found, the cattle only have to be handled one time to complete the test, and in this test the farmer is paid where disease exists, and such was not the case when cattle were tested for T.B. in the County.
- This work will be done in county without cost to County Government or farmer. The only thing requested is to cooperate and assist in handling the cattle during the test. The program is county-wide and counties on south and west of Chilton County have completed the work along with several other counties and individual herds throughout the State.
- Cooperation for a speedy completion of the work on the part of all concerned is earnestly solicited.—J. W. FANT, County Agent.
- "It is very important that terraces be maintained before crops are planted," states C. L. Breedlove, Assistant County Agent.
- Many tons of soil are lost yearly due to uncontrolled surface water. Properly constructed and properly maintained terraces will help to prevent this loss by erosion.
- The best terrace to construct is one which will do the best job of controlling erosion for the least time and expense in up-keep. Two types of terraces are in common use in Chilton County—the ridge type, and the Nichols type. Ridge type terraces, if properly laid out, constructed and maintained, will help control erosion. They are - expensive to maintain since they must be "plowed up" several times during the crop season.
- The Nichols type terrace (flat ditch type) will control erosion to the same extent that a ridge type terrace will. This terrace is much easier maintained and is less in the way and also permits the growing of more crops on the land.
- To repair the damage caused by winter rains and to prepare the terraces for controlling a surface water during the crop season, some work should be done now on all the terraces on the farm. For both types of terraces, ridge and Nichols, this means that all broken, washed-over, and weak places should be repaired. For the ridge type terrace, the ridge should then be "plowed up" or listed on.
- The Nichols type terrace requires a different operation; or a "plowing-out." This operation is done by measuring the distance from the top of the ridge to the middle of the water furrow just above the ridge, and then measuring off the same distance from the water furrow up the slope above the terrace. This gives a channel 12 to 20 feet in width depending on the slope of the land. This channel should then be treated as a "land" and be plowed out until a dead furrow is reached. Fairly wide and shallow cuts should be taken on the outer edges of the channel, and the cuts should gradually be narrowed and deepened as the plowing progresses toward the middle of the channel.
- The method of maintenance given for Nichols terraces may also be used to convert ridge type terraces to the Nichols type. Before this is done, however, one should be sure that the ridge terraces are located and run correctly.

Wraith of Apache Who Defied Army Still Annoys U.S.

Tribe of Old Geronimo Is Stirring Up Trouble For Government.

ANADARKO, OKLA.—It has been 30 years since old Geronimo died, but the wraith of the rash Apache chief, who defied the might of the U. S. army, haunts the government yet.

Aged members of his untamed band of Chiricahuas and their descendants have employed an attorney skilled in Indian affairs to carry to the tribal court of claims at Washington their contention that the white man's government did them wrong a half century ago.

Eighty-seven Apaches pow-wowing at the town of Apache near here decided to ask redress for the more than 26 years they languished in captivity and compensation for tribal lands they claim were taken from them on New Mexico's Warm Springs reservation in 1852.

Once Defied Government.

Grady Lewis, an Oklahoma City attorney who handled many tribal matters, has been dispatched to Washington to take up the claims.

Once these hardy braves whooped defiance at the government, but they are old men now too old to seize what they believe is theirs. So they turn to the white man's courts.

Many a wrinkled Chiricahau at the Apache pow-wow rode with Geronimo when he eluded United States troops early in 1886 and vanished into Mexico.

Half-starved, bedraggled, they had been part of a weary band of tattered Indians that surrendered at last in the late summer of 1886.

They had followed Geronimo into captivity, served at hard labor at Fort Pickens, Fla., or Saint Augustine, and had been returned to Fort Sill, Okla., in 1894.

Accept Land Offer.

Geronimo died in 1909, but it was not until 1913 that the government released his band.

Eighty-five followers of Geronimo accepted the government's offer to land around Apache. The rest returned to settle near Mescalero, N. M.

A reason for the current Apache attitude may be that Geronimo went to his grave convinced he had been the victim of a colossal double-cross at the hands of the army.

Geronimo came from a line of Apache chiefs, rulers of what his people called the Be-don-ko-he tribe, one of six among the Apaches.

He was admitted into the council of warriors a brawny, cunning, fearless youth. His first exploit that brought him to the notice of the army was to foray into Sonora, Mexico, in 1882.

In 1884, after numerous other raids across the border, he launched a reign of terror in New Mexico and Arizona before he was finally captured.

Geronimo insisted to his dying day he fought only for living room for his people. The government branded him a ruthless marauder.

This Little Alfie Was Too Tough Even for Army

HAMILTON, ONT.—Alfred Crapp, who is only 18, is apparently even too tough for the Canadian army.

Crapp was convicted of stealing a bicycle, but Magistrate Burbidge granted deferred sentence, when army officers testified that accused had enlisted, and that they could use him in the army.

A few days ago, city police received a call to go to the armories. There, some military officers had led them to Private Alfred Crapp, who was pacing a cell, surrounded by guards. Alfie, it appears, had been a very bad actor, and the officers wanted to get rid of him. They stated that they would dishonorably discharge him from the army. The police officers looked co-operative, pursed their lips, clicked their tongues, then pounced on Alfred, and bundled him into a Black Maria.

Magistrate Burbidge gave Alfred six months in the Ontario reformatory.

Liquor Seized in Tavern Turns Out to Be Hair Oil

ST. LOUIS.—John Joseph Demel owns a barber shop as well as a tavern.

He was summoned before Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniels to answer a charge that he had served gin at his tavern, which is licensed only for the sale of 3.2 beer.

Patrolman Oliver Wallace testified he seized two gin rickeys and turned them over to the city chemist.

"What's the chemist's report?" McDaniels asked.

"The report says it's hair oil," he was told. "Glycerine flavored like gin, no alcoholic content."

Popcorn Pops Into Straw; Starts Fire; Destroys Barn

SPENCER, IOWA.—Earl Thompson started to burn off a husked popcorn field on the farm of his father, F. L. Thompson, near Sioux Rapids. Popping corn left on the stalks shot into a nearby straw stack, setting fire to a large barn. The building was destroyed.

OBITUARIES

BRAXTON EZELL CALFEE

On January 30 at 7:00 P.M. death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezelle Calfee and bore the spirit of their little son, Braxton Ezelle. He was four years and three months of age and was their only child.

He had never been a strong child physically and had suffered agonies numerous times all during his brief lifetime, but somehow he was always rally and soon be as playful as ever, having an over-abundance of energy when he was the least bit well.

He had not been well for a few weeks having suffered the flu during the holidays, but was able to be at his play until about 2:00 P.M. on January 30, when he was stricken with heart attack and within a few hours his spirit had gone on to be with God.

He leaves to mourn his going his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ezelle Calfee, two sisters, Clutie Mae and Delores, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Calfee and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Smith and many other relatives and friends.

We know that it will be hard to be without him and his place will never be filled but we know that all the work together for good to those who love God, so try to see the bright side and all will be well some day.

Funeral services were held at the Berry Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 with the Rev. O. Davis of Clanton officiating with local in the adjoining cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge. The following served as pallbearers: Clifford Leroy, Walter Leroy, H. old Smith and Clarence Smith—friend, Mrs. J. M. Bryant.

CADETSHIP OPEN

Congressman Pete Jarman Announces Opportunity To Attend Coast G. Academy

Word was received today from Congressman Jarman in Washington that a competitive examination for appointment to cadetships in the United States Coast Guard will be held May 15th and 16th, 1940. This examination is open to young men between the ages of 17 and 22 years. The mental requirements are in general those necessary for admission to colleges.

Graduation leads to a commission as Ensign and a very honorable career in the Coast Guard. The pay of a cadet while undergoing instruction is $780, plus an allowance for subsistence. The course of instruction is basically scientific and engineering in character. Both theoretical and practical seagoing experience is also offered.

A graduate of the United States Coast Guard Academy has an education and a profession well worth while, and young men who are eligible will find it beneficial to investigate further. It is suggested by the Congressman that boys who have entertained ambition to enter the Naval Academy, where the maximum age limit is lower, should be particularly interested in this opportunity.

Detailed requirements for entrance and pamphlet descriptive of the Academy and cadet activities will be sent upon request. Address the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, Washington, D. C. for further information.

The High School P.-T. A. met Tuesday afternoon at the Baptist Church. Mrs. Dick Hayes was in charge of the program and a large number of parents attended.

Four-H Club girls made 7,994 dresses and 15,117 other articles of wearing apparel as part of their 4-H Club activities during the past year.

An important part of the 1940 farm program on the small farm should be the brood sow, say livestock authorities at Auburn.

Mrs. Jarman Elected Secretary Of 75th Congressional Club

Mrs. Pete Jarman was elected Secretary of the 75th Congressional Club last week. This is a pretty exclusive club because only those wives of members who came to Congress for the 75th Congress, January 1937, are eligible for membership.

It is a non-partisan organization and a club that has a mighty good purpose. Right now they are taking complete care of a young man stricken by that dread disease, infantile paralysis.

These women also visit the interesting places of Washington so that they in turn may take their husband's constituents to these historic spots. Any one of these women can tell you, for instance, that the statue surrounding the United States Capitol Dome is the Statue of Freedom and not an Indian as so many tourists think. They can tell you, too, about Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington; where the money is made; where the famous Edgar Hoover G-Men are headquartered; the location of the different embassies, churches and homes of famous people.

Flora Jane Abney of Maplesville, and Martha Paralee Henson of Jemison students at Alabama College, made averages in their courses which placed them on the student honor roll for the first semester.

—A New Short Story Complete in This Issue—

REGGIE'S RICH

By HOWARD CLARK

REGGIE HASCOMB wasn't unattractive to look at. She was just different. She wore her clothes with an air, but not quite as most girls wear them. She wore her hair in a soft little bun at the back of her neck. But instead of looking like a deviation from the bob, it looked as if Reggie had never quite dared have her hair short.

She had been educated, for the last half dozen years, at a French school in Switzerland. She had spent her summers visiting at home. Home consisted of a big, immaculate kept-up estate, where nothing ever seemed to happen. Three meals a day, of course—everything of that sort most punctiliously attended to. But nothing unexpected, nothing gay and light-hearted and young.

"You've got to help me out, Tony," said Barbara Thorpe over the telephone to Anthony West. "I'm awfully fond of Reggie. We had adjoining rooms that year I was in Switzerland at school, and shared a sitting room. And I really like Reggie awfully. Where nothing ever got to sort of beau her around."

"What's her real name—Reggie?" he asked.

He knew he was looked on, by Barbara and her 20-year-old crowd, as a most obliging bachelor who would dutifully turn up, when bidden, as the necessary extra man.

Barbara laughed.

"Oh, no. It's Regina."

"Well," said Tony. "In that case I'll come. If you're trying to tell me she isn't a woe with the boys in your inimitable style, maybe it's her name. Of course, Bobby, I'll be glad to take her off your hands while you play around with your own gay crowd."

"Tony!" Barbara's voice sounded shocked and hurt—as shocked and hurt as she could make it. "You're horrid! I'm not just asking you to look after Reggie. I want you to play for Saturday night. Two launches of us to go down the bay for dinner and dancing at Amal's. You're awfully mean to put me in the wrong. But I'll love you for coming."

So Tony met Reggie, Saturday evening just before they started on the launch trip.

He walked beside her across the broad lawn of Barbara's summer place to the boat house. His first feeling was one of real liking.

He remembered that fact, later, with thankfulness—later, when he looked on himself as a good deal of a cad; for he had started pursuing Reggie because—partly—of her money.

His first feeling, as he looked on the very wholesome young woman beside him—a bit stocky, for the cream-of-the-crop style in girls—with her creamy, pink-tinted skin, her well-cared-for hands with their capable, rather short fingers, her air of giving comfort and contentment rather than an air of demanding excitement and hurry; yes, his first feeling was one of liking.

It was on the launch, going down the bay, that the idea entered Tony's head that Reggie was attainable—and rich.

He knew she wasn't the sort of girl to whom many boys her own age would be drawn.

She was too different to be that sort of popular success. And something Reggie said made him realize that she was rich.

"Funny," she said, in a well-modulated but rather carrying voice. "But my mother always gets served. Just demands it—and gets it. She went into Waltham's the other day to look at Oriental rugs. And she didn't get waited on right away. So she just said to a clerk, 'I don't suppose you know I'm the wife of Jonathan Hascomb, the richest man in Kingsbush,' just like that. And you should have seen those clerks scurry."

There wasn't much to the story. But Reggie laughed at it, evidently picturing against the sight of her mother and the neglectful salesman.

And he thought suddenly: Suppose she should marry her! His own small fortune had gone the way of other, more noble fortunes in the recent collapse of a big western mining company that had stood the strain and stress of the earlier depression. He made enough money to live on—money enough to keep a wife and children well enough. But Tony, at 30, enjoyed spending more than money enough.

If he ever married, he wished to keep his wife in rather luxurious style without cutting down his own expenses too much. And if he liked Reggie, and she had money of her own—well, what then?

It wasn't a well-formulated plan. And Tony needn't have been so ashamed of it three weeks later when he found himself head over heels in love with Reggie.

She was still visiting Barbara Thorpe, and Tony was dancing constant attendance on her—even to jeopardizing his job in the city, which had always seemed so absorbing and interesting.

Now nothing seemed interesting, absorbing, but the hours he spent with Reggie.

There was a dance at Barbara's one Saturday night.

Tony and Reggie were wandering across the moonlit lawn down to the music boothhouse.

Musical came from the house across the silent darkness.

Reggie's firm, capable small hand was in Tony's. And Tony knew Reggie cared for him. He'd made her care—laid himself out to make her care. And now, in the soft warm moonlight, he must seem an utter cad—cold, aloof, indifferent.

Tony felt that he couldn't ask Reggie to marry him—because he knew she was rich.

He loved her. He couldn't let her feel for an instant that he was attracted by her money. Yet, torturingly, the thought returned to him again and again that he had thought of her money when he first knew her.

"Tony," said Reggie, softly. "There's something the matter. You're tired. Sit down over here where you can watch the moon on the water and I'll just sit quietly by you. Rest. Or I'll go away."

"Don't leave me, Reggie," said Tony, holding her hand tight. "Yes. Let's sit down. But you stay."

"Want me to sing to you?" And she started to sing to him, well-trained, but soft little voice, sing him a lovely old French lullaby.

When the last strain of the little song had died away Tony knew he must tell Reggie how things stood.

"He felt," he said, "I love you."

"But Reggie," he went on quickly. "I've no right to tell you so. You see—I'm comparatively poor—and you're rich. And—"

"But Tony"—Reggie's lips were near his cheek as she spoke to him rich—"you're not loving me because I'm rich?"

"Heaven forbid," said Tony fervently. "I wish you were penniless. I adore you, Reggie."

Reggie rested her head on Tony's shoulder and sighed blissfully.

"Well, Tony," she said, "I am. I mean, dad lost his last son in the collapse of that big western mining company a few weeks ago."

"Thank heaven!" said Tony passionately, as he swept Reggie into his arms.

Farming Is Classified As 'Dangerous Business'

"Farming is an exceedingly dangerous occupation, the hazards of which are not universally appreciated," John H. Foxworth, M. D., Cooperstown, N. Y., declares in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Agricultural accidents were responsible for nearly one-fourth of all serious injuries treated at a medium-sized rural hospital in the central part of New York state during the years 1929-1938 inclusive," the author says. "Such accidents showed a definite seasonal variation with a peak during July and August, for which haying, the playing of children and other unclassified activities were largely responsible. Fifty per cent of all farm accidents occurred either in the barn or in the barnyard."

"Routine chores were the most dangerous single motivating activity, with logging and haying next in order of frequency. Farm tools and implements, animals, machinery and vehicles all contributed their share of injuries in about equal proportions. Falls were numerous. Males were injured with 10 times the frequency of females."

"Fractures comprised one-third of all injuries; division of nerves and tendons and partial or complete amputations of fingers and hands were common. The shoulder and upper extremity were injured more frequently than the hip and lower extremity."

"The average period of hospitalization was 18.3 days, and the average number of outpatient visits was 5.7. Nearly 50 per cent of the patients reached the hospital within one hour."

"The monetary loss incidental to serious injuries was for most farmers a major financial catastrophe. Twenty per cent were able to pay nothing for their professional care and hospitalization, 18 per cent paid in part and 62 per cent paid in full. Most of the last mentioned required many months and even years for the complete discharge of their financial obligation. The mortality was 5.1 per cent."

In analyzing the 310 farm accidents requiring hospitalization, Dr. Foxworth says that routine chores accounted for nearly one-third of them, logging for one-fifth and haying for one-sixth.

Of the total number 70.3 per cent were due to carelessness of the persons injured and 9.4 per cent to the carelessness of someone else.

"Assault or suicide was responsible for 4.2 per cent of the injuries," Dr. Foxworth reports, "a rather unexpected hazard but one which may be explained by the lonely life of poverty and solitude which farmers lead in districts rural areas. The incriminating agents of the farm accidents included tools, implements, machinery, falling trees and falls on slippery or icy ground."

Will Appear In Concert At Alabama College

POLDI MILDNER

When Poldi Mildner, brilliant young Austrian pianist, appears in concert at Alabama College the evening of February 15, the girls at Montevallo will be hearing one of the youngest artists who has ever appeared on the annual Concert and Lecture Series annually sponsored by the College.

Miss Mildner's concert is the fourth number in the 1939-1940 series which is featuring such stand-out attractions as Nino Martini, Eva Le Gallienne, and the United States Marine Band. Originally booked for January 29, Miss Mildner was held up on account of the European War and was not able to make the Atlantic crossing in time to keep her engagement. Consequently, the Concert and Lecture Committee postponed her appearance until this week in order to avoid disappointing students at the State College for Women who were eager to hear this outstanding artist so near their own age.

At 17 in her New York debut, Poldi Mildner was the musical sensation of the 1934 season; and her performance since then has fulfilled all the promise shown as a girl in her teens. Besides her musical ability, Miss Mildner's fame could very well rest on her striking blonde beauty.

Musical America knows her to be a girl who—for all her fine professional ability—is famous for her colorful personality, spirited sense of humor, and almost fanatical liking for fast driving and love of good times. She was born in the midst of the Great War, and critics in Germany, Holland, Italy, Rumania, France and Switzerland already knew of her great ability even before she came to America at 17. Ohio Downers, music critic of The New York Times wrote after hearing her for the first time: "Her name will be recorded along with the names of Rachmaninoff, Liszt, and Brahms—men who have made the history of pianism."

Miss Mildner appears at 8:15 in Palmer Auditorium. The concert is open to the holders of season tickets and to others for a nominal charge.

The Shorts have decided on Nauvoo as the permanent home town of the Quads.

WILL ERECT NEW CHURCH AT MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Unanimous decision to build a new church was made at a business meeting of the Mountain Springs Congregational Church Tuesday night, January 30th. The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rutherford. The new church will be built along similar lines as the old, only slightly smaller. The condition of the old building is such that it was decided it would be more economical to tear down the old building, salvaging as much lumber as possible to be used again in the new structure. It is expected that the work will be done in the very near future.

The destruction of the old building and the construction of the new will be done by those interested in the church. Those who have volunteered to either do the work themselves or furnish someone to work in their place are the following:

Oscar Williamson, Lubie Moates, Will Headley, Marvin Giles, Tom Miller, Walter Giles, Hobson Kilgore, James Otis Rutherford, Will Kiles, Robert Gentry, Mrs. C. F. FARMING

Requires a Great Deal of Planning

Dear Sir:

The year of 1939 has closed and you are now approaching the season of the year that you are beginning to make plans for your 1940 crop. No doubt you remember the old saying that "A large snow will make a big crop year," which we hope will be true this year, however, we can not depend too much on this. Farming, like any other successful business, requires a great deal of planning and thinking before any actual work is done; this fact is especially true at the present time with the farm problem that we are facing. We hope that all farmers will bear this in mind and will make definite plans for the year 1940—working toward a live-at-home plan, such as the program that we suggest below:

FOOD CROPS: Plan to have at least ½ acre to 1 acre of sweet potatoes, ¼ acre of Irish potatoes in the spring and ¼ acre planted in the fall; also 2 to 3 acres of peas. Then have ¼ to ½ acre of land in garden, according to size of family, utilize and work it well and grow sufficient vegetables to supply home needs and a surplus to can so that there will be available 1 or 3 cans each day when it is needed.

HOME ORCHARD: Spray, prune and cultivate orchard. If you don't have an orchard, set one, beginning with ½ dozen trees each of apples, peaches, pears and plums and 4 to 6 rows of strawberries and dewberries to use fresh and to can and preserve. There is nothing that will pay you better than a good home orchard and garden, well cared for.

COTTON, CORN AND OTHER FARM PRODUCTS: Produce 1 bale of cotton to the acre on you allotted acres. Plant to have 75 to 100 bushels of corn per mule or other head of workstock and sufficient corn to have at least 1 bushel for each hen that is to be kept on the farm. Also, plant 5 to 10 acres of hay crops, such as Lespedeza, Soy Beans, Peas and Sorghum for your livestock and 3 to 5 acres of oats, fertilized with 4 and 1 acre of Peanuts for home use.

LIVESTOCK: Have at least 2 milk cows, 1 or 2 brood sows, producing 2 litters of pigs each, 50 to 100 laying hens to have poultry and eggs to sell all during the year. Also, plant to sell 3 to 5 hogs and 1 to 2 yearlings during the year. Also, plant, fertilize and improve 3 to 5 acres of permanent pasture to supply the necessary grazing for hogs and cows and 3 to 5 acres of peanuts for hog feed.

Many of the above suggestions were contained in our farm letter last year, but as these are the only source of farm income, we believe them worth while repeating to you. If we can be of any help to you in making your plans or furnishing you money to make your crop or any other plans that you may have in your program for this year, we will be glad to have you come in to see us. It will be a pleasure to loan you on our regular banking terms and method.

Yours very truly,

VALUE OF GARDEN

The garden as a source of income to farm families is second only to cotton and corn. When one takes into consideration, and at the same time knows that farm families are producing, on the average, about one-third of the vegetables needed for home use, it is hard to see why so little attention is given to this part of the farm.

Few of us think of mid-winter as the time to start the year's garden. In fact, it should not be, work in the garden should never stop. One of the many garden jobs that should be looked after as soon as possible is the fence. Every garden should be fenced with wire or staves so that poultry and rabbits can be kept out. Check the garden fence to see that all the posts are sound—be sure that the gate is in good condition and stop all holes that have been made under the fence.

You cannot have a good garden without using plenty of fertilizer. Start the year off right by broadcasting compost and plowing. As soon as weather conditions permit the compost should be put out and turned under.

The most successful gardener is one who plants often. Plant something in the garden every two weeks. So many of us who attempt to have an all-year garden do not realize the importance of planting something every few days. So generally it is true that very few vegetables have been planted. There are many vegetables that may be planted this month. The exact date to plant must of necessity be governed by weather conditions, but practically all of the following may be planted during this month: Asparagus, beets, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower chard, collards, kale, lettuce, mustard, onions, English peas, Irish potatoes, radish, spinach, turnips and tendergreens. Since most of our plantings have been delayed, we should remember to fertilize liberally to rush them to maturity.

Such vegetables as tomatoes, peppers and eggplant may be planted in boxes in order for plants to be ready for setting in the garden when danger of killing frost is over.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the value of good seed. So called bargain or cheap seed should be avoided and only seed known to be of high quality should be used. The amount of seed required to plant the home garden is so small that it is best to get fresh seed, each year and avoid the risk of poor stands from defective seed. Standard varieties of all vegetables should be the ones used, and the gardener should avoid straying off after every new variety that comes along. New varieties should be tried as they are introduced but they should be used only in trials until they are proved.—Mattie Jo Barber.

Alcazar Shrine Temple To Sponsor Circus For 4,000 Crippled Children

Montgomery, Ala. Feb. 14.—After the unprecedented cold of the last few weeks, which has brought suffering to the poor and kept "shut-ins" confined more closely to their rooms than ever, comes news that will warm the hearts of at least 4,000 crippled and underprivileged children within a radius of 50 miles from Montgomery.

Alcazar Shrine Temple, for the second consecutive year, will sponsor the appearance at the Montgomery City Auditorium of Polack Brothers' famed indoor circus, featuring 41 acts by nationally known big-top stars, all professional entertainers. Performances will be given daily from Feb. 28 to March 5, inclusive—seven nights and six matinees.

And two of the matinees, the dates of which will be announced in the near future, will be set aside for underprivileged and crippled children—at least 4,000 of them—from Montgomery and communities 50 miles distant or more.

The matinees are to be made possible through the efforts of Alcazar Temple and public-spirited citizens who, for an almost nominal sum, can purchase admission tickets for poor and crippled youngsters—the ones who seldom, if ever, have the opportunity of seeing an honest-to-goodness circus.

The matinees are to cost these children nothing whatever and, where possible, arrangements will be made to provide transportation to and from the scene.

Judge Eugene Carter, Illustrious Potentate, and Earl P. Andrews, general chairman, have announced the appointment of J. Mell Martin of Clanton, as chairman for that area.

In addition to the two matinees for poor and crippled children, Alcazar Temple is to use part of the proceeds from the other performances for its crippled children's fund.

Polack Brothers' Circus is known, and admired, from southern Mexico and northern Canada and has received uniformly laudatory comments from the press in the hundreds of cities where it has appeared. It features, among other noted stars, the famous Morales Family; the Orton Trio, high wire artists; the Michels, acrobats; Eugene Randow's performing elephant and Capt. John Synder and his Russian bears; Capt. Noble Hamlet and his Nubian lions in the "Arena of Death"; clog, and Sennet Felix Melton, who does a 100-foot slide down a wire on his head. The performance lasts about two hours 20 minutes.

WHEN SALLY COMES TO TOWN!

A three-act comedy entitled "When Sally Comes To Town" will be presented at the Thomas Jr. High School on Saturday night, February 17 at 8:00 o'clock. The cast, composed of P.-T.A. members, is as follows:

Uncle Joshua Perkins, Charles Alexander; Sally Simple, Myrtle Dennis; Mrs. Parker, Fannie B. Simpson; Esmeralda, Lorraine Downs; Loring Parker, Billy Martin; Felicia Winston, Rolene Kelly; Theresa Holbrook, Virginia Lunsford; Lord Cecil Raleigh, Melvin Lunsford; Lance Wellington, Lester Down; Birdie LaRouge, Olivia Hill; Ruth the Maid, Ruby Alexander.

Don't miss seeing Myrtle Dennis as Sally, the niece of Uncle Joshua; Charles Alexander is a scream as Uncle Joshua Perkins, and many other characters that will keep the audience in laughter from beginning to end. Admission will be ten and twenty cents. Proceeds to go to P.-T.A.

Chilton High Again Defeats Lanier Quintet -34-23

Chilton County High, taking an early lead and holding it all the way, defeated Sidney Lanier's Poets in Montgomery last week 34-23.

The Chilton team, present State champions, was led by J. Johnson, captain, with 12 points.

The lineup and summary as follows: Clanton (34); Baker (5) and Collins (3), forwards; O. Johnson (3), center; Chambers (5) and J. Johnson (12), guards; McClain (6), substitute.

Sidney Lanier (23)—Priester (9) and Sammon (4), forwards; Hudson, center; Bradshaw (4) and Moseley, guards; Boltzer (2) and Ingalls (4), substitutes.

THORSBY GREEN EAGLES WIN ANOTHER

The Thorsby Green Eagles were forced to extend themselves in a big way Tuesday night in order to defeat Coach Rape's rangy high school quint from Isabella. The final score was 33-30.

This was one of the most exciting games of the season played by the Eagles with little Willie Smith out with a broken arm and Cofer also absent from the regular line-up. Thorsby was forced to juggle its players to stave off defeat. First one team lead, then the other. The score was tied 17 all at the half.

Isabella led 23 to 21 at the third quarter. For Isabella, the Glenner brothers, Allston with 11 and Earl with 12, were the high scorers.

For Thorsby, Hayes with 10, Riggin 8, Hilyer 7, Littleton and Jackson 4 each rounded out their scoring.

MITCHELL DAM DEFEATS ALL-STARS IN THRILLING GAME

Last Tuesday night at Mitchell Dam the Dammers administered defeat to the Birmingham All-Stars to the tune of 42-32.

Little Sweeney Melton was the star of this game, with 22 points, and his excellent work of guarding his man, who happened to be the manager of the All-Stars, was outstanding. He held him to only six points.

The pass-work of the Birmingham boys was outstanding, but the Dammers had their number and had forged ahead at the final whistle.

Bill Critcher for the All-Stars was high point man with 14 points.

DEEP SOUTH QUARTET TO APPEAR AT STANTON SCHOOL

The many admirers of The Deep South boys have a treat in store for them. This quartet of gospel singers is to appear at the Stanton School auditorium on Friday night of this week at 8:00 o'clock.

This program is being sponsored by the Stanton School P.-T.A. and is being sponsored in the interest of the school lunch room project. The P.-T.A. promises seat room for an auditorium full of people, so don't worry about having to stand as has been the case before.

Isabella Basketball Team Is Making Fine Showing

Isabella Basketball Team is still playing ball in spite of the rough weather.

On Tuesday, January 23rd, they weathered the snow and brought home a victory from Prattville 35-18. On January 30th, they won from Jemison High 36-23, and on February 2nd they gave Thorsby Green Eagles a tough battle. This game was given free and followed by "Coon Valley Minstrel" presented by the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

Every basketball fan who ever knew anything about basketball reports this game to be the best of the season. The boys were defeated by a score of 24-23, but they do not believe it can be done again.

In this game Earl and Allston Glenner tied as high point men, and we believe that the rest of the games will uncork all the tricks they have in order to win.

PARTLOW TO SEEK POST OF CONGRESSMAN

W. D. (BILLY) PARTLOW, JR., OF TUSCALOOSA WISHES TO REPRESENT SIXTH DISTRICT

W. D. (Billy) Partlow, Jr., widely known Tuscaloosa attorney, today announced his candidacy for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District. A son of Dr. W. D. Partlow, Superintendent of the Alabama Hospitals or the Insane, Partlow has been active for many years as a leader in professional, civic and social affairs. He is married to the former Rosa Earle, daughter of the late P. H. Earle, of Birmingham. They have two children, a son and a daughter. Partlow said it is his candidacy to become a candidate for Congress with full realization of the immense responsibility of the office. I am determined to win this race and go to Washington as a Representative who will fight with determination for those who will enter the political welfare of our country.

Partlow enters a political career backed by a record of intense activity and competitive spirit. He went on his own early in life, as he is becoming a carrier for The Tuscaloosa News, and later working during vacation as a grocery delivery boy, carter's helper, sawmill laborer, with cleaning and pressing plant and at other odd jobs.

While a student at the University of Alabama, Partlow won letters in football and track, and found time to provide diversity of campus activities. By popular vote of the students he was twice awarded important positions being elected Business Manager of the yearbook and President of the Phi Kappa Club. Few students have left the University with membership in more honorary organizations.

Partlow was graduated from Alabama with degrees in Arts & Sciences and in Law. Later he spent a year in post-graduate work at Harvard Law School. He was admitted to the Bar in Alabama and since that time has practiced in Tuscaloosa, for the past five years as a member of the firm of Partlow, Maistre & Clement.

He served for seven years as a member of the Alabama National Guard, during the Second Lieutenant in Company D, 167th Infantry. He now holds Captain's commission in the Alabama Reserve Corps of the Judge Advocate General's Department.

Partlow's civic interest is evidenced by outstanding successes in directing various community campaigns, among them drives for the Boy Scouts, Sal-

Col. John C. Mullinex Tells Kiwanians, Lions, That U.S. Strength Often Exaggerated

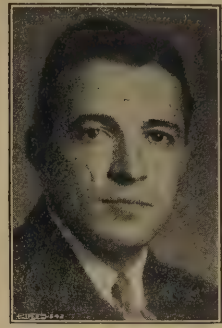

One of the most interesting programs ever rendered before a civic organization of Clanton men was given last Thursday night when Col. John C. Mullinex, of the United States Army, told the Clanton Kiwanis and Lions Clubs that the military might of the United States is often exaggerated. The main speaker of the evening was Lt. Col. John C. Mullinex, instructor in Cavalry subjects at Maxwell Field, Montgomery. Col. Mullinex was presented by Kiwanian Horace Walker, member of the Clanton Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association who sponsored Col. Mullinex's appearance on the program, in observance of National Defense Week. The meeting was presided over jointly by Kiwanis president Ocie M. Webb and Lions president Grady Hefner. Prior to the speech, the group, numbered over half a hundred, were served a delicious plate by the ladies at the church. Several members of the Reserve Officers Association and the local CCC Camp were introduced as guests of the two clubs by Kiwanian Walker.

Col. Mullinex's speech on "National Defense Week" held his audience spellbound. He related in a most able manner the military might of the United States at present and in the past. One of the biggest mistakes we are making, he said, is the teaching of the school children of our country that we are the strongest nation far in the world, that our military engagements in the past have been epic of glory and victory," he stated.

Col. Mullinex stated that he did not want to infer that our armies have been on par ones, and that our forefathers were not courageous men, but merely to point out that there are dangers in our military history that have not been recorded in detail and which might never have occurred had our nation been better prepared, not only in a military manner but scientifically and otherwise.

Unfortunately, the Colonel stated, our preparations must be perfected before

Session Of Circuit Court Next Week

Circuit Clerk J. C. Pattillo announced this week that a session of the Clanton County Circuit Court will be held next week, beginning Monday, February 26. Cases have been scheduled through Friday, with Judge Arthur Glover presiding. Cases appearing on the Jury State Trial Docket will be heard.

Dr. and Mrs. Golden and little daughter, Louise spent last week-end in Lake Village, Ark., where Dr. Golden was called to the bedside of his brother-in-law, who was very ill.

Clanton County Sportsmen's Club, the Tuscaloosa Horse Show, and other civic enterprises.

He is a member of the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist Church, and Director in the Tuscaloosa Junior Chamber of Commerce, and holds membership in the Masons, Elks, Exchange Club, Tuscaloosa Country Club, and the Dollarhide Hunting & Fishing Club.

Wars are fought, and to maintain a large standing army is expensive, it is true, but preparedness can be had through organization that will permit speedy and efficient regimentation. Organization, he stated, is the key to a strong army and a successful defense of our nation.

Col. Mullinex referred to our military engagements in the past and pointed out the weak points in these engagements. Our lack of military might may well be the cause of our being provoked into another war unless we keep in mind that other nations of the world are constantly forging ahead in every military and scientific way, and that these nations have men who are as smart as our own scientists and military men. A would-be aggressor nation has, nor will not, respect our moral views and our sentiments. Our military might and ability to defend our rights is the only thing they will respect, he stated.

"During the war of 1812, 3,000 British soldiers, with only a little more than 1,500 men of this 3,000 carrying out the attack, marched on the capital of the United States, took and burned 5,000 of our own men," he stated. "Our army retreated with a loss of only 8 men while this was being done," he said. He pointed out our lack of military organization and preparedness as a cause of this and not the lack of valor on the part of our soldiers.

Col. Mullinex pointed to other incidents in the history of our nation's military experiences that clearly show that preparedness is a thing vitally necessary for the well-being of our country. Progress is being made in many ways to insure a more organized and stronger Army in the event of future wars, he said. One such way is the present Officers Reserve Chapters over the Nation, of which Clanton has one. These men, who will be officers in case of war, are voluntarily organized and receive pay only when in camp, once or twice a year.

Plans Made For Easter Seal Sale

The Clanton County Crippled Children's Committee met at the office of the Board of Education February 15th. The following officers were elected: S. D. Sturkie, president; Nolan McManey, secretary-treasurer.

The committee made plans for a campaign to raise funds for the crippled children of the county. This campaign usually takes place just prior to Easter and closes on Easter Sunday. The money raised in the county is matched by the state and again by the Federal Government. The money is used to provide hospital treatment and special equipment for crippled children.

JEMISON DOCTOR INJURED IN ACCIDENT MONDAY P. M.

Dr. Kemp, herb doctor of Jemison, was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital here late Monday afternoon suffering from severe lacerations about the head and body as a result of an auto collision on the highway in Jemison.

Details of the accident were not learned, but it is understood that the car occupied by Dr. Kemp, in which he was riding alone, collided with another auto. Dr. Kemp's car was hurled into a lumber pile by the roadside. Occupants of the other auto were not seriously injured. Kemp's condition was reported late Tuesday afternoon as fairly good.

RURAL CARRIER EXAM. FOR VERBENA RURAL CARRIER

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination to fill the position of rural carrier at Verbena, Alabama. The examination will be held at Clanton, Ala.

SAM MARTIN DIED HERE LAST THURSDAY

POPULAR FUNERAL DIRECTOR OF CLANTON DIES FOLLOW-ING LENGTHY ILLNESS

Samuel Robbins Martin, age 30, one of Clanton's best known and likable young business men, died at the Central Alabama Hospital here at 1:15 A.M. last Thursday. He had been in ill health for several months, but his death came as a distinct shock to his many friends here and over the State.

Mr. Martin was recognized as one of the State's leading embalmers. He was a member of the firm of J. Mell Martin & Sons, Clanton Funeral Directors.

Samuel Robbins Martin was born in Etna, Alabama, June 13, 1909. He came to Clanton with his family in 1921. He attended the Clanton schools and was graduated from the Clanton County High School, class of 1929. He attended the Cincinnati School of Embalming in Cincinnati, Ohio, and on completion of his course returned to Clanton where he entered into business with his father and brothers.

Funeral services were held from the Clanton Baptist Church Friday afternoon with the Rev. Oscar A. Davis, pastor, in charge assisted by the Rev. J. L. Daniel, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church. Interment was in the Clanton cemetery with thirteen of Alabama's leading funeral directors, headed by W. E. Devaughn, in charge.

The Devaughn Quartet rendered two selections during the service with Mrs. Gylula Murrell at the piano. The Quartet is composed of O. L. Devaughn, Archie Devaughn, J. J. Crew and Raybon Crew.

VALENTINE PARTY HELD AT JEMISON WAS BIG SUCCESS

On Thursday evening, February 15, the annual Valentine Party was enjoyed by many people from the Jemison Community in the High School auditorium.

The party began at 7:30 with a short play. Later two other short plays were given. Helen Sims and Dorothy Ann Denson danced between plays. Following the last play the students from each room who had been nominated for Valentine Kings and Queens marched around in the auditorium and on the stage. Then a minut was presented by sixteen high school students.

At the conclusion of the minut sandwiches, ice cream, peanuts, were sold. During this time the would-be kings and queens were being voted on. The final and most dramatic event of the evening was the crowning of Alice Dorr Denson and Julius Plier as King and Queen. They represented the third grade. They were each given a box of Valentine candy.

Two Arrested On Counterfeit Charges

A traffic law violation on the highway near Clanton last Thursday resulted in the arrest of two men who were charged with having in their possession counterfeit money.

The two men, Thomas McKinley Sheppard and Frank Trammell, both middle-aged, and both of Birmingham, were picked up by local highway patrolmen and Sheppard was arrested for driving without driver's license. Trammell was said to be intoxicated and the car belonged to his wife. Sheppard was driving.

The two men were brought to the jail, where Sheppard was locked up and Trammell was permitted to remain out the outside. Attendants about the jail found five bright half-dollars lying on the ground near the auto, and upon close examination found that they were counterfeit. On being questioned the men admitted having the money in their possession saying they had gotten it in Pensacola, Fla. and had not tried to pass any of the bogus money.

Federal officers came up and carried them to Montgomery last Saturday.

GEORGE BOWDIN INJURED WHEN TRUCK SUPPORT FALLS

George Bowdin, employee of the Fore Motor Co. here was seriously injured last Tuesday afternoon when the support of a truck on which he was working gave way, causing the vehicle to fall on his hips and legs.

Mr. Bowdin was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital here for first aid, where it was discovered that one hip was badly crushed. He was transferred later to the Veterans Hospital in Tuscaloosa.

STAPLE SALE AT HILL'S

L. J. Stewart, manager of the local Hill's Grocery, wants to remind his friends and customers that at present he is having a sale on staples such as lard, flour, sugar, coffee, white meat and all kinds of canned goods. Mr. Stewart invites them all to come by and stock up on these bargains.

THE REAL "OLD HOSS SALE" MAY BE A THING OF THE PAST BUT A REVIVAL OF THIS OLD CUSTOM IS DUE FOR CLANTON

Know what an "Old Hoss Sale" is? Taking it literally, you'd probably say it was the time and place for the sale of horses, but the "Old Hoss Sale" we speak of was not the case. A good many of the old timers probably know what an "Old Hoss Sale" is but we'll wager many of you do not. Be that as it may, Clanton is going to have one of these sales in the near future and it's going to be the most colossal affair in Clanton's history with fun for everybody and bargains for all. Speaking of that, there'll probably be more of that than the law allows but the sponsor of the sale are willing to take a chance, anyway.

But before we go any farther, we'll tell you what an "Old Hoss Sale" is, in case you are one of those who do not know. Well, an "Old Hoss Sale" is just this: Back years ago it was the custom of the railroads of the country to have a huge auction sale once every several months. You might ask what the railroads had to auction—just this: In the course of several months a railroad would accumulate many packages and bundles that for various reasons were not delivered to the intended receiver, probably due to lack of sufficient address, etc. After a certain period of time, when the accumulation of packages and bundles had become very large, the railroad would advertise and stage an auction of the goods without ever opening them. The bidder and buyer would not know what he was getting, but the gamble was worth something and the money received by

MYSTERY SURROUNDS HOPPER DEATH

WELL KNOWN MT CREEK MAN FOUND IN DYING CONDITION
NEAR RAILROAD TRACK

John W. Hopper, resident of near Mt. Creek, whose age was about 65, was found by a negro track walker for the L. & N. Railroad early last Thursday morning lying near a spur track where the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway crosses the L. & N. tracks near Mt. Creek, a few yards from the Clanton-Autauga County line, on the Clanton side. He was in a dying condition, presumably caused when he fell, jumped suddenly caused when he fell from the highway bridge to the tracks thirty-two feet below.

A Martin ambulance was called and Hopper was rushed to the local hospital but died shortly after reaching the hospital. He was not conscious when found and never regained consciousness.

An air of mystery surrounds the tragedy. Sheriff W. G. Culp and his deputies were immediately notified of the tragedy and have been working faithfully ever since to determine the nature of Mr. Hopper's death. The Sheriff and his deputies have been working in conjunction with two investigators, the L. & N. Railroad, Circuit Solicitor Winston Huddleston and a special State investigator in an effort to determine if foul play was involved.

So far little progress has been made in the efforts to determine the exact conditions under which Mr. Hopper met his death. A filling station and store near the scene of the tragedy was where Hopper was last seen on the eve of his death, Sheriff Culp stated. Several persons around the store during the night reported seeing him there, and that he had several checks written out to "cash" and signed by himself. These, the Sheriff stated, were found on his body when discovered.

Sheriff Culp stated that Dr. V. J. Gragg, who examined the body, reported that the only visible marks on the body was a slight cut on the chin and a broken hip.

Sheriff Culp asked the News to inform our readers that every effort is being made and no time is being lost to unravel the mystery. He and his deputies have been constantly on the job, and they ask that the people bear this in mind.

Funeral services for Mr. Hopper were held at Liberty Baptist Church in Autauga County last Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Burial was in the nearby cemetery. Spigener Funeral Home was in charge of burial.

Among the survivors is a son, Denish Hopper, well known minister and school teacher of this County. A complete list of survivors was not obtainable at the time the News goes to press.

Mrs. Thomason of Guntersville, sister to Mrs. May, is visiting with Mrs. May and Mrs. Dan Waite.

THE REAL "OLD HOSS SALE" MAY BE A THING OF THE PAST BUT A REVIVAL OF THIS OLD CUSTOM IS DUE FOR CLANTON

the railroad was for the freight and storage of the lost package. Oftentimes buyers at these auctions, which were termed "Old Hoss Sales" would get valuable merchandise for a low price and hardly ever was a buyer "stung," and the affair was always lots of fun.

Now that you know what an "Old Hoss Sale" is, you are probably wondering how, when and where this is going to be carried out again in Clanton. Well, it is—but not by the railroad company. On April 4th in the warehouse owned by Mrs. Sophia Jones of Clanton, will be staged one of the biggest "Old Hoss Sales" Clanton has ever or will ever see. This is no joke, for hundreds of dollars of valuable merchandise will be auctioned off, the bid on each package of most of the merchandise not exceeding ten cents, with a guarantee that no package will contain less than 20c worth of merchandise. What it will be—no bidder will know.

We said this was going to be one of the most entertaining and bargaining affairs in the history of Clanton, and we're going to convince you of that, but we are not going to tell you everything this week. This space next week will be devoted to a follow-up article telling more of this affair and how it is to be worked, who is sponsoring it, how it is being made possible, etc. From week to week, we will keep you posted on this event that will mean money and fun to those who will be fortunate to get into the building on the night of April 4.

Washington's Advice As Potent Today As When Written

By John M. VanDervoer, Jr.

Every article written for publication must of a necessity have some definite purpose, be it for education, entertainment or else. There is a two-fold reason for the writing of this article. It is singularly appropriate that we stop on this, the 28th anniversary of his birth and pay tribute to our first great American, George Washington. But it is of far greater importance to us today that we re-dedicate ourselves to the political principles for which he fought and which he so ably aided in establishing.

Further, America stands relatively in the same position today as she stood in 1796. The parallel is striking. Our problems both domestic and foreign, are almost identically the same. It is therefore, in view of this similarity of conditions, exceedingly appropriate that we look backward and see what course Washington advised the United States to pursue.

It is particularly with his farewell address, to the people of the United States, that we are concerned. Having served two terms as President, and having seen the infant republic launched safely on its way, he felt he had served his time for his country and in parting addressed to them a farewell message. In this message he tried to impress upon the people of these United States the great political truths which had guided him through his two administrations and in which he felt lay the only hope for continued peace, prosperity and political security, for this country. The truths he spoke may well be used by statesmen today as their guide, and they cannot return too often to its precepts.

Perhaps no other American paper has been so often quoted; often mis-constructed deliberately to gain a political end. It nevertheless remains the Americans the first guide or declaration of what Americanism really is and ought to be.

To publish the full text of this address would be needless. We have taken the liberty of abridging where necessary in order to bring in as short space as possible the substance of the paper.

Addressing himself to the people of the United States at the time of the expiration of his term it had become necessary to elect his successor, he apprizes them of his resolution not to seek an additional term. Stating his inclination to retire to the privacy of his farm and a firm conviction that the affairs of the government both external and internal now render such a step possible he is satisfied that while choice and prudence counsel his retirement, patriotism does not forbid it. It was with difficulty that Washington was persuaded to leave his beloved Mount Vernon and accept the presidency at first. He had always professed his wish to remain in the background and out of public life. The sentiment of the American people called him out of that seclusion. He was the one man who might be elected President without exciting envy. The one man who possessed the confidence of an entire nation and in whom the friends of the new government placed their trust. He alone was able to hold the respect and confidence of the enemies of the new governments. He had served well for 8 years, his work was done.

Quoting from the text we read as follows:

"In looking forward to the moment which is to terminate the career of my political life, my feelings do not permit me to suspend the deep acknowledgment of that debt of gratitude which I owe to my beloved country, for the many honors it has conferred upon me; still more for the steadfast confidence with which it has supported me; and for the opportunities I have thence enjoyed, by manifesting my inviolable attachment, by services faithful and unflinching to its usefulness unequal to my zeal. . . . the constancy of your support was the essential prop of the efforts and a guarantee of the plans by which they were effected. Profoundly penetrated with this idea I shall carry it with me to my grave, as a strong incitement to unceasing vows that heaven may continue to you the choicest tokens of its beneficence—that your union and brotherly affection may be perpetual—that the free institution which is the work of your hands may be sacredly maintained—that its administration in every department may be stamped with wisdom and virtue—that in fine, the happiness of the people of these states under the auspices of liberty may be made complete by so careful a preservation and so prudent a use of this blessing as will acquire to them the glory of recommending it to the applause the affection and adoption of every nation which yet a stranger to it."

"Here, perhaps, I ought to stop. But a solicitude for your welfare which cannot end but with my life and the apprehension of danger natural to that solicitude urges me on an occasion like the present to offer to your solemn contemplation and to recommend, to your frequent review some sentiments which are the result of much reflection and of no inconsiderable observation and which appear to me all important to the permanency of your felicity as a people. These will be offered to you with the more freedom as you can only see in them the disinterested warnings of a parting friend who can possibly have no personal motive to bias his counsel.

National Unity
The unity of Government which constitutes you one people is now dear to you. It is justly so; for it is a main pillar in the edifice of your real independence; the support of your tranquility at home; your peace abroad; of your safety; of your prosperity; of that liberty which you so highly prize. But as it is easy to foresee, that from different causes, arising from different quarters, much pains will be taken, many artifices employed to weaken in your minds the conviction of this truth; as this is the point in your political fortress, against which the batteries of internal and external enemies will be most actively and constantly (though often covertly and insidiously) directed; it is of infinite moment that you should properly estimate the immense value of your national unity to your collective and individual happiness; that you should cherish a cordial, habitual and immovable attachment to it; accustoming yourselves to think and speak of it as the palladium of your political safety and prosperity; watching for its preservation with jealous anxiety; discountenancing whoever may suggest even a suspicion that it can, in any event, be abandoned; and indignantly frowning upon the first dawning of every attempt to alienate any portion of our country from the rest, or to enfeeble the sacred ties which now link together the various parts.

For this you have every inducement of sympathy and interest. Citizens by birth, or choice, of a common country, that country has a right to concentrate your affections. The name of American which belongs to you in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of your patriotism, more than any appellation derived from local discriminations. . . .

While then every part of our country thus feels an immediate and particular interest in the union, all parts combined cannot fail to find in the united mass of means and efforts, greater strength, greater resource, proportionably greater security from external danger, a less frequent interruption of their peace by foreign nations; and, what is of inestimable value, they must derive from an exemption from those broils and wars between themselves, which so frequently afflict neighboring countries not tied together by the same government; which their own rivalships alone would be sufficient to produce but which, opposite foreign alliance, attachments, and intrigues, would stimulate and embitter. . . . They likewise they will avoid the necessity of those overgrown military establishments, which under any form of government are inauspicious to liberty, and which are to be regarded as particularly hostile to republican liberty. In this sense it is, that your union ought to be considered as a main prop of your liberty, and that the love of one ought to endear to you the preservation of the other. . . .

"This government, the offspring of your own choice uninfluenced and unawed, adopted upon full investigation and deliberation, completely free in its principles, in the distribution of its powers uniting security with energy, and containing within itself a provision for its own amendment, has a just claim to your confidence and support. Respect for its authority, compliance with its laws, acquiescence in its measures, are duties enjoined by the fundamental maxims of true liberty. . . .

"The basis of our political system is the right of the people to make and alter their constitutions of government—but the constitution which at any time exists, until changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people is sacredly obligatory to all. . . .

"All obstructions to the execution of the laws, all combinations and associations under whatever plausible character, with the real design to direct, control, counteract, or awe the regular deliberations and action of the constituted authorities, are destructive of this fundamental principle and of fatal tendency. . . .

"Toward the preservation of your government and the permanency of your present happy state, it is requisite, not only that you steadily discountenance irregular oppositions to its acknowledged authority, but also that you resist with care the spirit of innovation upon its principles however specious the pretext. One method of assault may be to effect, in the forms of the constitution, alterations which will impair the energy of the system, and thus to undermine what cannot be directly overthrown. . . . and remember especially, that for the efficient management of your common interests in a country so extensive as ours, a government of as much vigor as is consistent with the perfect security of liberty is indispensable."

The Beneficent Effects of Party Spirit
Following his admonition to national unity and the dangers of parties founded on purely geographical differences, Washington takes a more comprehensive view and "warns in a most solemn manner against the beneficent effects of the spirit of party." He begins this admonition with the statement that this spirit "unfortunately is inseparable from our nature." Recognizing then that fact, he cautions against the "alternate domination of one faction over another, sharpened by the spirit of revenge, natural to party dissension." He further warns that this alternate domination brings in its wake disorder and misery and gradually inclines the minds of men to seek security in the absolute power of one man. Sooner or later one more able or fortunate turns this power to purposes of his own elevation on the ruins of public liberty.

"In governments purely elective, it is a spirit not to be encouraged. From their natural tendency, it is certain there will always be enough of that spirit for every salutary purpose. A fire not to be quenched, it demands a uniform vigilance to prevent it bursting into flame, lest, instead of warming it should consume."

Religion and Morality
"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. . . .

Public Credit
"As a very important source of strength and security cherish public credit. . . . "Use it as sparingly as possible avoiding occasions of expense by cultivating peace, but remembering also that timely disbursements to prepare for danger frequently prevent much greater disbursements to repel it."

Foreign Relations
"Observe good faith and justice toward all nations. . . . "Cultivate peace and harmony with all."

"Nothing is more essential than that permanent, inveterate antipathies against particular nations and passionate attachment for others should be excluded; and that in place of them, just and amicable feelings toward all should be cultivated. Antipathy in one nation against another, disposes each more readily to insult and injury, to lay hold of slight causes of umbrage and to be haughty and intractable when accidental or trifling occasions of disputes occur. . . . "The nation prompted by ill will and resentment sometimes perhaps the liberty has been ment, contrary to the best calculations of policy. . . . "The peace often, sometimes perhaps the liberty has been the victim."

"So likewise a passionate attachment of one nation for another produces a variety of evils."

"As avenues to foreign influence in innumerable ways such attachments are particularly alarming to the truly enlightened and independent patriot."

"Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence (I conjure you to believe me, fellow citizens) the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake; since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government."

"The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible."

"Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concern. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves, by artificial ties, in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."

"It is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world."

"Taking care always to keep ourselves by suitable establishments on a respectable defensive posture we may trust to temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies."

From this portion of Washington's valedictory address springs the American policy of isolation so much discussed at the present.

Concluding this section of his address we are cautioned to be as impartial in our commercial relations with foreign nations as we are in our political connections, asking no favors from any nation and in turn giving none.

Coal Shortages

"Berlin Suffers Coal Shortage" is a headline in a recent issue of a Birmingham newspaper. All Birmingham papers two or three weeks ago were carrying similar headlines as applying to Birmingham, which is located in the midst of a thousand coal mines, and with thousands of men idle but wanting to work. What reasonable excuse can there be for Birmingham having a coal shortage?

The Homes of These People Are On The Way To Being COMPLETELY ELECTRIFIED

PEOPLE in many walks of life—some in modest circumstances, some well-to-do—have either already completely electrified their homes, or are on the way to complete electrification by the "step by step" plan.

Most of them started with the electric refrigerator or washing machine—their next steps were the electric range, then the ironer, electric water heater and electric dishwasher. Most of them, because electricity is cheap in Alabama—and because the average rate becomes lower as the use of electricity increases—find their bills for electric service less than they expected them to be. They find that electrical appliances do have the labor- and time-saving qualities claimed for them!

We have a corps of men and women whose duties are to visit our customers and discuss with them their use of electric service, so that they may enjoy the most benefits at the least cost. In future advertisements we will tell you something about the service they can offer you.

Jones Advises Cotton Farmers

It is likely that in the first half of 1940 there will develop a strong demand for and a considerable movement of 1938 loan cotton.

When farmers release this cotton they should receive the full amount of the difference between the loan plus carrying charges and the market price on the date of sale. There has come to our attention several recent instances in which farmers have released loan cotton for 75 cents per bale when they could have received from $5.00 to $10.00 had they known all the facts concerning accumulated costs and value of the cotton.

We should acquaint farmers, as much as possible, with this problem of determining from month to month the total cost of the loan plus carrying charges so that they can compare this with the market price and arrive at the amount they should receive if the cotton is reclaimed and sold. We are sending each county office weekly a report of the designated spot markets. These reports can be of value in checking local prices, premiums, and discounts for various grades and staples.

The purpose of this letter is to give you such information as is available for your use in assisting farmers to a full understanding of the value of 1938 loan cotton which they may have.

In computing carrying charges we must consider the changes in storage and interest rates. On July 31, 1939, the storage charge was reduced from the original 25 cents per bale per month to 15 cents; and on November 1, 1939, storage was further reduced from 15 cents to 12½ cents per bale per month and interest from the original 4 per cent to 3 per cent. These latter rates apply to the present time.

Since these rates are rather difficult to follow, we are giving you on the attached sheet a tabulation and explanation showing how the total charges and the current value of a given bale of cotton may be determined. In the last column of the first table the charges have been reduced to "points" which can be added to the original loan price to arrive at a price which must be repaid to repossess the cotton.

Several copies of this tabulation are included in the letter to the county agent, and we suggest that these be posted where this information will be of greatest assistance to farmers. It should be helpful to give a fuller explanation of these facts at county and community meetings.

If we can assist you further with regard to matters discussed in this letter, we shall be glad for you to contact us.

Very truly yours,
A. W. JONES,
Administrative Officer in Charge

Letters To The Editor

A. A. Jackson Thinks Farmers Should Get Pensions
Lomax, Ala., Feb. 19, 1940
Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you give me space in your paper to say a few words to the farmers of our County?

First, I want to call your attention to a letter that appeared in the Chilton County News of last week from J. H. Jackson, in which he told you how the farmers of our country might get a pension as well as other professions are now getting a pension, and that the farmers must be the forgotten man. Did you read it? If you didn't, then read it, and take the advice it gives you.

Now, Mr. Farmer, if your feelings are hanging low enough to be trampled on, please draw them up high and tight around you because I am going to give you some plain facts. Yes, I agree with J. H. that the farmer is the forgotten man. Why is he? Because he has forgotten himself, and is too busy looking after other professions. He votes against himself in favor of other professions. He will vote for a big swelled lawyer to go to our State Capital to make laws that discriminate against the farmer in favor of the lawyer, instead of sending a farmer to our Capital to represent the farmers. He doesn't put much value on his vote but is too ready to listen to the politicians' story, and vote to please the politicians. Before the farmers get much consideration from our government he has got to organize, and become a strong power, and produce a program that will put him on an equal footing with all other professions, put his program into law, and then see to it that the law is justly administered. Now, Mr. Farmer, do you think you can drift along in the rut that you are now in, and ever get any consideration from anywhere? You ought to know by this time that you can't. You know who produces the wealth of our country. You know the people who produce the wealth haven't got it. You know the ones that did not produce it have the most of it. This being a fact, you should know to quit bartering your vote to the politicians for a trifle. Your only salvation is to organize and become a power, and put that power in operation, and demand laws by your vote that will put you equal with any profession on earth. The farmer is entitled to a law program that gives a government employee a pension let it give the farmer a pension, in other words the farmer should be just as much eligible for a pension as any other one is on earth. When a government employee serves the government a certain number of years he is retired on a pension, so does the railroad retire their employees at a certain age on a pension, and many other companies retire their employees on pensions. The farmers should be considered first with a pension, and retired at sixty on a good pension.

Respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON.

LETTER FROM J. C. EDWARDS
Editor, Chilton County News:

Here is a clipping taken from a paper in 1939, which gives us hope that there will be peace on earth sometime in the future:

The Prince of Peace of the increase of His Government and peace there shall be no end. (Isa. 9:6-7). Jehovah knowing the end from the beginning, long centuries ago caused his prophetic word to be recorded and declared that in His own due time He would set up a government on earth and under that government there shall be peace and that neither the government nor peace shall ever end. Today there is no peace on earth. For that reason we may say that God's promised government is not fully in operation so far as the present rule of earth is concerned Jehovah God has not forgotten His promise, and His prophecies have not failed in the least. His due time must arrive before His promises are carried out and having proposed to establish a government and peace He is certain to do that very thing. No one who believes on God and Christ Jesus and has a knowledge of the Bible will have any doubt about that.

Question: What fact and scripture proves that man cannot set up a government of peace. The answer is men have tried for six thousand years and have failed. There is a difference in a fig tree that does not bear good fruit and the one that bears the good fruit. All evil doers will miss living in that government of peace and it is sure to come in God's due time.—J. C. Edwards.

Two-thirds of an acre planted in turnips in August brought Mrs. Tom Herndon of Salem, Greene County, a profit of $120 besides using many for the family dining table.

Of the 17,805,000 cash income from the sale of dairy products last year, 43 per cent came from fluid milk, 37 per cent from milk sold wholesale, 7 per cent from cream sold as butterfat, and 13 per cent from farm butter sold. Of the milk produced 73½ per cent was consumed on the farms where it was produced.

FINNISH RELIEF DRIVE BEING MET WITH HEARTY RESPONSE

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 16, 1940.—The effort to raise funds for the relief of Finnish civilian population took an unusual turn in Jefferson County Friday when an unnamed donor called at the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc. temporary headquarters for 150 tickets to the Finnish Relief concert by the Birmingham Civic Symphony Orchestra and lecture by Professor Strode of the University of Alabama, recently returned from a visit to Finland.

Pressed for a reason for the purchase of so big a block of tickets, the purchaser, making his anonymity a condition of stating his reason, said: "I am going to distribute these 150 tickets to 150 outstanding Boy Scouts of Birmingham who will attend the lecture. I want them to hear from the mouth of such an outstanding American and Alabamian as Mr. Strode a description of observations while visiting in Europe so that the Scouts may draw their own conclusions as to the merit of the American way as against the way suggested by some of the foreignisms which have filtered into America."

Close to $14,000 has been subscribed to the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., in Alabama. Thos. W. Martin, Chairman and H. A. Berg, Co-chairman for Alabama state that organization is underway in 40 counties of the State and that it is expected that the fund will be materially increased during the coming week when the county organizations begin presenting the opportunity to contribute to the fund.

In the meantime anyone who cares to contribute may send their checks

ALABAMA POWER CO. DECLARES QUARTERLY DIVIDENDS

Birmingham, Alabama, Feb. 16.—The Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company today declared the regular quarterly dividends on its $6 and $7 preferred stock, payable April 1st, 1940, to stockholders of record March 15, 1940, and on its $5 preferred stock payable May 1st, 1940, to stockholders of record April 15, 1940.

These dividends will aggregate approximately $585,000.

JITNEY FARE—The Mobile Light and Railroad Company, holder of the city traction franchise, has promised Mobilians a five-cent fare in its complete substitution of buses for street cars.

1 EVERY 4 HOURS—The State Health Department has estimated that accidents of various kinds, caused one death every four hours last year in Alabama.

Livestock authorities say farmers in all sections of Alabama are losing considerably by selling light-weight hogs at the present time. These losses could be avoided, they believe, if the light-weight hogs were held off the market and finished out to top weights.

OUT OF STEP

THE soldier out of step discredits the orderly marching of his squad and leaves the impression that every man lacks training and discipline.

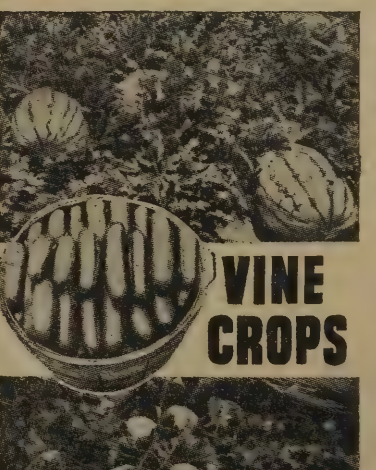

In Alabama a small minority of retail beer outlets flaunts the law and gives the same impression, bringing criticism down upon a legitimate industry which is working hand in hand with Alabama's ABC Board to eliminate these undesirable outlets.

Through revocation and suspension of license, the ABC Board and the beer industry are proving their determination that this minority must keep step and meet its public responsibility.

VINE CROPS

IF YOUR cucumbers, cantaloupes, or watermelons do not return the high yields and quality which mean more profit, chances are they are not getting enough potash. All vine crops are greedy feeders on potash. They use more of this important plant food than nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined.

In addition to increasing yields, potash used on cantaloupes produces a better set, more uniform size and shape, and higher sugar content. On cucumbers it makes a deeper green color, firmer flesh, and better shape. It lessens the number of crooked and pinched tips, swollen mid-ribs, and lengthy "strings." On watermelons potash reduces white heart and makes the melons sweeter, more uniform in size, and improves shipping quality.

Consult your county agent or experimental station on how much potash your soil will supply. Then make sure that your dealer sells you a fertilizer with enough potash to supply what you need. Write us for our free booklet on producing more profitable Vine Crops.

A fine congregation greatly enjoyed the Stereopticon pictures and lecture on "The American Indian, Preparing Him For State and Kingdom," on Sunday evening. Our own church has had an important part in the educational work for Indians in the West.

All services as usual next Sunday; Sunday School at 9:45. Morning worship and sermon at 11:00. Sermon theme: "A Real Home Missionary." Christian Endeavor at 6:20, subject, "Christians Keep On Learning." Miss Hazel Pate, leader. Evening service at 7:30. Song service and sermon, theme, "Personal Responsibility—Take How Ye Hear."

Baptist Church

9:45 A.M., Bible School. Help make the Bible School grow by your presence and the Bible truths will make you grow.

11:00 o'clock, Morning worship. Subject, "One Thing Is Needful." 6:00 P.M., Training Union. We train for other things, why not train for Christian service?

7:00 o'clock, Evening worship. Subject, "A Man of Great Possibilities Who Failed."

Going to Church is a habit—a good habit; staying away is a habit—a bad habit. Give God a chance; go to Church next Sunday.

New Deal Enables Widow To Carry On With Her Family

Mrs. Jones' husband died in 1934, leaving his widow with a small farm and four children to support. She realized she faced an important decision. Either she must leave her children the oldest of which was a 14-year-old boy, and seek employment or she must make the farm pay. After some deliberation, she decided on the latter course.

She applied to the local Federal Security Administration office in 1935 for a loan to buy livestock, equipment and machinery for her farm. With this loan and the supervision offered by the rural rehabilitation and home management, she told officials she believed she could support her family.

She bought four cows, a team of work horses, several hogs and increased her poultry flock. Since that time marked progress and improvement have been noted. She has met her annual repayments promptly and in 1938 applied for a second loan.

Mrs. Jones has papered the rooms in her house, built a screened-in back porch and made numerous other improvements. She bought a steam pressure cooker and last year canned over 800 quarts of fruit and vegetables and slaughtered six hogs. Most of this food was consumed by the Jones family but some of it was sold to county markets.

The three girls are in school and the boy is now devoting most of his time to work on the farm. Two of the girls are members of a 4-H Club. The other girl is taking a course in home economics and Mrs. Jones is a member of the Home Demonstration Club.—Florida News.

COMPENSATION—Jess Kilgore, a West Point, Miss., negro, says he was well compensated for damages to a potted plant by a neighbor's hen which had scratched a hole in the earth in the pot and uprooted the plant. The hen laid an egg in the hole.

Eastview

After a devotional and lesson period of the Eastview Pioneers meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Luther Ballou Wednesday, February 14, all the young people took part in games and stunts as a part of a Valentine party. Sam Patterson scored the highest in the games and won the prize. Refreshments were served by a committee of the girls. Those on the refreshment committee were: Margaret Patterson, Flora Smith, Margaret Rushing and Jetty Ruth Nelson. On the Valentine box committee were: Sam Patterson, Junior Moore, and Myrtle Smith. The next regular meeting will be at the parsonage, Thursday, February 22, at 7:00 o'clock in the evening.

The Ladies Aid of the Eastview Congregational Church met last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Taylor. Present were Mrs. Sam Gray, Mrs. Clara Rushing, Mrs. Susan Moores, Mrs. Alpha Dobbs, Mrs. Charles Taylor, Mrs. Frank Nelson and Mrs. Luther Ballou. The next meeting will be Thursday, February 29, at the home of Mrs. Clara Rushing.

A. E. A.—The annual meeting of the Alabama Educational Association will be held in Birmingham March 14-16.

Rare Specimens Caught In Gulf

A leopard crab, rare and seldom caught, the expensive solefish and diamond-back terrapin were among an unusual variety of Gulf specimens brought in by Weldon Steele, well-known Bon Secour and canal fisherman.

While out in the Gulf for shrimp Mr. Steele made one deep-sea haul which in addition to the shrimp brought in nine other varieties. In the catch was a 9-inch toad fish, with eyes like an owl and known for its ability to swell up to more than double its size. There was a 14-inch squid which, to portect itself, throws out an inky-colored fluid as a smoke screen and one this size can throw a protecting black film at least 50 feet in diameter.

Then there was the leopard crab, a beautiful sunfish, which are quite plentiful, a large 5-point starfish, tarra-pin, worth $15 per dozen, and solefish which can live 48 hours or longer out of water and sell for 65 cents a pound, but last but not least, just as occasionally on land we find lice and bedbugs, there was a nice large sea louse, with all the characteristics of its name.—Foley Onlooker.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

When I was a child I was taught to beware of three things—dirt, the devil and debt. I am not going to preach a sermon, but that philosophy of life is still good to be practiced. A child should be taught to keep its person clean, its clothes clean and its language clean. A child should be taught to stay away from the places where the devil lives and moves to carry on his satanic power to beguile. A child should be taught to beware of debt as he would of a rattlesnake. The low strata of life is made up of those who are filthy, those who live with the devil and those who practice ways of dishonesty. Now that is a mighty good sermon, after all.

A strange thing took place near where I lived. The State Road Department had used some two hundred tools until they were no longer new. The Foreman of the crew decided that his men needed new shovels, spades, rakes, picks and hoes and one morning he ordered his men to bring in their tools. They were heaped into one big pile and then they were set on fire. New tools were dealt out to each man and they went back to their jobs. I saw no harm in giving the men new tools, but I did see harm in burning the partially worn ones when there were hundreds of farmers nearby who were not able to buy a tool of any kind. As sure as you live, we have come into strange days. We burn tools when people have nothing with which to work and we plow up cotton while millions in poverty sleep on shucks and sacks. That is not Christian.

Joseph F. Lawler, who lives in Massachusetts, is an expert dog trainer. He said that he had found out that the best way to train a dog is to do to him just as the dog does to other things. If he barks, then bark back at him. If he growls, then growl at him. If he bites you, then catch him and bite him. Mr. Lawler says that it is not news when a man bites a dog for he bites one almost every day. This is his method of curing vicious dogs. That may be a good method in training dogs, but it is not the way to train men for the higher way of living. The Golden Rule, the real rule for right living, is to do unto others as you would have them to do unto you. That means that if you do not want to be bitten, then do not bite. If you do not want to be growled at, then do not growl at other people. The Christian way of life is to let the first dog do right.

A man from the rush and push of New York City traveled far up among the hills of Vermont and stopped over at Hillsboro. Looking around he missed the scramble of New York and he asked of one of the natives, "What do you people do up here in this sleepy village?" "Do?" queried the native. "Why sir, we live up here. If we have one who is hungry, we feed him; if he is sick, we administer unto him and if he is in trouble we comfort him." The people of Hillsboro had learned the fine art of just living. In most of our modern cities and even out in the country sometimes we are in too much of a rush to live. May God speed the day when more American people will settle down to living. Growing a life is of more importance than gathering a fortune.

Near the City of Baltimore there was a hilltop that had to be pulled down some ten feet. The elevation was something like four hundred yards long and three hundred wide. The task was rather difficult because of the amount of sand to be removed. The Company securing the contract knew how to handle the situation. They installed machinery that would use the water from a nearby stream and they turned this water upon the hillside and literally washed the hill away. The sand and water entered other pipes and flowed down to an abandoned pond that was to be filled in the improvement plans. The best way to wash down the hills of corruption that lifts themselves near almost every town, or city, is for us to turn upon them the streams of Christian influence. This alone will wash them away. If you want to get rid of that honk-a-tonk near you, that road house that is a center of corruption, let go a stream of Christian influence.

Civilians Hear Address On Beer Control

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 21.—Plans for an extensive statewide tour to carry the message of self-regulation direct to owners of Alabama's 1,600 retail beer outlets were outlined before Montgomery's Civitan Club by David E. Dunn, State Director of the Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee.

"We hope to carry our story and our appeal for improved conditions direct to the retailer," Mr. Dunn told the Civitans at their weekly luncheon meeting. "Through this direct contact method I believe much good will be accomplished in our drive to 'clean up or close up' the flagrant law violators who form a minority of Alabama establishments."

"We have to primary points to stress to the retailer—that he must obey the rules and regulations of Alabama's ABC Board, and he must live within the laws of public decency laid down under the beer industry's program of self-regulation."

"The great majority of the retail outlets abide by both these laws, and have been a major factor in making our work a success here in Alabama. Like the brewer and the wholesaler, these men recognize their duty to the public, and are putting their shoulders to the wheel to place beer on the permanent and wholesome basis we feel it deserves."

Mr. Dunn reviewed the spread of the self-regulation program over the nation and said that Alabama's border counties would receive a direct benefit from the installation of the campaign in Mississippi, Tennessee, and Georgia. Mr. Dunn, who spoke last week at the organization meeting of the Georgia Committee, said that speaker after speaker there pointed to Alabama as an example of the achievements that can be obtained under the industry's program.

Gets Civil War Mail

Tulsa, Okla.—A letter from his father, a Confederate colonel, to his mother, has reached U. S. Marshal John P. Logan.

Col. John L. Logan wrote the letter while a prisoner April 20, 1862, to Mrs. Jane Logan, Abbeville, La-Fayette County, Mississippi. She died in 1912.

The colonel entrusted the letter to acquaintances who failed to mail it. Daughters of the Confederacy at Chicago found the letter in a collection from the Camp Chase Prison near Columbus, Ohio.

Charity Football Game Xmas Results In Aid To 45 Families

The Charity Ball Game, which was played in Luverne on Christmas day by the Crenshaw county boys, was successful in helping forty-five families. From the gate receipts (13.75) of this game, the following was purchased:

- (1) Forty-six yards of material (5) which was made into 24 garments by the NYA Sewing Room Project. This included six shirts, fifteen pieces of underwear and six dresses.
- (2) Rims for glasses for one child whose old rims were broken (1).
- (3) One pair shoes was bought second-handed ($1).
- (4) Two pairs of shoes bought at wholesale price (2.75).
- (5) Thirty yards of material was bought and made into four dresses, three shirts and seven pieces of underwear ($3).

Everyone who bought a ticket to this game has been responsible for helping some child to attend school. On behalf of the Crenshaw County School Board, we wish to thank every purchaser for their contribution.—Luverne Journal.

Barter and Trade

J. R. Murden, 72, and his bride, the former Mrs. Fannie Mae White, 47, of Atlanta agreed that marriage is bliss but that didn't keep it from being a business proposition.

Before they marched to the altar he deeded her a filling station and house in return for which she promised: "To marry grantor and to nurse, care for, wait upon, attend, cook for live with and be kind to grantor for the remainder of grantor's natural life."

Clanton Methodist Church

Church School 9:45 each Sunday morning. L. J. Stewart, General Supr. Morning worship service, 11:00 A.M. each Sunday. Sermon by the Pastor. Young Peoples' meeting and Junior League 6:15 each Sunday evening. Evening worship, 7:00 P.M. Sermon by the Pastor.

Last Thursday our Pastor and his wife and our Church School Superintendent and his wife attended the Methodist Advance meeting at the First Methodist Church, Birmingham. They sincerely regret that anyone of our church had to miss that meeting and wish that every member and friend of our church could have attended with them and heard those soul-inspiring and wonderfully uplifting messages from our good church leaders. Words cannot describe the good feeling one receives at such God-blessed meetings. Those who missed hearing our Pastor's message last Sunday missed something God was trying to get over to them. The sermon surely must have flowed right from the fountain of God. Hear ye Him through our Church School and worship services and other church meetings. Play fair with God. "It is yet to be proved what God can do through one man wholly given over to Him," someone has said. Would you like to be that man?"

Chilton High Will Enter Tournament

Chilton County High Basketball team, last year State Champions, will play their last game of the season at the Clanton Airport next Tuesday night when they meet Centreville High. On March 1 and 2 this team will be in the District Tournament at Selma, and Coach Dewey Cox stated early this week that he would make announcement regarding the outcome of the drawing which takes place next Saturday.

Thorsby Green Eagles Defeat Mitchell Dam

In one of those rousing affairs we often read about, but seldom see, the Thorsby Greenies handed the swift breaking cagers from Mitchell Dam another setback by a 32-31 score.

The Eagles led 8-7 at the first quarter. The half found both teams neck-and-neck—13-13. The third quarter closed with the Eagles clinging to a 3-point lead—26-23. The Dammers drew first blood when Chambers netted a goal from the field. Hilyer for the Eagles quickly found the range for a two pointer and the bombardment was on, with the Eagles holding a lead until the visitors tied the score just before the half time.

During the last half the lead changed several times, enough that a large group of spectators couldn't forecast a win for either team. Melton, diminutive forward for the Mitchell Dam team, led his mates with 8 points. Baker with 7; Chambers, Mayfield and Lockhart with 5 each and Cobb with 1 point, rounded out the visitor's score. Hilyer, for the Greenies, almost drew a monopoly on scoring honors, sacking the ball for 17 points. Hayes scored 6, Jackson 4, Littleton 3 and Riggins 2.

Both teams sent the spectators on their way feeling happy and justified for having witnessed such a marvelous struggle for that victory point. Neither of these teams will play a better brand of ball this season. A hard-earned and worthy victory for the Greenies, yet a marvelous display of teamwork and good sportsmanship for the rousing Red Raiders from Mitchell Dam.

DEMAND FOR ANOTHER

Basketball fans, supporters of both sides, who witnessed the game recently between the Mitchell Dam team and the Thorsby Green Eagles on the Thorsby court, seem to be unanimous in their demand that once more these two teams meet for another game at an early date. The Green Eagles seem to have what it takes to turn the "water through the Dam" and the Dam says the "gates must be lowered" sooner or later. (The Dam boys say they prefer the match on the Thorsby Court—that sooner or later they'll get the "feel" of the Thorsby battlefield. What about it, Eagles? What about it, Dammers?)

NOTICE TO SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Let all Sunday School workers remember the State Sunday School conference at Birmingham, February 29-March 1. The meeting will be at the Southside Church, beginning at 1:00 o'clock on Thursday and closing at noon on Friday. You will have the opportunity of hearing George Truett. Please go if you can.—J. B. Griffin.

JEMISON P-T-A MEETING

On February 14 the Jemison P-T-A held its regular meeting in the school auditorium. A very interesting Founders' Day program was presented. The program was dedicated to Miss Mary England, Alabama educator and P-T-A worker. Mrs. Fred Smith gave the devotional. Others taking part in the program were Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Denson. At the conclusion of the program a rosebush was planted in memory of Miss England.

Mrs. Maddox honored her little daughter, Ann, with a birthday party last Saturday afternoon from 3:30 till 5:00 o'clock. Games and fun including "Go Wishing" were enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served to the following children: Donald and Ruth Atchison, Dona Blackketter, June Elsie Tucker, Sally Gowan, Ben Popwell, Henry Barefield Grady Heil, Jr., "Pumpkin" Polk and the honoree, Ann Maddox.

Mrs. Mattie Mae of Birmingham spent last week and with Mrs. L. A. and W. A. Reynolds.

Home Demonstration Club News

The Minooka Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. C. B. Martin with Mrs. Myrtle Virgin as co-hostess, on Friday afternoon, February 9th. After the roll call and Secretary's report, Mr. Hoyt Cleveland gave an interesting and instructive demonstration on landscaping our home grounds. Miss Barber talked interestingly on "Cuttings."

Plans for a leadership meeting were discussed at length and Mrs. C. B. Martin was chosen as leader in a dress revue to be given at a later date.

Eighteen members enjoyed this meeting and the social hour afterwards with the touch of the Valentine season displayed in the delightful refreshments.

The club adjourned to meet the second Friday in March at the home of Mrs. C. Ellison.—Mrs. Lydia V. Stockdale, reporter.

Midway-Mt. Creek Club

The Midway-Mt. Creek Home Demonstration Club met February 14 with Mrs. Charles Cooper. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. S. R. Hudson. The demonstration was given by Miss Barber on the cotton house dress or all-purpose dress revue. The demonstration was very carefully given and all present were very much interested in it. There were twenty-six present and three new members. The club is building up fast with our Demonstration Agent who is taking so much interest in her work.

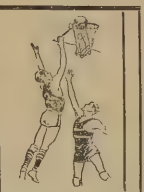

After the demonstration was over the members were dismissed by prayer, after which Mrs. Cooper served refreshments.—Mrs. A. A. Culver, reporter.

THOMPSON HIGH SUFFERS DEFEAT BY C. C. H. S. BOYS

Wednesday night, February 14, the C. C. H. S. boys defeated the Thompson High team by a score of 50-19. Robinson for Clanton was high scorer with 12 points.

Defeated by Isabella. The following Friday night C.C.H.S. bowed to the strong Isabella team by a score of 24-22, after an extra period. This was a real thriller in every way. A. Clinker for Isabella was high scorer with 12 points.

Will Play Clanton Woco-Tiffin Team The C.C.H.S. team will tangle horns with the Clanton Woco-Tiffin team next Friday night at the Airport, announces Coach Cox, and will play Centreville High School next Tuesday night at the Airport. This will be the last game of the season with the team going to Selma on March 1 and 2 for the District Tournament.

CLANTON WOCO-TIFFIN TEAM AND THORSBY PLAY TONIGHT

The Clanton Woco-Tiffin Team will meet the strong Thorsby Green Eagles at the Clanton Airport tonight (Thursday), at 8:00 o'clock.

Thorsby has defeated the Clanton boys in one game by a margin of 5 points, and their clash tonight is expected to be a struggle for supremacy. The Woco-Tiffins will play Isabella High Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock at the gym. A preliminary game will be played, but it was not learned who the teams will be.

Monday night these two teams meet again at the Airport Hangar at 8:00.

10,000 people watching Sonja Heinie's ice show at Boston were forced to spend the night in the auditorium when a blizzard suddenly descended St. Valentine's evening.

A WORD FROM YOUR FRIEND

To those who have patronized me and are in arrears for services:

I did not send out statements last Fall, because I felt that the average man was in poor position to pay. I did intend to send them out about January 1st, 1940 but got sick and could not.

I am now able to be out again, and my office will be open from now on. It will be a great favor if you will drop in and see about your account, and thus save me the time and trouble of writing or calling to see you. I have been unable to work for several weeks, and need the money badly. So please come, and save my coming to see you.

Chilton County Farm Agent's News

J. W. FANT, County Agent

GROW MORE STRAWBERRIES AND BETTER STRAWBERRIES

Strawberries is one of the principal cash crops in Chilton County. Less than 600 farmers get approximately $100,000.00 per year from strawberries. These farmers grow just as much cotton as the other farmers.

More farmers could make money from strawberries. The farmers who now grow berries would have a better market if the county produced twice or three times as many berries as are now grown.

It is time to prepare land for new planting, if the land has not already been prepared. Plow the land well and fertilize two weeks before the plants are set.

The Blakemore strawberry is a better berry in many respects than the Klondyke. Many growers are changing to Blakemore. It maintains a better mat of plants and produces a larger berry than the Klondyke.

Fertilizer should have been applied to old strawberry plants the last week in January or the first week in February. If it hasn't been applied do it at once. Every day one waits now to apply fertilizer to strawberries he loses in effectiveness. Plants need the fertilizer now to produce berries this season.

Farmers who plan to plant peanuts in 1940 should check their seed for purity before planting says J. W. Fant, County Agent. There are only 2 varieties that the G.F.A. Peanut Association:

"I am inclosing herewith a copy of a circular letter we have today addressed to all peanut growers who delivered peanuts to us at Selma from the 1939 crop. Notice that the letter is intended to bring to the attention of the growers the serious difficulty confronting them because of the impurity of their peanuts as to type.

The general color and condition of the peanuts which we have at Selma, both Runners and Spanish, were so good that I thought perhaps we would examine them for seed, therefore I had a truck load of them brought down to our recleaning plant at Dothan and was surprised to find the terrible condition of these peanuts as to purity of type.

The Runners have mixed with them some large type of hybrid Spanish peanut, also have some of the Tennessee Reds in them and we also found some that looked like Virginia Jumbos.

I doubt very seriously if they would have any value for shelling purposes under ordinary market conditions.

The Spanish are a general mixture between the small White Spanish and the large hybrid peanut which is commonly called "Improved Spanish." This large or Improved Spanish is not acceptable to the peanut shellers in the Southeast and I have been unable to interest them in the large Spanish at any price, consequently they will have to go into oil. The small Spanish are so badly mixed with these large Spanish that their value is seriously affected.

Unless we carry on some vigorous educational work I am afraid that the general value of the peanuts in that territory for commercial purposes other than oil is going to be somewhat low, and no doubt, under future Peanut Surplus Removal Programs there will be some very rigid restrictions and requirements as to commercial value of the peanuts purchased which simply means that the peanuts would have to be true to type and acceptable for commercial government grades on farmers stock peanuts in order to be eligible for purchase under a Surplus Removal Program.

If it had not been for the impurity of type of these peanuts at Selma I believe they would have been the prettiest and highest quality of peanuts we have in the territory. Certainly they are the brightest and have practically no damage in them.

I am sending you some samples of the Runners and Spanish and hope you will keep them in your office to show to the growers what we have in mind. Let them compare the seed stock they have saved with these for uniformity in size and type and if their compare favorably I would see no need to change but if they have a mixture then the growers should by all means get some new seed stock from reliable sources.

Inasmuch as your territory is now a commercial peanut producing area we are doing all in our power to assist the growers in meeting the commercial demand and your kind cooperation will be appreciated."

The samples referred to in the letter are on exhibit at the County Agent's office. Mr. Fant suggests that farmers who have planting seed carry a few of their seed peanuts to the office and compare them with the samples to be sure of the type.

TO THE VOTERS

Of The Sixth Congressional District

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District of Alabama subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

It is my belief that by the application of true democratic processes the problems confronting the South and the Sixth District can and will be worked out on a basis of honesty, fair treatment and equal opportunity for all.

To insure the prosperity of this District it is necessary that we fight to guarantee to the farmer a fair return for his products and to the laboring man a fair wage for his hours of work. Our national welfare requires peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none.

The surest protection for our democratic form of government against the insidious onslaught of foreign isms is the education, both general and vocational of our youth. To this end I believe that part of the money paid as taxes in this country should be returned to the people from whence it came in the form of outright grants to the states in federal aid to education.

My political concept is the simple one of real democracy. I want to see the greatest good for the greatest number.

I offer myself to this District as an energetic worker. I pledge my full vigor, my every fiber of energy, all the capabilities I possess, to the end that this District shall be properly represented in Washington.

I earnestly solicit your vote and influence.

HILDRETH TO CAMPAIGN FOR CONGRESS

ETAW SENATOR CANDIDATE FOR SIXTH DISTRICT OFFICE, THIRD TO QUALIFY

State Senator Emmett Hildreth of Etaw, for 19 years a prominent attorney in Alabama, a member of the State Senate for three terms and a leader in Alabama Democratic Party for years, Saturday formally announced his candidacy for representation in the U. S. Congress from the Sixth District.

He is the third candidate to qualify for this office, which is now held by Rep. Pete Jarman of Livingston. Others already in the field are William D. Patterson, Jr., and Thomas H. Maxwell of Tuscaloosa.

Served On Code Committee
Senator Hildreth, in formally announcing his candidacy, declared that he had withdrawn his announcement until today in order to continue service on the Legislature's Joint Code Committee until the work of that Committee had been substantially completed.

Recently he conferred with Governor Dixon in Montgomery and with members of the committee. He has received a leave of absence from the committee, without pay, and will immediately wage an active, aggressive campaign fully informing the people of all the issues and discussing with them the needs of the district," he said.

Hildreth said that "it is my earnest hope to avoid all personalities and petty bickerings, and I shall endeavor at all times to wage my campaign upon a high level in keeping with the dignity and importance of the office that I seek."

The Etaw senator is a veteran in the State political field, and has represented his city, county, district and state in high public positions of trust. He is 46 years old, and a native of Enterprise, Coffee County, where he was born December 19, 1894.

He received his A. B. Degree from the University of Virginia in 1912, then entered for duty in the U. S. Army during service in France with the American Expeditionary Service. He then graduated college work in The Sorbonne, famous university in Paris, and later in 1921 achieved his LL.B. from the School of Law at the University of Alabama.

Immediately after graduation he entered the practice of law at Etaw, where he has resided since that time. He has served two 2-year terms as judge of Etaw, has been a school trustee for many years and was twice commander of the Lewis-Morrow Post of the American Legion in Etaw.

He is a steward of the Etaw Methodist Church where he has taught the largest Sunday School Class in Greene County for 20 years. He is a member of the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, and a Mason, and former lieutenant-governor in the Alabama Kiwanis District. His wife is the former Miss Emory Phillips of Aliceville. The Hildreths have two children, Allison and Emmett, Jr.

Leader In Legislature
Senator Hildreth has been a leading figure in three state administrations, serving in the Senate during the governorships of William W. Brandon, B. M. Miller and Frank M. Dixon. In 1923 he was a member of the Code Committee and again in 1939 he was named to that joint committee which was now completing a far-reaching reorganization of Alabama's statutes.

His legislative career has been characterized by his leadership of many important measures, and service on powerful committees of the Senate. In Democratic Party affairs he has served two terms of four years each on the State Democratic Executive Committee, and in 1932 he was a delegate to the National Convention.

Miss Charlotte Cooper Accidentally Burned To Death Monday

Miss Charlotte Cooper, resident of Cooper, Ala., was critically burned last Monday morning at her home when her clothing caught fire in front of an open grate. She died at 4:00 P.M. the same day after being rushed to the hospital.

It was understood that Miss Cooper was living with an aunt, Miss Thelma Cooper, who extinguished the flames with a quilt but not before she was critically burned about the body. A Martin ambulance was called, but she was unable to overcome the burns and died eight hours later.

Funeral services were scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at Chestnut Creek, Cooper. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Columbus Mitchell of Verbena, and her aunt, Miss Thelma Cooper.

HILL'S GROCERY HAVING 25TH ANNIVERSARY SALE

Starting Friday, March 1st and lasting through Tuesday, March 5th, Hill's Grocery store here will hold their 25th Anniversary Sale. L. J. Stewart, local manager, is counting on his friends and customers to help him make this the biggest success yet, and invites all to come down and take advantage of the specials advertised elsewhere in this issue of the News.

SEVEN JAILED

Seven persons here placed in the jail by County and City officers, also local Highway Patrolmen during the past week. The charges were as follows, with the number arrested on each charge:

Driving while intoxicated, 1; Violating prohibition law, 2; Murder, 2; Public drunkenness, 1; False pretense, 1.

SHOULD APPLY FOR DISASTER RELIEF SOON

It was announced this week that only a short time remains during which farmers may make application for disaster relief from the government. Applications may be secured and filled out at the office of M. D. Foshee, owner of the Parisian Store. Farmers who suffered severe reverses last year and wishing government aid should make application right away, as it will soon be too late.

SHELL SERVICE STATION TO REMAIN OPEN AT NIGHT

Clifford Manning, manager of the local Shell Service Station here, announces this week that beginning March first, their station will remain open all night.

This popular station, which handles the well known Shell products, is operated by two of Clanton's younger business men, and this new 24-hour service will meet with the approval of the many customers of his place. Paul Williamson is assistant manager of the station.

MRS. MARGARET ANN JONES

Mrs. Margaret Ann Jones, age 71, of Birmingham, died Friday at 3:30 A.M. while visiting her son, Charles Jones of Calera.

Funeral services were held from the Calera Baptist Church Sunday afternoon. Interment was in the Salem cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Surviving are two sons, Charles L. Jones of Calera and Wesley Jones of Birmingham; five daughters, Mrs. Ella Falls of Birmingham; Mrs. Lettie Mae Cost of Birmingham; Mrs. Violet Tucker of Calera; Mrs. Violet Tucker of Signal Mountain, Tenn.; Miss Edith Jones of Kingston, N. C.

THREE PERSONS ARRESTED IN HOPPER DEATH

ARRESTS RESULT FROM FINDINGS OF OFFICERS; STATE OFFERS REWARD

Sheriff W. G. Culp announced early this week that three persons had been arrested in connection with the death of J. W. Hopper, widely known Mt. Creek resident. Hopper was found in a critical condition last Thursday morning by a Negro track walker for the L.&N. Railroad, lying under the highway bridge which spans the tracks near the Chilton-Autauga County line. He was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital here where he died shortly.

The three persons arrested are George W. Till, John A. Cofer and John Speer. The latter is operator of a combination filling station, store and dance hall near the place Hopper was found. Circumstances surrounding the fall which had apparently caused his death, caused Sheriff Culp and special State investigators along with Solicitor Winston Huddleston to begin an extensive investigation into the case. The arrest of the three named persons in connection with Hopper's death is a result of the finding of the officers.

Sheriff Culp stated that Hopper was seen at the store on the eve of his death, and suspicion of foul play was held. Hopper's hip was broken, apparently from the thirty-two foot fall and other than that there were very few marks on his body.

Sheriff Culp told a News representative that he believed a solution of the case would be reached before long, however no details of the findings of the officers was given out. As an incentive to gain more evidence in the case, the State of Alabama has offered a reward of $200.00 for evidence leading to the solution. Following is a letter received by Sheriff Culp early this week:

"Hon. Winston Huddleston, Circuit Solicitor, Wetumpka, Alabama.
"Hon. W. G. Culp, Sheriff, Chilton County, Clanton, Alabama.
"Gentlemen:

"Your letter of 21st inst. addressed to Governor Dixon is before me for answer."

"The Governor is today offering a reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers of J. W. Hopper, as recommended."

"Cordially yours,
"J. M. Bonner,
"Legal Adviser to the Governor."

CLARKE BURKHALTER TO PREACH AT ALPINE SAT.

Clarke Burkhalter, young minister of the Gospel, will preach at Alpine Saturday night, March 2, at 7:00 o'clock and Sunday March 3, at 11:00 A.M. Everyone is invited to attend.

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Parrish, Miss Nolen Meroney, Miss Clara Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer and Julian Evans attended College Night at Montevallo last Friday night.

HIT-RUN DRIVER TAKES LIFE OF CHILTON MAN

JAMES M. DENNIS FOUND DYING FIVE MILES SOUTH OF CLANTON ON HIGHWAY

Apparently the victim of a hit and run driver, James M. Dennis, age 50, resident of the Ramblers Rest community south of Clanton, was found on the Birmingham-Montgomery highway about 8:00 o'clock P.M. last Saturday, near death. His skull was fractured and one leg mangled. He was still alive when discovered by James Carl Martin and Charlie White, both members of local undertaking firms of Clanton. He was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital but lived only a short while.

Local officers have uncovered no clues as to who struck down Mr. Dennis. There were no eye-witnesses to the crime. It was presumed that he had been struck only a few minutes before being discovered. He was lying near the edge of the pavement just north of the Tourist Cafe.

Messrs Martin and White reported to Coroner J. M. Martin that they were headed toward Clanton when they saw Dennis lying on the pavement. At first his identity was unknown. He regained consciousness long enough to mumble a few words, but he did not speak his name.

Burial was in the Clanton cemetery Sunday afternoon with Martin & Sons in charge. He is survived by his widow and several children. At the time of and several children. It is understood that he was employed on a WPA project at the time of his death.

Officers are making an attempt to apprehend the hit and run driver of the car.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT COURTHOUSE SATURDAY

There will be a Fiddlers Convention at the Court House next Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock sponsored by the Clanton Basketball team.

First prize will be cash and numerous other prizes. Also local merchants will be offered. All fiddlers are invited to take part in the program, and should contact C. E. Stapp about participating. Two hours of fun and music is promised all who attend, it was announced. A reasonable admission will be charged.

LEO THOMPSON ATTENDS CONVENTION IN ATLANTA

Mr. Leo Thompson, popular owner of the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Co., flew to Atlanta, Ga., Saturday morning to attend an Educational Clinic of the Laundry and Dry Cleaners Allied Trade Association.

This Association is held in various cities over the country to acquaint the laundry and dry cleaning trade with the latest thing in equipment for their business. Incidentally, Atlanta was the first city in the South to hold one of these clinics.

Mr. Thompson made the trip by plane, and returned to Clanton Monday evening and reports a fine time and much information on up-to-the minute cleaning gained.

PEOPLE ALL OVER THE U.S. ARE INTERESTED IN OUR 'OLD HOSS SALE'

If You Don't Believe It, Hang On And We'll Prove It

Last week we announced that Clanton was to have an old time "Hoss Sale." We explained just what an old "Hoss Sale" was, for the benefit of the younger generation, and that this affair is expected to be the biggest bargain-giving, entertaining affairs ever held in Clanton. We still say just that.

The statement that people from all over the United States are interested in the "Old Hoss Sale" Clanton is going to have, is not a false statement, and we'll prove it later.

Sponsored By Kiwanis Club
This affair is being sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club, with the cooperation of Clanton merchants. As we stated last week, this "Old Hoss Sale" has been scheduled for the night of Thursday, April 4th. The place selected is the unoccupied building on the highway below Burdette Service Station, owned by Mrs. Sophia Jones. This building was formerly occupied by the Fore Motor Company.

Well, this affair as you know, is to be on the order of the old-time sale of unclaimed packages accumulated by the railroads. Packages are to be sold without divulging the contents, but the part that will attract wide interest is the fact that no package will contain not less than twenty cents worth of merchandise, at current market prices, and will be sold at not more than ten cents per package. Remember, that the contents of the packages will not be known by the purchaser, but every article or articles will be useful merchandise. How can this be done? Here's how—and this proves that people all over the nation are interested in this coming event.

Burton Mullins, who is in charge of this event, has requested several merchants and wholesalers of Clanton to inform several large concerns from whom they buy products about the "Old Hoss Sale" and if they wished to have a part in same. This has been done and is still being done. The response was more hearty than was ever imagined. At not one penny expense to the Kiwanis Club or anyone else, the various articles of merchandise have been purchased in, and at present President Oct. Webb, who is assisting in keeping account of the articles, states that between five hundred and one thousand dollar's worth of merchandise—valuable stuff—has accumulated, by the case and carton.

So it can be understood how this sale will benefit those who attend and take part in it. It will be fun! It will be worthwhile to those attending from a monetary standpoint—and it means funds for the Kiwanis Club to carry on its 1940 program.

Folks, you just can't afford to miss out on this program.

Clanton Man Arrested In Hit And Run Case

Wetumpka, Ala.—Paul C. Mims, an employee of the Wetumpka Printing Company, has been arrested in connection with the death of William M. Nixon, an aged man of Coosa River community who was struck and killed by a hit and run driver Monday night, February 19.

Mims, who is married and lives in Clanton, drives here daily to work. He is charged with first degree manslaughter and has been released under a $1,000 bond.

Funeral services for Mr. Nixon, 82, were held at Coosa River Church Wednesday, with burial in the church cemetery.

He was unmarried and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Ella Foreman of Coosa River; also several half brothers and sisters and nieces and nephews.

FEWER ALABAMA DEATHS REPORTED LAST YEAR

In spite of the increase in population, approximately four per cent fewer deaths from all causes were reported in Alabama last year than in 1938, the State Department of Health announced on the basis of provisional mortality reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Deaths reported in 1939 totaled only 28,821, or 1,146 fewer than the 1938 total of 29,967.

The State Health Department announcement revealed that April and July were the only 1939 months in which more deaths were reported than in the same months of 1938, adding, however, that deaths reported in March of 1939 reached exactly the same total that was reached by those reported in March, 1938.

NEW DIPHTHERIA PROCEDURE ADOPTED BY HEALTH DEPT

A new procedure for immunizing children and infants against diphtheria has been adopted by the County Health Department, according to a weekly health bulletin. Announcement was made by the Health Officer that instead of one dose of diphtheria toxoid, the Department would now recommend and administer two doses a month apart at 6-9 months of age and a third dose at the time the child enters school. The change in policy was ordered by the Alabama State Health Department which has carried on a continuous study of the effectiveness of one dose toxoid for the past several years. The change is also based on recommendations of the Committee of the American Public Health Association.

Mothers of infants and children of the pre-school age (6 months to 6 years) who have received one dose of toxoid were urged to consult their family physician or bring their children to the Health Office for a second dose of toxoid.

State Health Department experts maintain that while the one dose which has been used has lowered diphtheria incidence and saved many lives, the new procedure of giving two doses will prevent some deaths which are now occurring in cases where only one dose has been used.

The ineffectiveness of one dose was shown last week in Chilton County near Smith School house when an infant of eighteen months succumbed to diphtheria after having received a dose of toxoid in August, 1939, and a Schick health experts that the use of two doses given a month apart and a third dose at the age of school entrance will prevent such unhappy incidents as this.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bucklew have moved into their new home recently purchased from Aubrey Taylor.

Mr. R. N. Snerles is confined to his home with pneumonia.

Mrs. Henry T. Wood of Daytona Beach is here visiting her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Marcus.

JARMAN TO SEEK 3RD TERM AS CONGRESSMAN

ASKS RE-ELECTION ON PAST RECORD AS CONGRESSMAN FROM SIXTH DISTRICT

This week Pete Jarman, who has ably served our Sixth District as Congressman for two terms, makes his formal announcement that he will seek re-election to the post he now holds.

The record Mr. Jarman has made since his entry into public life is one that cannot possibly be overlooked by the citizens of the Sixth District, as it has been one of service to his constituents and reflects the ability he possesses. As Congressman from the Sixth District, he has brought recognition to his post and he made a record in Washington that commands respect from his colleagues.

Pete Jarman was born October 31, 1882, in Greensboro, Alabama, the son of Judge P. B. Jarman, Probate Judge of Sumter County for 29 years. He attended old Southern University at Greensboro, which was later consolidated with Owsen College to form Birmingham-Southern.

He was graduated with an A.B. Degree from the University of Alabama in 1913, with honors.

Served During War

He served as Chief Clerk in the office under his father from 1913-1917, and at that time entered the Army where he remained until September, 1919. He served his country well during the war—was wounded once. He attained the rank of First Lieutenant of Infantry, receiving his promotion from Second Lieutenant in January, 1918.

Following the Armistice he attended the University of Montpellier, Montpellier, France during the months of March through June, 1919. This University was founded in 1389, 103 years before the discovery of America.

Following his discharge from Camp Gordon, Ga., he was appointed Inspector General of Alabama National Guard with the rank of Major. He was later promoted to Lieutenant Colonel of Infantry, as Inspector of the National Guard Division composed of the troops of Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana. He is still serving in this capacity.

Following War

On November 10, 1919, shortly following his return from France, Mr. Jarman was appointed Assistant Examiner of Accounts by Governor Kilby, in which capacity he served 11 years. During this period he conducted some of the most far-reaching investigations of County affairs in the history of Alabama.

In 1930 while serving as Ranking Assistant Examiner, he was elected Secretary of State by a plurality of 30-125. He also served as member of the State Democratic Executive Committee from this District. In 1935 he was appointed Assistant State Comptroller.

Mr. Jarman was married to Miss Beryl Bricken, daughter of Judge Chas. R. Bricken, Presiding Judge of Court of Appeals. He is a member of the Methodist Church, American Legion, Forty and Eight, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Military Order of World War, Macabees Masons, Honorary Member of the Kiwanis Club and Purple Heart.

American Legion

Pete Jarman has been an outstanding figure in the American Legion, having been elected first commander of the Legion Post in Sumter County while still in France. In 1927 he was elected departmental State Commander, leaving immediately for the National Convention in Paris, where he led the United States in the parade. He also led the U. S. in the National Convention parade at San Antonio the following year. He holds the unique record of being the only man to have led the United States in two national Legion parades.

Elected To Congress

In 1936 Mr. Jarman was overwhelmingly elected to the Congress and was appointed Chairman of the Memorial Committee eight days after being sworn in.

In 1938 he was re-elected to 76th Congress. It became necessary for him to resign as Chairman of the Memorial Committee in order to accept chairmanship of a much more important committee, that of Printing and was at the same time elected to serve as a member of the Major Committee on Foreign Affairs. As Chairman of the Committee on Printing it was necessary that he have offices in the Capitol building, where only 13 Congressmen have their offices. The other 12 have served an average of more than 20 years. He was the only freshman holding the chairmanship of a committee, and the only sophomore who resigned one chairmanship to accept a more important one.

This Fellow Very Obliging Where The Law Is Concerned

Night Officer Arthur Willis says he has found the most obliging person in the world when it comes to getting arrested, and after hearing his story—we quite agree.

Officer Willis told us that late Tuesday night a young man, quite drunk, calmly strolled up to the City patrol car parked on the street and climbed inside. Mr. Willis was not in the car at the time, but was watching from across the street.

Knowing very well that the young man was in no condition to be on the streets and that he was violating City law by being there in said condition, Mr. Willis also walked across to the City car, got under the wheel and drove off to jail with the very obliging young man.

Editors, See Alabama!

Mark Tucker's Chilton County News endorses the suggestion that Alabama editors turn their regular summer trip into a "See Alabama First" affair. Amen. And one of the over-night stops, of course, must be made in Anniston. This city is the natural and proper center of interest for east Alabama, and as such will be an ideal host for the Press on tour.

Here editors may see the operation of pipe-making in the world's Soil Pipe Center; Fort McClellan, the biggest military post in the state, boasting just now the Fifth Division, one of the nation's first streamlined fighting units; Regar Museum, one of Alabama's most famous; Sunset Drive, a residential development unsurpassed for beauty in the state; the Church of St. Michael's and All Angels, Alabama's most perfect example of church architecture; Cheaha Park, offering the state's highest mountain and most beautiful natural scenery—and best of all, some 30,000 of the world's best folks.

We are one of the editors who like to travel off to Havana and New York occasionally, but it does make good sense that we get acquainted first of all with our own state. There's plenty here to keep 150 editors pop-eyed with amazement on a month's tour, much less a week's.—Anniston Times.

Joseph P. Kennedy has returned to London. It is hard to determine whether Joseph is an ambassador to Great Britain or whether he has been a recent British ambassador to the United States.

Reduced Tags

Governor Johnson has made a $3 automobile tag proposal to the Legislature of Mississippi, and the bill is regarded as virtually certain of being passed.

If and when Mississippi reduces its tags to $3, Alabama will be caught between two fires. Georgia was the pioneer, at least as far as the South is concerned, on cheaper automobile tags—and if Mississippi joins Georgia, the politicians of Alabama will find it impossible to refrain any longer from granting this state a substantial reduction.

Every candidate who has run for Governor in recent years has pledged himself to cheaper tags—if it can be worked out without endangering the financial stability of the state, but it is never worked out, and the tags are never reduced. Bibb Graves promised all kinds of tag reductions, and ended up with a change in rates which amounted to nothing. Frank Dixon, who was cautious in promising tag reductions, found that it could not be done satisfactorily, so no changes have been made. It is entirely possible that within the next few years, the debts to which these tags are devoted will be sufficiently reduced to allow a reduction in the tag prices. Is there an automobile owner in Alabama who does not hope as much?—Tuscaloosa News.

The Young Democratic Club of America named its retiring president, Pitt Maner, honorary chairman of the national executive committee, at the recent national convention held at Chicago. Mr. Maner addressed the young Democrats of Florida at Pensacola Saturday night. He urged the young party leaders of Florida to get behind liberal leaders of the party and support only those candidates who will carry on the great objectives of the present administration.

Thoughts At 3 A.M.

Some day, perhaps, the world will produce a great humanitarian, who will manufacture beds with upholstered head-boards that can be tilted back just the right angle for reading. There will be arm rests, too, equipped with a control box to shut off the radio next door, built-in ash trays to keep the Madam from yelling about the rugs, a place to park your highball, and a cigarette lighter that really works. Standard equipment also will include one of those hospital tables that fit over your hay-window, a gadget to take the weight of the covers off your feet, and some sort of fanny-snubber to keep you from sliding down too far.—Marion Times-Standard.

Why Is It?

Why is it—A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping under an advertised blanket which covers advertised mattress, takes off his advertised pajamas, takes a bath in an advertised bathtub, shaves with an advertised razor, washes with an advertised soap, dons advertised clothing, sits down to breakfast of advertised cereals, drinks a cup of advertised coffee, puts on an advertised hat, lights an advertised cigarette, rides to the office in an advertised car which uses advertised tires and when he gets to the office he meets the advertising salesman from his local newspaper and refuses to advertise his business on the grounds that it doesn't pay. WHY IS IT?—Exchange.

Keep your eye on J. P. Morgan and his new banking system. The manipulations of Morgan & Company were perhaps responsible more than anything else for getting us into the World War. It is my guess that the old man again has something up his sleeve.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

I was under restrictions by my doctor not to drive my car and had employed a Negro chauffeur to make a run of over a hundred miles. We were on a road of white roughnecks and when the men in the other car saw that a Negro was driving my car, to confuse him, they began holding out their hands as if they were going to turn in front of my car and take a side road. Some good Providence kept us from having an accident. The men had no idea of leaving the big highway, but held out their hands because they wanted to be impudent to a Negro. They went on their way in great glee, thinking that they had done something smart. When a Negro is driving a car correctly and quietly he merits just as much respect as if he were as white as snow. It is a thousand times better to have a black body than to have black principles.

Statistics show that five thousand people die annually in the United States from car accidents on the Sabbath day. They are out on hazardous motor trips, going to see their kin, perhaps they are going to some resort, maybe they are just out seeing things. Anyway it is a good subject for the pulpit to discuss. By going to church on Sunday 5,000 would be saved from a tragic death. Is that worth the effort? But, that is not half the story. Should all the people in our great country, who dash up and down highways on the Sabbath, become church-minded and turn their path into God's house, the moral standard of our nation would be lifted fourfold. Where we are running to God only knows.

I was very much interested in the salvaging of the old Tarpon boat near Panama City. This old ship went down in a gale. No one thought it worth the effort of saving. It became known later that the boat carried two things worth much money—a safe full of Government bonds and many cases of rare whiskey. Recently a diver went down and brought these treasures to light. Gold and whiskey. Good and bad. Hear me, some of these days you are going down. What about your car? The meanest man I ever saw had some good qualities. Gold and whiskey. When the angels come down on the morn of the Resurrection, will they find with you, good and bad? Better cast over your cargo of the bad before you enter the fatal gale.

The diver who went down to the hull of the old Tarpon found the valuable cargo intact. For two hours he walked about over the sunken hull and then he signaled to the crew above to draw him up. They drew him to deck with more speed than was safe for him and when he was removed from his diving suit he took the "Bends." Fearing that he would die they quickly redressed him in his diving suit and threw him overboard. Gradually they brought him from the pressure below and this time he was safe. It was a dangerous job to go down to the bottom of the Gulf and salvage the cargo of the sunken ship. It is dangerous business to go down into the depths of corrupt society and salvage the down and outs, but many of them are worth taking the risk. Go down and bring them up. "Rescue the perishing; care for the dying." Many valuable souls are on the bottom.

The nurse came into the room where the mother held her baby as she talked with her pastor. When the nurse lifted the babe into her arms the little thing trembled all over. It was afraid that the nurse would drop it. The mother remarked to me: "Doctor, that baby has been afraid of falling all of its life." That same thing can be said of many grown-ups. I will admit that fear is a great force that produces security, but it is dangerous to be obsessed with fear. It is little fears dripping, dripping daily into our lives that will undermine our morale and sap our vitality. It is Christ who says: "It is I, be not afraid." May like the babe, "have been afraid all their lives that they would be dropped."

Handy Ellis For Delegate

Elsewhere in this issue of Chilton County News will be found the announcement of L. H. (Handy) Ellis, prominent attorney of Shelby County, and outstanding political figure of the State, rock-ribbed Democrat, who will cross swords with political antagonists at the drop of a hat.

Mr. Ellis is asking the Democrats of the Sixth District to send him to the National Convention to be held at Chicago in July. Two delegates are to be selected and it is the prediction of this paper that L. H. Ellis will be one of them. Send him as delegate and you will hear from him at the Convention.

POLL TAX—Arguments will begin in Congress March 4th on a bill to keep a State from levying a poll tax on a Federal election. The bill provides that no poll tax shall be required to vote for president, vice-president, presidential elector, members of the Senate and members of the House of Representatives.

Defeated But Not Conquered

The American people admire the courage and heroism of Finnish soldiers fighting for their homeland against overwhelming odds with their backs to the wall, but it is not generally known that one of the most courageous battles ever fought by a band of brave men was fought on Alabama soil, not by white men with their superior arms, but by a band of Redmen, savages.

It was the battle of Horseshoe Bend on the Coosa river. The Creek Indians, sometimes called Redsticks, numbering about 800, were surrounded in the Horseshoe Bend by Gen. Andrew Jackson with approximately 2,000 men and some light artillery. During the night a few Indian allies of the whites slipped across the river and cut the enemy's canoes loose and let them float down the river, thereby preventing the Redsticks from escaping down the river.

The battle raged nearly all day with the Indians suffering great slaughter. Gen. Jackson sent messengers to the Indians with flags of truce offering protection to the Redmen if they would surrender, but his messages were received with cries of defiance. Seeing that a majority of their comrades were dead or dying, the few remaining Redmen tried to escape by swimming the river in the face of a deadly fire from Gen. Jackson's men. Some sank in the river, some were killed as they reached the banks of the river and a few escaped to the woods, but not a man surrendered; others were found dead in the woods.

Of the 800 warriors 200 were left and made a break for the woods, but not one man surrendered. They were defeated but not conquered.—Mountain Eagle.

FIFTY-FIFTY—There are 150 journalism freshmen at the University of Alabama. A recent poll on the question of whether or not President Roosevelt should run for a third term, 75 thought he should run and 75 thought he shouldn't.

Watch Us Win

With the Bankheads and other members of the Alabama delegation, Governor Dixon of Alabama, Ed O'Neal of Alabama, Commissioner Haywood of Alabama and President Roosevelt of New York and Georgia fighting to preserve party payments on contracts for fighting Bang's disease, the white-fringed beetle that destroys everything except lightwood knots, brick walls, there would seem to be a good chance of making the appropriations committee see the light and vote for civilization. The foregoing sentence is much too long, as anyone can see, but we believe it is pregnant with authentic promise. We—i. e., the Alabamians and I—believe we are strong enough to win the wrong threatened by the appropriation-killers of the house of appropriations committee, who know what they do when they aim their phant guns at the heart of southern rural life.—Montgomery Advertiser.

HOSPITALS NEEDED—Six cities and towns in Alabama have pressed a desire for hospitals under proposed federal legislation plan. They are: Montgomery, Decatur, Florence, Tuscaloosa, Gaylesville, Ridgely, Talladega, Monroeville, Geneva, Springs, Aliceville, Fort Payne, Beson, Athens, Haleyville and Demopolis.

A. Ayres, another long-time friend of this writer, veteran newspaper and former editor of Chilton County News, passed to his reward at the home of his daughter in Birmingham week, and was buried at Felton, the home of his youth.

No Need to Wait for a Ship to Come In For You To Electrify Your Home

RECENTLY a customer said to one of our representatives, "When my ship comes in, I'm going to completely electrify my home."

"Why wait for a ship to come in?" he was asked.

"I'll have to—I earn only a moderate income, and much as I'd like to electrify our home now so my wife would have it easier, I'm afraid I can't. Your rates are cheap enough, but I can't buy the necessary electrical equipment."

It seems that this customer didn't know of the surprisingly moderate prices at which electrical home equipment can be purchased; and that a plan worked out especially for persons of moderate income, makes it possible for them to electrify now. Under this plan they can pay for their electrical equipment over a period of years.

This plan has made it possible for homes in all walks of life to be electrified, and for families living in them to enjoy all the advantages of complete electrification—economy, added comfort and convenience, cleanliness, more time for relaxation.

There's no need to wait for a ship to come in for you to electrify your home. Inquire soon at one of our stores, or that of an electrical merchant, and learn how you, too, can begin enjoying the advantages of complete electrification now.

TO help our customers plan their use of electric service to their best advantage, and economically, we have a staff of home economists, home and commercial lighting specialists, and rural electric service engineers. There is no charge for their services, which are also available to architects and builders. Inquire at our nearest office.

KALTENBORN SAYS: Enemies Stalemated After 6 Months Because Defense Outshines Offense

By H. V. KALTENBORN
Noted Radio Commentator.

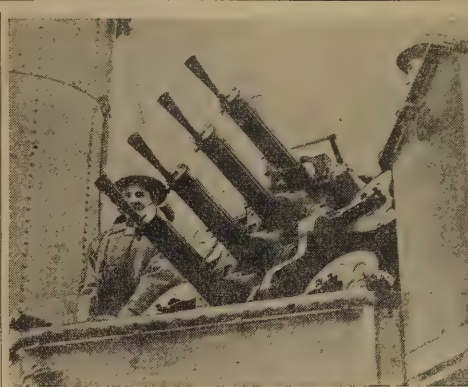

AT THE end of the first six months of war we find that the major belligerents have not yet begun to fight, while the major neutral powers have begun to fight for peace. Small wonder that the late Senator Borah called this a "phoney" war.

Only in Finland is there a major military effort and a major Soviet Russian effort. Finland has gone to war against little Finland. When the war began no one expected Soviet Russia to participate in military operations and no one expected Finland to be invaded. On the other hand, everyone expected an immediate end to the war by hundreds of bomb-drops on the capitals of Europe, and for weeks the headlines spoke of the coming big offensives on the Maginot and Siegfried lines. Neither the raids nor the offensives developed during the first half-year of fighting. Why?

Defense Is Major Factor. The primary reason is that in modern war, defense is stronger than offense. The war in Spain showed the world that air attack on large cities is tremendously destructive, but it also showed that it is not so easy to be decisive. The exchange in planes, fuel, bombs and destroyers who do not return is apt to offset the military advantages gained in any mass bombing flight. The effect on neutral opinion of the killing of thousands of women and children, together with the destruction of historic monuments in cities far away from any actual fighting zone, might well be disastrous.

The fear of such wholesale air-raids led France and Britain to surrender at Munich. Now, after a year and a half of additional intense preparation for air-defense, they are no longer German attack. They are prepared to meet it and could make it so costly that it would probably not be repeated. The successful defense of the Mannerheim line against the most highly concentrated Soviet military effort showed the strength of defense fortifications in modern war.

Why Poland Was Weak. The two great surprises of this war so far have been Poland's weakness and Finland's strength. Poland's weakness arose from a lack of national unity and domination of the illiterate masses by an aristocratic caste. In the larger sense, the government of Poland was nei-or indirectly through the air-waves. Nazi leaders are apprehensive about casualties in the propaganda battle. They impose severe punishment on anyone who listens to a foreign broadcast. The British and French, on the other hand, have enough confidence in their people to permit them to listen to whatever Dr. Goebbels orders said.

More Activity on Sea. At sea, a war of movement has been possible. This is why there has been much more activity at sea than on land. Britain's control of the sea has again demonstrated its importance. The German fleet is bottled up. Except for submarines, the German navy and the German Merchant Marine have been swept from the seas.

The Near Eastern Franco-British army of half a million men under the leadership of General Weygand is now waiting in Syria, ready for instant action against Russia or Germany in any part of the Balkans. This army may yet prove the decisive military factor in this war. Allied victories in Palestine and Turkey presaged the collapse of the Central Powers in 1918.

Germany's commerce-raiders were swept from the seas much more quickly than during the World War. The Graf Spee lies wrecked in Montevideo harbor after being put out of action by the combined efforts of three small British cruisers. The Deutschland, her sister pocket-battleship, thought it best to return to a safe German harbor.

Nazi Stress U-Boat Warfare.

But raiding with surface ships is a minor factor in Germany's sea warfare against Britain and France. The Germans remembered how close they came to forcing a decision with their submarines during the World War. They had from 60 to 75 submarines ready when the war began. For the first few weeks of the war, they used these to excellent advantage.

Then the protective measures which Britain developed during the World War and since became effective. The larger ships were sent out in convoy; airplane patrols were created; minefields against submarines were established and all the resources of the British navy were mobilized against the U-boats.

On the whole, they have proved effective. In six months, the British have lost 550,000 tons of merchant ships. At the same time, the French lost 75,000 tons and the neutrals 350,000 tons. This makes a total of a little over 1,000,000 tons.

Losses Not Important.

But nothing in these losses proven by mines and submarines even suggests the possibility of a decisive result. The British merchant marine alone totals 21,000,000 tons. The British claim that deducting from their losses purchases of new construction, their net loss in six months of warfare has been less than 200,000 tons. It is also probable that the losses will decrease rather than increase, since at sea as well as on land defense is proving itself stronger than attack.

Already submarine torpedoes are far less successful in destroying shipping than mines. The new magnetic mine sown by the Germans proved very destructive for the first few weeks in which it was used. Then more effective mine-sweeping methods and the establishment of narrow ship-channels which were carefully patrolled reduced the successes of Germany's mine-laying airplanes.

British Also Unsuccessful.

On the other hand, the British have been no more successful in their raids against the German navy. Both German and British submarines have destroyed an occasional warship, but these forays have been costly to the submarines attempting them. The British and French claim to have sunk between 40 and 50 German submarines since the beginning of the war. The Germans admit the loss of less than half this number. Yet whenever a submarine is lost, the entire crew is lost with it, and it takes five years to train men to handle a submarine under war conditions.

Talk about the Germans building one submarine a day is nothing more than talk. It is more likely that the Germans are completing anywhere from six to ten U-boats a month, which is just about the rate at which they are being destroyed.

Already Planning for Peace.

There is, then, nothing decisive in action at sea or in the air. Defense is stronger than attack. But what about the economic front? That is probably the most important front of all and the one that will be dominant long after the war has ended. Already Secretary of State Hull is negotiating with the neutral powers to work out a plan of economic reconstruction. The plan must be ready for instant application on the day of the armistice if Europe is not to sink into chaos when the fighting ends.

Every country in Europe, neutral and belligerent alike, has mortgaged its future. Only if the New World remains out of the war and stands ready to lend its resources for European reconstruction is there any hope of true peace. Europe was ready for revolution before the war came and will be much more ready for it when the war is done.

What After Collapse?

France and Britain count on economic pressure to bring about the collapse of Germany, but one wonders whether they have asked themselves, what then? Will they march into Germany at the head of a victorious army, establish a new Kaiser and a new Junker government? Or will they stand aside while Germany's underground Communist movement re-asserts itself and calls for assistance to the Red brethren in Moscow?

There is the third possibility of organizing those liberal forces that have either been driven out of Germany or driven under cover within Germany, and helping them to re-establish constitutional government by granting them a generous peace. That would be the hardest task.

Rumania Under Pressure.

Meanwhile, there is more pressure behind the economic than behind the military war. Members of the Rumanian government are being bribed, bulldozed, flattered and caajoled by both sides. Both are seeking to purchase Rumania's oil and Rumania's grain. Each wants it so that the other cannot have it. The French and British offer gold, the Germans threaten war. So far, King Carol has kept a precarious balance; Britain and France continue to guarantee his frontiers and King Carol remembers the Blitzkrieg against Poland. Poland had been given the same guarantees.

On the diplomatic front, the Allied powers won their greatest victory in winning Turkey to their cause. This gives them control of the Dardanelles and the Black Sea, in case of war with Russia. It also assures France and Britain complete dominance of the Mediterranean and the Mediterranean Italy from siding with Germany.

VENEREAL DISEASE QUACK BRANDIED BY HEALTH OFFICE

Activities of unqualified persons in the treatment of venereal diseases was branded by the most serious obstacle in the way of controlling the spread of these diseases by officials of the County Health Department early this week. Efforts of the Department to publicize the importance of social diseases as a public health problem have apparently driven more innocent victims into the hands of the quacks, it was said.

"It is a more regrettable fact," stated Dr. S. D. Sturkie, "that, in spite of the fact that quack clinics are now operating in the County where persons are unable to pay may obtain free treatment, so-called herb doctors and other lay people are more active than ever. Only ten cases of gonorrhea have been admitted to our clinics since last October. Yet we know that two or three times this number of cases have actually occurred. Private physicians are unanimous in the belief that there is an abundance of gonorrhea in Chilton County, but a majority are being treated by the quack."

"A more unprincipled scoundrel cannot be imagined than the venereal disease quack. I heard one say recently that he might as well take the suckers' money as someone else. That he will leave many of his victims with complications which may seriously impair their health is of no concern to him. While the quack's medicine may do his patient no harm, he keeps his victim away from a qualified doctor at the time when treatment might be most effective."

"The Health Department has some knowledge of the identity of most of the local quacks. Both of the herb doctors practicing in the north of the County treat these diseases, according

Absentee Ballot Not Affected By Secrecy Statute

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

Atty. Gen. T. S. Lawson held yesterday that recent legislation designed to insure the secrecy of the ballot cannot and does not apply to absentee ballots.

The opinion had been requested by W. W. Hill, probate judge of Montgomery County.

The Dixon Legislature passed a bill, introduced by Senator P. F. DeVane, which requires that ballots be numbered in a one-inch square at the bottom and that a black seal be pasted over the number before the ballot is placed in the box.

The question naturally arose as to how absentee ballots could be handled according to the law and the identity of the voter kept secret. The voter is required to make a non-detachable statements made by persons who have consulted them for treatment.

"Alabama laws fix a penalty for any persons except a properly qualified and licensed physician treating or prescribing for victims of syphilis, gonorrhea or chancre. Another law provides penalties for anyone selling any drug, medicine, or preparation advertised, called for, labeled or intended to be used as a cure or treatment for venereal disease except on the written prescription of a licensed physician."

"It will be the future policy of the Health Department to enforce these laws. All quacks and unqualified persons should take warning."

Bibb County's Road Program To Cost Almost $8,000,000

The program to pave every state highway in Bibb County will cost almost $800,000 and will be continued through the next three or four years, with work going on practically all the time.

This work should be of great assistance to the people of this county.—Centerville Press.

affidavit which, of course, bears his signature.

In reply to Judge Hill Lawson wrote:

"... The Legislature never intended that it (DeVane's law) apply to absentee ballots, the numbering of which in the manner there provided, could serve no purpose ...

"Even though section one of the act does give every voter the right to cast a secret ballot it does not require that he cast a secret ballot."

"If he avails himself of the privilege of casting an absentee ballot he simply forfeits the right granted to him by the act in question."

THE AUTHOR—

H. V. Kaltenborn attained eminence in the radio news field during the European crisis last autumn, when his frequent and accurate reports over the Columbia network were awaited each day by millions of listeners. A native of Wisconsin, he worked many years on the Brooklyn Eagle before entering the radio news field as a sideline in 1922. For more than 30 years he has been a keen student of international politics, a background which makes his contemporaneous analyses over CBS among the most accurate heard by the American audience today. His famous broadcast from a haystack in Spain is the first radio description of actual warfare on record. During last autumn's crisis he literally lived at the CBS studios in New York, prepared to go on the air at a moment's notice.

her popular nor efficient. The Finland people are literate, sturdy and possess a strong sense of social and political independence.

Just as the failure of Poland's defense plan undermined morale, the success of Finland's well-organized plan of defense has given tremendous encouragement to the army, the people and the government. But the success of the German blitzkrieg against Poland and the failure of Russia's blitzkrieg against Finland depended primarily on the difference between the attacking armies.

The German army was well organized, well equipped, well directed. The Russian army is poorly organized, poorly equipped and suffers from bad generalship.

Western Lines Invulnerable. Already Finland's Mannerheim has withstood an overwhelming Russian assault for more than three months. It is apparent, therefore, that the much more completely organized and much deeper Maginot and Siegfried lines would be similarly invulnerable to attack.

Whereas Russia has a superiority of something like 20 to 1 against Finland, the forces lined up on both sides of the French frontier are practically equal in fighting strength.

TO MY FRIENDS and CONSTITUENTS

In announcing for Congress four years ago, I said: "Having been affiliated with the public life, first of my County and later of my State, throughout my life, I like to think of myself as a public servant. To serve my fellow Alabamians, my Party and my Nation to the best of my ability has ever been my keen desire." Three years service in this broader field, during which I have worked more diligently and longer hours than ever before, has not changed this attitude one particle.

This campaign will be waged on the usual high plane. Having run originally on my previous record, just as all neophytes must, I shall again base my candidacy on that record and on what it has been my privilege to do as your Congressman. Though I have not invariably pleased everyone, which is impossible for a conscientious, straightforward public official who does his own thinking in a constant effort to render the maximum service, no one can truthfully say that I have not dealt fairly with him or her, that I have been a dodger, a trimmer, a demagogue, or that I have indulged in promiscuous or unfulfilled promises.

My previous experience in public service caused me to realize the inadvisability of a freshman attempting to take charge, thereby forever preventing the wielding of the great influence I expect to sometimes enjoy in the Congress. When I succeeded in accomplishing so much more in a short while than the average Congressman does in years, this realization was more forcefully impressed upon me, and I have been governed accordingly.

I invite your careful scrutiny of my record. While there is naturally difference of opinion on the part of thinking people, I do so in the firm conviction that a thorough analysis of it will cause all unbiased citizens of our District to share the pride I naturally feel in it.

It has been my privilege, pleasure and honor to diligently serve you to the best of my ability, bringing to our District the credit and consideration it deserves. I hope and believe you will desire a continuation of such service. Seniority is more valuable in the House of Representatives than anywhere else in the world, even though it was my good fortune to overcome the lack of it in committee assignments. Four years is not long, as time goes, but I believe you will agree that our District can ill afford to lose those years of seniority and the prestige it enjoys from these assignments, particularly during these trying times of international unrest.

Unfortunately for one who enjoys mingling with his friends as I do, the Congress has been in session so well nigh constantly, during twenty nine of the thirty-eight months, that little time has been available for this purpose. However, I have moved my office to the District each year that I and my entire personnel might be in closer touch with you. Congress will doubtless remain in session for several months which will probably deny me the pleasure of seeing many of you. While I shall spend as much time as possible in the District, I hope that those of you whom I fail to see will realize that it is only the performance of my duties in your behalf which prevents my doing so, and that this realization will cause you to substitute for the constant activity in which the performance of these duties will prevent me indulging your keen interest and industry. Your efforts for me will be deeply appreciated. Let us take nothing for granted. I want, not only your vote, but your active, energetic influence that I may continue to regard your affairs in the Nation's Capitol as an avowed public trust and to serve you all—low and high, poor and rich—to the very best of my ability without fear or favor.

Farm Agent's News

J. W. FANT, County Agent

Good Gardens Vitally Important

Eighteen percent of the farmers in Alabama do not have home gardens states J. H. Camp, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at Isabella High School.

If farm people are to be well fed, we need to grow about three times as many vegetables as are now being produced for home consumption.

Every garden should be increased so that fresh vegetables could be harvested every month of the year.

The most successful gardener is one who plants often. Plant something in the garden every two weeks. Many people do not realize the importance of planting something every few days. Due to bad weather most people are getting off to a slow start with their gardening.

Ground limestone or basic slag applied at the rate of four to six hundred pounds per acre will increase the production of beets, carrots, lettuce, beans, and peas on most soil. Do not apply to soil on which Irish potatoes are to be grown. Large amounts of fertilizers will help to rush plants to maturity.

Vegetables are heavy feeders and need lots of fertilizers. Root crops such as beets, carrots, Irish potatoes and rutabagas should receive about 1500 pounds of 4-10-7 fertilizer per acre. Leafy vegetables should receive about 1000 pounds of 4-8-4 or 6-8-4 per acre or about 4 to 6 pounds per 100 feet of row. Such plants as cabbage and lettuce may be sidedressed with nitrogen.

Any of the following vegetables should be planted as soon as possible: Roots and tubers, Irish potatoes, asparagus roots, horseradish roots and artichokes.

Seeds—Beets, turnips, English peas, mustard, carrots, brussel sprouts, chard spinach, cabbage, onions, tendergreens, kale, kohlrabi and radish.

Plants—Cabbage and Bermuda onions. A home garden counts as one unit ($1.50) for soil building practices under the AAA Program, specifications are: (a) A home garden shall consist of any acreage of the farm upon which vegetables are grown for home use, either for consumption, fresh during the growing season, or for canning, drying or storing.

(b) Good cultured practices shall be followed. The soil must be properly planned and worked before seeding and must be kept free of weeds and in a good state of cultivation after planting. Proper efforts must be made to control insect pests.

(c) A minimum of eight different vegetables must be grown during the year; at least two fresh vegetables must be available for consumption daily throughout the year.

(d) The total amount of vegetables grown and either used fresh or preserved shall be sufficient to provide a reasonable diet of vegetables.

Treatment For Cold Injured Ornamental Plants

During the recent cold weather many ornamental plants were injured to some extent. Various types of broadleaved evergreen shrubs, such as the Privets and the Fieythorns were killed back to varying extents. All such plants as these and others where cold injury is apparent, should be pruned to remove the damaged branches. These branches should be pruned at least two or three inches below the lowest point where injury is evident. Prompt attention to this pruning will probably save further damage to many plants.

Plants injured by cold weather will often have additional damage done to them by allowing the damaged portions to remain after warm weather comes. The sap in the frozen parts of the plants tends to sour and the bark often cracks. This condition of soured sap, and broken bark may encourage attacks of disease and insects.

The effects of cold weather often shows up in the following summer months. Such plants as the Arborvitae will probably show the effects of the recent cold weather more in summer than at the present.

All plants that show any sign of cold injury should be carefully pruned and mulched with leaves, pine straw, nut hulls, or some similar material. During an unusually dry weather in the early part of next summer, these plants should be watered carefully, and if any fertilizer is used around them, it should be some such material as cottonseed meal and not any of the commercial fertilizers containing nitrogen. These fertilizers should not be used until the plants have completely recovered from the effects of the cold weather.

Plant Your Non-Paying Land In Trees

By planting your poor, washed, steep idle land in trees and caring for them is like taking out an insurance policy to aid you during your older age, or for your children. In addition to conserving your soil, receiving an income from wood and saw logs you can get $7.50 per acre (up to $30.00 per farm) through the AAA Program.

Plant slash, loblolly or long leaf pines 6x6 which takes 1225 trees per acre. Black locust 4x6. These trees cost about $2.00 per 1000. They can be secured through the State Department of Forestry, Montgomery, Alabama. The time to plant is during the winter or early spring.

The land does not require but a small amount of preparation, just enough to destroy weeds, this preparation should be done several days before planting so the soil will have time to settle.

Keep roots of plants moist at all times. If trees are not planted soon after arriving they should be "heeled in" in light well drained soil. When ready to plant put roots in a bucket of mud so the roots will remain moist.

Mattocks or grub hoes are suitable for use in heavy soils and narrow spades in light soils. Dig holes large enough to take the roots in a natural position. Plant the trees about the same depth as they grew in the nursery. Pack the soil firmly around the roots, especially in the bottom of the hole.

Fertilize each black locust plant with 2 to 4 ounces of complete fertilizer or an equivalent amount of barnyard manure. Mix fertilizer well into soil before planting.

Protect from fire and grazing. Black locust will profit by cultivation for a year or two.

Survival and growth of plantings will vary with conditions of soil, moisture, planting stock, species, degree of protection, cultivation and method of planting. Normally the survival is about 75-90 per cent.—J. Hollis Jackson Vocational Agriculture Teacher, Chilton County High School.

CLANTON MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB ON STATE PROGRAM

Representatives of the local Music Appreciation Music Club appeared in a thirty-minute program Wednesday of this week. The program was under the leadership of Mrs. Earle Ellis, who also rendered two vocal solos.

The program included: The Collect of the Federated Music Clubs of America, read by Mrs. Reid Mullins.

"May Night," and "Romance," played by James Duke Heflin.

"Elegie," and "Serenade," sung by Mrs. Earle Ellis.

"To A Wild Rose," violin solo by Miss Lillian McKee.

A chorus was sung by Mrs. Earle Ellis, Mrs. Grady Heflin, Miss Bertelle Holmes, Mrs. Reid Mullins, Mrs. W. A. Willie.

Thema White Dunlap was accompanist for the afternoon.

CIRCLE MEETINGS

Circle Six Met With Mrs. Cagle

Circle Six of Clanton Baptist W.M.U. met on Monday at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cagle with a very good attendance.

The meeting was called to order with prayer by Mrs. Frank Scott. The devotionals was given by Mrs. Joe Higgins. She gave the history of our hymn for the year, "How Firm A Foundation."

Everyone present enjoyed a very interesting meeting and lovely social hour.

Circle Number Four Met

Circle Number Four met with Mrs. E. B. Simpson Monday afternoon, February 26 at 3:30 o'clock. There were twenty-two members and two visitors present.

Devotional was given by Mrs. Reid Mullins. Mrs. W. C. Golden explained what all the money was used for that is raised through the Circle.

Delicious refreshments were served.

Circle One Met With Mrs. Breedlove

Circle Number One of the Clanton Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Charlie Breedlove.

The Devotional was given by Mrs. Grady Heflin. She used the watchword for the year as her scripture, also giving the outline of the year-book.

Mrs. Willis discussed the Standard of Excellence of all organizations of the W.M.U.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Barfield, Billingsley, Bryson, Breedlove, Cooper, Culpepper, Foshee, Hardy, Heflin, Powell, Rockett, Taylor, Wade, Walker, Willis, Gray, A. H. Kirby.

Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. V. H. Barfield.

Circle Number Two Met

Circle Number Two of the Baptist Missionary held its monthly business meeting of Mrs. J. W. Hayes at 3:00 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The meeting was opened by singing "Revive Us Again." Prayer was by Mrs. W. W. Wingard. Chairman Mrs. E. E. Upchurch gave the devotional, reading verses from the fourteenth and seventeenth chapters of John.

Pine reports from the various officers were given.

W welcomed Mrs. W. J. Harris as a new member. Mrs. J. W. Billingsley, young peoples director, met with us.

The meeting was closed with mispah. Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, W. J. Billingsley, Mrs. W. J. Harris, Mrs. Clara Curry, Mrs. H. T. Pipes, Mrs. W. W. Wingard, Mrs. G. C. Powell, Mrs. A. P. Taylor, Mrs. John T. Ellis, Mrs. Ben Sims, Mrs. Irby Popwell, Mrs. Hattie Alred, Mrs. Milton Smith, Mrs. J. W. Hayes.

Y. W. A. Meeting

The Y.W.A. members were delightfully entertained last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Loren Smith with Misses Mollie Bell Ousley, Dorothy Manning and Mrs. J. J. Hayes joint hostesses.

Games and contests were enjoyed and decorations, favors and refreshments were in George Washington theme.

Those present were: Annie Cordelia Smith, Mary Nell Smith, Mary Frances Duke, Mary Frances Atkinson, Kathryn Hoover, Elizabeth Newell, Martha Jule Blackshear, Aileen Popwell, Marzelle Kelley, Thea Dunn, Bertelle Holmes, Elizabeth Bryson, Annie Laura Bryson Hazel Gray, Molly Bell Ousley, Elizabeth Hayes, Dorothy Manning, Mrs. Zora Smith.

Baptist W.M.S. Circle Number Three

Circle Number Three of the Clanton Baptist Church W.M.S. met on Monday afternoon, February 26 at 3:00 o'clock at the lovely home of Mrs. Edwin Mullins on Seventh Avenue, Mrs. P. T. Hinkle, chairman, presiding.

This meeting was essentially the business meeting for the month of February, the Church is badly in need of new silver and linen and a general re-arrangement of the kitchen and its facilities. At this time ways and means of getting the necessary funds for this purpose were discussed, one of these means is the serving of the Lions Club which takes place twice monthly on Friday nights, this privilege is rotated among all the circles, this coming Friday night Circle Three will serve the Lions.

At this meeting appropriate menus were discussed, and a very tasty one chosen for this occasion. All Lions are urged to be on hand this coming Friday night of March 1st.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served sandwiches with Russian tea to seventeen members who were present, viz: Mesdames Hinkle, Davis, Popwell, Atkinson, Teel, Crowder, McKee, Moates, Nivens, Burdette, Downs, Smith, Harris, Jester, Teel Le-noir and Spicer.

The meeting was adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Oscar A. Davis Circle Number Three will gather next meeting date with Mrs. Tom Burdette on the Maplesville Road.

Mrs. Kay Jarvis has returned from a visit with her sister in Daytona Beach. She was there two months.

The Canning Budget

In order to be well fed, according to the daily food selection guide, every individual needs daily a certain number of servings of milk, vegetables, fruit, efficient protein foods, whole-grain products, and water.

Although most of the food needed for all the members of the family may be raised on the farm, farm families are frequently poorly nourished because the correct food is not selected to supply their requirements.

Recent nutrition studies indicate that more than one-half of the people in the U. S. have only a fair or very poor diet.

Health, growth, and even life itself, depends to a great extent upon the food that is eaten. Although the requirements of the various members of the family are not the same, it is possible to plan a year's food supply which will be adequate for the needs of each member of the family. Knowing the kinds and amounts of the various foods required, one may plan to raise such foods in sufficient quantities to feed the family adequately.

Food conservation logically follows production. Likewise, food conservation and the canning budgets are inseparable. Scientists have proved that where one uses fresh foods for canning—and the latest information on selections, premeasuring, processing, and storing—the final product is comparable with the same product that is freshly cooked.

Haphazard canning, like haphazard farming, brings little satisfaction. The home canner should study the food needs of her family and consider what fresh fruits and vegetables will be available each month in the year. She should can for one season the foods that will be scarce in another season. It is highly desirable that each housewife prepare a canning budget.

The canning budget should be planned with the all-year garden program in mind. The all-year-garden and orchard plan must be made according to the needs for variety in the daily diet. It is necessary to estimate the number of days in the year that vegetables and fruits may be had fresh and thereby determine how much canned foods will be needed for the remainder of the year.

Fruits and vegetables should be canned on a budget basis in order to have the proper amounts and varieties on hand for the season when fresh fruits and vegetables cannot be grown in the garden.

The canning budgets have been worked out for Alabama and are based on approximate yearly quantities of foods (or groups of foods) needed per person for the population of the United States. The suggested budgets follow the serving of canned vegetables and one serving of canned fruit for each day during the unproductive months. Stored vegetables may provide the second vegetable.

It is believed that the majority of farm families can produce and consume much of the food that is needed in the home, and that can add greatly to their food supply and family income by a well-planned program of food canning.

Contact your Home Demonstration Agent for further information on the canning budget.

All-Purpose Dress Project

Home Demonstration Clubs in Chilton County are setting up a house dress, or all-purpose dress project. The purpose of this project is to stimulate more interest in the good-looking, well fitted, becoming, tailored type cotton dress that may be worn for shopping, club meetings, and church, as well as around the house. Each club will hold a dress revue and every Home Demonstration Club member is eligible to enter. The three highest scorers of each club revue will enter the county revue. The first place winner in the county will enter the State revue which will be held in Auburn during Annual Farm and Home Week.

These statistics are obtained from the records of the County Health Department and are published for the purpose of promoting better registration of births and deaths. Filing of a certificate for births and deaths with local registrars is made compulsory by the State Vital Statistics law. Responsibility for filing birth certificate within five days after the birth rests on the physician or midwife in attendance, undertakers or persons in charge of burials are required by law to obtain a burial permit before the body is interred. Such permits are obtainable only on the presentation of a completed death certificate to the registrar in the beat in which the death occurred.

Anyone having knowledge of births or deaths occurring during January and not included in the above list should report this matter to the County Health Office immediately.

Music Club Meeting

The regular meeting of the Clanton Music Appreciation Club was held at the home of Mrs. Reid Mullins on February 20.

The principal feature of the business session presided over by the first vice president, Mrs. Joe Mullins, was a discussion of plans for a radio broadcast to be presented over WSFA at the Jefferson Davis Hotel in Montgomery on March 28th. A thirty-minute program of vocal and instrumental selections will be delivered by Clanton Club members.

The musical program of the afternoon was under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Sheppard. A violin solo, "To A Wild Rose" by McDowell was played by Miss Lillian McKee, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Earle Ellis. A vocal solo entitled "Were My Songs With Wings Provided," by Hohn, was contributed by Mrs. Grady Hefflin. A very attractive paper entitled "The Legend of St. Valentine" was read by Mrs. John W. Powers, Jr. The final number was a vocal quartette entitled "Mrs. Earle Ellis, Mrs. Grady Hefflin, "A Wish," arranged from Prelude Mrs. Earle Ellis, Mrs. Gady Hefflin, Mrs. C. N. Parnell and Mrs. W. A. Willis.

At the conclusion of the musical program the hostess, Mrs. Reid Mullins, entertained the Club members and guests with a tea. She was assisted by Miss Della Latham, Mrs. J. C. Jones and Mrs. J. M. Sheppard.

TO THE PEOPLE

Of the SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

I hereby announce my candidacy for Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

This announcement has been delayed thus far, due to the great importance and pressing nature of the work of the Code Committee, of which I am a member. The work of this Committee in the Codification of the Laws of Alabama, has progressed to such a point that I now feel justified in undertaking my campaign for Congress, and I have requested and obtained a leave of absence without pay for the duration of the campaign.

I expect to wage an active, aggressive campaign, discussing fully with the people the issues, needs, and problems of the district.

It is my earnest hope to avoid all personalities and petty bickerings; and I shall endeavor at all times to conduct my campaign upon a high level in keeping with the importance and dignity of the office which I seek.

My campaign will be based upon a proven record and capacity for public service, demonstrated ability, training, and knowledge of the pressing needs and problems of the district. I pledge my whole-hearted, untiring efforts in the support of the principles and policies of government which make secure the rights and privileges of all the people and which will best promote their prosperity and permanent welfare.

Your vote and support will be gratefully appreciated.

Confident of success, and with full faith in the people of my district, I submit my candidacy to you.

EMMETT HILDRETH.

TOM MAXWELL ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS

VETERAN, FARMER AND ENGI-NEER LISTS AIMS IN RACE FOR HOUSE SEAT

Thomas H. Maxwell, Tuscaloosa County farmer, veteran of two wars and an engineer of long experience, Saturday formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for representative in Congress from the Sixth District, which includes Tuscaloosa and seven other West Alabama counties.

Mr. Maxwell qualified several weeks ago but did not make his formal announcement until Saturday. He is the fourth candidate to announce, but is the first to reveal a platform detailing a definite stand on various issues of national import. Other candidates in the race for the May 7 party primary are: Rep. Pete Jarman of Livingston, William D. Partlow, Jr., of Tuscaloosa and State Senator Emmett Hildreth of Eu-

Platform Detailed
In making his announcement, which appears in today's News, Mr. Maxwell declared that he favored: "continuous federal-state farmer cooperation and improvement of staple crops and federal crop insurance; a wage-hour law for industry and collective bargaining for farmers, labor and industry; abatement of freight and tariff discriminations against Southern and Western farm products; continuing the trade treaty policies now in effect;

"liberal construction and maintenance for four years of 100-bed hospital for any town furnishing satisfactory sites; a $40 pension for needy aged during a period of four years, to show the state that they can cooperate to care decently for their senior citizens."

He said he favored Speaker William B. (Bill) Bankhead, a classmate at the University of Alabama, as Democratic nominee for president. He also declared his goal to be, "to achieve permanent prosperity, a job for every able-bodied person."

Mr. Maxwell is a native of Tuscaloosa County, and a descendant of one of the county's oldest and most prominent families. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Maxwell, born in a log house at the Woodbank Farm on the Greensboro Road where he now resides. His father served four years in the Army of the Confederacy and was a prominent figure in Tuscaloosa during the Reconstruction days. As a boy Mr. Maxwell took an active part in farming at the Woodbank Farm and attended the Verner Military Academy conducted by Professor William H. Verner, where former Congressman William B. (Buck) Oliver and late Charles B. Verner were instructors.

Graduated At U. of A.

He then entered the University of Alabama and was graduated with a B. S. degree in engineering in the illustrious Class of 1893, which included Speaker Bankhead, former Governor Bibb Graves, Hugh Morrow, Dr. Battle Shaw, Beatty Robertson, Jack Abbott, Hardy Johnston, William G. Little, John Smith and other prominent Alabamians. He received an honorary A. B. degree in 1900.

Dr. Maxwell was a cadet lieutenant in college and entered the 3rd U. S. Engineers Regiment to serve in Cuba during the Spanish-American War. He was employed continuously in engineering work in Cuba until 1902, when he went to the Texas oil fields as an engineer for the Kansas City Southern Railway.

In 1903 he returned to Cuba, where he married Miss Augustine La Cova. He continued his engineering work on the island until 1912. He has two sons who are now prominent attorneys in Havana, and has one grandson.

Returning to Tuscaloosa in 1912 he became a member of the Tuscaloosa Chamber of Commerce until the World War, when he volunteered as a captain in the U. S. Engineer Reserve. He went overseas, serving as an engineer on construction projects and railroad work in France. In 1919 he returned to this country but attained the rank of lieutenant colonel in the engineers before retiring.

Mr. Maxwell has been a candidate in the last three congressional campaigns, making the race in 1934, 1936 and 1938. He has advocated various progressive legislation, especially in regard to the relief of farm problems, and was extremely active in promoting his common control movement at its inception—Tuscaloosa News.

Fourth To Enter Race For Congress

THOMAS H. MAXWELL

WATER DRAIN BEING BUILT IN EASTERN PART OF CITY

To protect the property of owners in the eastern section of the city the City of Clanton is at present erecting a huge cement drain or sluice box to carry off water which flows in that direction since the new street drainage system was installed at the time the streets were paved.

This drain is a cement box affair, about four feet high and four feet wide. It is being built below the surface of the ground and is about 150 yards long, and will empty into the creek near the bridge on the Lay Darr Road. It is expected to amply solve the drainage situation in this locality for years to come. WPA labor is being used.

Minstrel At Collins Chapel Tonight

Citizens of the Collins Chapel community, east of Thorsby, will have an opportunity to see the blackface show of the Clanton Kiwanis Club tonight, (Thursday) at 7:30 at the school house. This show entitled "Goon Valley Minstrel", has been hailed by those who have seen it as one of the best amateur presentations they have ever seen. Fanatic fun and foolishness reign during the entire time from the moment the curtain rises until it falls.

The cast is composed of members of the club, such as: C. E. Stapp, Dick Hayes, Charlie Breedlove, Horton Walker, R. W. Lowe, Rev. Oscar Davis, Norman Hand, C. O. Lawrence and others, with Miss Mattie Jo Barber at the piano.

Just don't fail to hear these men sing the Southern songs, Al Johnson style. It will be well worth the admission ticket of fifteen and twenty-five cents. This is the third presentation of this minstrel. The last showing, at Isabella, was attended by a large crowd.

POLK BROTHERS MOTOR CO.
GETS IN CARLOAD TRACTORS
Spring time is farming time, and Polk Brothers Motor Co., local Chrysler-Plymouth and International Harvester dealers, are prepared to meet the needs of the farmers of this section.

Last week this firm received a full car load of the well known Farmall tractors. A picture of these tractors in front of this establishment appears in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue of the News. These tractors are products of the International Harvester Co., and a demonstration will be given to anyone interested. Mr. W. M. Polk, manager of Polk Brothers, stated.

MISS TRAYWICK IS WED TO HERMAN SKIPPER MARCH 2
The marriage of Miss Elsie Christiana Traywick and Herman Skipper took place at 6:00 P.M. Saturday, March 2, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Whit Traywick. Only members of the families and close friends witnessed the ceremony.

The bride wore a Navy blue dress with black and white accessories. Her bridesmaid was the daughter of the late Mattie and Lee Traywick. Mr. and Mrs. Skipper left for a trip to Montgomery after which they will be at home in Clanton.

1058 MEN WANT TO GUARD CONVICTS
There are at least 1,058 men who want to guard Alabama's convicts, Personnel Director I. J. Browder says that many had qualified to take merit system examinations for such jobs, including 336 already on the payroll and 722 who want to be on the eligible list in the event of vacancies.

The deadline for filing applications for several types of clerical jobs has passed, and Browder said tests would be given within the next four or five weeks.

PAUL C. MIMS WILL GET GRAND JURY HEARING

Paul C. Mims, widely known Clanton man, was bound over to the Elmore County Grand Jury after a preliminary hearing at Wetumpka the latter part of last week in connection with the death of Wm. N. Nixon, who was killed by a hit and run driver near Hopeville in Elmore County Monday night of last week.

Mr. Mims is employed by the Wetumpka Printing Co. and drives to and from his work in Wetumpka. After his arrest he was released under $1,000 bond. He denies any connection with the crime. Nixon was 82 years of age, a resident of the Coosa River community.

Nothing New In Hopper Case

Although there are no new important developments in the mysterious death of J. W. Hopper, Mt. Creek resident, Sheriff W. G. Culp stated Wednesday that investigation is still going on to determine how Mr. Hopper met his death. He was found dying after a fall from a bridge spanning the L. & N. Railroad near Mr. Creek on the morning of February 22.

Three men, George W. Till, Joseph A. Cofer and John Speer, have been arrested and are in the County jail in connection with the case. Investigation is being made by local officers in cooperation with special State and Federal officers.

Mr. Hopper was last seen at a filling station and dance hall operated by Speer at the eve of his death. To determine whether or not he was thrown, jumped or accidentally fell from the bridge is the object of the investigation. Circumstances point to foul play. The State has posted a reward of $200 for evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer.

Sheriff Culp and local Highway Patrolmen who have been investigating the hit-run death of James M. Dennis, which occurred Saturday night, February 24, near the Tourist Cafe south of Clanton, have uncovered no lead, which might identify the driver of the car. Dennis was found near death on the edge of the pavement with a fractured skull and mangled leg. He lived only a short while after reaching the hospital.

FORMER CHILTON RESIDENT PASSED AWAY AT SYLACAUGA
G. Willis Anderson, formerly of Chilton County, passed away at his home in Talladega Springs, Ala., March 2, following a long illness. He was 55 years of age.

Those left to mourn his death were his wife, Mrs. Curtis Anderson, two daughters, Mrs. Pierce Thornton of Sylacauga and Miss Idelle Anderson of Talladega Springs; three sons, G. H. of Sylacauga, J. W. and T. M. of Talladega Springs.

Funeral services were his sons, one son-in-law, Pierce Thornton and two nephews, Herman DuBoise and A. J. Baker.

Flower girls were Willie Maye and Pauline Conner; Helen DeLoach and Pearl Baker.

Funeral was held at Shady Grove Church Monday, March 4 at 11:00 o'clock with Rev. J. W. Enfinger officiating. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery with Howard and Parker, funeral directors of Sylacauga, in charge.

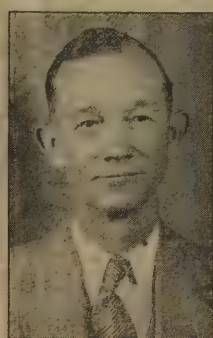

Mrs. H. T. Pipes spent last week end in Birmingham.

Mrs. Earle Thomas, Mrs. W. C. Golden and Mrs. Horace Popwell attended one of Dr. Truett's sermons last week in Birmingham.

A Preview Of Clanton's "Old Hoss Sale"
Is Given Pilots And Kiwanians At Meeting
The "Old Hoss Sale" is drawing nearer, and at a joint meeting of the Clanton Club and Kiwanis Club last Thursday night, Burton Mullins, who is in charge of arrangements for the coming event, gave the members of the two clubs a preview of just what this "Old Hoss Sale" is going to be.

Burton had a box of the various articles to be sold on the night of April 4th, in the building formerly occupied by the Fore Motor Co., just south of the City on the highway. Of course, some of the members of the Kiwanis Club knew about the assortment of merchandise to be sold at prices never before heard of in Clanton, but this affair was a source of amazement to the Pilots as Mr. Mullins displayed item after item of merchandise that is worth up to as high as two and three dollars. What's unbelievable about this "Old Hoss Sale" is the price these articles will be sold for. No package will be sold for less than ten cents, every package will contain not less than twenty cents worth of merchandise. Have you ever heard of anything being sold for half its value, and the owners making money even at that?

Maplesville Citizen To Seek Re-Election

J. P. (POPE) PAYNE

J. P. Payne Announces For School Board

J. P. (Po) Payne, well-known hardware dealer of Maplesville, Alabama, announces this week in Chilton County News that he will be a candidate for re-election as member of the Chilton County School Board.

Mr. Payne has served for the past four years on the Board and has made a splendid record of service in behalf of the schools of our county. He has been a resident of Chilton County for many years and is extremely popular with all who know him. At a later date Mr. Payne will make a statement to the Democrats of the county through the columns of the News.

JIMMY BELL BUYS OUT MURRAY INTEREST IN LOCAL HARDWARE

A change in ownership of one of Clanton's popular business establishments took place recently when J. D. (Jimmy) Bell purchased the interest of Mr. Murray in the Murray-Bell Hardware. In the future this business will be known as the Bell Hardware. This hardware has been in Clanton for the past five years and has been under the active management of Mr. Bell. Its success has been made possible, Mr. Bell says, to the splendid patronage they have received from the people of this section, and in the future the same effort will be put forth on the part of the management to give hardware bargains that will mean savings to the customer.

An advertisement listing several of the specials being offered this week appears in this issue of the News.

ALABAMA COLLEGE'S HOME STUDY SERVICE AVAILABLE

Montevallo—Best sellers of the moment and classics, whose popularity time has proved, are on the extensive list of books to be had by Alabama people for the asking from Alabama College's Home Study Service, in a newly announced arm of the program this office carries on. Directed by Dr. I. Riddle, Home Study Service will send such popular favorites as "Grapes of Wrath," "Wickford Point," and "Inside Germany" to any club or individual in the State. Except for four cents per volume used as postage, no charge of any kind is made by Alabama College for this service.

The books are loaned for two-week periods. Persons in communities too small to have established libraries desire particular benefit from this phase of the Alabama College Home Study Service.

Jim Lowe Dies Suddenly In Decatur

Just before going to press Wednesday the News learned that Jim Lowe, former resident of Clanton, died suddenly in Decatur Tuesday night about 7:30.

Lowe was a printer by trade, and received his training at the Clanton Union Banner several years ago. He had been in Decatur for some time.

The body will be shipped to Clanton for burial Thursday afternoon. Surviving are his father, W. E. Lowe of Clanton; one brother, Clyde Lowe; 2 sisters, Miss Annie Lowe of Pensacola, and Miss Mary Lowe of Birmingham.

Speaking Contest And Basketball Tournament At Isabella March 11th

The Basketball Tournament and Public Speaking Contest for the Chilton-Sheley District F.F.A. will be held at Isabella High School Monday afternoon, March 11th.

The first basketball game will start at 3:30 o'clock, between the Clanton and Isabella F.F.A. Chapters. Immediately following this game the Jemison and Columbiana Chapters tangle to end the afternoon playing.

At 6:30 o'clock the winners of the four Chapters Public Speaking Contest will compete for District honors. Immediately after the Public Speaking Contest, the winners of the two afternoon basketball games will fight it out for first and second place. The afternoon losers will play for third and fourth places.

Everyone is welcome to come and spend the afternoon and evening. No admission for games or Public Speaking Contest.

B. D. Boockholdt For Board Member

Entering the field this week as a candidate for a place on the County Board of Education, is B. D. Boockholdt, one of Clanton County's most prominent citizens. Mr. Boockholdt is asking for the Democratic nomination for this place.

B. D. Boockholdt was born and raised in Chilton County. He taught school here in his early life. This past experience with the school problems has qualified him for the place he seeks. Mr. Boockholdt resides in the Enterprise community. He has a reputation as an honest and upright citizen. The Democratic party should be proud to offer him as a candidate for this office.

DIVERSIFIED OCCUPATIONS CLASS TO PRESENT PLAY

The Diversified Occupations Club of the Chilton County High School will present a play entitled "You Don't Grow Younger," at the City Hall on Wednesday night, March 13, beginning at 7:30 P.M. A matinee will be given in the afternoon at 12:45.

This is a three-act hilarious comedy, and the public is cordially invited to attend and lend a helping hand to this lively organization, which is a part of the local High School.

Town Of Thorsby Sells Improvement Bonds

On Tuesday, March 27th, the Town of Thorsby auctioned off $13,000 in bonds for the purpose of financing their share of the Government project which will build a modern water system.

The entire project will cost approximately $35,000, and work is expected to get underway immediately. The bonds were purchased by Milhouse, Gaines & Mays of Birmingham and brought the Town a premium of $35,100, which means the credit of this progressive town is good.

ISABELLA P.-T.A. TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE MON. NIGHT

The Isabella P.-T.A. will hold open house for all parents and friends on Monday night at 7:00 o'clock, March 11. We hope to see all parents present.

Mulberry W.M.S. is having all-day meeting Friday, March 8, at the Church, to have a Home Mission program.

LANGSTON-ELLISON

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ellison announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Fay, to J. C. Langston of Selma. The ceremony was solemnized Sunday afternoon at the home of Rev. W. W. Robinson. Mr. and Mrs. Langston will make their home in Selma.

'BUCK' ROBERTS ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER

LONG-TIME RESIDENT OF CLANTON WILL MAKE RACE
TO REPRESENT 4TH DISTRICT

Norman L. "Buck" Roberts announces in this issue of the News that he will be a candidate for the post of Commissioner of the Fourth District.

Born and raised in Chilton County, "Buck", as everyone knows him, is no stranger to the voters here and asks the News to assure them that he intends to get around and see them all before the primary.

Since old enough to vote, Mr. Roberts has been, and has voted with, the Democratic party. He assures the people that no one can question his action regarding the party at any time. Mr. Roberts also states, "I will be governed by no click or crowd, that if I am elected by the people of Chilton County I will serve all of the people all of the time, to the very best of my ability."

"THE NEWSBOYS AND THE BOOTBLACK'S MINSTREL SHOW"

Come to see "The Newsboys and the Bootblack's Minstrel Show," at the Verbena High School auditorium Wednesday night, March 13. Hear those high-toned singers. What's more, hear those endearing—they'll make you roar at their jokes. See those shine boys. They can shine a shoe just like new and those chorus girls singing and dancing to your favorite songs. Time, 8:00 o'clock. Small admission.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS IN- STALLS NEW EQUIPMENT

Subscribers to the Chilton County News can determine the exact day on which their subscription expires, since the installation of a new plate-making "Graphotype."

This addition to the News' equipment will greatly increase the mailing efficiency of your newspaper. When a subscription is taken—new or renewal—the new subscriber, his address and expiration date is immediately stamped on a separate "plate." There was formerly a delay before the installation of this machine, as the names were sent away for the plates to be made for the "Addressograph," during which time the paper was addressed by hand.

MRS. LAURENA SANSON

Mrs. Laurena Sanson, age 84, died at her residence in Tuscaloosa Saturday at 2:30 P.M., March 2. The body was shipped to Maplesville and funeral services were held at Sardis Church at 9:30 A.M. Monday of this week, conducted by the Rev. Weaver. Interment was in the nearby cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

WILLIAM M. BYRD

Mr. William M. Byrd, age 84, died at his residence east of Clanton Wednesday night, February 28 at 11 P.M. Funeral services were held from the Providence Church at 2:30 P.M. the following Thursday conducted by the Rev. G. W. Williams assisted by the Rev. W. W. Robinson. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home of Clanton in charge.

Surviving are three sons, W. H. Byrd, Ensley; J. L. Montgomery; Howard of Clanton. Three daughters, Mrs. O. S. Davis, Montgomery; Mrs. M. C. Robinson, Clanton and Mrs. R. W. Robinson of Clanton.

Survey Made For Lights At Gragg Field

Monday of this week, Mr. Seely, official of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Washington, D. C., was in Clanton conferring with Judge Smith and members of the Commissioners Court regarding the lighting of Gragg Field. It is understood that this project will be completed by July first, and will require an expenditure of between six and eight thousand dollars. A 51-foot tower with a revolving beacon will be erected, and lights will border the entire field.

Gragg Field has been designated as an emergency landing field, and since the recent extension of an air route, requiring night flights, the Federal Government will light this field at no expense to the County.

Mr. Seely highly commended the local field, stating that it was one of the best he had seen and that much larger cities could boast no better airport. Control of the lights can either be by manual effort or automatic, but it is not known which system will be used here.

SINGING AT JEMISON

There will be a singing at Jemison Baptist Church Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Everyone invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Mullins, Burt, J., and Mrs. Hosea Downs spent last week end in Greenville.

Clanton, County Seat of Chilton County—4000 Population. Chilton County—33,000 Population—the Population, Geographical and Hydro-Electric Power Center of Alabama. Always A Colony?

Governor Rivers, before the Southern Governors Conference in Florida, made this statement:
"They (the Eastern manufacturing centers) are doing to us what European nations do to their colonial possessions—using them as a source of raw materials and their people for trade exploitation."

Governor Rivers was speaking of the "artificial tariff barriers" created by the present freight rate structure which place the South and other sections of the country lying outside the manufacturing area "in a colonial status."

Governor Rivers might have added that for more than a century the manufacturing areas have been pursuing a program to place the South and other sections of the country on a colonial basis, with the freight rate structure as a latter-day weapon. Having attained what they want, these manufacturing centers are now moving heaven and earth to retain the status quo. They want the present economic setup of America nailed permanently into place by federal law, so that regardless of how often nature and common sense dictate to the contrary, the South will forever remain a colonial possession of the East.—Tuscaloosa News.

One can easily tell that cotton-planting time is nearly here. The price of cotton is playing around 11 cents a pound, and few farmers have a pound.

The French Government has ordered all the farmers in France to stay on the farm under military control. Here in Alabama the farmers vote for someone else to tell them what to plant and how much.

We have just seen the advance copy of the fishing calendar for 1940, and notice that fishing will be good both on May 8th and June 5th, the days following election. Those candidates who won't win ought to be interested in this.—Greenville Advocate.

Included in France's rationing system is "coarsening of bread flour." Another "provides grants to farmers to increase spring wheat planting." If England and France are such great friends of ours why don't they buy the millions of surplus bushels of stored wheat in the U. S.?

Many farmers find it more profitable to send crops to market on four legs than to carry them on four wheels.

Yankees And Lightwood

A couple from the North were visiting in the home of one of our citizens recently and happened upon a phenomenon which amazed and interested them to the utmost, much to the surprise of the host and hostess.

It seems that either the host or the hostess put a piece of fat lightwood on the fire, which caught fire at once and made a fierce blaze, as was its nature. The visitors immediately sat up and took notice, asking question after question about the wood. To satisfy the curiosity of their guests, the host and hostess took them out to the wood box and let them examine the lightwood. It was the first time in their lives, the visitors said, that they had ever seen a piece of lightwood.

When the couple left the masculine half had a piece of the fat wood tucked under his arm.—Evergreen Courier.

Parliament Writes Blank Checks

A new system of making appropriations has been devised in England. When the war leaders need money, they go to Parliament and ask for 100 pounds (about $500). Obviously, they need more than that for the functions of government—and actually, the 100 pounds is really considerably more.

It may be a million pounds, or 10 million pounds. The figure, "100," is merely a token. Not even Parliament knows how much it is voting. All it knows that it has agreed to let the war cabinet spend another 100 pounds—plus.

It is difficult to imagine the United States Congress operating under such procedure. Conjure up a picture, if you can, of the President going before the House and saying, "I need some more money. Write me another blank check." What is even more difficult, try to imagine Congress doing it.—Selma Times-Journal.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

There are two things required when a man is reaching out after the things that the world has to offer. First, he must decide what he wants and second, he must go after it. Faraday wanted to be a Scientist and he sat down and wrote Sir Humphrey that he wanted to study this subject. As a result he was invited to visit this great Scientist. Faraday was given a place close up to Sir Humphrey and in a short time he had become immortal in the field of electricity. Faraday wanted something and he went for it. When a young person wants an education and just sits down and waits for it to come, that individual will wait in vain. It is not enough to want a thing, get up and go after it.

Three years ago that man you see out there was down and out. His shoulders were drooped and his back was in a curve. He had been trying for months to get a job without results. He felt defeated, but was going out for one more trial. His wife walked to the door with him and addressed him thus, "Husband, you look terrible. You are all bent over. You look beaten down. There is a bulge in your tummy and a hump in your back. Straighten up young man and pull the kinks out of yourself, lift up your chin and then reach for the ceiling. Friends, do you feel beaten down? Then pull the kinks out of your backbone, lift your chin and reach for the ceiling. It might do you good."

One morning I looked out of my study window and saw two big tom cats engaged in a fight. They were not making a sound, but the fight was plenty interesting to each cat. I watched and wondered which cat would finally win. It was evident that big Tom and spotted Jim had all the trouble on hand that he could handle. As I watched that fight it occurred to me that the most of us are engaged in a like conflict with troubles of life. One day you are up and the next day you are down. The question arises, "What are you going to do with your troubles One day we are up, the next day we are down. Let me beg you to hold out faithful. Never give up. Fight in silence, but keep fighting."

The old captain of many an ocean trip was reading the weather chart before starting on his next voyage. It said that he would have a calm ocean and balmy weather. Rather impatiently the old salt said as he concluded the chart, "What do I care for balmy weather and a calm sea, I like to drive my ship through a storm." A good sailor is not looking for a calm voyage. He craves to drive his ship through a storm that he may test out the strength against adverse powers. A good sailor can hear his heart singing as he battles with the waves. The most of us are adverse to the storms of life. We want calm seas and a shining sun, but life is never at its best until it is in the storm. Like the skilled aviator we mount when we meet the blowing winds. Our very souls should sing in the storm.

One afternoon I walked down to the river bank and asked the ferryman to carry me over. He looked at the swollen stream and then lifted his hand to feel the strength of the blowing wind. He informed me that there was danger, but he would do his best to land me safely on the other shore. That man pulled hard at his oars and by skill and hard work, we passed over in safety. On landing the man who had brought me over stepped out by my side. In bringing me over, he had helped other people over the river, we are helping ourselves to a safe landing. We are saved to serve and we are saved in serving others. Pull hard to carry others over the river and you will go along with them.

Someone, sometime, somewhere said there are three kinds of liars—common liars, d—n liars and statisticians. That may have been the case when it was said, but there are at least four now—there's the war propagandists.

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

New Demonstration Program Launched

Auburn, Ala.—Complete farm and home demonstrations, in which all phases of the Extension Service program will be carried out by the entire family, are being set up in 15 counties of Alabama, announces P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service. This program, planned for 15 counties, will be enlarged in later years, he said.

Counties in which these demonstrations will be conducted during 1940 are Cherokee, Calhoun, DeKalb, Limestone, Colbert, Chambers, Shelby, Pike, Dale, Covington, Tuscaloosa, Washington, Greene, Mobile and Butler.

"The Extension Service has carried different demonstrations of improved farm and home practices on many farms. The new plan is to get all practices into use on one farm with the farmer, his wife, sons and daughters taking part in the work," Mr. Davis said. He added that he believes farming and farm living can be improved by these demonstrations through which a number of improved practices are adopted.

A Good Prayer

Another great war was declared and we doubt seriously if either of the countries involved know what they are fighting for or about. They may know what they are fighting about but for what, they may not know. When another year is this far history, we hope that they will have their difficulties settled and that Uncle Sam will still be neutral. We need our young boys and men and do not want them slaughtered like animals for some other countries' mistake. . . . Keep us out of war is a good prayer at this time of the year.—Luerne Journal.

When the voters of Birmingham made W. Cooper Green president of their City Commission last week to succeed the late Jimmie Jones, they selected one of their cleanest, finest and most competent young men to place at the head of their City Government, and W. Cooper Green will not disappoint them.

Depends On Whose It Seems

(The Covington News, Andalusia) Governor Dixon and State Highway Director Chris Sherlock and Director of Finance Forsyth are having a set-to regarding purchases of the Highway Department. The Governor says they should come through State Purchasing Agent's Office.

Since the last legislature saw it pass several laws regarding state county purchases and since it is in office supplies and commercial printing which affects us, we see reason why everything bought by state should not come through the State Purchasing Agent, Mr. Mims W. Chings.

What about liquor and wine? Wouldn't it be possible for Mr. H. H. Hines to purchase this merchandise, save the state the enormous commission enjoyed by those who got in the start?

Does it affect school supplies purchased by the counties? A substantial saving to the tax payers could be made in this department.

Does it affect voluminous books records for the various departments of the state?

Does it affect the thousands of dollars worth of supplies used by state colleges?

If the acts affect everything, we satisfied with it.

If it doesn't then it is discriminating and should be repealed.

BOB GOODE, who ran against Mr. Dixon for Governor in the 1938 Primary has announced for the place of national Democratic Committee against Marion Ruston. Goode is only Alabama candidate so far to run squarely for Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term.

THIS friendly woman is a member of our lighting staff, which includes among its members 20 women and 20 men, all of whom have been trained to know what good lighting is for the home, store, office, factory, school or church. Their duty is to impart their knowledge to our customers, so that each may be given the opportunity to have the best in lighting.

Good lighting need not be expensive. Often a lighting representative is able to make a suggestion that results in an improvement in the quality of light for a customer without his having to buy any equipment or greatly increase the amount of current used. At other times, a minor expenditure can transform a dingy-looking, poorly-lighted room or store into a cheerful-looking, well-lighted one.

The services of our lighting representatives are available to our customers without charge. We employ them to help our customers get the full benefit of electric lighting as economically as possible. They are qualified to discuss home, commercial, institutional, industrial and decorative lighting. A request to our nearest office will result in a visit from one of them the next time he or she is in your neighborhood.

J. Mell Martin Named
County Chairman Of Finnish Relief Fund

Sentiment for the homeless and destitute Finnish feeble and aged women and children, made homeless and hungry by the enforced evacuation of their homes in the midst of an arctic winter continues to grow apace in Alabama. The entire state is being organized in a campaign for contributions to aid these greatly harassed and very deserving people. Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Company, is State Chairman, and H. A. Berg, President of Woodward Iron Company, is State Co-Chairman. This week, they announced the appointment of J. Mell Martin, Clanton, Alabama, as Chilton County Chairman. Mr. Martin in accepting the appointment stated that in his opinion sentiment in Chilton County was practically unanimous in favor of the Finns and that the opportunity to contribute to the relief fund would give Chilton County people an opportunity to express and demonstrate their sympathy in a tangible manner. He further stated that the Finns in a very real sense are fighting the battle of democratic freedom loving people and that the least freedom loving people the world over owe it to help relieve their suffering in this, their supreme hour of need.

Committees are to be appointed in the larger community centers and will be announced in next week's paper. It is hoped that all who can respond to this appeal and send in their contributions without waiting to be solicited. It is suggested that the various business houses, firms and manufacturing establishments give their employees an opportunity to contribute.

Those in charge of the campaign are donating all of their services, without expense of any kind, and all funds donated will be used one hundred cents of the dollar for the relief of the Finns.

FIRE TOLL—More than 3,000 lives and property damage of approximately $100,000,000 was the toll of farm fires in the United States last year. Volunteer fire-fighting units in many communities have lowered losses from fire considerably.

JIM FARLEY—Postmaster General James A. Farley has accepted an invitation to address the Alabama branch of the National League of District Postmasters in Montgomery April 6. That organization's executive committee announced today.

BIRD DAY—Sponsored by the Alabama Wildlife Federation and supported by Gov. Dixon's proclamation, Wildlife Conservation Week and Bird Day will be celebrated in Alabama the week of March 17-23.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS VISIT ROUGE PLANT

H. R. MADDOX, Clanton, superintendent of Chilton County Schools, was a member of a party of southern school officials who recently visited the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant in Dearborn, Mich., to inspect modern manufacturing methods. Mr. Maddox is fourth from right in the front row in the picture above, taken in front of the Rotunda. The party included representatives of Alabama, Florida and South Carolina.

Laus Observed If Understood, Says
Beer Head

Montgomery, Ala.—Into the ears of every retail beer dealer in Alabama will be spoken the message of the Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee—"the least violated law is the one best understood."

David E. Dunn, State Director, completed plans today for district meetings in all of Alabama's 24 "wet" counties to explain the rules and regulations of the Alabama ABC Board, and the beer industry's own rules of public decency—both of which must be observed in the operation of retail outlets.

First ears to hear the message were at Mobile last week where 125 retail operators gathered for the opening speech in the statewide program planned by the beer committee to carry its message of self-regulation direct to the retail outlet.

A vote of appreciation and cooperation was given by the Mobile and Baldwin County retailers following Mr. Dunn's address, in which he stressed the fact that "there are many standards of equipment and facilities at retail outlets but there can be but one standard of conduct—a clean, orderly operation."

The educational tour was launched as the Committee turned into its second year of operation with a record behind it that brought praise from officials, the public and press for its "clean up or close up" activities in weeding out the undesirable minority from Alabama's retail beer outlets.

NEW 1940 MODEL FRIGIDAIRE
ON DISPLAY AT BIG FOUR

Advantages that have brought it outstanding leadership in the refrigeration industry have never been so highly perfected as they are in this year's Frigidaire electric refrigerator, according to Big Four Hardware Co., local Frigidaire appliance dealer who announces, that 1940 models, together with 1940 Frigidaire electric ranges, are now on display at their showroom.

"First of all," Mr. Jones said, "those who see the new models are impressed by their striking beauty. But further investigation reveals that improvements go far beyond outward appearance."

"One outstanding development in the refrigerators is new economy of operation, a feature made possible through further perfection of the meter-mixer cold making mechanism. Another improvement is found in the operation of Cold Wall models in which has been introduced a system of humidity control that permits even more efficient refrigeration of uncovered foods. In the 1940 Cold Wall units the accuracy of humidity regulation makes it possible to maintain moisture in the lower Cold Wall section at any level desired under all conditions."

"Improvements also have been achieved in refrigerator features, one of which is the new 'window-top' vegetable hydrator. Originated by Frigidaire more than 16 years ago, the hydrator until this year has been of all-metal construction. The new hydrator, however, has a glass top which provides complete visibility of its contents without any necessity for removing it from the cabinet."

"For several years, interior lighting has been a feature of Frigidaire electric refrigerators; but in 1940 models the use of illumination is applied to still another function in the cabinet. Lighting now is used in conjunction with the uni-matic single dial cold control panel which makes temperature markings even more legible than before and thus it is easier for the user to adjust the control to the level of cold desired."

"Adding to the usability of all standard household models this year is the inclusion of the Quickcube ice tray and ice cube release which formerly was used in only a portion of the models available."

"An especially noteworthy feature is the addition of distinctive and durable chrome finish shelves to every model."

Development of a new twin-oven electric range and a low-priced standard household model range constitute elements of real interest in this line of Frigidaire appliances, according to Mr. Jones.

"Now a woman can enjoy the use of two ovens when a single oven is inadequate for her needs," Mr. Jones pointed out. "The double-oven model has every Frigidaire electric range feature which includes a new and simplified 'Cook-Master' time control, improved 'Thermizer' deep well cooker one-piece stainless cooking top, five-heat speed heat surface units, lamp, 'Evenizer' oven heat distributor, and many other exclusive features."

FENCING WILL PREVENT DAMAGE ON FARM

The old adage that "a farmer does not own his farm until it is fenced," has merit in a soil conservation program, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Camp near Clanton, Alabama.

Without sufficient annual and perennial vegetation for erosion control cannot be protected properly. This is the time of year that fencing and some of the necessary jobs on the farm can be taken care of without interfering with crop planting. Trees and kudzu can be planted now and it will soon be time for preparing and seeding pastures. Adequate fencing of these plantings will prevent stock from damaging them.

If at all possible, fences should be located across the slope, since this will facilitate development of erosion-control practices. This will make it possible to build a better and more complete system of terraces, will permit more field crops to be cultivated in rows around the hill, and will enable field roads to follow the fence line where grades will not be so steep and where the road will not wash so badly.

Many farmers desire to use electric fences, because they are not much trouble to build and can be moved easily. Uprights for such fencing can be mounted on steady bases now, it is pointed out, and insulators put on so that these will be ready when the fence is needed.

THE BANKER SAYS . . .

PROSPERITY moves on the rails

A PROMINENT banker recently made the following statement in his bank's newspaper advertising:

"A healthy condition of the Railroads means good times—greater employment—more buying—increased circulation of money. The greater the patronage of Railroads the sooner will be restored their capacity to increase employment and expand purchases . . .

"Every city and community derive large benefits from the Rail Carriers, with an important part of its population directly dependent on pay rolls, and many more benefiting indirectly . . .

"Today they are faced with economic stress, and need public co-operation as never before. All of us can help in this crisis, and by so doing can help ourselves and our communities by patronizing the Railroads."

An idea of what the Railroads mean to business is gained when you consider that one railroad, the Louisville & Nashville, annually pays over $40,000,000 to 25,000 employees, spends $16,000,000 for material and supplies, pays over $8,100,000 in taxes, a large part of which helped to support schools and various functions of Government, spends millions for improvements and maintenance, and, in addition, furnishes prompt, reliable, safe and friendly freight and passenger service to the communities it serves.

The L&N has operated for over 22 years and handled nearly 200,000,000 people without a fatality to a passenger in a train accident.

"I buy everything from homefolks"

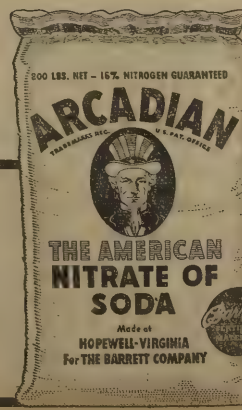

"I ALWAYS BUY ARCADIAN NITRATE, the American SODA, for the same good reasons that I always trade in my home town. I know that my neighbors will give me good quality at a fair price. They want my friendship and my business for many years to come."

"Since homefolks started making ARCADIAN right here in the South, we have been getting better soda in a better bag at a lower price. During the 11 years that the big American nitrate plant has been operating at Hopewell, Virginia, the price of nitrate of soda has come down 40 per cent. And, under present conditions, it's good to know we have an American supply of soda.

"Yes, sir, I say: Look for Uncle Sam on the bag! Always ask for ARCADIAN NITRATE, the American SODA! Buy everything from homefolks!"

Kiwanis-Pilot Clubs Hold Joint Meetings

A joint meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and the Clanton Pilot Club was held in the basement of the Clanton Methodist Church Wednesday night February 28. This was an interesting meeting of two of Clanton's Service Clubs.

The purpose of this joint meeting was to effect closer harmony between the two organizations in the work both are undertaking. Miss Ruth Sessions, Pilot president, presided over the meeting. Club songs were sung, and Ocie M. Webb, president of the Kiwanis Club, outlined some of the past accomplishments of his club, and told of the objectives of the organization to the coming year. Mrs. Olive Fiquette, a past president of the Pilots, outlined past work of her club and named some of the objectives for the year.

A feature of the program was an old-fashioned colonial dance by Grammar School students under Miss Dorothy Manning, teacher. The young boys and girls wore the colonial dress, and danced with piano accompaniment, also by a student. Another treat was a song by little Miss Helen Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes of Clanton. She rendered the vocal of "Oh Johnny" in a charming manner.

Talks were made by members of both Clubs, including C. E. Stapp, charter member and first president of the Kiwanis Club, and J. C. Page, charter member and immediate past president. Miss Nolen Meroney and Mrs. Launette. These two clubs are continuing their service for the civic improvement of Clanton and the county. Their past accomplishments may be pointed to as proof that much is being accomplished.

A delicious plate was served to a large number of members of the two clubs. The joint meeting took the place of the regular meetings of both organizations for the week.

Mrs. R. A. Marlar from Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. George Bryant spent Sunday with Mrs. Annie Thacker in Clanton.

WOCO-TIFFIN TEAM TO PLAY FINAL GAMES DURING WEEK

The Clanton Woco-Tiffin independents have only three more games scheduled for this season, according to "Gabby" Tiffin, manager.

On Thursday night of his week they will play Plantersville at the local Airport Tuesday night they meet Thorsby at the same place and on next Wednesday night at the Airport they will close out the season when they meet the Y.M.C.A. of Selma.

Monthly S. S. Convent'n Held At Evergreen

The monthly Sunday School meeting of the Unity Association was held at Evergreen Church in Autauga County last Sunday afternoon. When the president, Prof. J. D. Griffin, arrived the meeting had already been opened by Rev. Wm. E. Robinson, who was addressing the gathering. The singing and music were in charge of Mr. Trull Smith.

Mr. Griffin went directly into the business of the meeting. The roll of officers was called by the secretary, T. E. Wyatt, there being ten of the twelve officers present. There were two pastors present and two Sunday School Superintendents; the teachers in attendance numbered fifteen. The following schools were represented with the numbers indicated present: Marbury, 4; Evergreen 22; Big Springs 1; Bilingssy 3; Milton 7; Clanton 12; Mableville 4; Autaugaville 2; Ebenezer 2; others 11; Total present 68.

Mrs. Oscar Davis spoke briefly and introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Miss Mary Ellen Caver. Miss Caver, a former missionary to China, is at present State Worker for Vacation Bible Schools. Her home is in Birmingham but she works out of Montgomery. She spoke most interestingly for about 30 or 40 minutes, discussing cradle roll work, trained workers and the problems of the schools. "The leaders of tomorrow are the young people of today," the speaker said; illustrating her various points with pictures and drawings. Miss Caver urged vacation Bible schools in every church and school this summer.

The president announced that twenty-six teachers had been asked to send in reports to him and nineteen had made such reports. He urged better attendance at the monthly meetings. Large pictures or posters were handed out to go to the different schools to be posted. Judge Raymond Mims read from the Sunday School Builder "Who They Are and Where They Are," by Rev. J. O. Williams. A collection of $2.36 was taken, after which teachers in various departments met in different booths in the church and discussed the problems of their departments, laid out plans, etc. The chairman urged that training courses be held and that careful study of the books be made. "There should be two such schools each year" said Mr. Griffin.

Rev. Wm. E. Robinson and Mr. James Golsen were named as a committee to fill in some vacancies among departmental superintendents. They will report at the next monthly meeting.

The next monthly meeting will be held at Concord near Clanton, on the first Sunday in April. The hour was set back from 2:00 o'clock to 2:30, and the program will be built around Teacher Training Work.

All officers are urged to attend the meeting at Concord, and all schools of the Unity Association are urged to send as many representatives as possible. Concord is two and a half miles out from Clanton on Higgins Ferry Road.

ANTIOCH NEWS

We have started our Sunday School and Christian Endeavor back again.

Due to bad weather and sickness our Christian Endeavor did not get started. But it is progressing nicely now. We would like for all members to come and be with us.

Rev. Charlie Headley will preach at this church the second Sunday night. Everyone has an invitation to come. He will preach every second Sunday night in each month.

Due to changes we haven't had a sermon by the pastor this new year. So don't forget Rev. Headley's appointment. Every third Sunday P.M. in each month is our regular singing afternoon. We wish to invite all singers and lovers of music to come. Especially we invite Enterprise, Mt. Nebo and Shilo singers.

CEDAR GROVE SOCIAL CLUB

The Cedar Grove Social Club will meet Saturday evening, March 9, at 8 o'clock at the Church. Each member asked to attend. Visitors are always welcome. Sunday School Sunday morning at 10:00.

Selma Wins District Tourney By Defeating Chilton High In Finals Saturday Night--27-26

Selma, Ala., March 3.—The Selma High quint took the third district title in the State High School Basketball League tourney in the finals here Saturday night, and a second leg on the silver district tourney, by winning in the final from Clanton, 27-26. Clanton took the title last year, and a first leg on the cup.

Sidney Lanier, which had been feared most by the 28 teams in the tourney, was eliminated at Clanton, 23-13, in the semi-finals.

Lanier, however, took the consolation, beating Isabella, 46-24.

Selma and Lanier will represent the third district in the state championship tourney, at Tuscaloosa, March 9-10.

Two Clanton Players on First Team Of All-District Selection

The All-District teams picked following windup of the tourney were as follows:

First Team—Driggers (F.), Selma; Priestner (F.), Lanier; O. Johnson (C.), Clanton; J. Johnson (G.), Clanton; Lovingood (G.), Felix.

Second Team—E. Clenner (F.), Isabella; Lammon (F.), Lanier; Chambers (C.), Clanton; Paisley (C.), Selma; Collins (G.), Clanton.

Championship Round
Selma (27)—Driggers (14) and Paisley (4), forwards; Eastep (4), center; Brown (5) and Arant, guards.

Clanton (26)—Collins (6) and Baker (4), forwards; O. Johnson (11), center; Chambers (2) and J. Johnson (3), guards.

Consolation
First Rounds—Clanton 25, Moundville 12; Carlowville 31, Uniontown 20; Pineapple 25, Maplesville 22; Billingsley 23, Jenison 16; Centerville 29, Marbury 25; Lanier 53, Orville 18; Isabella 39, Plantersville 13; Sweetwater 46, Ward 18; Autaugaville 15; Plantersville 14; Selma 31, Camden 20; Marion 29, Cuba 20; Ft. Deposit 31, West

Blocton 14.
Second Rounds—Clanton 49, Carlowville 9; Pineapple 48, Livingston 25; Verbena 25, Billingsley 14; Lanier 52, Centerville 14; Isabella 34, York 11; Autaugaville 22, Sweetwater 12; Selma 22, Marion 12; Ft. Deposit 37, Felix 21.
Quarter Finals—Clanton 32, Pineapple 21; Lanier 33, Verbena 7; Isabella 29, Autaugaville 16; Selma 34, Felix 21.

Semi-Finals—Selma 18, Isabella 15; Clanton 23, Lanier 13.
Consolation—Lanier 46, Isabella 24.

Junior High Tourney Will Be At Thorsby

The Chilton County Junior High School Athletic Association selected Thorsby as the location for this year's tournament. The meet will be held on March 22 and 23. Later than ordinary, due to District High School meet at Selma and A.E.A. in Birmingham.

The eleven Junior High Schools of Chilton County are all entering teams this year. Most Pleasant, last year's winner, are doped to cop first place, by virtue of having most of last year's players return this season.

For second and third places, it will be a toss-up, for practically all the teams are made up of players of the same calibre. This promises to be one of the most exciting and thrilling tourneys in the last several years.

Drawings will be announced later by the Committee.

Notice that the hours for the Young People's meeting, the Junior League and the evening worship service are changed.

A special program was given in the Young People's meeting last Sunday night. It was exceptionally good. In every talk given by the members was a worthwhile message. An especial treat was the talk given by Mr. Omar Reynolds and the help Mrs. Porch gave with the music. The ones who were fortunate enough to have attended this special meeting enjoyed it.

Are you taking the Church paper—The Christian Advocate? If not see some member of our Advocate Committee, Mrs. L. J. Stewart or Mrs. C. O. Lawrence and give them your subscription. Let's get enough subscribers in our Church to put it on the Advocate's Honor Roll.

Remember the Loyalty Campaign outlined to us by Mr. Stapp last Sunday. May we everyone unite loyally as one body to send our Church forward to a wonderful victory this Spring.

Member: S.A.E. Veterans Foreign Wars, American Legion, Spanish War, Knights of Pythias, American Farm Bureau Federation, Presbyterian Church

I have qualified as a candidate to be nominated as your Representative in the U. S. Congress.

IFAVOR:

Continuous federal-state farmer cooperation for control and improvement of staple crops, and federal crop insurance.

Wage-hour law for industry and collective bargaining for farmers, labor and industry.

Abolishment of freight and tariff discriminations against Southern and Western farm products.

Continuing trade treaties.

Federal construction and maintenance of four years of 100-bed hospitals for any towns furnishing a satisfactory site.

A $40 pension for needy aged during a period of four years—to show the states that they can cooperate to care decently for their senior citizens. Federal Pensions for Veterans of retirement age.

I favor Speaker William B. (Bill) Bankhead, my old University classmate, as the Democratic nominee for president.

A Federal four-lane Highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, along parallel 33° 06'.

(Please clip this platform and hold for future reference.)

The only farmer-World War veteran-candidate to represent Alabama's Sixth District in the U. S. Congress is the undersigned Democrat. All farmers could well join in urging all citizens to seize this outstanding chance to elect overwhelmingly, in the Democratic primary on May 7th, 1940—perhaps not needing the primary of June 4th, 1940—as your next Congressman.

arranged and Easter Sunday has been designated as the day for paying up our conference collections. Let every one cooperate. Come to the service and pay up these collections.

Members and visitors are urged to attend the services of our Church at all times.

MAPLE SPRINGS

There will be an ordination service at this Church next Sunday beginning about 11:00 o'clock. There will be two Deacons ordained. Everyone has an invitation to come.

There will be preaching here Sunday night by our Pastor, beginning about 7:00 o'clock. Come hear him.

BUY ALABAMA—Governor Dixon has proclaimed the week of March 25-30 as "Buy Alabama Products Week" in order to encourage increased consumption of Alabama products.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY BUYS STRUCTURAL STEEL

The Alabama Power Company has placed an order for 2,000 tons of structural steel, costing approximately $200,000, with the Virginia Bridge and Iron Company, power company officials disclosed Wednesday.

All of the steel will be rolled in the Birmingham district. This is in line, officials said, with the power company's policy of purchasing as much of its requirements as possible in Alabama.

Approximately 750 tons of the total will be used in construction of a steam plant at Chickasaw, near Mobile, and the remainder for a steam power plant at Macon, Ga.

LION BITE FATAL—Dr. Frank R. Windsor, of Montgomery, who was bitten by a lion at Oak Park last Thursday, died in a Montgomery hospital Friday night from gangrene.

ANTI-COLD RULES—Dr. J. N. Baker's eight anti-cold rules are:

1. Stay away from crowds as much as possible.
2. Keep the feet dry.
3. Avoid overheated rooms.
4. Drink plenty of water.
5. Avoid sudden changes in temperature.
6. Avoid drafts.
7. Keep the normal physical functions, including elimination, regular.
8. Obtain as much exercise as possible in the open air, insofar as it can be done without getting into crowds.

LEGUMES—Turning under legume winter cover crops sometimes increases the yield of corn and cotton as much as 40 per cent.

Insurance Cancelled On 2 School Buildings

Cancellation of insurance on at least two school buildings and suspension of coverage on several others was announced today by State Finance Director A. R. Forsyth, who blamed "criminal carelessness" for "90 per cent of the school fires in Alabama."

E. P. Amerine, actuary for the state insurance fund, listed 49 school fires since last Oct. 1, including 23 total losses, and said $183,967 had been paid in damages.

Insurance was cancelled on the Williams and Ohatchee Grammar Schools in Calhoun County. Forsyth said, when a deputy state fire marshal reported the buildings "unsafe" because of defective wiring or other factors.

Officials of the Mechanicsville High School, also in Calhoun County, were given notice that insurance would be suspended March 5 unless defective wiring and stove flues were corrected. Repairs also were ordered on three buildings in Marion County and two in Franklin County and insurance suspended until they are carried out.

"Fire insurance is a negligible factor in our school fires," the finance director declared. "Ninety per cent of them are due to carelessness—criminal carelessness."

Forsyth said a deputy fire marshal had been detailed to spend his entire time inspecting school buildings, giving suggestions to principals and other officials regarding precautions that should be taken.

SCRUBS—Getting rid of scrubs among livestock is just as important as pulling up weeds in the garden.

MANURE—Animal manure is valuable fertilizer and should not be exposed to weathering but piled carefully under shelter and hauled to the fields as frequently as possible.

Stop Erosion With Trees And Kudzu

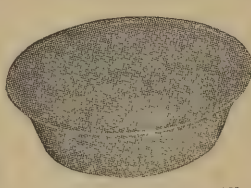

Two important practices on Alabama farms during the next few weeks should be the planting of kudzu and trees. The Triple-A program helps farmers to defray the cost of these practices by making a payment of $6 an acre for kudzu and $7.50 per acre for planting trees. Under the 1940 Triple-A program, farmers may earn $30 in addition to the payments by planting as much as four acres of trees.

Eight hundred and thirty-two teams of Alabama 4-H Club girls learned better homemaking in 1939 by judging articles of clothing, food products, food preservation products and home improvement articles and standards, according to Elizabeth S. DeLony, State 4-H Club girls leader.

FARM PLAN SHEETS TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Auburn, Ala.—Handbooks, which give full particulars on all phases of the Triple-A program, and farm plan sheets to be used by farmers in planning their crops to make full use of soil building phases of the program, will be distributed to all Alabama farmers by their respective community AAA committees during the next few weeks. W. B. Crawley, Banks, chairman of the State AAA committee, in announcing this new plan, said educational meetings would be held for the committees within the next week or two.

The Baptist W.M.U. met on Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock for their regular business meeting and to begin the week of prayer. A brief business session was held followed by a very interesting program with Circle One in charge.

Mrs. Jimmie Taylor was in charge and opened the program with the hymn "How Firm A Foundation." Mrs. Oscar A. Davis introduced the program for the week. Mrs. Charles Wade gave a most interesting devotional. Others taking parts on the program were: Mrs. Hugh Foshee, Mrs. Luther Culpepper, Mrs. Joe Gray, Mrs. R. L. Bryson and Mrs. Barfield. Seventy-seven attended this meeting. Mrs. Hinkle's Circle won the pin for attendance.

Potsy Polk, who is attending business college in Birmingham, was at home for the week end.

Mrs. W. M. Polk, presided over the business meeting. The society elected Mrs. Polk as a delegate to attend the conference of the Womans Missionary Society in Dothan March 26, 27 and 28.

At the conclusion of the business the president presented in behalf of the Society a gift to Mrs. L. H. Reynolds as a token of love and appreciation for her work in the Church and as Circle Chairman for twenty years.

Mrs. Ira Smith presided over the program, her theme for the afternoon was "I Surrender Myself." Mrs. George Parr gave a most impressive talk on the "Review of the Life of Young J. Allen." Mrs. Omar Reynolds gave an inspiring talk on Missionary work, "This Year In China."

Mrs. Joe Edgar gave some interesting news from the Missionary bulletin. The meeting, with a large assembly of members, was concluded with prayer by Mrs. Smith.

Hold Monthly Business Meeting

The monthly business meeting of the Baptist W.M.S. was held at the Church Monday afternoon, March 5, at 3:00 o'clock.

As a devotional, Mrs. Oscar A. Davis made an earnest plea that the Gospel, the light of the world, be sent to the countries that are in darkness and as members of this great organization we may have a part in this work.

Delegates were appointed to the State W.M.U. Convention which meets in Selma March 12-14, and it is hoped Clanton will be well represented at this meeting.

After the business meeting was over, Circle Number One had charge of the Week of Prayer program which is being observed every afternoon this week.

County Teachers Will Attend A.E.A. Meet

Chilton County school teachers are urged by Supt. Rascoe Maddox to attend the annual meeting of the Alabama Educational Association in Birmingham Thursday Friday and Saturday of this week. Classes will be held in the County only where the teacher does not attend, Mr. Maddox stated.

STANTON GIRL INITIATED INTO NATIONAL SORORITY RECENTLY

Miss Katherine Schurter of Stanton was initiated into Gamma Delta chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta, National Sorority, Saturday, March 2. At a recent election of officers, she was chosen as Second Vice-President of the sorority for the coming year.

THREE CASES NOL PROSSED IN HOPPER DEATH

COFER, TILL AND SPEER FREED IN INFERIOR COURT DUE TO LACK OF EVIDENCE

At a preliminary hearing in the Inferior Court last Friday morning at 10 o'clock, the cases against Joseph A. Cofer, George W. Till and John Speer, all being held in connection with the mysterious death of J. W. Hopper, M. Creek man, were nol-prossed for lack of evidence.

Cofer and Till were under $1,000 bond each and Speer was under $1500 bond, pending trial. They were arrested after investigations by local officers and special State investigators in an effort to determine whether or not Mr. Hopper was thrown or accidentally fell from the highway bridge which spans the L.&N. Railroad track near Mt. Creek.

SUITE-WILLIAMS

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Suite announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary, to Glen F. Williams of Birmingham, formerly of Richmond, Ind. The marriage was solemnized Saturday evening at the home of the Rev. G. G. Williams. The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Fulford and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaffee.

The bride was attired in aqua blue with white and Navy accessories. Her corsage was of carnation and baby breath fern. After the ceremony the couple left for a short wedding trip. Later they will make their home in Birmingham where Mr. Williams holds a position with the T.C.I.

C. C. H. S. DEFEATED BY JACKSONVILLE IN STATE TOURNEY

The former State Champion, Chilton County High School, went down in defeat before the strong Jacksonville team in the State Tournament at Tuscaloosa last week.

Guin, a member of the Eighth District was winner of the State Championship, defeating several of the state's strongest teams. C. C. H. S. won second place in the third district tournament in Selma several days ago.

Wrapping Articles For "Old Hoss Sale" Proves Out To Be Job Not To Be Envied

Chilton County "Old Hoss Sale" is now beginning to impress its sponsors as a momentous undertaking, for as you know there's lots of packages to be wrapped, and the only way for them to be get packaged ready for the auction block, is for Kiwanians, or some Kiwanian's friend, to wrap them.

Just this job has been tackled with much zest and zeal by Club members and their friends. The Clanton Pilots are chipping in and lending their cooperation in a true Pilot manner. They are anxious for this affair to be a success as anybody else. We might say that the type of cooperation most desired at the present time is the elbow and the Pilots are experts at this type of cooperation when it comes to assisting in this big job.

Kiwanian Burton Mullins, who is heading the committee on arrangements, has called out all working crews, and double shifts are being maintained at his home where the biggest majority of the work is going on. Burton says that anyone wanting to have a hand in getting this affair over will certainly be privileged to do so. In fact two hands are preferred.

There has been some discussion about the sale of these articles on the night of April 4. Actually there are some items in the collection that are worth twenty times ten cents. In the beginning it was decided to wrap all articles in one standard price range—

EASTER FASHION SHOW AT CITY HALL MARCH 19TH

There will be an Easter Fashion Show presented by the Methodist Missionary Society at the City Hall Tuesday, March 19, at eight o'clock P.M.

Lovely Easter styles for little girls, Misses and young ladies will be presented. It was announced, Little boy and men's fashions will be shown, too. An out-of-town director will be on hand for the show, assisted by Mr. Johnson of the Fashion Shop.

In addition to the fashions there will be an entertaining program. You will enjoy seeing Helen Hayes, Barbara Burnette, Mary Ellen Higgins dance, and hearing Mrs. Eric Ellis and Mrs. Ralph Porch. Admission will be ten and twenty-five cents.

Miss Myrtle Pitts Chosen "Miss J.S.T.C."

"Miss Jacksonville State Teachers College" is the title bestowed on Miss Myrtle Pitts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pitts of Clanton, at the College last Friday night. Miss Pitts, better known as "Lump", was selected from a group of twenty-five contestants for this coveted title in a popularity and beauty contest sponsored by the City of Jacksonville, Alabama.

She is a sophomore in the teachers college, 18 years of age and is a member of the Morgan Literary Society and the Dramatic Club. The contest was held at the Princess Theatre in Jacksonville.

Miss Pitts is one of Clanton's most charming young ladies. As a senior at Chilton County High School, she was chosen "Miss C.C.H.S." Clanton feels rightfully proud of the honor she has brought to herself and to Clanton.

TO WIDEN SECOND AVENUE

The City of Clanton is expected to get started on widening Second Avenue which leads from the center of the City and connects with the Mapleville Highway one-half mile out.

This work has been considered for quite some time now, and Mayor Jones stated this week that he felt pretty sure work would get started, before long. This street will be paved, sometime in the not too distant future, it is predicted.

SIXTEEN JAILED BY OFFICERS DURING THE PAST WEEK

A decided increase in the number of arrests was seen early this week by the number of persons jailed during the past week. Seventeen were jailed on various charges, with public drunkenness taking the lead. Seven were jailed on this charge. Following is the record:

V.L.R., Public Drunkenness, 7; Reckless driving, 3; Bigamy, 1; Disposing of property covered by lien, 1; Driving while intoxicated, 2 and Abusive language, 1.

"The Old Devil Made Me Forget It"—But For Only 30 Years

It took one man in Selma, Alabama, 30 years to "remember" that he had failed to pay for two sacks of cottonseed hulls, but he has a clear conscience now.

Over thirty years ago R.F. Goodgame, father of Burns Goodgame, well known ginnee of Clanton, was in the feed business in Clanton. Some of you old timers here might remember. That was before our time in Clanton. Anyway, at that feed store is where this unusual story begins.

The following letter was handed us by Mr. Burns Goodgame, who stated that it was received by his mother, now residing in Selma, several days ago. It was mailed at the Selma postoffice and was registered. Here is the letter:

"Dear Mrs. Goodgame: I guess this will be a surprise to you but I will try and explain to you. About 30 years ago I was just a kid, or a small boy. I went to your husband's feed store to buy 2 sacks of cottonseed hulls and your husband was not there and I got the 2 sacks of hulls and I intended to pay him for them later, but you know, I just put it off and the old devil made me forget it until a short time ago it came to my mind. The good Lord reminded me that I owe for the hulls I didn't pay for. Now I am sending you the amount of hulls and the interest on them which amounts to $2.65, which I am sending you now. I won't tell you who this is for you wouldn't remember me. I don't want any publicity about it. I am only sorry I haven't thought of it before and sent it to you. Hope you are in good health. Thanks."

Mr. Goodgame passed away 25 years ago, but this unknown man, who is a "kid" no longer "remembered" that he owed for those hulls, and that the widow of the man he owed was entitled to pay for same—although a little late.

FOURTH GRADE STUDENTS GET FREE AIRPLANE RIDE THURS.

Twenty-two students of the Fourth Grade, Clanton Grammar School, were guests last Thursday afternoon of Charles Wade, operator of the Wadesonian Theatres here, at which time he took them for a ride in his trim red plane from Gragg Field over the City.

With written permission from their parents, the students enjoyed what we'd be willing to wager, one of the foremost thrills of their young lives. Miss Dorothy Manning is teacher of the Class, and supervised all arrangements.

Those students enjoying this thrill are as follows:

June Fore, Christine Lawrence, Peggy Murrah, Jean Billingsley, Betty Troy Helms, Annette Mims, Carolyn Reeves, Marilyn Bean, Frances Collins, Lula Mae Popwell, Marie Smith, Dave Boyette, Edward Boman, Charles Moore, Pat Popwell, David Arnold, Kenneth Crosby, Leonard Holley, Allen Billingsley, Joe Jr., Mullins, James E. Gillespie, O. K. Welch.

Next week two of these students, to be selected by the class, will write their version of their trip over the City. These articles will be published in the News. Watch for them.

A CLIPPING FROM THE "SATURDAY NIGHT LAMP POST" BAYLOR

From the "Saturday Night Lamp Post" official mimeographed newspaper of the Baylor Military Academy, Chattanooga, we find an article about Sam Johnson. Without other preliminaries we give you the clipping:

"Man of the Week—Sam Johnson: Panther Eyes Johnson, known to a few as Sam, is the man of the week. Panther Eyes is a typical dynamic Alabama when it comes to swinging that wicked leg on that slick floor. No matter where Panther Eyes is, you'll know he's there—there you are, you big bad panther! Seriously, this individual to whom we make reference is quite sane. He's a good boy and everybody is crazy about him!"

AGED RESIDENT OF JEMISON ROUTE 1 DIED LAST FRIDAY

RUSSIANS AND FINNS AGREE ON PEACE

FINNISH AND SOVIET TROOPS ARE WITHDRAWING TO NEW FRONTIERS

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

Moscow, March 13.—(Wednesday)—Soviet Russia early today announced officially the signing of a peace treaty with Finland which wreaths as the spoils of three and a half months of invasion Finland's defense bastions on Baltic and Arctic seas and makes part of the vast territory of the U.S.S.R. the whole fortified Karelian Isthmus, where uncounted Russians and Finnish dead lie beneath the trampled snows.

The treaty must be ratified within three days, but hostilities will cease, under its terms, at noon today—3 A.M. Montgomery time.

Finland gets peace, a yearly rental of 5,000,000 Finnish marks (about $120,000) in return for a 30-year lease on her Hanko "Gibraltar" at the mouth of the Gulf of Finland and evacuation of the Petsamo Arctic district by Soviet troops.

She gives up:

1. The entire Karelian Isthmus and its Soviet-penetrated Mannerheim line.

2. The shell-wrecked city of Viipuri, once Finland's third metropolis, and the islands in its bay.

3. All the shores of Lake Ladoga, largest in Europe, and three towns. Both on the lake's western isthmus shore and on its northern coasts thousands of Russian troops have been slain.

4. Hanko, naval base on the southwest, and the surrounding peninsula, on a 30-year lease. This area will form Soviet naval-military bases.

5. Part of the Sredni Rybachy Peninsula in the Far North, on the Arctic Ocean.

7. Certain islands in the Gulf of Finland.

8. A great slice of northeastern Finland, including Kola-Jarvi.

9. A railroad, to be built during 1940, which will link the White Sea within northern Russia to the Gulf of Bothnia west of Finland, the railway bisecting Finland above her railway waistline.

10. Free transit for Russian goods across the Petsamo Arctic area from Russia to Norway, duty free.

11. The right to maintain any Finnish warships, submarines or warplanes. (Continued to Back Page) Hasn't Failed Yet!

Folks, the Kiwanis Club has found a way to bring rain, snow, extreme cold, and everything else except beautiful weather!

"That's impossible," you'll naturally say.

But it hasn't failed yet. You know, the Kiwanis Club decided back last November to give a Negro Minstrel. The cast was composed of club members. Date of the first presentation was set, but the show had to be postponed for various reasons.

Another date was set. The night for this presentation found Clanton experiencing one of the worst storms this section has ever seen. The show went on, just the same. A fairly good crowd braved the tempest and admitted it was a good minstrel.

The fifth try was scheduled for Collins Chapel. The snow was so bad that you know how the roads were! It was still cold, and it was decided to postpone the show again.

Some time went by. The cast of the minstrel wanted to give Mother Nature plenty of time to get right.

The sixth time the Isabella P.-T.A. wanted the show, and with a prayer in their hearts, the cast of "Coon Valley Minstrel" made plans for the presentation. It was a cold night, but a good crowd turned out—the best so far.

Another interlude with the hope that good weather was coming so the show could go to Collins Chapel.

Last week the weather was beautiful. It was decided to give the minstrel on Friday night. Yes, the weather was beautiful—every day and night except Friday!—it was a rainy day. The show was given—to a small audience, but more than could be hoped for on such a night.

Now, any community needing rain, or if anyone gets tired of this pretty weather we're having, just contact J. Hollis Jackson, who is in charge of the Minstrel, and arrange for a presentation of the show. You'll either get rain, snow, a cold wave or a tornado.

It hasn't failed yet.

Sardis News

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon. The class was called to order by the chairman, Grady Davis.

Directors were: Frances Sansom, Billy Ruth Deason, Louise Sansom, Pauline Hayes, Kirma Trice, Jack Deason, Gladys Sansom, Annie Mae Deason and Emma Lee Headley.

Pianists were George Anderson and Gladys Sansom.

Next Sunday the class will meet at Antioch. We invite all singers and lovers of music to come. We are going to meet at one-thirty.

We are glad to say our Sunday School met last Sunday. Brother Trice taught a fine lesson. The weather is getting better now and we are insisting each and every one to come back.

Letters To The Editor

Clanton, Ala., March 4, 1940.

Dear Editor:

Please print this short piece for the benefit of our young men. Thank you.

This is to let the young men of our district know that it is the time for them to think about their future. And this is the way for them to think of it:

First, think of himself physically and mentally. How can he develop himself; where to go for the development. Well, we have the place for them to go, but we don't know where it is. Our Citizens Military Training Camps is the place for those that want these developments. This camp is held only one month each year.

The camp area commander takes into consideration the time that the young men have less work to do in the summer. They have set the time for this area camp to be held from June 12 to July 11. And this month is well spent by any boy that spends this month in camp.

The purpose of this camp is to bring together for thirty days training, young men from all walks of life from all sections of the country on a common basis of equality thereby developing closer national and social unity; to teach privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship; to stimulate the importance of military training, self-discipline, team work and leadership; to develop the physical and moral standard of American youth through participation in military exercises athletic games and sports, conducted under expert directors.

Some people conceive the idea that Citizens Military Training Camps are the first step of going to the wars. This is a very bad mistake to induce the young men to stay away from this particular camp. After a boy stays his thirty days at camp, he has no further military obligation of any sort. He has thirty days of clean moral living. He attends church each Sunday of his chosen denomination. The military training he receives is only four hours each day except on Saturday and Sunday. His evenings are spent in his favorite sport, or swimming in which there is an excellent pool. At night there is an outdoor theatre to attend. Or, if he likes to read, write or listen to band music, this is all available at the recreation hall, of which the hostesses invite all of the boys.

There were only three boys that left Clanton last year. One boy, Guy Higgins, of Clanton, won recognition at camp as a fine prospect of a future boxer. He won a medal for his ability at handling his gloves. One boy returned with a gold medal for first place in firing the .45 automatic pistol. So every boy has a chance to show others that he can compete with the rest of the world and stand a chance with them.

So boys, let's get the application blank and go to camp this summer. It will be the most enjoyable summer you have ever spent.

For application blanks see Lawyer J. B. Atkinson, at Clanton, for enlistment, or write C.M.T.C. Officer, at Fort McClellan, Alabama, for details.

I (Leo Deason) have gone to this camp for four years and will say that the time that I spent at camp has been very enjoyable, and has benefited me. I'm just sorry that I can't go this year as four years is the limit to go. So let's all try to go to camp this year. Get your application immediately!

Sincerely,
LEO DEASON.

JEMISON YOUNG MAN ENLISTS IN THE U. S. MARINE CORPS

According to an announcement received by the News recently from the Marine Corps Recruiting Officer in Birmingham, Raymond O. Robinson, son of Pinkney L. Robinson, Route 1, Jemison, and John Henry Clackum, Jr., son of John Clackum, Sr., Gantt's Quarry, enlisted in the Marine Corps at the Birmingham Station on March first and was transferred to the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S.C., for training.

Young Robinson states that he intends to complete his high school academic education and study Diesel Engineering while in the Marine Corps, while Clackum states that he is going to study Aircraft Structural Engineering, he having already completed high school. The Marine Corps offers splendid opportunities for young men to complete their education and learn trade through the facilities offered members of that service through their famous institute where many men holding important positions throughout the United States today received their education.

PLEA FOR EARLY DIAGNOSIS MADE BY HEALTH DEPT.

Ignorance on the part of the public of the sign and symptoms of early syphilis was declared to be one of the most serious obstacles in the control of the disease by local County officials of the Health Department. Only a small percentage of cases seen by private physicians and venereal disease clinics in the County are early cases. A majority have had the disease for more than four years. Only six cases with the primary sore of syphilis were seen at a local clinic during 1939.

The following description of what happens in a typical case of early syphilis is quoted from a statement by the Health Officer: "Transmission is usually by direct bodily contact as through kissing or intimate relations. After the germ is deposited on the surface of the body, it pierces the skin or mucous membrane and begins to multiply. Within two to ten weeks a sore appears which may vary in size from a small almost undetectable blister to a large well defined round ulcer, scooped out in the center and with a very hard edge. This sore may be painless though frequently it causes considerable discomfort. In many cases it may be so small as to go unnoticed. Even if no treatment is given this ulcer will usually disappear in a few weeks. After another period of two months to a year there may appear a rash on the skin or sore patches in the mouth. The infected person may feel quite ill, suffer with frequent headaches or may not feel any symptoms. It is during this stage the victim is most apt to spread the disease. The primary sore may be on the mouth or other parts of the body."

Chances for a complete cure are best during the first two weeks after the appearance of the sore and before the blood test is positive, says the Health Officer. About 95 per cent of cases are cured when treatment is started in this stage. A special procedure, the dark-field examination, will show the germs of syphilis (if they are present) in the sores, enabling the doctor to make a diagnosis of syphilis even when the blood is still negative. Usually within 3-6 weeks the blood becomes positive. The County Health Department makes blood tests and darkfield examinations on any person who are financially unable to pay for this service.

U. S. A. VACANCIES—The United States Army Recruiting Office, Room 29, Federal Bldg., Birmingham, Ala., announces that vacancies exist in the First and Fifth Army (Streamlined) Divisions now stationed at Forts McClellan, Alabama, and Banning, Georgia. A few vacancies exist in these Divisions, which are to be brought to full strength by March 20, 1940. Young men between the ages of 18 and 35 desiring enlistment, are urged to apply at this office as soon as possible to file their application.

John D. McNeel

John D. McNeel, 69, of 1490 Milner Crescent, president of the Guaranty Savings, Building & Loan Association, died early Friday morning at a local hospital after an illness of several weeks, thus ending an active life during which he held many important positions.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary's Church on the Highlands at noon Saturday, with burial in Elmwood Cemetery.

Mr. McNeel was private secretary to both Gov. Comer and Gov. O'Neal during their terms. President Woodrow Wilson appointed him U. S. Collector of internal revenue for Alabama and Mississippi, a position he held eight years.

Later he became chairman of the State Tax Commission and served for a time as state comptroller. He was the first administrator of the State Alcoholic Control Board, resigning upon the completion of the board's organization.—Birmingham News.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering. It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

"Mercy" to him—that shows it, is the rule.—Cowper.

A WORKING DEMOCRACY

Ownership of the Bell System, of which the Southern Bell Company is a part, rests not with a selected few but with about 675,000 stockholders, thrifty, independent Americans living in cities, towns, villages and farms over the nation.

The Southern Bell Company is managed and operated by 20,000 skilled workers, members of a progressive, financially stable organization founded on the democratic principle that assures to every worker the recognition of initiative and equal opportunity to advance. These 20,000 people are your friends and neighbors and are substantial contributors to the prosperity and progress of the communities in which they live.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company, in providing quick, dependable service at low cost to the millions of people in the South, has made the telephone truly an instrument for the people.

"I Never Saw My Real Mother"

"I WAS hatched in an electric incubator. Before I was a day old, I was on my way to a farm with a hundred of my foster brothers and sisters. Other hundreds of them went to town chicken fanciers. I think we who went to the farm fared better than those who went to town, because the farmer who bought us has an electric brooder which keeps us warm on chilly nights, and cold, damp days.

"I heard him talking to a neighbor the other day. He said, 'Since that Alabama Power Company rural electrification fellow persuaded me to put in one of these electric brooders, I'm having much better luck with my chickens. Another thing he told me about was ...'

Of course, chickens can't talk, but farmers can. And most of them who have had experience with the recommendations of our rural electrification engineers will tell you that the advice they give is sound. They don't profess to know the answers to all farm problems. But they are qualified to advise concerning the economical use of electricity on the farm for profit, comfort and convenience. Their suggestions about the raising of poultry and plants, insect control, dairying, irrigation, water supply—all with the aid of electric service—have been helpful to many of our farm customers.

There is no charge for their services. They have nothing to sell. A post card addressed to our Rural Electrification Department, Birmingham, or a call at our nearest office, requesting a visit from one of them, will bring him to your home the next time he is in your neighborhood.

Note: The services of rural electrification advisers are also available to our urban customers.

JARMAN CALLS ATTENTION TO FLYING CADET OPENINGS

Information has been received from Congressman Pete Jarman, of Washington, that there are now existing vacancies in the Air Corps. The examination given those entering the March classes has already been held, but those students having two years or more college education to their credit may enter this class without mental examination. Examinations for the June classes will be announced later.

"Flying cadets are very fortunate," said Congressman Jarman, "because of the excellent training and education they receive while learning to fly." The Congressman also stated that aviation had ceased to be the "coming field," but that it had "arrived," and was now a fully developed part of our military and commercial life.

Alabama is indeed fortunate in that one of the nine cadet schools is located in our State at Tuscaloosa. Flying as a profession is an open field and seeks physically capable and mentally alert young men.

Any additional information may be secured by writing the Chief of the Air Corps, War Department, Washington, D. C., or Congressman Pete Jarman, Washington, D. C.

POPLAR SPRINGS HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB

The Club met at the home of Mrs. Edith Moore on Friday afternoon, March 1.

Miss Barber first discussed and organized a Better Babies Club which will meet every fourth Monday afternoon in each month. The officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Lottie Jones, president; Mrs. Myrtice Smith, vice president; Mrs. Lottie Mae Smith, Secretary and Mrs. Edith Moore and Mrs. Gladys Rich as leaders. The Club is only a study in the care and betterment of the babies.

The dress revue was then discussed and Mrs. Lottie Mae Smith was elected as leader.

Our next meeting was put off about two weeks in order that each might have their dresses ready by then.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent by all and we adjourned to meet with Mrs. Ina Lee Hawes in April.—Reporter

MRS. GEORGE A. PLIER

Mary F. Plier, age 63, wife of Geo. A. Plier of the Pleasant Hill community, died at 4:45 last Saturday afternoon, March 9. Funeral services were conducted from the Pleasant Hill Church Sunday afternoon at 1:30 with the Rev. Cost assisted by the Rev. Davis in charge. Interment was in the Blow Cemetery with J. Mel Martin & Son in charge.

Palbearers were Charlie, Oscar and George Plier, Orbin and Houston Davis and Lonnie Little.

Surviving are the husband, 3 sons and daughters.

HOLD AGRICULTURE POSTS

CLAUDE R. WICKARD

GROVER B. HILL

Two dirt farmers with a combined experience of 54 years of farm operation and leadership, are now in the No. 2 and No. 3 posts of the Nation's Department of Agriculture.

CLAUDE R. WICKARD, newly appointed Under Secretary of Agriculture, has farmed a general grain and livestock farm near Camden, Ind., for nearly a quarter of a century.

GROVER B. HILL, who was named Assistant Secretary of Agriculture in December, has been a Texas rancher and farmer since 1911. Both men have been associated with administrative work of the AAA Farm Program in recent years.

Questions and Answers on the W.P.A.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second article in a series of questions and answers about the WPA—an agency of our Federal Government which affects many people in this county.

WPA EMPLOYMENT

11. Who is eligible for WPA employment?

Any American citizens, or other person owing allegiance to the United States, who is 18 years of age or older, able-bodied, unemployed, and currently certified as in need.

12. What agency certifies that a worker is in need?

A local public relief agency approved by the WPA investigates and certifies that he is in need.

13. Must an unemployed worker be a resident of a State or locality to be eligible for WPA employment?

No; but if a non-resident, he must have moved into the State or locality for some other purpose than to obtain work with the WPA.

14. Are farmers eligible for WPA employment?

Yes; and there are Federal programs for the special benefit of farmers.

15. How many members of family are eligible for WPA employment?

Only one, usually the head of the family. The mother or a grown son or daughter, if otherwise eligible, is regarded as the economic head of the family when the father is unable to work.

16. If two families live together, is a member of each family eligible for WPA employment?

Yes, if both families are in need and otherwise eligible.

17. How are workers assigned to WPA projects?

From the group of eligible workers the WPA Division of Employment selects, according to their previous experience, training, and ability, and in the order of preference prescribed by law, those who can be placed at work on the various local projects. (See next question.)

18. In what order of preference are workers assigned to WPA projects?

Congress has directed that assignments shall be made, as far as practicable, on the basis of relative needs; where relative needs are the same, preference shall be given to eligible war veterans.

19. Does the WPA ever employ project workers who have not been certified as in need?

Yes. Non-certified workers with special skill or training necessary to the conduct of a project may be employed if qualified relief workers are not available. Such non-relief workers are secured through the United States Employment Office in the State. At least 95 per cent of all project workers, however, must be certified as in need.

20. How many workers in all has the WPA employed?

About 7 1/2 million individuals, at one time or another, since the start of the program in 1935.

21. How many workers are employed at one time by the WPA?

The number has fluctuated, from as low as 1,450,000 in October 1937 to as high as 3,250,000 in November 1938. There were about 1,825,000 WPA workers on November 1, 1939.

22. What percentage of WPA workers are men? Women?

Men, 86 percent; women, 14 per cent (June 1939).

23. What percentage of WPA workers are doing unskilled work? Other kinds of work?

In September 1939:

	Percent
Unskilled	71
Semiskilled	13
Skilled	10
Professional and technical	2
Unclassified	4

24. Does the WPA try to give its workers the same kind of work they had in private industry?

Yes. Although it is not always possible to put people to work at their usual occupations, every effort is made to do so or to provide related work for which the workers are qualified. (Next article—"Wages and Hours")

Seek Treasure Cache of

More Than Million Pounds

CAPE HAITIEN, HAITI.—Here's an opportunity for fortune hunters. A treasure cache of more than a million pounds sterling (approximately $4,200,000) is reported to be buried deep in the secret tunnels of the Citadelle de la Ferriere, on a mountain top not far from this town.

The fantastic fortress was built by Henri Christophe, black emperor of Haiti. To make sure his plans never would be divulged, he had his architect thrown over the ramparts. The only other man knowing the secret was Christophe himself—and he killed himself without telling where he had hidden his vast wealth.

As a result, no one living today knows the whereabouts of the treasure. Native Haitians insist it's still under the huge citadel.

Stop Sign Means Naught

To a Non-Starting Auto

MOBILE, ALA.—Theodore Lane had a balky automobile to thank for his discharge in traffic court.

Lane, charged with failure to observe a stop sign, pleaded that he failed to stop "only because I was afraid the motor would die and I could not start it again."

County Deputy Hobson Hargett confirmed Lane's testimony, adding that the deputy had to push the car a mile to get it started again.

Judge Tisdale J. Touart discharged the defendant, but warned him to get his car in running order.

Movie Chase Sequence

Enacted in Full Reality

PASADENA, CALIF.—When Mrs. Marie Garma, en route to the police station to report that her motor car had been stolen, happened to see a man driving by in it, she just hopped into a taxicab and started in pursuit.

True to Hollywood sequences, her taxi driver forced the car into the curb, causing the driver to leap from the car and flee. Other citizens, however, equally well instructed in the Hollywood flight and pursuit technique, gave chase and caught their man.

FARM LOANS

Washington officials announced Friday that Alabama farmers had received loans totaling $40,113,418 since May 1st, 1933.

Baldwin Farmers

Believe In Fertilizer

Baldwin County farmers will use around 30,000 tons of mixed fertilizer this crop year it was learned from the county agent's office this week, the largest sales of any county in Alabama.

Fertilizer sales in the county, which have been leading the state consistently for a number of years, will be up considerably this year over former plantings because of a boost in Irish potato acreage of almost 5,000 acres over 1939. The average rate of fertilization for spuds is around 1,600 pounds per acre.

Irish potato farmers alone will use approximately 17,760 tons of fertilizer this year, the majority of which will be of 4-10-7 mixture. Around six thousand tons of 4-8-4 (n-p-k) will be used on other crops, most of which are cotton and corn.

The balance will consist of superphosphate and nitrate of soda. A check-up at the county agent's office for 1936 showed that Baldwin used 22,500 tons that year, according to compilation of the state agricultural statistician, Cullman County was the only county in the state to approach Baldwin's total with 17,400 tons, more than five thousand tons short of local consumption.

The last few weeks have seen fertilizer sales at a peak in Baldwin with sackloads going out by the hundreds at this point. Benny Kucera, agent for Peoples Fertilizer Co., of Foley, said that in one day his company sold 382 tons of mixed fertilizer at the plant.

Sales of potato mixture, excluding side dressing, have largely been completed, though corn, cotton and sweet potato farmers are still far from completing purchases of this year's supply.—Foley Outlooker.

Time To Top-Dress Grains

Now is the time to top-dress small grains, such as oats, wheat and rye, with nitrogen.

Use from 24 to 48 pounds of nitrogen per acre. Some sources of nitrogen are nitrate of soda, calcium nitrate, ammonium sulphate, and urea. Ammonium sulphate and urea are acid-forming fertilizers and if used on land without lime for a period of time which varies with the type of soil, will increase the acidity (sourness) to a degree that is harmful to most farm crops. These materials may be used on lime land or with enough lime to correct the acidity. 120 pounds of ground limestone is required to correct the acidity of 100 pounds of ammonium sulphate and 133 pounds of ground limestone is required to correct the acidity of 100 pounds of urea.—J. H. Camp, teacher of Vocational Agriculture, Isabella High School.

First Seven Years

Congress passed 5,177 bills in the first seven years of President Roosevelt's administration, exclusive of the present session. Highlights of the legislative record follow:

1933—Agricultural adjustment act (later invalidated); national industry recovery act (later invalidated); emergency banking acts; cancelling gold clause in federal and private obligations; TVA act; Home Owners' Loan act; creating F.I.C. with $300,000,000; Civilian Conservation Corps; half billion dollar emergency relief; Farm Credit Administration.

1934—Silver purchase act; authorization of army to carry mail pending revision of mail subsidies; sugar production control; corporate bankruptcy act; Federal Communications Commission created; gold reserve act authorizing president to devalue the dollar and establishing two billion dollar exchange stabilization fund; naval parity act authorizing building navy up to treaty limits; civil works (CWA); SEC created to regulate stock exchanges; reciprocal trade act; Johnson act forbidding loans to war debt defaulers; National (Railway) Mediation Board act; Senate rejected St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

1935—Farm mortgage act; Glass act reorganizing Federal Reserve Board and making insurance of deposits permanent; holding company act; Wagner labor relations act; embargoes arms to belligerents; creating WPA; social security act; railroad retirement law; placing regulation of motor carriers under I.C.C.; Senate defeated U. S. adherence to World Court.

1936—Commodity exchange and regulation act; soil conservation and domestic allotment act; Walsh-Healey act regulating wages and hours of government contractors; Maritime Commission created; immediate payment of soldiers' bonus; rural deification act; making kidnapping a federal crime (if interstate).

1937—Bonnevillie power dam act; re-enactment of AAA provisions not invalidated; farm tenant loans; sugar quota act; Bituminous Coal Commission; United States Housing Authority created to make loans for low cost housing and slum clearance; revision of judicial procedure; retirement law of Supreme Court justices; municipal bankruptcy law; Senate killed Supreme Court reorganization.

1938—Crop insurance act; wage-hour act, 23 per cent increase in naval tonnage; liberalized World War benefits; Civil Aeronautics Authority; soil conservation and parity price program.

1939—Neutrality act lifting arms embargoes and providing cash and carry plan; expansion of Army Air Corps; government reorganization; Hatch act forbidding political activities by government employees; House killed three billion dollar spend-loan bill.

The Mile Post

Just six miles west of Greenville on the Camden highway is an old mile post.

There are very few of these signs left on roads leading out from Greenville, and years ago these mile posts were seen on every road out from this city—just every mile.

Changes in the right-of-way got many of the signs, and the shortening of the mile made them unnecessary. The mile hasn't really been shortened. It's just as far from one mile post to another as it ever was, but the time of travel from one to another has been cut from a quarter of an hour to a minute and a half, or less.

It takes no longer to go from the ten mile post to the city now than it used to take to go to the nine mile post from the ten. Mile posts are no longer needed, because we travel too fast to see them.

However, road signs are badly needed in Butler County at cross-roads, to point the direction to the various communities of the county.

Persons who are unfamiliar with the topography of Butler is confused by the road signs in any part of the county. Sign posts, with direction pointers, would be a big help—and not just for the uninitiated. The non-politically minded citizen could use the sign posts to locate his own county—Greenville.

Road signs are badly needed in every county in the State. Nothing creates a better impression in the mind of a stranger than the intelligent road signs directing him in the way wherein he wants to go.

The Goose Honks High

The groundhog has had his say about the weather this year and he has certainly made good with a vengeance this time, and now the wild geese have come in for their forecast.

A flock of wild geese passed over Walker County Monday on their way to the north, attracting the attention of all within hearing distance with their constant "honk, honk, honk." Wild geese flying north means spring time is at hand—Jasper Eagle.

Saw an ad in Sunday's paper: "Minnows For Sale." So Spring cannot be far behind.

Is It Worth The Price?

Every day she met me on the porch to get her paper. Then she would sit down immediately and lose herself in the news of the war in Europe. She was an old lady, around seventy I guess, and her hands shook terribly as she held the paper up close to her face so she could see. This happened every day, for weeks, and one day I said to her: "The war is a far ways off, you know." She looked up from her paper, at me, with a strange light in her eyes. "Uh-huh," she said. "I know. They told me that before. Too few months before they took him off, to save the world, for 'democracy or something. But I'm thinking it wasn't such a far ways off. If not it mustn't have been for him who never came back to his wife and son who needed him more than they needed democracy or what ever it was they killed him to preserve." She stopped then and I waited a long moment before I ventured: "But his son, he must have been mighty proud of his father." She laughed. "Yes," she said, "he was. So proud of him, he was, that he grew up to be a fine man just like him, with all the love of living he had had and all the desire for happiness." She stopped again and I said: "And with his same love for democracy and freedom." She laughed heartily at this. "Yes, I guess so," she whispered. And then after a moment: "I hope so anyhow. For I think he'll have to go back, after a few months, and save the world for it all over again." There was nothing I could say to that. Nothing anybody could say that would make sense out of such a situation. Particularly to this woman who had given one man to save the world from its ills and now must almost inevitably be forced to give another to sooth the same ailments hardly twenty-five years later. She seemed to be reading my mind, for she stopped me when I got to the gate on my way out, and said: "Whatever we're saving the world from, or for, I wonder if anybody thinks it worth the price we must pay—Milton Bird in Shelby County Democrat.

Cumulative Poll Tax

When the books closed on the night of February 1st, says the Tuscaloosa News:

1,666 of Clarke County's potential voters had paid $1.50 in poll taxes. 1,727 had paid $3 (for two years). 163 had paid $4.50 (three years). 286 had paid $6 (four years). 98 had paid $7.50 (five years). 141 had paid $9 (six years). 58 had paid $10.50 (seven years). 46 had paid $12 (eight years). 48 had paid $13.50 (nine years). 69 had paid $15 (ten years). 48 had paid $16.50 (eleven years). 110 had paid $18 (twelve years). 9 had paid $19.50 (thirteen years). 96 had paid $21 (14 years). 8 had paid $22.50 (15 years). 9 had paid $24 (16 years). 10 had paid $25.50 (17 years). 4 had paid $27 (18 years). 4 had paid $28.50 (19 years). 7 had paid $30 (20 years). 5 had paid $31.50 (21 years). 5 had paid $33 (22 years). And 14 had paid the limit, $36 for 24 years.

All this, too, close on the heels of a year which brought a miserable crop failure. We stand back and wonder not only how they do it, but why!

Wildcat Or Moonshine

All the colored women in Douglas addition are afraid to go out at night. One resident reports that a wild animal of some sort has been clawing at her house walls every night. The claw prints are on the side of the house. Dogs in the neighborhood become terrorized when the "large black animal" appears in the colored settlement. Several armed men have lain in wait all night. When they did it failed to show up. Some say they believe it to be a huge wildcat—one said it left tracks like a big lion. It even prowled at the same house last fall. One colored woman said, "Ise even 'fraid to go to church."—Ft. Payne Journal.

Slow Down

Every week we read, and so do you, headlines like these: Four die in overturned automobile; six die in auto plunge. Such headlines don't even get the front page, too common. Why not slow down?—Ft. Payne Journal.

Exceeding the speed limit accounted for more than one-third of all deaths from motor vehicle causes during 1939, in the U. S.

We Lose Either Way

Our office philosopher wants to know why it is so much worse for the United States to send our men over to Europe to die than it is to keep them at home and work them to death trying to make enough money to pay the taxes for those Europeans loans.—Tuscaloosa News.

Strawberries

It won't be long now before strawberries are on the market. Strawberries and Whipped Cream a dish for the Gods.—Phoenix-Girard Journal.

Congregational Notes

A School of Religion will be held March 17-24. All our friends and neighbors are cordially invited to join us in studying the great outstanding truths of our Christian Faith—truths accepted and believed by all Christian Churches. Following is the schedule of services for the week:

Time—seven to eight o'clock. The song service will begin at seven promptly and the sermon will be over at eight. A period for open discussion will follow each service. If there is a call for same.

Sunday morning March 17—"The Greatest Book In The World."

Sunday evening, March 17—"What This Book Teaches Us Of God."

Monday evening, March 18—"What This Book Teaches Us Of The Holy Spirit."

Tuesday evening, March 19—"What This Book Teaches Us Of Man."

Wednesday evening, March 20—"What This Book Teaches Us Of Sin."

Thursday evening, March 21—"What This Book Teaches Us Of Redemption."

No service on Saturday evening.

Sunday morning, March 24—"Meditation," "He Is Risen."

Sunday evening, March 24—"What The Bible Teaches Us Of Immortality And The Future Life."

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard, Mrs. Anna Phalin, Miss Ella Howard, Mrs. Fred Howard and Mr. Thomas Phalin recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O'Bar of Phoenix City, Ala., and friends in Columbus, Ga.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank all who were so gracious and kind to me during my recent illness. Especially Rev. McLeod and Dr. Franklin. May God bless each one of you.—Mrs. Lillie Gay Simpson.

Mrs. Thomas of A. P. E. Auburn, was home last week end.

Mr. H. L. Collins of Birmingham was home for a while Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Walter Parnell of Montgomery was here for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pate of Jemima.

We have a hunch that Welles had two major objects in view for visiting Europe—the first to find out who England wants Uncle Sam to elect president next time, and second, to try and get Italy to line up with Britain and France.

Americanism: We slaughter more than 30,000 persons a year with our motor vehicles, and injure a million more; yet, are horrified when we read that an airplane has dropped a bomb on a fishing smack in Europe.

Wells without water, Clouds without rain! But a pen without ink, Just gives me a pain.—Green County Democrat.

Over there they are constantly talking about the big "drive" that is to take place in the Spring. Over here we put on a new "drive" of some sort every morning.

An exchange says: "The only surprisingly effective implement Europe's war has brought forth so far is—the ski." And when the weather turns warm that is useless.

Britain has 1,843,656 old-age pensioners—she also has a few hundred old-age statesmen who should be retired.

Cutting prices on any commodity below a reasonable profit rarely ever brings satisfaction to anyone.

"Mrs. Roosevelt Needs A Rest."—Headline in Huntsville Mercury. And so does the rest of the Nation.

An inferior automobile and a superior complex used in combination frequently brings disaster to both.

The common herd doesn't seem as anxious to die for old Money Bags as it once was.

We'd give a kudzu crown to know who it is that is getting the "rake-off" in the kudzu campaign.

Confucius did say: "Life is really simple, but men insist on making it complicated."

The great curse of the world at the present time: "What's in it for me."

The Shorts are not the only family in Alabama who are short.

Camouflaging truth is never justified.

son, Miss Roma Lee Pate of Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bean of Clanton and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Bean were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate Sunday. The dinner was in honor of Mr. Pate's birthday.

Baptist Church Sunday, March 10th, worship at 11 o'clock. Subject, "Believe And Thou Shalt See."

Evening worship 7:30, subject "Why Join The Church?" The Baptist Society will be held at the home of Mrs. Wallace Thursday afternoon. Everyone invited.

Mrs. E. B. Wallace and son, Bryant, spent Monday and Tuesday in Birmingham with friends and relatives.

Mrs. John Henderson of Montgomery is visiting her daughter and family, Mrs. E. P. Nichols.

Rev. and Mrs. Dewey Robinson of Birmingham were week end visitors of their parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bickensderfer and Bill Mayhugh spent Saturday afternoon in Birmingham.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin and children attended the Basketball tournament in Calera Saturday.

Anniversary Party Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Peterson were hosts on Sunday, March 10th to their seven children, Herbert and family of Anniston and Birmingham; Wilbur and wife; Arthur and wife and Clifford, all of Detroit, Mich.; Vera and daughter, Geraldine of Ensley; Ruth and husband of Birmingham and Ethel and family of Thorsby.

The occasion was a pre-Golden Wedding Anniversary celebration. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will have been married fifty years on August 8th next, and are in comparatively good health. It goes without saying that the participants in the party had a most enjoyable day. The Anniston and Detroit families are remaining in Thorsby with their parents for about ten days. The remainder of the children and families returned to their respective homes Sunday night.

Mr. C. B. Bickensderfer, Mrs. O.D. Walker, Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs.

Bertha Davenport attended the O.E. S. meeting in Birmingham Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Sessions of Clanton visited Mr. and Mrs. John Rollins Sunday afternoon.

Truth Seekers Met The Truth Seekers Class of the Thorsby Congregational Sunday School held its monthly social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Maddox on Friday night, March 8, with Mrs. Maddox, Miss Alice Burr and Miss Ethel Thompson, hostesses. Games and contests were enjoyed. A delicious salad plate was served.

Thorsby Institute News The Helen Keller Literary Society will present a program on Friday night, March 15, in the Thorsby Institute auditorium at 7:30. The program will consist of Devotions by Lulu Mae Collins; piano duet, a play, "If Wishes Were Horses," by the Pushmataha Club. The characters in this play are: Mother, Ruby Mae Bean; Father, William Callen; Daughter, Mary Alma Goodgame; Secretary, Marguerite Pate; Artist, James Duke Heflin; Gardner, Leslie Huggins; Music by the Quartette. A play, "The Red Lamp," by the Philomath Club. The characters are: Matilda Deering, Lucile McCain; Harold Deering, Jimmie Wood; Alice Deering, Kathleen Powell; Archie Clarke, Howard Lambert; Bill Worth, Fred Blankenship; Annie O'Shane, Ruth Duke. Everyone is invited to attend. Admission will be ten cents.

On Monday morning, Miss Jenkins took Miss Alice Burr and the Thorsby Institute Girls' Quartet—Annette Merriam and Ruby Raybon of Thorsby; Frances Wood and Katherine Pratt, boarding students, whose homes are in Clanton, to Birmingham. Miss Burr and the quartet rendered a very pleasant musical program before the Woman's Association of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Birmingham at the luncheon which followed Katherine Pratt gave a reading.

EMPLOYERS COMPLIMENT MR.
BYRON L. KING

Mr. Byron L. King of Wadsworth has two letters he prizes very much, as they come from former employers and testify to his dependability. One was written by Mr. W. N. Culp, chairman of the Board of the Southern Life & Health Insurance Company, of Birmingham, and is as follows:

"Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 30, 1940
"To Whom It May Concern:
"Mr. Byron L. King was in the employ of our Company for several years in the capacity of Agent Assistant Manager, and Inspector. During that time he proved himself to be a man who could be entirely relied upon in every way.
He was absolutely honest, did not drink, and as Manager of the Montgomery District, I placed a great deal of dependence on him."

"I feel sure that any statement Mr.
King may make should be given full credit."

Yours very truly,
"W. N. CULP, Chairman."

Another letter comes from Mr. C. C.
Lynch, manager of the Southern Distribution of the National Life and Accident Insurance Company, of Nashville,
Tenn., and is as follows:

"Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 6, 1940
"To Whom It May Concern:
"I have known Byron L. King for some twenty-five or thirty years, having worked with him a great many years past. My experience with Mr.
King has always been most pleasant, and I have considered him sober, honest and trustworthy."

"Yours very truly,
"G. C. LYNCH, Western Mgr."

Mr. King served during the World War in the Medical Department and was honorably discharged with the rank of Sergeant first class. Medical Department, with "excellent" character on his discharge.

Mr. King is a member of the Pratt-ville, Post No. 122 of the American Legion and was elected Vice-Commander of the Marbury-Wadsworth District, which office he has been re-elected to for the past few years.—Adv

Jack Hayes Still In Games With White Sox

Jack Hayes of Clanton continues to hold his place of potential importance with the Chicago White Sox, as evidenced by the following U. P. dispatch from the Sox training camp at Pasadena:

"The best news Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox has heard in some time was Second Baseman Jack Hayes' report that he felt
"fine" after a brisk workout yesterday.
"If Hayes, who has been in and out of the line-up with a knee injury for the past two seasons, can continue to meet the pace set by the squad he should remove a big question mark from the Sox line-up."

Jack has many friends in 300 MILLION—The U. S. Senate subcommittee put more than three hundred million dollars back into the agricultural bill which had been stricken out by the House several weeks ago.
Most of this amount is to be used for "parity payments."

CARDS OF THANKS

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for being so good and helpful to me in my recent illness. Your help and encouragement was as balm to a bleeding heart. Dr. Moore and nurse, I more than thank you. Seems as tho your hand was made to ease pain, and you, my sister, Mrs. Vance, I will never forget you and your husband, and me and mine will always be ready to come to you when you need us. God bless you all. A prayer from Grady Williams and family.

The only thing besides death and taxes that we can be certain of is this:
The political party in power is always the one that is corrupt, if we are to believe the critics.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to extend sincere thanks and appreciation for each kindness, messages of love and understanding and beautiful floral offerings, from our neighbors, friends and relatives rendered during the illness and death of our beloved mother, Ollie Collins.—
Miles A. Collins, Cecil and Ruth Collins.

CARD OF THANKS
We desire to express our appreciation to the people of Clanton for the kindness and sympathy shown in our recent bereavement. May the blessings of God rest upon all.—The Lowe family.

Thorsby is conceded by many to be a top favorite to cop first honor by virtue of its season's record. However, three of the players will be unable to play due to injuries and inability to secure release from their work.

DAVE CANTY—Dave Cauty, Negro, who was given the death penalty by a Montgomery County jury on a charge of slaying Miss Eunice Ward, Montgomery nurse near the Masonic Home,
Montgomery, has been granted a new trial by the U. S. Supreme Court on the grounds that the confession he made had been obtained improperly.

LITTLEJOHN—A permanent parole has been granted to Earnest Littlejohn,
31, convicted in Clanton County in 1937 and given five years following the death of his brother, Thomas. Thomas Littlejohn, records showed, died in a hospital following a fight in which he and his brother participated. Earnest was convicted of first degree manslaughter.

NEW DAILY—It is reported in the Community Organization At Isabella Is Formed

Tuesday night, March 7, men and women of the Isabella community met together at the vocational agriculture building and elected officers for the community organization. It is the purpose of this organization to meet the first Tuesday night of each month for an educational and recreational program.

Officers elected at the meeting are: Mr. Earnest Davis, president; Mr. James Vezay, vice-president and Mrs. Bud Canner, secretary-treasurer. The president is to appoint a committee to work up some educational program. Another committee is to be appointed to work on recreational side of the program.

During the last six months Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Camp, teacher of Vocational Agriculture and Vocational Home Economics respectively, have held a series of meetings (16) in which they tried to teach subjects of interest to every adult in the community.

There was a total enrollment of 103 members with an average attendance of around 40 members present at each meeting.

At these meetings the men discussed such items as permanent pastures, orchards, home garden, winter legumes, fertilizers and other subjects of interest to the community. Fruit trees were bought cooperatively. Plans are now on foot to buy fertilizer cooperatively. The women studied such subjects as renovation of clothing making pictures for the home, articles to be made in the home, curtains, dress and other articles of common interest to all.

MRS. CAMP DISCUSSES SPRING DRESS DESIGNS

You are asking "What designs are new for spring?" Let us delve into a study of fashions for spring and find out what is new.

There is a trend toward the conventional and becoming. Emphasis is placed on quality rather than on novelty, and a stronger accent on the correct clothes for the occasion. Good posture is a "must." The princess, draped-below-the-waist and pencil-slim silhouettes are in favor. Necklines enhanced by a wide collar softly-pleated.

FOOD AND FEED—Make the farm produce all it can in food and feed; add poultry, a few hogs, and a milk cow, and a great many of the farmers' problems will be solved, believes P. O. Davis, State Extension Service Director.

Plan Early For Canning Season Says Route 2 Housewife

The only way to have a full pantry at the end of the canning season, says Mrs. G. P. Rich, of Clanton, Ala., Route 2 is to begin planning now. She has started by making an inventory of all containers on hand that can be used for conserving food during the 1940 season.

Mrs. Rich believes that a record should be kept so the canning budget for her family can be filled. She also plans to keep a record of all visitors to her home so that she may know to whom she has given information about food preservation.

The best way to have a real live-at-home program is to have the pantry full of good quality canned goods.

or daintily trimmed with lace, small turn-over collars, a draped line or a jabot effect is the vogue. Cuffs are in again as are revers and what a new, crisp effect they give a dress or suit. Figue, faille, crepe or organza is used for these spring-like touches.

Shoulders continue broad but not so padded as last season. Broad shoulders make your waist and hips appear smaller.

Anything that is becoming and simple is the sleeve story—long, bracelet or short. If your shoulders are narrow or if your hips are larger than your bust you will do well to avoid the regular sleeve.

Small waistlines are acquired through the use of concave lines at the waist and bodices are simple.

Though skirts may be flared, circular, gathered, pleated or slimly straight, hips continue curved and fitted, with any ease starting below the hipline. Skirts remain short. Don't spoil the appearance of your costume by a skirt that is too short or too long. Find the length that is flattering to your figure and your legs.

Interesting details identify apparel as spring 1940. Pockets are so attractive. They are high-fashion in at least a dozen different shapes. They may be patch, set-in or incorporated in the cut and construction of the garment. As a rule they are large.

Buttons vie with pockets. They are used down the front and back of dresses. They are used to accent slim waistlines or to give martial air to a double-breasted effect. Tailored bone buttons lead but brass, bronze, steel, plastic or covered buttons are modish.

Belts of calf or patent, self-material or set-in with various military influences are the vogue.

So you see Dame Fashion presents a wide choice in silhouette and detail.

Recreation Has Its Place In Every Home

Recreation is a basic urge of all human beings and has a definite contribution to make to the well-being of the family. Family ties are built up by the wholesome fun and pleasure in the home, and these ties serve as an "anchor" for the young people. A family that play together stays together.

Dr. Ernest Groves says: "In some families there is a leisure for children, while the parents do all the work. Unless parents do something for the fun of it, they cripple not only themselves but their children's regard for them."

Music sometimes is thought of as purely a source of pleasure, but it is recognized today as having a definite place in character building, is an educational necessity, and is an aid to good government.

Proper play appears to be deteriorating in this country. Learning how to play is fully as important as learning how to work, and in this era of unemployment and short working hours it is only too evident that means must be created to put idle hours to the best use possible.

Just as a three-legged stool is supported by the cooperation of all its legs, so the human being also is supported by three phases of his life: the physical, the mental and the spiritual sides. Each of these must be developed equally or the structure wobbles or falls.

Let us strive through wholesome recreation in our homes to strengthen the family ties, and build up better relationships between the members of our own family.

For further information ask your Home Demonstration Agent for the bulletin on "Home and Community Recreation" published by the Extension Service—Miss Mattie Joe Barber, Home Demonstration Agent.

FUMIGATING GRAIN WILL KEEP DOWN WEEVILS

There is considerable loss by farmers each year due to damage to corn and other grain by weevils. This loss may be decreased by fumigating the grain with carbon disulphide, otherwise known as "high life."

The success of the fumigating operation depends largely upon the tightness of the crib or the container in which the grain is stored. Crib, made of tongue-and-groove material with double walls and floors are satisfactory for fumigating. Crib that are not tight may be improved by lining the walls with sides of pasteboard boxes.

Small quantities of grain may be fumigated in tight boxes, barrels, or an oil drum. These containers are especially suited for the fumigation of grain for seed purposes.

The amount of carbon disulphide needed to kill insects depends upon the tightness of the crib or container. For a tight crib 4 or 5 pounds of carbon disulphide per 1000 cubic feet of barn space is needed. For the average barn 8 to 10 pounds per 1000 cu. feet of barn space will be necessary.

1. Determine the number of cubic feet in the room or container and calculate the amount of carbon disulphide necessary. The cubic content refers to the capacity of the entire room and not the part occupied by the materials to be treated.

2. Make the room or container as air tight as possible. All windows to crib should be closed and paper packed into the cracks around them.

3. Remove enough corn or other needed livestock feed to last several days or until the fumigation is over and the grain is aired out.

4. Pour the content amount of carbon disulphide in thin layers in large shallow pans placed on top of the material to be fumigated.

5. Close the room or container tightly and do not disturb it for 36 hours.

6. Open the room or container after about 36 hours and allow it to air out thoroughly.

Several precautions are necessary in fumigating with carbon disulphide. The gas evaporating from the liquid is highly inflammable. Even a lighted cigarette, or electric spark, or a spark from the hammering of metal may cause an explosion.

With the exercise of reasonable care, however, carbon disulphide may be used with relatively little danger. The grain is suitable for feeding purposes after airing for 36 or 48 hours.—C. L. Breedlove, Asst. County Agent.

So study yourself—what is best for your line, coloring, personality, purse, mode of living and wardrobe—and know what choices and adaptations to make. Then use these to your advantage.—Mrs. J. H. Camp, Voc. Home Ec. teacher, Isabella High School.

Care Of The Farm Machinery Important

By B. T. Whittington
Teacher Voc. Agriculture Chilton County Training School (Col.)

The life span of all farm machinery is based particularly upon its care and operation. When farm machinery has been left out in the weather the rate of depreciation is much more rapidly than it is when you keep your machinery properly housed. Suppose we turn our attention to the farm mowing machine primarily for an example.

The mowing machine in most sections of the country has a life span of 14 years when properly cared for. Now if this mowing machine does not get the necessary care from its owner or operator its life span may be cut to 8 years. This will happen where the machine has been left out in the weather; where greasing and oiling have been neglected; where the tightening of bolts and nuts have been neglected and the use of undesirable oils and greases.

Improper care of turn plows by leaving them in the ground over night and also over the week end—results in rust creating on the moldboard and point. Experience has taught me that the two previous mentioned acts cause a loss of time because the plow does not give a good job in turning the dirt for 20 or 30 minutes.

When you leave your plows in the field over night be sure and pull them from the earth and clean the dirt from the point and moldboard. Take more time in the care of your farm machinery and you are sure to find that the old thief "Depreciation" has been retarded.

If all workable parts of a machine are kept properly lubricated the friction between these parts is lessened and when the friction is lessened the wear or depreciation has been retarded. Good oils and greases may be little expensive to those who are interested in cheap operation only, but the same oils and greases are cheap to those who are interested in the life of the machine, as well as its economical operation.

Machinery should be thoroughly oiled and greased, new bolts and nuts put on or old nuts tightened before putting the machine into use.

You have a few more days before the ground will be in a real pulverizing condition and all farmers should get their farm machinery in condition for efficient service.

Care for your machinery and over a period of years you can hardly realize the money saved until you check your inventory to see how often that same machinery was bought before they began taking care of your farm machinery.

MARCH IS BUSY GARDENING MONTH FOR ALL FARMERS

March is probably the busiest month in the year as far as home gardens are concerned. Most of us have our gardens plowed and ready for planting while some of us have already planted something.

More and more farmers are beginning to realize the importance of fresh vegetables. During the depression years necessity drove many to grow their own vegetables. They found that a carefully planned garden would not only supply fresh vegetables during the summer but there was an excess for canning.

A good garden adds very materially to the well-being of the farm family by supplying foods that might not otherwise be provided. Fresh vegetables direct from the garden are superior in quality to those generally sold on the market, and in addition are readily available when wanted for home use.

Farm gardens are annually saving millions of dollars for the farmers. A well cared-for garden will yield a greater return per acre than any similar area on the farm devoted to a regular farm crop, says J. H. Camp, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at Isabella High School.

The following vegetables and seeds should be planted as soon as possible if they haven't already been planted: asparagus roots, horseradish roots, artichokes, Irish potatoes, beets, carrot sprouts, cabbage, collards, Brussels, cress, kale, lettuce, mustard, onion, rape, parsley, radish, turnips, spinach and salsify.

FERTILIZING THE PEACH IS VITALLY NECESSARY

Fertilizing the peach orchard properly is absolutely necessary if a good production is obtained. The time to start is not after the tree begins to bear but while it is small. A well manured tree produces larger, better shaped, more desirable fruits.

When the tree has been set only a few weeks, a complete fertilizer of 6-8-4 should be applied. The combination of 4-10-7 and barnyard manure can be used. Apply this in March.

Just before blossoming time put 6 to 10 pounds 4-10-7 around each tree. This should be applied from near the tree trunk to slightly beyond the spread of the branches.

If legumes are grown in the orchard the amount of fertilizer needed will be reduced.—J. Hollis Jackson, Clanton.

FOREST BURNING SHOULD NOT BE CARRIED OUT

Many people are burning their forests for many different reasons. Some are burned so that the cows can get the benefit of the young, sage that will shoot up soon after fire has burned the old sage. The cattle will get the green stuff a little earlier than they would have, but they will lose the benefit of it and all the other grass and young plants that will come up later if there is no fire. Grass burnings in the field also lead to many forest fires. The farmers, while burning the grass, set his old watermelon or peanut patch should be very careful not to allow the fire to get out of his control for it will spread rapidly before a slight wind, and before the farmer realizes it, the fire is in his forest.

Numerous forests are burned purposely, however, to kill the insects that damage such crops as corn, cotton, hay and many others. The fire does kill many of these insects but it also kills off runs away the birds that kill more of these insects than the fire itself does. It has been proved that a bird eats its weight in insects and grass seeds each day.

To cultivate kindness is a valuable part of the business of life.—Samuel Johnson.

EASTER SEALS HELP OTHERS

To convalescent homes such as this the fortunate crippled children whose bodies have been straightened by today's medical science. When the surgeon has done his work much remains for other hands. The tots in the picture above are convalescing in a home where their every need is anticipated and supplied. They will doubtless become responsible, normal members of society rather than an expensive and pitiful burden.

To foster services of this kind, which is an important step in its complete program, is the aim of the Crippled Children Society for Chilton County, now conducting its annual sale of Easter Seals. The seals, which sell for a penny each, can be procured from seal headquarters at the Health Office or Board of Education.

Reveal Hoard of $287,300 in Box Of Needy Widow

Death of Woman Uncovers Huge Fortune; Lived In Poverty.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Janet Lincoln, widow of a retired real estate broker, of late paid relatives $5 a week for her room and board. She could not afford to pay more, she said. Recently Mrs. Lincoln died in University hospital.

Representatives from the state inheritance tax office, the public administrator's office, and others, including Mrs. Lincoln's lawyer, James R. Glass, opened a safety deposit box in the Pioneer Trust and Savings bank, 4000 North avenue. It was in her name.

Find Hoard of $287,300.

In the box they found 275 $1,000 bills and a number of $500 bills. The total was $287,300. In the same bank they found a checking account for $5,000. In a loop bank they found a $3,300 savings account. The grand total of cash discovered amounted to $287,300.

The discovery of the more than a quarter of a million dollars in the west side bank came as a surprise to everybody who knew Mrs. Lincoln. Mrs. Glass said it was a mystery to him where the fortune came from and how long it had been in Mrs. Lincoln's possession.

"Why, in 1937," he said, "she and her husband allowed a mortgage to default on their 16-apartment building at 2300 Farwell avenue. They could have kept the building with $16,000. But both of them pleaded poor. They said they did not have any more money."

Mrs. Lincoln's husband was Willis L. Lincoln, who operated as an independent real estate broker. About 15 years ago he had quarters with H. O. Stone and company, which failed in 1930. He was also interested in an amusement park in Rockford, Ill. Mr. Lincoln died in August, 1938.

Made Home With Relatives.

Until recently Mrs. Lincoln had lived in California. A sister, Mrs. Rita Stedman, has a home in Los Angeles. Mrs. Lincoln returned to Chicago two months ago. She moved in with Mr. and Mrs. Jack van der Harst, 1221 North Springfield avenue, relatives by marriage. The Van der Harsts invited her to make her home with them.

A few weeks ago she became ill from a lung blood clot. She went to University hospital. Dr. Marshall Davidson, new head of the County hospital, attended her. Hospital attendants thought she was poor.

Whether her husband knew of the money she had cached, friends could not say. He too, they recalled, pleaded poorness. But both had traveled extensively before his death. In addition to her sister, Mrs. Lincoln leaves a brother, William J. Krullars, 6637 Maryland avenue. She was 56 years old.

United States Has Plenty Of Oil, Expert Asserts

STATE COLLEGE, PA. — Even though oil will be almost as important as food in a long European war, America need not fear that foreign demand will be a strain on our oil supplies, says Dr. Sylvain J. Pirson of Pennsylvania State college.

An expert on petroleum, Pirson said he did not anticipate any heavy demand for American crude oil unless the Allies are unable to get shipments through the Mediterranean, which he considered unlikely. Oil from Iraq, Iran and the Dutch East Indies is brought to the Allies through the Mediterranean.

However, he pointed out that Germany is "critically concerned" about oil and gasoline.

"Normally," he said, "it can produce only about 35 per cent of its peacetime needs, let alone the abnormal needs of wartime. About 10 per cent comes from its own oil wells and 25 per cent is converted into gasoline from coal by a process of hydrogenation."

"For the balance of its supply it is largely dependent on Rumania. There has been much talk about importing oil from Russia, but it is improbable that this will amount to much. Transportation facilities are too limited, and, furthermore, Russia needs all its own oil output. In fact, Russia even now has to import some oil for its own needs."

Misspelled Word Leads

Alleged Doctor to Jail

GLOUCESTER, N. J.—A man walked into a florist shop last night, said he was a doctor, ordered a floral piece made in the shape of a stethoscope and tried to cash a $165 check to pay for it.

He misspelled stethoscope and the clerk got suspicious and called the police. The check was found to be worthless. The man was arrested.

Youth Accosts Two Girls

And Lands in the Harbor

BOSTON.—Social arbiters might frown on this method, but James Smith, 15, certainly has learned not to speak to strange girls.

Confronting two girls on an East Boston bridge, Smith asked: "What's the password?"

Without a murmur, the girls grabbed Jimmy and heaved him into the harbor. Spectators rescued him.

Chinese Distrust Dealers Who 'Merchandise' Goods

The Chinese are apparently the world's wariest buyers. A merchant who dresses up his establishment with fine showcases and equipment arouses their distrust; they reason that he must have jacked up prices to pay for his extravagance. If a product to which they have become accustomed is changed in any way (even for the better), they will stop buying it.

The first shipments of white Belgian clay came from a German exporting house. When the Belgians heard that the Chinese were buying their clay, they decided to do without the middleman and send it direct. But the Chinese would not accept it; they said it was packed in the wrong kind of boxes; came from the wrong place and was obviously an imitation with which the foreigner was trying to cheat them.

Everything is of value in China. Handbills and religious tracts end up as writing paper and envelopes; metal signs are converted into small stoves, and kerosene cans are flattened to make roofing material. In the stores all packing cases go to the clerks by long-established right. If a manufacturer, thinking to economize, sends his goods in cardboard, he soon finds that he has made a mistake. Ever though his product be superior to rival merchandise which is packed in wood, the outraged clerks will shove his goods into a corner of the shop.

Experienced manufacturers don't send samples of their products to Chinese distributors. Such samples are always sold—at reduced rates—until the supply gives out, thus scotching the demand for the regular line.

There are two rules in dealing with the Chinese which wise foreigners observe: (1) never cause a man to "lose face"; (2) don't "break a Chinaman's rice bowl." If a servant is bawled out in front of his fellows, he has lost face and is upset to the point where he might commit murder. The same applies in business. Exporters have learned that the only way to fire a Chinese executive is to "promote" him to some meaningless position, where, upon he gets the hint and resigns with a saved face. To "break the rice bowl" means to destroy the means of a man's livelihood. It's all right to beat him down and get the better of him in a deal, but he mustn't be run out of business.

TREATING COTTONSEED PAYS DIVIDENDS

Treating cottonseed to prevent bacterial and fungus diseases that attack the young seedlings is paying good returns to farmers who have tried it, says J. W. Fant, county agent.

Every cotton farmer in Chilton County knows how important it is to get a good stand from the first planting and then get the plants off to a good start, he added. This is one of the first battles in the war against the boll weevil.

The best form of insurance against poor stands is seed treatment with mercury dust. Other dusts are now on the market for treating cottonseed, but they have not been tested sufficiently to be recommended.

Directions for constructing a home-made seed treater from an old barrel or oil drum are available at Mr. Fant's office. It is reported that seed treatment in North Carolina last year in some instances increased the market value of the cotton as much as $10 per acre.

Complete directions for treating seed can be obtained from county agents.

Certain precautions for protecting the hands and eyes must be taken.

MORAL ECHOES
REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

In the early Spring I watched a pecan tree as it put on its nuts for the season. Clusters were to be seen on every bud. Summer and Fall came along and these nuts grew larger and larger. One limb on the tree was loaded beyond others and I watched it as it bowed under its burden. On an afternoon in late September I heard a snapping of wood and rushed to the window just in time to see the limb crashing to the ground. This limb carried its load until it no longer could bear up under it and down it went. Men, like that pecan limb, are loaded with burdens and the longer they live the heavier they become. I do not have to tell you that some day your burdens will become too heavy for you to carry. Be prepared for the crash.

At one time Padewski and Mrs. Dwight Morrow were seated side by side at a dinner table. In the discussion between the two, Mrs. Morrow said: "I like to return to my girlhood college and sit in the old chapel and think back and realize that I am much happier now than I ever thought that I would be." Padewski was interested and said: "Do you mean to say that you are happier now than you ever hoped to be at the age of eighteen?" "Yes, indeed," replied Mrs. Morrow. Then the great musician arose and bowing to Mrs. Morrow he said: "Madam, please permit me the honor of meeting your husband." Who makes the wife happy? Who makes the husband happy? Blessed is that man or woman who can make life a dream of happiness. You can make your companion happy if you will. Suppose that you try it.

FORMER MEMBERS OF CAMP SC5-7 IN U. S. FIGHTING FORCES

Due to lack of available jobs and the expansion of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, many former members of Camp SC5-7 have joined Uncle Sam's Regulars. These men should make the grade as soldiers, sailors or Marines. Two years or more at Camp SC5-7 has given them an advantage over raw recruits.

Fort Benning, Georgia, is the home station of most of these men including Edward Capitina, Will I. Goolsby, Fay McDanel, Wm. Popwell, Harrison Tracy, and Harvey Wallace, John Mobley is at Maxwell Field, Alabama, and Layton Hicks calls Valparaiso, Florida his mailing address.

Usually these men visit Camp SC5-7 as soon as they get their first leave of absence. They are welcome here and we are proud of them, just as they are proud to have served in Camp SC5-7.

Clanton Methodist Church

Church School, 9:45 A. M. each Sunday, L. J. Stewart, General Superintendent.
Morning Worship service, 11:00. Sermon by the Pastor.
Young People's meeting and Junior League, 6:45 P. M.
Evening worship service 7:30. Sermon by the Pastor.

Last Sunday the attendance in some of our Church School Departments was low, but in others it was good. Therefore, taken as a whole, we can announce a nice increase in attendance for our Church school. Through this column or otherwise all have been asked to help with the attendance and it will take all of us at work together to pull our church school to the peak of attendance, interest and spirituality. Now, all together, pull, let's go forward! The music of the choir last Sunday was good again. We appreciate our choir and our preacher. The music and sermons are showings of blessings. Let's support them by our prayers, work and attendance as well as any other way.

HEALTH OFFICER ADDRESSES SCHOOL LUNCH ROOM WORKERS

A thirty-minute talk on "Protection of Food" was made to Chilton County school lunch workers convened Saturday A. M., March 9, at the Clanton Grammar School by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer. The talk was opened by a definition of "germs" which the Health Officer said were nothing but "tiny Microscopic plants invisible to the naked eye, many of which are harmless and others capable of producing disease in the human body." It was stressed that diseases usually caused by foods are caused by the presence of germs in the food.

Among the diseases listed as transmissible by food are typhoid fever, paratyphoid fever, tuberculosis, undulant fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, poliomyelitis trichinosis, tapeworm infestation, etc. In many instances the agent which causes the disease is introduced into the food by the food handler which may be a victim of the disease or a carrier. Regarding "food poisoning," Dr. Sturkie said that the term "ptomaine poisoning" is obsolete and based on the erroneous idea that attacks of acute illness after the ingestion of certain foods are caused by alkaloids known as ptomaines which are intermediate products in the decomposition of food. Food poisoning or infection is the correct term since a germ is usually the cause and not a ptomaine. Foods which are prepared cakes and many other varieties were enjoyed by 49 guests. Those present were as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Merchant of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Buckles and daughter of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hall and daughter of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Cary Bean of Thorsby; Mr. Curtis Bean, Thorsby; Mr. and Mrs. Grady Minor and daughter of Birmingham; Mr. John Bean of Birmingham.

Sub-Deb Club Met With Miss Popwell

The Sub-Deb Club met with Miss Allene Popwell at Thursday evening at six o'clock for a business meeting. The President, Janie Martin, called the meeting to order after which plans were made for a dance for Thursday night, March 14th, at the City Hall. This dance is to be in the form of an Easter Rabbit Hop and those coming are asked to wear only sport clothes. It is strictly informal. The girls are asked to wear socks and oxford, and sport clothes, and the boys need not wear ties or coats—if they don't want to. The dance begins at eight and those who are invited are asked to try to get there not later than nine o'clock as you will miss lots of the fun if you are late.

The plans for the dance were completed and the hostess served delightful refreshments to the following: Janie Martin, Elizabeth Bryson, Doris Newell, Annie Laurie Bryson, Elizabeth Newell Mary Frances Atkinson and Annie Cordelia Smith.

JUNIOR HIGH BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

WILL BE SCENE OF GAMES FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Junior High School basketball games, representing the eleven Jr. High schools of Chilton County will meet on Friday and Saturday, March 22-23, to battle it out for first, second and third place honors for the season just closed.

A handsome sun-tan trophy will be awarded the winner; to the second place team a nice new twelve-dollar basketball, which will be used only for tournament games. The third place team will be given a $2.50 cash award. Individual medals will be given as follows: A medal to each player, selected by the judges, who is placed on the team giving the best percentage of sportsmanship. A medal to the player making the most exceptional or brilliant shot from the field. Several other awards will be given. Officials of the games will be Arnold Hiltner and Matt Hilyer. Littleton called the Junior High Tourney twice previously. Hilyer has officiated for a large number of senior high school games as well as several independent meets.

Plans are being put forth for this one of the most exciting thrilling Junior High Tourneys ever held in Chilton County. The game will sound at 2:00 P.M. after afternoon when Stanton meets Jr. A. At 3:00 P.M. Thorby vs. Coach Bradley's team from the third game will find En- against Union Grove.

Don't Get Into A Trap!

Trap has been set, so watch out! Rat eradication campaign is in its last stages with the distributing of rat traps by WPA workers on the project. For over a year this technique of exterminating rats was at first distributed for the purpose of those in charge of the rats escaping the poison traps.

State Health Department, in connection with the local health unit, is supervising the project. The City is doing the necessary material, and the program is being carried out in a scientific manner. The rats here will mean dollars saved that the vermin have cost property owners, and will assist to the health of the community. In years past local civic organizations have sponsored eradication campaigns, but this one promises to be complete.

THIRTEEN IN JAIL

Thirteen persons were placed in the jail during the past week, according to the records at the Sheriff's office.

SINGING AT CENTER HILL

There will be singing at Center Hill Sunday afternoon. All singers are invited to come and sing the new books and spend the day.

Why Not A Strawberry Carnival For Chilton?

Roy M. Roper, president of the Clanton Berry Growers' Association, tells us that prospects for a bumper strawberry crop are excellent this year. Many additional acres have been planted in this fruit, and it looks like another successful strawberry crop for Chilton—so far.

Some talk has been going the rounds regarding a strawberry carnival for Chilton County this year, to be held at Clanton. There have been all kinds of carnivals—peach carnivals, peanut festivals, orange festivals, etc.—and why not a strawberry carnival right here in Clanton, with all the growers taking part and fun for everybody?

One of Clanton's service clubs is discussing the matter, and with a little cooperation this carnival could be arranged. Why not be thinking it over?

ANNUAL EASTER SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

The annual Easter singing will be held at Poplar Springs Church next Sunday, it was announced this week.

Everybody is cordially invited to come and bring a well filled basket and the new books. A group of visiting singers is expected to be on hand—some from out of the state including W. Lee Higgins, editor of the Showalter Music Co., W. M. and Play Devaughn of Dalton, Georgia.

This annual singing has attracted perhaps the largest crowds ever gathered together in Chilton County in years past. It is looked forward to by singers and lovers of music from year to year.

Prattville Control Measure Okehd

Prattville, Ala.—Legislation authorizing the Federal Government to spend $527,000 to protect Prattville from the danger of future floods cleared its first congressional hurdle Monday as the subcommittee of the Senate committee on Commerce voted to report the bill favorably.

Prattville authorities were advised of the subcommittee's action. The legislation now must be acted upon by the full committee, then the Senate, and subsequently must go through the same procedure in the House, provided the Senate action is favorable. The plan embodied in the legislation has been recommended by United States engineers and was approved by President Roosevelt about ten days ago.

Based on weather records reaching back to 1870, the engineers believe they have developed a plan which will end virtually all possibility of floods in Prattville. The city was severely damaged last year.

The plan calls for complete reconstruction of Autauga Creek dam in Prattville; construction of a concrete channel for 1,000 feet below the dam; deepening of the creek channel for 3,000 feet below the concrete channel, and construction of a mile of new levees above the city.

PETE JARMAN

Congressman Pete Jarman stated in Washington yesterday that it had been his full intention to visit his Congressional District here now but that the performance of pressing official duties had necessitated his remaining in the National Capitol longer than he had anticipated.

He expressed the hope to leave the Capitol City this week for Alabama and indicated his intention to spend as much time as possible between now and the election traveling around his Congressional District mingling with his friends.

FOSHEE-TATE

From Sunday's Birmingham News-Herald, we take the following: Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee, of Clanton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jo, to Ralph Douglas Tate, of Alexander City, the marriage to be in March.

The First Easter Morn

(As Imaginarily Told by Mary of Bethany)

By REV. OSCAR A. DAVIS
Pastor, Clanton First Baptist Church

They have already buried Jesus and we are keeping His dear mother in our own home until John takes her to his. She is in the room that Jesus often used for rest.

That dear group of disciples came this evening to close out many things. They were very quiet and sad, saying little, and much weeping. John tried to comfort us, but he, too, was much troubled. "I'm going back home," said Peter "there is nothing more left. The chief scribes mean nothing now."

They left the room and seemed unwilling to move out into the dark. Silently they passed through the hushed streets, seeking the hiding of their rooms. Their ship had gone down, with the waves washing over it, and there was no Master to help.

The mother was helped by beautiful stories about him, and she kept wanting to know more of the sweet perfume that I poured on His head and feet. And I kept nothing back.

"Did He not say something about your doing it for His burial?" she asked. And I vainly recalled His words. I was glad that I did it while He was alive. But we must now try to adjust our lives to a world without Him—an impossible thought!

Then Mary Magdalene came running with the awful news that His body had been stolen from the tomb, but this we never told His mother. Peter and John were ready to leave for their homes in Galilee, but ran to the tomb instead—finding it empty! They have returned, but Mary Magdalene went back again.

We were much disturbed! Then Mary Magdalene burst into the room shouting: "HE IS RISEN FROM THE DEAD! HE IS THE MESSIAH AND IS ALIVE! I HAVE SEEN HIM MYSELF!" Then said the mother gently, "Dear child, did thy reason die with Him? You must sleep and rest." "No, no," she said, "He is alive! I was standing by the tomb weeping. There was no moon and the sun had not come, yet the garden seemed to shine with a sky-born glory. The guards were faint and the great stone stood guard off to the side. And while I stood trembling, someone moved behind me, and as I turned He spoke my name—'Mary!' It was His voice. I know it! I heard Him, I saw Him and talked to Him, and you will see Him soon—alive!"

Tonight the disciples were met behind locked doors for fear—and lo! Jesus stood among us. We were terribly frightened, but He said, "Fear not, I am Jesus. Look, feel and see for yourselves," said He, "and never more doubt!" The Shepherd has come back to His flock and we are happy today, and will be happy tomorrow—and beyond, forever!

Do You Remember What Catastrophe Occurred In Chilton County Eight Years Ago Today?

By Ye Olde Observer

The greatest single catastrophe this writer has knowledge of descended on Chilton County eight years ago today. Do you recall what it was?

After a little thinking you, perhaps, will remember what occurred on March 21, 1932. And the memory of that night just eight years ago brings back vivid memories of wholesale suffering in several communities near Clanton, as well as over the entire State. Stormy clouds, a strong wind and the realization that this is March—the stormy season—aid the Chiltonian who resided here eight years ago to recall the twister that struck a heavy blow at Lomax, Union Grove, Collins Chapel and lightly at other sections of the County.

The First Ambulance Call

The final count disclosed that over sixty men, women and children perished that night. And as if to show that their might was still intact, the mighty forces of nature combined the following Sunday day over in the western section of the county to take the lives of two or three more persons, and to frighten sightseers who were visiting the stricken areas in the northern section. This second blow came on Easter Sunday.

The first news the people of Clanton received of the tragedy was when a local ambulance was called to Lomax. Someone said there had been a tornado and that several had been injured. Clanton was in total darkness at that time as the power was gone due to atmospheric conditions. Two were killed at Lomax, and several houses demolished and several injured.

Then we remembered how reports began coming in from the stricken communities. Help was delayed in reaching these sections as trees had been blown across the roads—the terrific downpour of rain had washed out roads and bridges. Ambulances screamed all night. Every physician in town labored all night in hastily set up first aid stations. Local funeral establishments were fast filled with those who were beyond first aid.

The Central Alabama Hospital had been closed by order of the board of directors only a few weeks before. How well the people of Chilton County learned the need of a hospital here. Its doors were reopened for the injured and its doors have never closed since. Many were carried to Birmingham and Montgomery hospitals. Loved ones and relatives were separated. Days were required to reunite families torn apart by the powerful forces of the universe.

Came The Red Cross

Remember how the Red Cross came to our aid? Chilton County will never be able to repay its debt to this organization of mercy. Aside from first aid the Red Cross maintained offices in Clanton for months—rebuilt and assisted in rebuilding wrecked homes. That's another part of the 1932 disaster we, the people of Chilton County should not be allowed to forget.

Remember "Little Tess?"

Many amazing stories of the tornado were told by those who experienced its might. Those who were not seriously injured were stunned for hours and many for days. It was like a bolt of lightning with no time for preparation. The freakish aspects of the occurrence are still often related, although the great healer—Time has saved the heart and body wounds of those who fell victims.

One act of providence we recall was the peculiar case of "Little Tess." An ambulance was laboriously wending its way from the Union Grove community over the littered roads. One person, we believe it was Eddie Wyatt—was riding on the running board directing the driver how to go. Suddenly the vehicle was out of control, and landed in a muddy ditch. While an attempt was being made to push the ambulance out, the wailing of a child was heard. The cries led Wyatt into a cotton field where he found a small curly-haired girl with about 18 months of worldly wisdom to her credit. Not a single house was in sight. Who she was, no one knew. She was only slightly injured, and she was brought to Dr. Johnson's office for first aid where a crowd of people had gathered, but no one knew her name. Only sobs greeted their inquiries.

She was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital where she was given the name of "Little Tess," by the doctors and nurses. Late the next day her identity was disclosed. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Butler of near Jewison. How the child came to be in the field after what had happened—and why the ambulance should happen to bog down at that particular point, seems only to have been an act of providence. Her parents were seriously injured and were rushed to a Birmingham hospital for treatment that night.

Yes, we could write several columns about the tornado that struck Chilton County eight years ago today. The 150 demolished homes have nearly all been rebuilt, but eight years is not long enough to completely heal the heart wounds caused by the passing of over sixty Chilton residents as a result of Monday night, March 21.

PLATE SUPPER POSTPONED

A plate supper scheduled for next Saturday night at Mt. Pleasant has been postponed until a later date due to the basketball tournament, the News was requested to announce.

J. Lee Smith, Jr. Dies Of Pneumonia

Coming as a shock to his many friends was the death of J. Lee Smith, Jr., age 17, son of Probate Judge and Mrs. J. Lee Smith of Clanton, which occurred at his home here last Monday morning at 9:00 A.M. J. Lee Smith, Jr., had been ill of pneumonia only a short while. He flew from Auburn, where he was attending A.P.I. (to Clanton last Saturday morning, and stated that he had been ill but believed he was able to make the trip which he had planned. He was an aviation enthusiast, being very much interested in flying. He became ill to such an extent that he went to bed early Saturday afternoon, and his condition grew rapidly worse until his death Monday morning.

Funeral services were held from the Clanton Baptist Church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Oscar A. Davis, pastor, in charge. Interment was in the Clanton cemetery with J. M. Martin & Sons in charge.

Pallbearers were his friends, Kermit Jones, Callen Alred, Harold Lawrence, Jimmie Wood, Carl Posa, Guy Alred, Bill Hodges and Bobby Powers. He is survived by his parents and one sister, Lillian, all of Clanton.

J. W. Thompson Dies After Short Illness

John Wesley Thompson, age 66, well known resident of near Clanton, died at the Central Alabama Hospital here at 12:20 Tuesday following a short illness. He was the father of Leo Thompson, operator of the Clanton Laundry.

Funeral services were conducted from the home at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

Mr. Thompson is survived by his widow and several children.

MACK H. MARTIN

Mack H. Martin, age 73, died at his home in the Rocky Mount community last Saturday morning. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the Rocky Mount church with the Rev. Davis and the Rev. Cost conducting the services. Interment was in the nearby cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

Pallbearers were Will, Ward, Russell, Ocie Martin, Sigle Shaw and Clinton Campbell.

Surviving are his wife, 2 sons, Leonard and Bernie; one daughter, Mrs. Nellie White; two brothers, P. M. and Pell Martin; two sisters Mrs. Barbara Cofer and Mrs. Minnie Dubose.

Clanton Methodist Church

At the Clanton Methodist Church next Sunday at 11:00 A.M. there will be a special Easter Program. There will be special music and appropriate decorations, including cross and tomb, in addition to characters, including angels.

This day has been set as the date on which to pay up Conference collections. Our Church will be noted complimentary in the whole conference if we can get these collections paid that day. It is an urgent call. Shall we heed? Others have—can't we?

There will be the regular evening worship service at 7:30, and the other services also at the regular hours.

Let's make next Sunday the biggest day in attendance to and worship in our Church we have ever known. Jesus is Risen! Let's prove to Him that we are glad.

Easter Will Mean The Real Beginning Of Spring And The Debut Of The Fashion Parade

We people observe Easter Sunday because it is the anniversary of the resurrection of Jesus. It is a symbol of new life. The heart of Mary, Mother of Jesus, was filled with joy when she beheld His countenance on that bright morn. An so next Sunday morning our churches will be filled with those who reverently observe Easter for all has meant to humanity for over nineteen centuries.

Easter has come to mark the beginning of many things. When Easter comes we feel that Spring is really here. It means the debut of the year's newest styles in clothing for members of the fairer sex. From the top of her head to the tip of her toes these new styles will adorn the fastidious. Easter is the real beginning of Spring, and the ladies the real beginning of Spring means the wearing of hats that outshine any previous style in their rakish appearance; dresses that have that new pattern, and shoes that have less leather.

And what will it mean to the men in regard to styles? Man's first thoughts are whether or not those last year's shoes will see him through another season, or whether or not that suit could receive a new lease on life at

EASTER SEAL SALE TO END NEXT SUNDAY

MANY CRIPPLED CHILDREN OF CHILTON RECEIVE AID
THROUGH ALABAMA SOCIETY

Chilton County has a strong unit of the Alabama Crippled Children's Society. Yearly clinics are held and the proper medical aid given to the crippled children of this county. This is made possible through the annual Easter Seal Sale and the renewal of individual memberships in the Society.

The sale of Easter seals has been underway for several days. School children of the county have aided in the sale to a large degree, and this week letters are being mailed to individuals who have in the past aided in the cause or who may wish to have a part in restoring health to some child. Following is the letter:

"Last year you contributed toward the rehabilitation of a crippled child in Chilton County. For the amount which you gave he received $51.30 worth of treatment and thus was fulfilled the Biblical injunction 'Cast thy bread upon the waters for thou shalt find it after many days.'"

"This child perhaps was crippled as a result of infantile paralysis or a horrible burn; perhaps diseased tonsils were crippling him; perhaps he had a club foot. And his parents were unable to pay the cost of an operation, treatment, and special braces necessary. Without help the child was doomed to a life of inequality; he was handicapped; the chances were he would eventually become a burden upon society. But you came to his rescue. He has been taken to Selma, received an examination, had an operation, recovered and been dismissed as cured. He can now walk and run. The chances are he will repay you and society many times, because he will become a good citizen."

"But there is another crippled child who needs hospital service which his parents cannot afford. He needs it now while he is young. It means so much to him to be able to play and look like other children. Another $1.00 from you will continue you a member of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children. It will not hospitalize the child, but with the dollars given by other generous citizens of Chilton County and by the State of Alabama and the United States Government it will provide treatment for this child and the others like him in the county."

"The drive ends Easter Sunday. Won't you use the enclosed envelope and send us your contribution now."

"Membership cards will be sent immediately to all giving as much as $1. Yours very truly,"

"Rascoe Maddox,

"Chairman Crippled Children's Drive of Chilton County."

The Crippled Children's Committee will appreciate promptness in sending in quotas or membership fees. These may be sent to Miss Nolan Medney, Treasurer or Rascoe Maddox, Chairman Crippled Children's Drive.

"GULLIVER'S TRAVELS" AT LOCAL THEATRE THIS WEEK

"Gulliver's Travels," a fairy story that has been read by millions for the past twenty or thirty years, is now showing at the Wadeson Theatre here. A two-day showing, Wednesday and Thursday of this week was scheduled. This technicolor cartoon picture features several of the latest hit tunes, and is said to be most entertaining.

the cleaners. Once it was the hat that could receive an overhauling—but alas, not like the ones the women are wearing of course, but the male headpiece is undergoing a change. What is to be done about that feather that has persisted in remaining in the band? Yes, it looks like hubby will just have to get a new hat this Spring. But no hat-wearing man would dare predict that the styles of his head-piece will ever be doomed to the fate of the hat worn by the modern woman.

Easter shopping is the order of the week. For years now the saying has been going the rounds that one reason for the unusual large church attendance on Easter morning is for a general style display by the women. Well, we discount the truth of that saying. We believe that if styles never changed, there would be a large crowd in Clanton churches on any Easter morning. But Easter is the beginning of Spring, and Spring calls for the latest raiment. And as we go to our places of worship on the religious holiday second only to Christmas, God's very human children will parade in material splendor as they revel in a humble way in the spiritual splendor left them as a heritage by a risen Christ.

Time To Get New Strawberry Plants Out

Farmers who wish to grow strawberries should get these plants out immediately.

Strawberries growing according to the matted row system, which is employed over all Alabama except the Gulf coast region, should be planted in late February or early March. Planting at this season is necessary to grow plants for the crop next spring. By doing this, it is possible to get plants at a minimum cost with rows about 3 1/2 feet apart, and plants spaced 2 1/4 to 3 feet apart.

Only good healthy, vigorous plants of last seasons growth should be used for setting these new plantations. It is a good idea to secure a new parent stock of plants every few years from northern growers to keep plantations in a vigorous condition. These should be secured from reputable nurserymen who make a practice of putting out only good, clean plants. When the Blakemore variety is used, care should be exercised to see that they come from disease free fields of plants as they are very much susceptible to a disease known as Yellow. There are a number of plant growers now who have strains which are comparatively free of this trouble.

Plantings may be made on most any good soil. Extremely heavy clays and very deep sandy soil should be avoided. Good water and air drainage are essential. Plants should not be set in low places where water cannot properly drain during wet seasons and where stagnant cold air is likely to cause severe damage during cold weather.

In setting plants, one should use care to see that they are not set on land where grass and weed seeds are so plentiful that it will be too expensive to handle the plants during the growing season. Where possible they should be set following row crops which have been given rather intensive cultivation during the past few years. Those soils should be well broken and low beds laid off to receive the plants. About 200 to 400 pounds of a 6-8-4 or some similar fertilizer should be put in the drill about ten days to two weeks before planting time. This, of course, should be mixed in the drill as is customary in handling other crops.

The plants should be set carefully to see that they are not planted too deep which would mean that, with rain following their plantings, the beds may be covered over with sand and the plants destroyed. If they are set too shallow they will suffer from exposure later on when the water becomes dry. They should be set so that their crowns are about even with the top of the ground.

Care needed after setting the plants will be cultivated to keep down weeds and grass. When the matted rows have obtained a width of sixteen to eighteen inches, all plants extending into the middles beyond that width should be treated as so many weeds and cut out. C. L. Breedlove, Asst. Co. Agent.

CULP 4-H CLUB MET MARCH 8TH

The 4-H Club of the Culp community held an open meeting on Friday night, March 8th, at which time parents and friends were invited and in attendance.

Lamar Williams, president, presided over the meeting. Burnice Culp, vice-president, served as program chairman. Imogene Williams, Naomi Culp, Ruth Williams, Margaret Ann Williams and Mary Pearl Culp gave a demonstration on "Beds and Bedding" at which time they emphasized the importance in the selection of proper springs, mattresses, sheets, pillows and cases. Berth Williams and Mary Pearl Culp made a bed correctly and showed those present how to square the corners of the covers. They also emphasized the importance of having sheets to avoid soiling. A mattress cover and pad was used to protect the mattress.

Darney Mills, Jesse A. Culp and Hollie Williams gave a demonstration on the culling of the poultry flock. They used two hens to compare the layer with the non-layer, and emphasized the fact that a layer has a large comb, pin bones and vent apart, vent is open and moist while the non-layer will have shriveled comb, pin bones are close together and vent is puckered and dry.

Musical entertainment was provided by Otis Wells, Coolidge Devaughn, J. C. Driver and Thomas Downs of Thomas Jr. 4-H Club. The instruments used were banjo, mandolin, harp and jug.

Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent, and C. L. Breedlove, Assistant County Agent, gave short discussions on community organization.

Naomi Culp directed recreational activities at the conclusion of the program. Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Home Dem. Agent.

Kitchen Improvement Being Emphasized In Home Dem. Clubs

The Home Demonstration clubs in the county are emphasizing the improvement of the kitchens of club members during the month of March. Miss Nell Pickens, Specialist in Home Management, with the Alabama Extension Service, conducted a leader training meeting in Clanton March 7 with the following leaders attending:

Mrs. J. B. Hicks and Mrs. J. R. Bearden from Shouts, Mrs. Dorniney and Mrs. C. M. Culpepper from Union Grove, Mrs. G. W. Sansom from Sardis, Mrs. Hoyt Cleveland from Minooka, Mrs. J. N. Dennis from Friendship, Mrs. J. A. Marcus from Baker, Mrs. Esco Culp and Mrs. Beulah Williams from Fairview, Mrs. Mattie Grier and Mrs. J. W. Hand from Mt. Creek, and Mrs. C. B. Oaks and Mrs. J. B. Parrish from Mt. Pleasant.

These leaders will emphasize the fact that our kitchens should have a pleasant outlook from the windows. The size and shape should be convenient for all activities to be conducted. It is desirable for the kitchen to be convenient to dining room, pantry and food storage center. Windows that open from the top and bottom and placed for good light and ventilation as well as doors located so as not to interfere with work are also desirable. The correct height for working surfaces is very important since correct height helps to prevent tiring of the muscles in the back and shoulders. Storage space should be sufficient and convenient for the worker. It is better to have the kitchen divided into work centers as (1) food preparation; (2) cooking center; (3) cleaning up process.

A rest center helps when there is other work to be done while the meal is in the process of preparation.

Equipment and food supplies when grouped to save steps help to keep the work from becoming drudgery.

All persons interested in the improvement of their kitchens are urged to attend the Home Demonstration Club meetings.

For information ask the above named leaders or your Home Demonstration Agent—Mattie Jo Barber Home Agent.

Isabella Evening School Comes To A Close

Tuesday evening, March 12, about 60 members of the Isabella Evening School conducted by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Camp, climaxed their series of meetings by a chicken dinner at the High School.

Mr. E. B. Johnston, manager of Central Farmers' Co-op of Selma, spoke in the operation and management of the Co-op. Mr. C. L. Breedlove, assistant

Mixed Feed Is Cheaper Now Than Corn

"At the present price of corn, in relation to ready-mixed or commercial feeds, it is cheaper for the farmer who finds it necessary to buy feed for his livestock this spring to buy commercial feeds rather than corn," states C. L. Breedlove, Assistant County Agent.

At present, shelled corn is selling at 90c to $1.00 per bushel or $1.60 to $1.80 per 100 pounds. Good commercial livestock feeds may be bought from $1.75 to $2.25 per 100 pounds. These commercial feeds supply more food value per pound than corn. A 1200 pound mule at hard work will require 14 to 16 pounds of shelled corn per day in addition to 12 to 14 pounds of hay while a mule of the same weight will require only 12 pounds commercial feed and the same amount of hay.

Farmers who have corn and expect to feed it in a ration with grass or non-legume hay will get better results by adding a pound of cotton seed meal to this ration. However, if good legume hay is fed with the corn there is no need of adding cotton seed meal.—C. L. Breedlove, Asst. County Agent.

MINOOKA HOME DEM. CLUB

The Minooka Demonstration Club met Friday, March 9th at the home of Mrs. C. L. Ellison. Thirteen members were present. The leader, Mrs. Cleveland, gave an instructive and practical talk on "More Convenient and Cheerful Kitchens," proving how we could rearrange our kitchens and work surfaces, quite often at little or no expense, thereby saving ourselves many tiresome steps and aching backs.

The president, Mrs. P. J. Brady, had charge of a gift surprise party which brought in a number of dimes and a hilarious good half hour for all those present.

Mr. Earl Glass was an interesting visitor and discussed cabinet making. The hostess served delightful hot beverages, sandwiches and cake. Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. M. E. Ellison.

County Agent, made a short talk on the value of cooperation. Members of the evening school then discussed cooperative buying of fertilizer.

During the series of meetings an attendance contest was carried on between the men and women. The losing side was to entertain the winners. Mrs. D. O. Manning was elected leader of the women and Mr. Maxwell Hayes was elected leader of the men. At the end of the contest the attendance records were checked and it was found that the contest was tied with an average attendance of 20 men and 20 women. The members then decided to give a supper together.

We can only have the highest happiness by having wide thoughts and much feeling for the rest of the world.—George Eliot.

Interest In Home Grounds Improvement Is Growing

The interest in home ground improvement is probably greater than at any time in the past. Mrs. Beulah Williams and Mrs. Esco Culp of the Fairview community believe that landscaping the farm home grounds will add much to the enjoyment of living on the farm as well as adding to the pleasure and enjoyment of those who pass along the highways.

The farm house or any other house becomes a home in the true sense of the word only after it and the grounds surrounding it are planned and developed in such a manner as to make them attractive and serviceable.

In planning for the development of the grounds it is best to have your plan drawn on paper. This avoids a haphazard arrangement of plants and flower beds. Even a rough sketch that is not to scale is better than none at all. So often the flower bed is placed in the first open spot noticed, and the walks, drives, and other units are located with as little thought to the general appearance or to the relationship and usefulness of the various parts.

The home ground area should be divided according to the use of each.

(a)—Yard Area: This should be subdivided into: (1) front lawn; (2) side yards where ornamental developments may be made; (3) back yard which serves as the work area.

(b)—Barnyard: Located to the rear of the house, close enough to the house for supervision. It will be more efficient, if directly related to the barnyard.

(c)—Vegetable Garden: Should be accessible both from the barnyard and the house yard.

(d)—Other Areas: Do not place areas of a service nature, such as clothes linen, barn, chicken yard, potato banks, flower pits and storm pits, in front of the house.

For further information about the development of your home area see your Home Demonstration Agent and ask for Extension Service bulletins.—Mattie Jo Barber Home Agent.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

"Possibilities With Herefords"

By B. M. Anderson, Asst. Secretary American Hereford Assn., Kansas City

"Real opportunity for pleasure, pride and profit await the fortunate farmer or animal-loving business or professional man who engages in the breeding and raising of Herefords. For more than a century the breed has been developed with one object in mind, the production of beef under any condition with economy. Herefords today are the most efficient machines for making beef from the rough and unmarketable products of the farm. They convert rough feed and forage into a high priced product, enabling the farmer profitably to market his crops in the form of beef.

There are several ways to get started with Herefords. If you can and care to invest sufficient capital, you can buy a small herd from some large breeder and get started quickly. Or, with limited capital or initial investment, you can buy a cow with calf at foot breed again—a three-in-one combination that will constitute the nucleus herd.

Another way the "grow into the herd" is to buy a purebred calf, a few calves, and grow them themself. This method requires very little money. Fourth way to get started is to buy a few pure bred heifers and a bull. The bull on the purebreds and a herd of grade cattle as well as actually you can dispose of the herd and do business as solely on a bred basis.

Probably the most satisfactory for the inexperienced is to purchase a few bred cows or heifers and with them. Most of our pure Hereford breeders of the present started in a small way with few and grew into the business as a natural increase.

Let us see to it that our livestock are of great price, be noteworthy because of their worth, but because of their weight.—Seneca.

What We Saw On Our Trip To Key West

By G. C. POWELL

Having a grandson at Key West, I decided to go down and see him. I left Clanton Thursday morning at about 4:30 o'clock, accompanied by Mrs. Eubanks and Mrs. Jackson. Going by the way of Tallapoosa, Williston and Ocala, saving twenty miles instead of our previous route by way of Cairo, Thomasville, Lake City and down by Ocala. From Ocala south we enter the citrus fruit groves which is to a great degree a miserable loss. You can see hundreds of acres of oranges, some of the trees bare of leaves, while the others are full of yellow fruit. But worthless because they are dry or sour. Some groves look very good but there are thousands and thousands of bushels on the ground and still the trees look like they are loaded to capacity. This condition exists practically across the state.

South Florida is a little better than the vegetable crop was killed down there but they have planted again and have tomatoes and beans up knee high. They have free cattle range from north to central Florida. The cold killed the vegetables and the cattle is suffering a tremendous food shortage and the most and poorest cattle that I have ever seen is there. On that low waste land we saw cattle grazing with their nose underneath the water getting what green vegetation was under the water.

We drove to Kissimmee by six o'clock where we spent the night making the first day's drive five hundred and forty-five miles, which I thought was enough for one day.

Friday morning we left Kissimmee going east to Melbourne which city is on the east route from Jacksonville, St. Augustine and Daytona Beach to Miami. Just out of Kissimmee a dozen or so miles is a most unselfish little city named St. Cloud, large in area but not so densely populated. Each avenue of this city extends to the highway and is named after the various states of the Union.

After leaving this city there are no villages or anything else much but waste land until we get to Melbourne. About 35 miles below Miami we leave mainland by the way of the famous Overseas Highway. We had one hundred and thirty-five miles of travel over islands, which is called the Keys, and the number of bridges being thirty-one, the longest being seven miles, over which is a beautiful drive with no land to mar the beauty of the oceanic drive.

The name of some of the keys we crossed are Key Largo, Long Key, Bone Fish Key, Pidgeon Key, Carol Key, Little Pine Key Big Pine Key, Rock Harbor, No Name Key, Little Torch Key, Middle Torch Key, Ramrod Key, Summerland Key, Cud Joe Key, Sugar Loaf Key, Saddlebunch Key, Bird Key, Geiger Key, Stock Island, Bahia Honda, Duck Key, Key Vaca, Grass Key, Goetz Key and Bocha Chica.

We arrived in Key West the southernmost city of the United States and where they never know frost at five-fifteen P.M. A distance from Clanton of nine hundred and forty-eight miles. We were greeted there by our daughter, Agnes, and her husband, Maynard Lowe, and of course our spry grandson, also a number of other friends. While at Key West you know I had to go out and hook a few of the funny tribe. Speaking of fish they claim to have near six hundred different varieties of fish in the southern waters. We visited the aquarium where they have glass walled bins or rooms with many kinds of fish in them. A few of the strange species are: Cow fish, squirrel fish, bat fish, flying fish, toad fish, sheep head fish, parrot fish, trigger fish, shark suckers (which feed off the body of the shark), prisoner fish, burr fish, blow fish, porcupine fish, spotted moray green moray, jew fish, bone fish, sting ray, monkey fish, starfish, moon fish, and many others that I can't remember just now.

We also visited the flower show which was really interesting. They showed the various tropical flowers and fruits. I will not name the flowers but I will name some of the fruits: Coconut, orange, grapefruit, banana, lime, guava rough skin lemon kumquat, sapo dilla (which is to me the most delicious), Jamaica apple, sugar apple, papaya, mango, purple nuts almonds, dates and breadfruit. They have at Key West a Navy yard submarine base, a fort, a lighthouse and at this time they have a number of destroyers and a dozen big bombers. After spending only three days at Key West we returned home bringing back with us Agnes and her baby, who will spend about a month before returning to her home in Key West.

I like to tour in Florida but it is good to be back in Clanton, Alabama. I will mention one more item which is of interest to Florida—that is the tourist. They claim to have more tourists in Florida than have ever been there before. I know the tropic was awful. We would meet strings of cars like funeral processions all down the coast. In Key West we could see cars from all parts of the U. S.

So if you want to go to South Florida and avoid heavy traffic you had better go in the summer.

To those who have never been to south Florida and Key West, you should make one trip down there and I will assure you that you will never regret it.

There will be a meeting of the Eastview Congregational Church Ladies Aid at the parsonage Thursday at 1:00 P.M., March 21. After a short meeting the ladies will sing Easter carols at the homes of sick people in the community.

The Eastview Pioneers will meet Thursday, March 21 at 7:00 P.M. at the parsonage.

Easter will be observed at Archer's Chapel by a short program at 2:30 P.M. Sunday, March 24, during the Sunday School hour. At 3:00 P.M. Rev. Luther Ballou will conduct a service. The sermon subject will be "Immortality."

Glad to say sickness in this little town is on the decline. Maybe with the coming of spring and pretty weather all will soon be well and can again engage in the daily activities of life.

Our Sunday School attendance seems to be growing, but it had reached such a low figure it will probably take some time to get normal. We members and leaders have a broad field for doing some worthwhile campaigning among the members to get them to come to Sunday School.

We are very glad to know Mrs. Sallie Perry is recovering from a very serious illness.

Noticed Dr. and Mrs. Nix were all smiles as their son, who is attending college at Auburn, spent the week end with them.

Mr. Douglas Hays of Birmingham spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hays.

W. M. U. Convention

The Alabama Baptist W.M.U. Convention was held in Selma last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. This was the fiftieth anniversary of this organization in Alabama.

Those who attended this convention from Clanton were: Mesdames R. L. Bryson, J. W. Fant, Ben Sims, W. C. Golden, Ludie Lenoir, Willie Bean, Grady Heflin W. W. Jones, Earle Thomas, W. W. Wingard, Charles Wade, Horace Popwell, Harold Kirby, Jim Parrish, and Rev. and Mrs. Oscar A. Davis.

The featured speakers on the program were Mrs. Carter Wright, Miss Kathleen Mallory, Dr. Emmet Ayers of China, Miss Alice Huey, who has just arrived from China, Mrs. Laura Munger, Missionary to the Philippines, Miss Mary Northington of Tennessee, Miss Mary Nell Leary of Kentucky, Miss Hannah Reynolds of Louisiana. These being the W.M.U. corresponding secretaries of these respective states.

One of the outstanding sessions of this convention was on Tuesday night when the pageant "Through The Golden Years" was presented to a capacity crowd at the high school auditorium.

The "District Demonstration" which came on the Tuesday afternoon program was written by Mrs. Oscar A. Davis and arranged by Mrs. Joseph Avery and Mrs. Davis.

Those attending this convention certainly received a great blessing.

Mrs. Earle Thomas and children spent last Thursday in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Smith and children spent last Saturday with Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. P. C. Smith.

Mr. Cecil Ramsey and Mr. Leroy Martin spent last Thursday in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Chism and daughter, Annella Ann, of Prattville spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Martin.

Mrs. Bill Minor and Mrs. Melvin Mims spent the day in Montgomery on Tuesday.

Mrs. Clyde Jones has returned from a visit in Prattville.

Mrs. Latham Ellis of Bessemer was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mell Martin last week.

Mrs. Mildred Reynolds of Birmingham was the guest of Mrs. Cecil Ramsey on last Thursday.

Mrs. J. Mell Martin and little grandson, Donald, have returned from a visit in Montgomery.

Miss Grace McKelvey of Huntsville was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ramsey last week.

Mrs. W. Z. Hodges and son, William, of Tuscaloosa, were here Tuesday for the funeral of J. Lee Smith, Jr.

Among the college set who are home for the Easter holidays are Callen Alfred and Miss Mae Annie Polk.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Jones and family of Columbiana visited her mother, Mrs. McSwain last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Annie Gowan of Brewton visited his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Earle J. Gowan.

Mrs. Clara Jackson spent last Sunday in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Rockett and Lols visited Miss Nell Rockett in Nashville last week end.

Mrs. Martin of Haleyville was the guest of Mrs. Robert Martin this week.

Miss Mattie Jo Barber spent last Saturday in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Swift of Kansas City stopped for a visit with Mrs. Evans on their way home from a three months visit in Florida.

Mrs. George McCain and children and Mrs. P. H. Hinkle spent last Friday in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. White of M Creek spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White.

The Entri-Amis Club met with Mrs. J. Watts Moore last week.

Mr. Evan J. Downs and daughter, Mrs. M. C. Slaughter and son, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tolbert of Birmingham, Mrs. C. M. Roper of Louisville, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Smith and family and Mr. Randolph of Elmore were among the out-of-town guests at the funeral of J. Lee Smith, Jr., on Tuesday.

Mrs. W. P. Towns visited relatives in Clanton this week.

Mrs. Charles Wade joined her sister, Mrs. Jim Thompson and her mother-in-law, Mrs. C. W. Wade, in Calera and motored to Birmingham last Tuesday.

We would like very much to correct an error concerning Miss Katherine Mallory in last week's paper. She was one of the leaders when the W.M.U. began to function in Alabama fifty years ago and not the founder of the W.M.U. in Alabama.

Mrs. Martin Entertains
Mrs. Leroy Martin entertained the following guests with bridge at her home last week: Mesdames Morris Popwell, Earle Gray, Parker Taylor, Cecil Ramsey, Bill Minor, Clara Norris, Ben Sims, John Higgins, Houston Nivens, Charlie Breedlove, Tom Searcy, S. L. Ellis of Bessemer and Miss Grace McKelvey of Huntsville. Mrs. Morris Popwell won high score, Mrs. Earle Gray second and Miss Grace McKelvey won cut prize. Everyone enjoyed a very delightful salad served by the hosts.

Homemakers Met

The Homemakers Class met last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Bess Smith for their regular monthly business meeting. A completion of plans for the Easter party to be given this week was made. A most interesting report of the W.M.U. convention was given by Mrs. Oscar A. Davis. Mrs. Nivens told a very lovely Easter story and Mrs. Earle Ellis sang a lovely Easter number. Those present enjoyed delicious refreshments served by the hostess.

Mrs. Cecil Ramsey entertained with a bridge party last Thursday honoring her sister, Miss Grace McKelvey of Huntsville and Mrs. Reynolds of Birmingham. Other guests were Mesdames Morris Popwell, Earle Gray, Earle Parrish, Leroy Martin, W. C. Golden, John Higgins and Mrs. S. L. Ellis of Bessemer. High score was won by Mrs. Golden second by Mrs. Popwell and cut by Mrs. Earle Parrish. A salad plate was served by the hostess.

Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club Met

The Thursday afternoon Bridge Club met with Mrs. Jimmie Bell last week. High score was won by Mrs. Burkett and second by Mrs. George Jester. A delicious salad was served to the following members: Mesdames Bell, Bryson, Burkett, Kirby, Downs, Jester, Wade, Tucker and Hicks.

The Thimble Club met last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Russell Sutley. Members enjoyed a very happy afternoon and delicious refreshments.

Circle Three Met Monday

Circle Three of the Baptist W.M.S. met Monday afternoon with Mrs. P. T. Hinkle. The devotion was given by Mrs. J. W. Billingsley. The text was from Matthew 11:28-30. After the business reports were given on the Selma meeting by Mrs. Lenoir and Mrs. Popwell. The meeting was closed by repeating Mizpah. Refreshments were served to fifteen members. Next meeting will be with Mrs. J. B. Downs Jr., on the Maplesville Road.

Circle Number Two Met

Circle Number Two of the Baptist W.M.S. met with Mrs. J. T. Ellis Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Chairman, Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, presided. The meeting was opened by singing our hymn for the year "How Firm a Foundation."

Plans and aims laid down in our yearbook was discussed and the chairman urged each member to strive to make our Circle an A-1 Circle. We had Mrs. J. T. Painter as a new member.

The meeting closed with Mizpah, and refreshments were served to the following:

Mesdames E. C. Parrish, Milton Smith, Frank Foshee, W. J. Harris, A. R. Taylor, A. P. Taylor, E. E. Upchurch, Hattie Aldred, C. B. Cox, J. T. Painter, Earl Gray, W. W. Wingard, Irby Popwell, J. T. Ellis.

The Circle will meet with Mrs. Earl Parrish Monday, March 25.

Our Sunday School met Sunday morning with a large crowd present. After Sunday School Rev. Charlie Haggard delivered a wonderful message. The singing society met Sunday afternoon with a good attendance. The house was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Grady Davis. The directors for the afternoon were as follows: Gladys Sansom, Kerma Trice, Billie Ruth Deason, Pauline Ousley, Elma Mae Walker, Mr. Philip Headley, Johnnie Devaughn, Carlos Owen, J. E. Varner and Annie V. Moore. Plans for the afternoon were: Mr. J. E. Varner, Gladys Sansom and Pauline Ousley. A quartet was rendered by the Alpine Quartet.

We had several visitors from Alpine, Shiloh, Enterprise and elsewhere. We wish to invite them back next third Sunday.

Our C. E. met Sunday night at the regular time. A very interesting program was rendered by the group captain No. 2, Miss Delene Hayes. After C. E. Rev. Charlie Haggard delivered another wonderful message.

Next Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock is our regular preaching afternoon. Rev. Golden, pastor, said he would be with us. All members are invited to come.

Applications Being Taken For C.M.T.C.

Prompt action will be necessary to gain acceptance for the C.M.T.C. Camp because of the large number of early applications being received by Army Headquarters at Fort McClellan. Young men of good character and sound physique between 17 and 24 years of age, who may be interested in attending camp, should apply without delay to Mr. Atkinson or to the C.M.T.C. Officer, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

All necessary expenses are paid by the Government, including fare to camp and return, uniforms, wholesome food, athletic equipment, laundry service and medical attention. No obligation for future military service is incurred by those attending camps.

Scholarships in schools and colleges are given by institutions to trainees making the best showing in camps.

Scholarships in schools and colleges are given by institutions to trainees making the best showing in camps.

Discipline in the sense of punishment is unknown at the camps. The camps are run on the honor system. Men go to camp of their own free will for their own good. Their continuance at the camp is contingent on observation of camp regulations and gentlemanly conduct.

SEED TREATING SERVICE ANNOUNCED HERE

Farmers in Chilton County will be able to have their cotton seed treated at the Planters Gin and Warehouse Co., in the future, it was announced by John Deramus this week.

The local gin has installed a modern power treating machine for disinfecting cotton seeds.

Seed treatment is a crop practice recommended by our State Experiment Station and our County Agent, and all farmers who expect to plant cotton seed this spring can profit by using this service. Most seed can be treated now and held until planting time.

Treatment with 2 per cent CERESAN protects cotton seed against "sores" or damping-off in cold, wet soils, and often saves replanting. It also helps control such seed-borne diseases as anthracnose and angular leaf spot, and improves stands and yields. 2 per cent CERESAN is recommended by the Alabama Experiment Station.

This treating center can disinfect large quantities of seeds accurately and quickly, and will save the local farmer the bother of treating their own seed.

In tests by the North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas Experiment Stations, seed treatment gave a net profit of from $6.30 to $13.08 an acre—enough to pay for the treatment for years.

Any grower who wants detailed information on the value of seed treatment can secure it from the County Agent's office or from the State Experiment Station.

We'd Rather Talk BUSINESS than BALLYHOO.

High-Pressure Selling Isn't a part of our program. In fact we're not so good at it. For selling Fords gets you pretty fact-minded and you lose your touch for ballyhoo.

We Can Stick to Facts when we sell this 1940 Ford V-8, and still give a pretty convincing argument for buying one. We like to talk to prospects who own some other low-price car, or who have shopped around, for a Ford V-8 for 1940 will really open their eyes.

No Other Car in the low price field has the zip of an eight-cylinder engine, a dual down draft carburetor, semi-centrifugal clutch, torque tube drive, or three-quarter floating rear axle. Features so good they are found in many more expensive, "big brother" cars of various companies. You get them all in a 1940 Ford V-8, at the Low Ford Price!

And For the Ladies, who aren't very interested in engineering, here's a special invitation. Come down to our showrooms and see what Ford has done for your comfort, for smartness and beauty. Why not drop in today and see the car that's leading the style parade for 1940!

Two Shots: One Turkey Crossing Crash Kills 25 And Two Men

Monroeville, Ala.—George McCall, Claiborne, Ala., young man, was killed during a turkey hunt last Saturday and the shock of learning of his death was fatal to his father Thomas McCall. Sheriff J. L. Bowen said young McCall was shot accidentally while he and Ellis Rawls were hunting in the Perdue Hill section. McCall, he said, had killed a turkey and slung it on his shoulder.

Rawls later shot and thought he had killed a turkey, the sheriff continued, but when he reached the spot he found McCall, fatally wounded. No charges had been placed against Rawls.

Summoned to the scene, the elder McCall died suddenly, apparently from a heart attack caused by the shock.

MAJOR BOWES PROGRAM

A program sponsored by the Isabella P. T. A. will be put on in the Isabella High School auditorium on Friday evening, March 22, at 7:30 o'clock. If you wish an evening of fun and pleasure join us in this variety program of choruses, boxing, music, fiddlers and harmonica dancing, stunts and contests. C. E. Stapp will act as Major Bowes.

"WHEN SALLY COMES TO TOWN"

The P. T. A. of Thomas Junior High School will present a play "When Sally Comes To Town," at Enterprise Junior High School Wednesday night, March 27th at 7:30. Admission 10c and 20c.

The worst crossing crash in Texas history killed 25 Mexican laborers and injured 17 last Thursday. A truck carrying the men to work in a vegetable field was struck squarely in the center by a Missouri Pacific passenger train six miles east of McAllen.

Some of the victims were decapitated. Bodies were scattered along the track for 600 yards.

Sherlock Confident Tuscaloosa-M'tg'ry. Road Will Get Aid

(Tuscaloosa News)
Chris J. Sherlock, director of the State Highway Department, informed Probate Judge Chester Walker in an interview at Montgomery yesterday that the state will take over and maintain the 4-mile stretch of the Tuscaloosa-Montgomery Highway beyond Duncanville, now being kept up by the county. In turn, Tuscaloosa County will continue to furnish lumber to build bridges on the road, Walker said.

Sherlock informed Judge Walker that he felt confident that the Tuscaloosa-Montgomery Highway will be included in a list of federal aid paving projects he felt will be released at an early date.

England Will Stop Importing U. S. Fruits

London AP dispatch, to daily newspapers.—Britain will stop importing canned and bottled fruits March 19, the Board of Trade announced Thursday night. A spokesman said the purpose is to save foreign exchange.

Shipments on the way before March 19 will not be affected. Technically the order prohibits imports except under license, but a spokesman for the board—the British government's Commerce Department—said no licenses would be granted.

In 1938 more than $14,000,000 worth of canned and bottled fruits were imported from the United States, the spokesman said, and such imports from all countries in 1938 totaled about $25,200,000.

The principal fruits bought from the United States in containers have been peaches, pears, apricots, grapefruit and salad. Fruit juices are not affected by the order. Britain stopped importing fresh apples and pears early in the war.

School Superintendents Want Summer Session Of State Legislature

Meeting in the final business session of their annual gathering last week in Birmingham, the Alabama Association of School Administrators adopted a resolution urging a special session of the State Legislature.

"We urge that the Legislature be called into a special session this Summer for enough days to make possible the solution of the state minimum school term problem and we will gladly submit the facts and figures concerning the needs to any commission created by the state authorities."

ALABAMA FINNISH RELIEF CHAIRMAN RECEIVES LETTER FROM FINLAND'S PRESIDENT

Birmingham, Alabama.—Thomas W. Martin, Chairman and H. A. Berg, Co-Chairman for the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., in Alabama recently received the following cable from Kyosti Kallio President of Finland which was relayed to them by Herbert Hoover:

"Deeply grateful for the humanitarian aid which through your philanthropic activities we have received during the Finnish war for the relief of the distressed. I hope with all my heart that you will continue to alleviate the lot of those suffering on account of the war for the population of the ceded areas will be moving into the territory of the Republic. We have signed a compulsory peace yet we hope that our struggle for the right has gained us the sympathy of the civilized world and trust that we shall not be left to our own resources in the work of reconstruction.

He Wasn't Interested In Lumens*

*A technical term defining quantity of light.

MR. G. H. PARTRICH, display manager of Wiesel Co., Inc., Tuscaloosa, Ala., one of the leading men's stores there, didn't know what lumens* were, but had heard that they had something to do with light.

Like all progressive merchants, Wiesel Co., Inc., was interested in more business. They believed that the right kind of light in a store is helpful in making it an inviting place in which to shop, so when they decided to remodel, they concluded that they'd learn something more about these "lumens." They phoned us and asked about the lighting advisory service they had been told we give our customers.

"What are these lumens and how many do I need?" Mr. Partrich asked our lighting engineer, who visited him.

"What you need," said the engineer, "is enough of the right kind of light at the right places in your store, to make it easy for your customers to buy. Forget about the lumens; your architect and I will take care of them."

What does Wiesel Co., Inc., say, now that they are in their new store?

"We could hardly believe that lighting could make so big a difference. Customers buy more quickly—the whole store seems to be a more pleasant, cheery place. We are 100 percent satisfied with the help your lighting engineer gave. And a nice part about his service is that you didn't charge us a cent."

You probably aren't interested in lumens either. But as a business man, you may be interested in improving the lighting in your store, office or factory—for better business possibilities, greater comfort or better production. The abilities of our commercial lighting engineers are at your disposal—there is no charge for their advice, or help.

SPRAYS AND SPRAY SCHEDULE FOR PEACH TREES ARE GIVEN

Spraying peach trees properly guarantees you better fruit, healthier trees and the trees will live and bear fruit longer.

The spraying should begin in the winter. Then in the Spring as soon as three-fourths of the petals have fallen. Apply this spray to the peach trees. One pound of lead arsenate and four pounds of hydrated lime. Mix this with 50 gallons of water. This will prevent curculia (the cause of wormy peaches).

When the petals are shedding and young fruits are exposed repeat this spray.

Two weeks later mix 4 to 6 pounds of wettable sulphur with 50 gallons of water and spray. This controls the disease known as the scab.

One month before harvest mix 4 to 6 pounds of wettable sulphur, 1 pound of lead arsenate, 4 pounds hydrated lime with 50 gallons water and apply to the trees. This controls curculia and brown rot.

Self-boiled, hydrated or dry-mix lime sulphur may be used instead of the wettable sulphur. Hiley or Corman should be sprayed only three times during the spring and summer, using the materials recommended for 1, 2 and 4 sprays alone.

All fruits should be sprayed. Home-mixed sprays are cheaper and equally effective as ready-mixed sprays. For other fruit sprays (apples, pears, and grapes) see your county agent. He will be glad to help you or give you a bulletin describing the different sprays.

Through deeds it is that one becomes a noble.—Sutta.

FOURTH GRADE STUDENTS GIVE THEIR VERSION OF PLANE RIDE

Fourth Grade Of Clanton Grammar School Gets Free Ride Over City As Guest Of Mr. Wade In His Trim Monocoupe; Class Study Travel

My Airplane Ride

By Carolyn Reeves—Age 10

As I was up beyond the sky,
And, oh, I was so very high,
It seems as if I had just left the ground,
When all of a sudden I saw the town.
When I first saw my house,
It looked small as a mouse.
Not a big thing was to be found,
When I looked down to the ground.

My Trip To The Airport

By Peggy Murrain—Age 9

It was so much fun to us,
To go to the airport on a bus.
The day was very fair
When we went for a ride in the air.
Everything in town was so very small,
It didn't look like Clanton at all;
Houses looked like doll houses to me,
It was a mighty fine sight to see.

My Airplane Ride

By Joan Billingsley—Age 9

On Wednesday, March 6, my class went to the airport to learn more about airplanes. We went on Mr. McKennon's school bus. It was my very first time to be in a school bus, and it was so much fun. Mr. McKennon did not mind taking us and we appreciate it ever so much. We saw many interesting kinds of houses and buildings on our way to the airport.

When we first got there Mr. Wade asked us which plane we wanted to learn the most about. Both were very beautiful. One was just yellow and the other a purple and yellow monocoupe, which was his. We told him the purple and yellow one. He showed us the controls and many other interesting things about it. A Negro came up and turned the propeller around and around. Slowly the monocoupe rolled out. I could hardly wait for my time to come to go up. At last Miss Manning said Peggy and I could go up next. Boy was we glad! Up, up, up, we went and oh how much fun it was! I didn't know we had left the ground until I looked and found we were high in the sky. It was not at all what I expected. How smooth it did go! Oh how little everything looked. My school looked like a doll house, and oh, how tiny and queer the boys looked playing ball. The ball looked like a fly flying through the air! We are passing over the court house, and soon on our way back to the airport. It had been the most thrilling trip I have ever had. There were so many to go up and only two at a time could go up, so we didn't have but a five or ten minute ride and it wasn't long until my time was up.

When we came down we thanked him for carrying us up. We asked him to come over about ten o'clock to the school and do some stunts for us and we are still expecting him.

While the rest of us had their time we played in the hangar. Soon it was time to go home. We got in the bus and was soon at the school. We got out and thanked Mr. McKennon for taking us to the airport. Oh! what a joyful day I had!

Our Trip To The Airport

By June Fore—Age 10

Our class had been studying travel so we decided to go to the airport, and learn all we could about airplanes.

Mr. McKennon, the bus driver, was very kind to take us to the airport in his bus.

When we got there we got out of the bus in a hurry and ran to the hangar. Mr. Wade showed us the inside of his plane and how to work the rudder. It was a purple and yellow monocoupe.

A Negro man came up and turned the propeller around a few times and Mr. Wade said "Contact" and the Negro man said "Contact." Then they rolled the plane out of the hangar.

We took times about going up in the plane. Soon it was my time! Oh, boy! and was it fun! We went up so high in the air. I never dreamed things looked so small from the air. Before I knew it I was over the school house. We went over the hotel. I found my house, too. Then my ride came to an end. What fun it had been! We came down and others went up, and then we went back to the school.

If you wish success in life, make perseverance your bosom friend, experience your wise counsellor, caution your elder brother, and hope your guardian genius.—Addison.

PRIVY BUILDING TO BE PUSHED

With the addition of twelve men by WPA to the County's privy building crew, an intensified drive to sanitize the County is to be conducted by the local Health Department, it was announced in a weekly news release. The increase in WPA workers brings the total up to twenty-three. Mr. Marvin E. Compton of Montgomery has been assigned as foreman for the project. A pick-up and gasoline and oil is to be provided by WPA for transportation of the men out into the County. Units of workers are to be assigned to Clanton, Cooper, Maplesville and Jewson.

The drive is to be aimed first at the municipalities and thickly populated unincorporated communities. Mr. Fred H. Buckelew, County Sanitation Officer, estimates that there are 37 houses not available to the sewer in Clanton which need sanitary privies. At least 22 of these are in the vicinity of Alabama Mills. Property owners were warned that the Health Department would not hesitate to employ legal measures to enforce the building of privies and connections to the city sewer. Local City authorities are said to have given the Health Department assurance of wholehearted cooperation in the enforcement of the Sanitary Ordinance.

Dr. Sturkie, County Health Officer, is of the opinion that Chilton County is now in a fine position to carry on one of the best privy building programs in the State. He urges property owners to take advantage of the golden opportunity for free WPA labor. Referring to the unsanitary houses near the mill (but not belonging to the Mill), he said these "stuck out like a sore thumb in Clanton, blighting the cleanliness of the City and menacing the health of the community."

Actual cost of a privy is now limited to the cost of material which is $19.54 delivered complete.

Power Contract Approved

A contract under which the Alabama Power Company will furnish current to the Coosa Valley Electric Cooperative, now under construction has been approved by the State Public Service Commission.

Under terms of the contract, described as identical with those between the power company and other REA-sponsored cooperatives, the Coosa Valley organization will pay a maximum monthly average of 125 cents per kilowatt hour for the first three years. After that, the rate will be based on energy used.

A purpose underlies character, culture, position, attainment of every sort.—Munger.

A very interesting program was given by the Helen Keller Literary Society on Friday night March 15. The program consisted of music and plays by the two clubs. The play "If Wishes Were Horses" given by the Pushmataha Club was awarded the point for being the better of the two. The Philomath Club presented the play, "The Red Lamp." A two piano piece was given by Miss Alice Burr and Margorie Bentley before the plays and the girls' quartet sang "Sylvia" between the plays.

The next meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be on April 6. Miss Alice Burr, teacher of music at Thorsby Institute, will have charge of the program.

A History Of The Finnish-Russian War

By IRVIN M. LANDE

The New Russia, guided by the dictatorial hand of Josef Stalin, seeking control in more of Europe, demanded bases from Estonia, Latvia, and Finland. The democratic little Finnish republic, not swayed by the ineffective propaganda of Russia, held out. The Soviet, realizing that if they let the Finns hold out would mean a revolution in their own country, played up to its people a border incident between the Finns and Russians. A clash inevitable when two armies are right next to each other. Organizations in Russia demanded action, and Stalin, under the pretense of saving Russia, fifty times larger than Finland, from the Finns, ordered his troops to march in another undeclared war. That was on the thirtieth of November 1939, when many Americans were offering thanks for the blessings that are theirs in the Americas. Russia's war on Finland had immense gains for the British-French Allies. Russia was now tied up with Finland, and could not send supplies to Germany. It also kept Russia busy and she could next exert pressure on the Balkans, thus enabling the Allies to extend their prestige to that area. Also, it cost Russia the respect of the civilized world, if respect means anything to a country at war.

Russia's first line of attack was through the air, where the formidable Red air force did considerable damage, but nothing like the apprehensive world expected. Finland, however, downed a goodly number of Russian bombers, but Helsinki, Viipuri, and other Finnish cities were just a mass of ruins. The war on sea was not much except that the Finns claimed to have sunk several Russian ships and submarines that attempted to land troops. But it was on land that Finland won the admiration of an emotional world. Russia's plan was to crack the Karelian Isthmus, Viipuri, and to storm the unbelievably well-prepared Mannerheim Line, named for the Finnish famous general. However, the Finnish army proved to be much better in the land of sixty degrees below zero weather than the Russian army. Stalin sent his weaker, poorly clothed, ill-fed, and older men against the Finns. But he had sixty times as many soldiers as did the Finns. Finland destroyed division after division of Red soldiers. Mannerheim, in his farewell

C. C. H. S. Announces Football Schedule For 1940

The 1940 edition of the Chilton County High School Tigers will have some keen competition for next season on the football field. Two opponents of last season have been left off the schedule, and two strong teams have been put in their places. Selma High School replaces Siliaria, and Centreville takes the place of Shelby County High of Columbiana.

Coach Spicer and his boys have their work cut out for them and it will take some hard work to break even on games won and lost for next season.

The schedule is as follows: Sept. 20—Verbena at Clanton. Sept. 27—Selma at Selma. Oct. 4—Mapleville at Clanton. Oct. 11—Isabella at Clanton. Oct. 18—Sylacauga at Clanton. Oct. 25—Centreville at Centreville. Nov. 1—Wetumpka at Wetumpka. Nov. 8—Holtville at Clanton. Nov. 15—Montevallo at Clanton.

FORMER SCS-7 EMPLOYEE PASSED AWAY RECENTLY

We were very sorry to hear that one of our well known technicians, Mr. Henry D. Melton, had passed away. Mr. Melton was a friend-maker and was liked very much by everyone who met him. He was also well acquainted with the people of this vicinity. He was employed as Junior Soil Conservationist at Camp SCS-7, Clanton, Alabama, for about one year. Under the new District set up he was transferred to the Coosa County Work Unit where he was carrying on fine work as a planning technician at the time of his death.

Before entering the service, Mr. Melton, a graduate from Auburn, was well known as a Vocational teacher and a great lover of sports in the Dothan, Alabama District, where he taught for a number of years.

COTTON AND TICKING TO BE SUPPLIED TO LOW-INCOME FAMILIES OF COUNTY

A Cotton Mattress Demonstration program under which low income families will be supplied with cotton and ticking for mattresses has been started in Chilton County, according to a joint announcement this week by J. W. Fant, county agent, and Miss Mattie Jo Barber, home demonstration agent.

This is an Extension Service program in cooperation with the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and other agencies in the county. It is designed to make part of the cotton surplus available to low income families who will be taught by the home demonstration agents and other mattress making workers, to make comfortable mattresses for home use.

According to information given the Extension office in this county, the following provisions are to be followed: 1. Secretary Wallace has defined "low-income family" to mean any family having a total income (not including products raised for home consumption) of not more than $400. At least one-half of the income must be derived from agricultural operations. 2. Applications for this assistance will be made to the community chairman, or to designated home demonstration workers. Each application will be for (Continued on Farm Page)

ARAH EDITH SIMS DIED FOLLOWING OPERATION

Arah Edith Sims, age 30, died in a Montgomery hospital at 6:15 Thursday afternoon, March 21, following an operation. Her death came quite unexpectedly to her friends in Clanton.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. Loren Smith, of the Rev. J. L. Daniel, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church, in charge. Interment was in the Mt. Hebron cemetery in Elmore County, with Min & Sons in charge.

Bereaved were Flen Higgins, Buck Roberts, Robert Sumner, Gene Gore, Mrs. Loren Smith, Mrs. Joe Jones and Mrs. James Mollison, all of Clanton; two brothers, Rucker of Alabama, and Benson of Clanton.

PNEUMONIA IS A LEADING "KILLER" IN THIS COUNTY

Fourteen lives were claimed during the first two months of 1940 in Chilton County by pneumonia, a Health Department bulletin reveals. During the time only nineteen cases were reported by physicians to the Health Department. Due to incomplete reports this represents only a portion of actual number of cases which occurred, it was suggested by the Health Department.

The information of the public health Department has listed a number of important facts regarding pneumonia: 1. Pneumonia is caused by a germ which are thirty-two known types, I, II, III, VIII, V and VII are most common. Types I and II cause 76 per cent of cases begin with "croupy cold." (3) There is no reliable serum given in the vein for treatment of types I, II, V, VII, VIII and XIV. These serums have reduced the fatality rates of types I and II from 71 and 76 per cent respectively to 17 per cent and 47 per cent. The objection to serum is that they are expensive.

There is also available now and used by many Chilton County physicians a new chemical known as "cold" which is as effective as serum without being so costly to the patient.

A procedure which is now recommended by medical experts is (a) first get a specimen of the sputum for culture and mail to the laboratory. (b) wait for report before beginning treatment. (c) If the patient does not respond to the drug within 24 hours, in the serum corresponding to the germ which has been shown to be the cause and administer.

Either serum or sulfapyridine to be given must be given early. Oxygen given intranasally is valuable in severe cases of pneumonia.

The following are the typical symptoms of pneumonia: Begins suddenly with a chill, pain in the chest, cough, coming on a "cold," and expectorates during first 24 hours typical "rusty" sputum. Temperature of 102 or 103 or higher, restlessness with a grunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Veazey and son of Fairfield visited Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Martin last Sunday.

Local Merchants Urge Use Of Ala. Products

This week has been designated by Governor Dixon as "Use Alabama Products Week," and Clanton merchants are cooperating with the move to encourage the use of products of our own State. In this issue of the News will be found a large advertisement by Clanton merchants who are behind the movement.

By using products grown and made in Alabama, we not only keep money at home but boost our industries and farms. The Alabama State Chamber of Commerce is behind this program, and this week special emphasis is being placed on what our own great State produces. Be sure to ask "Was it made in Alabama?"

NINE JAILED

According to the jail commitment record at the office of Sheriff Culp, nine persons were placed in jail during the past week, as follows:

Assault and battery, 1; Public drunkenness, 5; Driving while intoxicated, 2; Assault with intent to murder, 1.

Cutting Affray Here Saturday Afternoon

Bartley Billingsley, resident of the Highland community, was seriously cut by Reddie Traywick of near Clanton, here last Saturday afternoon. According to Deputy Sheriff Ed Littlejohn, the affray took place back of the Wadsworth Theatre in an alley. Traywick was placed in jail charged with Assault with intent to murder. Billingsley was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital in a Martin ambulance where attendants stated his condition at the time of this writing is fair. He received several stabs and slashes about the body apparently inflicted by a very sharp knife.

Cause of the trouble was said to be over family affairs. Billingsley was the father-in-law of Traywick.

WIDENING OF SECOND AVENUE IS NOW WELL UNDERWAY

With the use of WPA labor, the City of Clanton is rapidly going forward with the widening and grading of second Avenue from the intersection of the Ketchikan road to the Clanton-Selma highway.

This street has needed improvements for some time, being an important thoroughfare. Mayor Jones stated that if the property owners on this street preferred pavement, he felt sure federal aid could be secured as in the case of the recent extensive paving project in other sections of the city. He voiced his desire to secure a water drainage and paving project on this street if it met with the approval of the property owners who would lend their cooperation.

Extension of the waterworks system has been going forward extensively in North Clanton. Completion of the work in this section will be in the near future, it is understood.

ALABAMA JERSEY CATTLE CLUB MEETING IN BIRMINGHAM FRI

County Agent J. W. Fant stated this week that the spring meeting of the Alabama Jersey Cattle Club will be held at Birmingham on March 29-Friday.

The meeting will be held in the Redmont Hotel and will begin at 9:00 A.M. The forenoon will be given over to a discussion of work of the organization and of the strides made in dairy work in Alabama during recent years. In the afternoon the group will visit three of the most outstanding Jersey herds in Jefferson County.

A number of prominent speakers will be present including officials of the American Jersey Cattle Club and John L. Liley, Jr., economist of the Alabama Extension Service. All breeders and dairymen are cordially invited to attend the meeting. Mr. Fant wishes as many Chilton dairymen as possible to attend.

WATSON SMITH

Mr. Watson Smith passed away Sunday, March 24, at the Central Alabama Hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Funeral services were held from the Verberna Church Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock conducted by the Rev. Hambrick. Interment was in the Verberna cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Surviving are the widow and six brothers, J. W. Smith, Clanton Rte. 4, W. E. of Deatsville Route 1, J. T. of Mt. Creek Route 4 S. A. of Clanton Route 4, O. B. of Jemison, H. R. of Titus Route 2, 1 sister, Mrs. N. O. Martin of Phenix City.

Arnold Bryant was home for the Spring holidays. He is a student at Athens College.

Will Have Charge Of Conference Program

W. A. HARRELL

The Fifth State Baptist Training Union Association Officers' Conference will be held at the First Baptist Church, Birmingham, Alabama, on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 2 and 3, according to Rev. Chester L. Quarles, State Baptist Training Union Secretary of Montgomery. The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock on the first day and will close at approximately noon on the next day.

A very interesting and helpful program has been arranged by the Southwide and State Training Union Departments. Mr. W. A. Harrell, Association work of Nashville, Tennessee, will be in charge of the program. Outstanding Southwide and State Baptist leaders will appear on the program; also, Alabama associational officers.

80,098 Rats

The local Health Department gives out some interesting data regarding the rat eradication campaign now underway in the City of Clanton.

The campaign is under supervision of the Health Department. WPA labor is being used about 17 men—and the poison and bait, also the traps are being furnished by the City. So far it is estimated that 80,098 rats have been eradicated. Here's how the supervisors reach this figure:

Enough bait has been taken by rats to poison 77,765. The follow-up of traps netted, by count, 2,33. This totals 80,098. The average cost of poisoning a rat is .0105 (you figure that out). It has been proved that it costs somebody $2.00 per year to feed one rat, not including the destruction it causes. By this one may see that a neat sum will be saved through this campaign, to say nothing of the improved sanitary and health conditions.

Fred Buckelew, County Sanitation officer, tells us that this program will last for several more weeks. He is pleased with the progress made so far.

Next Thursday Is Day Set For "Old Hoss Sale"; Many Still Asking "Whose Horses To Be Sold"

Next Thursday night, April 4th, is the date. The time has been set for 7:30. Of course you know what we're talking about; the "Old Hoss Sale," of course.

From comments heard here and there, interest has reached a high pitch in this coming event. Many, however, who have heard and read about the "Old Hoss Sale" are still wondering just what it is all about. Well, we'll begin by saying that first, it is to be the biggest event in the history of Chilton County, and for the benefit of those who failed to read our explanation of what an "Old Hoss Sale" is several weeks ago, we repeat:

Years ago—we'd say thirty or forty, maybe—the railroads of the country would accumulate a large number of packages that for various reasons never reached their destination, such as lack of sufficient address, uncalled for and the like. About once every year, when the storage houses were almost filled, the railroad company would stage what they called an "Old Hoss Sale." This event was usually advertised widely and the procedure was on the same order of an auction sale, except that no one knew the contents of each package, and that's where the fun came in. The packages were auctioned off to the highest bidder, who took a chance on what the package he bid on would contain. All the railroad wanted out of the sale was merely storage fee.

Many times the buyer would open his package to find valuable merchandise inside—all his. Of course there were times when the package contained some item of intrinsic value, but the bid was never high anyway and he had the pleasure of anticipating some valuable, anyway.

RURAL MAIL CARRIER EXAMINATION ANNOUNCED

An examination for rural mail carrier to fill a vacancy at Clanton will be held within the near future it was announced by the Civil Service Commission this week.

Application blanks may be secured at the post office at Clanton. Receipt of applications will close on April 12, and the date of examination will be stated on admission cards mailed to applicants after the close of receipt of applications. The examination will be held on that date. The examination, the Commission announced, will be open only to citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of the post office where the vacancy exists, who have been actually domiciled there for six months next preceding the closing date for receipt of applications, and who meet the other requirements. Both men and women, if qualified, may enter this examination.

LOCAL GAS MEN ATTEND CONVENTION IN BIRMINGHAM

The annual Shell Convention was held in Birmingham at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel last Thursday night, and was attended by gas and oil dealers from over the State. Those attending from Clanton were: Horsley, White, agent; Clifford Manning, Paul Williamson and Willie Hays.

HEALTH SECTION THIS WEEK

This week readers of the News will notice a rotogravure insert which is being featured by the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association. Very graphically the value of the X-ray in the diagnosis of Tuberculosis is shown in pictures.

There are few subjects about which the average reader needs more enlightenment than this. He who reads and studies this insert will be receiving a refund of the pennies he spent for Christmas seals last December.

Voters List Will Be Published Next Week

Next week a list of the qualified voters of Chilton County will be carried in a separate section of the News. This list, recently completed by the Probate office, will be published according to law. Those voters whose names do not appear are asked to contact the Probate office so that their names will appear in the supplement list to be published at a later date.

REV. S. J. EZELL TO PREACH AT CLANTON BAPTIST SUNDAY

The Rev. S. J. Ezell, of Birmingham, former pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church and now State Superintendent of Evangelism, will fill the pulpit here next Sunday in the absence of the Rev. Oscar A. Davis who is conducting a revival in Rowland, N. C. Rev. Ezell served as pastor of the local Baptist Church for fifteen years and his return to this pulpit will be of interest to Clanton residents who will want to hear him again.

Of course the Clanton Kiwanis Club, which is sponsoring this affair, hasn't accumulated a lot of unidentified packages, but the idea is patterned after the old custom. It has been done by other civic organizations in the past.

A number of manufacturers of various products were written and an explanation made of the proposed sale here. They were asked if they would like to donate some merchandise they manufacture, to the cause, and the response has been marvelous. Everything from shoe polish to bed spreads have been received, and the value of the merchandise received to date has been estimated at near $1,500—all free. These articles will be wrapped in packages, and will be placed on sale the night of the big doings and the prospective buyers will not know what they are getting but are certainly assured they will get merchandise valued at least twice as much as they will have to pay for it, for no package will be sold for over ten cents, except some of the more expensive articles which will be auctioned off. It will be lots of fun, and those attending will have a chance to get real merchandise at bargain prices. The proceeds will go into the Club's treasury to carry on its 1940 program.

Everything is about ready for the big event on the night of April 4th—the packages have all been wrapped and believe you us when we say there's a pile of them. The place of the "Old Hoss Sale" is in the building just south of Burdette Service Station on the highway. This building was formerly occupied by the Fore Motor Co.

You are urged to be on hand and enjoy an evening of entertainment as well as one of profit for everybody.

Lighting Local Ball Park Discussed

Now that the new Chilton County High School is nearing completion, attention is being turned to the prospects of lighting the adjoining ball park. There has been quite a bit of discussion recently regarding the cost, advisability, etc.

One of Clanton's civic organizations has been investigating the matter in the belief that it would be an asset to Clanton from several angles. Contact has been made with other towns that have recently erected lights on their parks, and statistics show that this endeavor will not only prove successful from a recreational standpoint but from a financial angle as well.

Night gatherings of any nature will be made possible with the installation of the lights. The cost ranges in the neighborhood of $3,000. Night ball games will draw larger crowds it has been proven, and the undertaking will pay for itself within a few months with the increased attendance.

Cost of lighting the field would possibly be borne by the County, City and Board of Education if a satisfactory agreement could be reached.

Recruiting Branch Station In Clanton

Beginning last Saturday, March 23 a branch office of the Birmingham Naval Recruiting Station will be maintained at the courthouse in Clanton every other Saturday for the purpose of enlisting eligible young men into the U. S. Navy. An extensive drive is at present underway to enlist men, and those interested are requested to keep this in mind. April 6 will be the next date this office will be open here.

ISABELLA STUDENT WILL REPRESENT CHILTON IN DIST. ORATORICAL CONTEST

Warren Keen, a student of Isabella High School, R.F.D. 1, Maplesville, will represent this county in the congressional district finals of The Birmingham News-Age-Herald oratorical contest to be held at Uniontown Tuesday night, April 9. This contestant is a son of L. C. Keen of Clanton.

Warren is an outstanding pupil, and an orator of unusual ability. The winner in the district finals will represent the district at the state finals to be held at Birmingham April 26. Birmingham-Southern College will award a four-year scholarship, valued at $800 to the state champion, and The News-Age-Herald will award cash prizes to state finalists and will pay road fare and hotel bill for each visiting state finalist and chaplain.

A large number of people are expected to accompany this county's representative to the district competition. The contest will start at 8:00 o'clock. There will be no admission charge. The public is invited.

YOUNG MAN LOSES HAND IN ACCIDENT SATURDAY

Napoleon Johnson, of near Lomax, lost his right hand in an accident near Lomax last Saturday night. It is understood that young Johnson fell under the wheels of a fast train that was passing. He was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital here where Dr. V. J. Granger rendered surgical aid. He also received a severe blow on the head. His condition is reported by hospital attendants as "good."

CLANTON YOUNG MAN GETS PROMOTION AND TRANSFER

Sidney Nelson, likable young man of Clanton has recently been promoted to assistant manager of the Amure V.J. Elmore Five and Ten Store.

Sidney has been connected with this concern in Clanton for some time and his friends will be glad to learn of his merited promotion, but will be sorry to know that his work takes him away from Clanton.

JOSEPH N. CONNELL

Mr. Joseph N. Connell, age 74, died at his residence March 25 at 11:40 P.M. near Marbury, Alabama. Funeral services were held at 2:30 P.M. March 27, from the Marbury Baptist Church with the Rev. Castleberry in charge. Interment was in the nearby cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home of Clanton in charge.

Surviving is the widow; three sons, J. L. T. Connell of Marbury, J. T. Traywick, a step-son, of Winter Haven, Fla.; 5 daughters Mrs. John Folmar of Tallahassee, Mrs. Fred Dennis of Marbury, Mrs. P. R. Armistead, Birmingham, Mrs. H. H. Jacks of Birmingham and Mrs. A. L. Nixon of Montgomery. Several grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren also survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Taylor and small son of Birmingham, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Roland Taylor.

EASTVIEW CHILD IS VICTIM OF RIFLE BULLET

HARMON EARL PATTERSON, AGE 9, ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY BROTHER WHILE PLAYING

For the third time within the past year, tragedy has stalked in the homes of Chilton County residents and taken the life of a child while playing with an "unloaded gun." Harmon Earl Patterson, age 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Patterson of the Eastview community about seven miles south of Clanton, died last Sunday morning a short while after a bullet from a .22 rifle entered his neck just below the left ear. The gun was held by his young brother who accidentally discharged it while the two were playing near their home.

Investigation revealed that the children were unaware that the gun was loaded. The child was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital here but lived only a very short while. The bullet went clear through the child's neck.

Funeral services were held from the Bethel Church Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock with the Rev. Tucker and the Rev. High in charge. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery with J. M. Martin & Sons in charge.

Bereaved were Harmon Earl Patterson, Gene Williams, Nell Deussion, Johnnie Sue Collins, Nellie Hudman, Myrtle Taylor and Gladys Mae Traywick.

Surviving are his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS POPLAR SPRINGS SINGING

One of, if perhaps not the largest, crowds ever to attend a singing in this County gathered at the Poplar Springs Church, three miles south of Clanton, last Sunday for the annual Easter all-day singing. The occasion offered draws singers and visitors from out of the state, and is looked forward to each year by hundreds.

MISS FLORA JANE ABNEY AMONG THE LUCKY GROUP

When the senior class at Alabama College, Montevallo, drew lots last week, Miss Flora Jane Abney of Maplesville was among the lucky group who drew numbers, assigning them rooms in the new and modernistic Julia Tutwiler Hall which P.W.A. officials have turned over to the College early this month. Besides the spacious, airy living quarters, Tutwiler has a large recreation and fun room in the basement, flanked on each side by lounges, a terrace overlooking the lower campus and swimming pool, and a number of private date parlors. This new senior dormitory, housing 102 additional students, has been pronounced by Southern architects as being one of the most beautiful of its kind on any woman's college campus in the country, with its special interior appointments carefully selected by the art faculty of Alabama College.

Pool Room Burglarized Last Monday Night

The Pastime Pool Room, belonging to P. A. Taylor was broken into and burglarized last Monday night. The entire stock of cigarettes, valued at fifteen dollars, was taken, along with a handful of pennies in the cash register.

The burglar, or burglars, entered the building by prying open a back window and removing the wire grill. The robbery was discovered by Night Office B. R. Plyler, who notified Mr. Taylor. So far no trace of the guilty party has been found.

PUBLIC ASKED TO OBSERVE VISITING HOURS AT HOSPITAL

The management of the local Central Alabama Hospital asked the News to request the public to please observe the visiting hours at the hospital in the future. Difficulty has been experienced in the past due to neglect of these rules by the people. Visiting hours are as follows:

8:30 A.M. to 11:00 A.M.
3:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M.
7:00 P.M. to 8:30 P.M.

DAVID RUSE GRIFFIN ON AUBURN "DEAN'S LIST"

One student from Chilton County is among the 71 juniors and seniors whose high scholarship in the first semester placed them on the "Dean's List" at Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He is David Ruse Griffin of Thorsby. These students rank in the upper five per cent in scholastic standing in their various schools and are entitled to unlimited class absences.

WPA LISTS ACCOMPLISHMENTS IN ALABAMA UNDER PROGRAM

Covers Roads, Bridges, Streets, Airports And Airways And The Field Of Transportation In General

First of A Series, by BILLY SMITH

A report, the first of a series listing accomplishments of the Work Projects Administration in Alabama since the beginning of the program in July, 1935, through December 31, 1939, was released today by Colonel W. G. Henderson, WPA Administrator for Alabama.

This first report supplements a national accomplishment report from Washington showing what the WPA has done throughout the nation and covers roads, bridges, streets, airports, and airways and the field of transportation in general. It showed that during the four and one-half years of WPA in Alabama, work has been done on 16,211 miles of highways, roads and streets, or slightly more than thirty-five per cent of the total number of miles of roads in the State. Of this total, 15,520 miles are farm-to-market roads; 1,094 miles were paved; 996 miles were new roads; 98 miles reconstructed or improved.

Only that work which had been completed was shown in this summary of accomplishments. Colonel Henderson pointed out. Although the period covered by the report is four and one-half years, WPA operations did not reach full development until near the end of 1938. The report does not cover work done under CWA or the FERA.

During this period, WPA constructed 6,847 new bridges and viaducts in Alabama with a total length of 180,948 feet; 1,927 bridges and viaducts were reconstructed or improved. Of this total, 5,276 wooden bridges and viaducts were constructed new and 1,563 improved; 647 were new steel bridges and 214 improved; 924 masonry bridges constructed new and 150 improved; 28,274 new culverts were constructed and 2,941 improved or repaired. To improve the drainage along roads, there were 1,988 miles of new ditches constructed and 1,950 miles improved. Sixty miles of new roadside drainage pipe were installed.

These totals of bridges constructed or improved and viaducts and culverts include those culverts of a few feet in width to large bridges of several hundred feet throughout the State many of which are large steel and concrete structures.

Airports And Airways

Of note and shown by this report of WPA accomplishments in Alabama is the work done to construct and improve the State's airports and airways. Nine new hangars have been constructed, nine improved. Three commercial airports received extensive improvements by WPA labor and one military airport constructed. Two military airports were improved and 8 emergency fields improved, with one new construction. Two landing fields were constructed and 12 improved; 24,273 feet of runways were paved.

Twelve new airport buildings were constructed and one addition built. Considerable work was also done toward landing field drainage, installing field boundary lights, air markers and beacons.

Streets, Sidewalks

In the towns and cities of Alabama, streets and sidewalks came in for a goodly portion of new construction and improvements by WPA labor. New sidewalks constructed totalled 215 miles and 303 miles of walks were improved.

Of this amount, 183 1/2 miles were new paved walks and repair work done on 110 1/2 miles of paved walks. Over thirty miles of new unpaved walkways were constructed and 192 1/2 miles improved.

Along the streets of Alabama towns and cities, WPA constructed 231 miles of new curbs and 66 1/2 miles of new gutters. Improvements were made to 19 1/2 miles of existing gutters. Four miles of new guardrails and guardwalls were constructed and adding to Alabama's safety of traffic, 18,689 traffic signs were erected.

Work on urban streets and alleys totalled 663.2 miles. Of this amount 420.3 miles were paved streets; 343 miles of new construction. Improvements were made to 76.9 miles of paved streets and to 242.9 miles of unpaved streets.

In public parks and on school grounds 43 miles of streets and driveways were either constructed or improved.

Improvements were made to 521 1/2 miles of roadsides which included such work as cutting down banks for better vision on curves and otherwise promoting safety and the general appearance of roads.

Waterway transportation received some of the WPA improvements made in Alabama when one 200-foot pier was constructed to improve shipping facilities.

Another report or inventory of accomplishments by WPA and which will cover public buildings, public utilities sanitation and other items in Alabama will be released upon its completion. Col. Henderson stated, and will be followed by an accounting of all accomplishments on professional and service projects.

JARMAN, O'NEAL CONFER ON FARM RELIEF PROBL'MS

PLANS MADE TO PUSH PARITY BILL REPORT FOR $16,000,000 FOR ALABAMA FARMERS

By ATTICUS MULLIN

In The Montgomery Advertiser Washington, D. C., March 18.—It was developed at a luncheon attended by the Alabama delegation in the House last week that the whole Alabama delegation has constituted itself a committee of one to proselyte among other State delegations to insure the passage of the conference committee parity bill report which will mean more than $16,000,000 to the farmers of Alabama.

Haygood Paterson, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries of Alabama; Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and the writer were guests in the private dining room of Speaker Bankhead, in the capitol. It was at this luncheon that Congressman Jarman brought out that the Alabama delegation in the House had work to do and plenty of it.

"We are anxious to help," said Congressman Jarman in speaking directly to President O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation. What can we do in the very probable event the Senate puts farm parity and white-fringed beetle control and other farm benefits back into the agricultural appropriation bill?

"Work like hell on delegations from those states which vote against the farmer when the bill is in the House," was the advice of Ed O'Neal.

Congressman Jarman is a staunch friend of the farmer of Alabama, favors farm parity and always has since he entered the House. He not only has made an enviable record aiding the farmers but he has been invaluable in assistance to veterans. He is a veteran himself and the entire Alabama delegation praises him for his work for the veterans and the farmers.

The irony of fate, an accident that sometimes happens, prevented Congressman Jarman from voting for the farm parity bill last year. As is known, Congressmen who are busy doing something do not waste their time on the floor listening to dull debates. They are in their offices attending to matters that affect their constituents.

On the day the farm parity bill was voted on last year Congressman Jarman was in his office attending to a detail brought up by one of his constituents who was visiting Washington. The farm parity bill was being discussed on the floor and when a vote was called for, an attaché of the House pushed the button that was to ring the bell in the offices of all congressmen. It did not ring in Jarman's office. After awhile Jarman became nervous, left his office which is in the Capitol building and went to the floor of the House and found that the roll was being called and his name had been passed by. Many congressmen, in similar predicament, to go to the well of House and say they did not hear their name called and are allowed to vote, but Jarman is not one to lie, even about such as that.

Commissioner Paterson was delighted to hear every Alabama congressman in response to Jarman's invitation and Ed O'Neal's command, join in the fight for farm parity and the proselytizing that is to follow. "Jarman struck a popular chord," said Paterson. "and I was glad to find Alabama's representatives solidly backing the farmers of the nation and particularly Alabama."

The luncheon was attended by every member of the Alabama delegation in the House with the exception of Congressman Starnes who was back in Alabama in his own district. Speaker Bankhead was present and is solidly behind the movement to get farm parity back into the bill through a conference committee. He was glad Jarman brought the matter up. Jarman has not only the congressmen from Alabama with him, but also the senators. The latter were so busy with the Hatch bill, they could not attend the congressional luncheon.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is on the job for the farmers of nation. The writer had a chance to talk to him in Washington and he feels that the Senate is certain to put parity and other necessary farm items in the agricultural appropriation bill. He has the word of Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, and Senator Russell, of Georgia, to say nothing of the words of many Republican senators. O'Neal's organization is strong, not only in Alabama and the South, but in many Republican states and he has to hobnob with Republicans as well as Democrats. He does a good job of it.

Alabama's Cotton Yield

In 1920 Alabama's per acre yield of cotton was 181 pounds per acre. In 1916 it was 95 pounds per acre because of the serious boll weevil infestation. By 1938 it had climbed to 251 pounds per acre, largely because of better varieties, better fertilization and better cultivation methods.

Dynamite and Ink

DYNAMITE and ink represent just two of the hundred and two different items, produced in Alabama, purchased by Alabama Power Company during 1939, at a total expenditure of over 1 1/2 million dollars.

These purchases are representative of our policy to buy Alabama-made products for use in the operation of our business, to whatever extent possible, when price and quality are equal.

Every purchase of Alabama-produced goods by Alabama citizens contributes to the welfare of the Alabama men and women engaged in their production. Such purchases mean jobs!

Every Alabama citizen can aid in the development of Alabama by such purchases for daily needs. Among the thousands of Alabama products of good quality which Alabamians can buy at suitable prices are foodstuffs and clothing, furniture and furnaces, paint, pipe and roofing—in fact, almost everything in the way of food, clothing and shelter. Also included in the list of Alabama-produced goods are hundreds of items suitable for use by business, industry and agriculture.

Our policy of purchasing Alabama-made products wherever possible is but another demonstration of our desire to live up to being "a private agency for the public good."

Culling Hens To Improve Laying Stock

By B. T. Whittington, Voc. Agriculture Teacher, Chilton County Tr. School

In studying the job of building up a flock that will pay. The answer to this question is: How can I get a laying flock that will pay? The answer to this is as follows: Study your flock and then cull to separate the layers from the non-layers.

The first thing to know is the time to do your culling, and how to cull. The time for culling is during the early laying season, then you can observe the condition of the comb and wattles of the layers and non-layers; the condition of the vent of layers and non-layers; condition of the eyes, shanks, beak, ears and eye ring of layers and non-layers. A good layer must be contented and vigorous.

Along with your observation of the above mentioned characteristics, you must use the abdominal measurements of layers and non-layers. In taking these measurements you take the hen in your left hand by the feet with the vent turned up where you can conveniently use your fingers of the right hand. Two fingers should easily fit into the pelvic bone (at the vent) parallel to the standing position of the hen and three fingers perpendicular to the standing position of the hen; this is an essential guide in selecting good layers.

Preparations To Plant Beans Should Be Made

Those who plan to plant beans for the market should get the land prepared and the fertilizer in place, says County Agent J. W. Fant. To produce a good crop of early beans requires a heavy application of fertilizer. This fertilizer should be placed in the ground several days before the beans are planted to prevent the fertilizer from damaging the plants when the seed germinates.

Indications are that about 1,000 pounds of bean seed have been purchased. If all those who indicated interest in this project plant the acreage they subscribed it will take about 2,500 pounds of bean seed. If you haven't purchased your seed I believe it will be to your advantage to get them right away. Should every one try to get seed during the first week in April there might be a shortage of seed and delay planting thereby handicapping marketing.

To make this project successful every one should do the following:

1. Use Black Valentine Beans.
2. Plant at least 30 pounds of seed per acre.
3. Use 800 to 1,000 of 4-10-4 fertilizer.
4. Select fertile, well-drained land.
5. Prepare land as early as possible.
6. Get fertilizer in the ground as soon as possible.
7. Plant beans during first week in April.
8. After beans are up, side-dress with 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre.
9. Cultivate shallow and often.

Many farmers have prepared the land and put the fertilizer in the ground. If you haven't done this it as soon as possible. Get your seed now in order that more seed may be ordered in if there is not enough on hand now.

More Food And Feed

The AAA program has released an average of four acres per farm from cotton production, which can be used to produce more food and more feed for produce more food and more feed for work stock on the farm.

Mattress Program

50 pounds of cotton and 10 yards of ticking which is the amount needed for a full-size double mattress.

3. The County AAA committee will review the applications to determine whether the family applying is in the low-income group. The committee will make use of AAA data in the county AAA office in determining the income of the family. Orders for the material will be prepared by the county AAA office.

4. The home demonstration agent will train community leaders who will serve as chairman of the program in each community.

6. Trained mattress-making demonstrators will be available in each community to help the selected families make the mattresses with materials furnished by the FSCC.

6. One or more members of the family will go to the designated place in the community where the cotton and ticking material will be available for making mattresses.

7. It will be necessary for each family to provide their own mattress-making needles, thread and cord for making when constructing the mattresses.

8. Each family which receives a mattress agrees that the mattress will be used by the family and not traded or sold or otherwise disposed of.

The Extension agents pointed out that additional details of the plan will be given upon request at the County Extension office.

Community chairmen have been named to serve in Chilton County's cotton mattress campaign which is being conducted by the Extension Service, Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, AAA and other agencies, according to Miss Barber.

Home demonstration leaders who have volunteered to act as chairmen are:

Alpine community—Mrs. A. B. Jones, Miss Annie V. Moore, Mrs. Charlie Walker.

Baker community—Mrs. T. J. Cowart, Mrs. J. A. Marcus, Mrs. W. J. Morris, Mrs. Kate Smith.

Union Grove community—Mrs. Howard Roper, Mrs. Bell Dorniney, Mrs. Littlefield, Mrs. G. L. Glasscock.

Freeman—Mrs. L. G. Pospy.

In communities where a chairman has not been named and the people desire to make application for this material, arrangements may be made for a chairman by seeing the Home Demonstration Agent.

All applications are to be made to the chairmen in the various communities and must bear the serial number appearing on the 1939 AAA work sheet. No applications will be received at the office of the Home Agent, County Agent or the AAA office.

AAA Applications Must Be Signed Before May 31, 1940

Chilton County farmers who have not filed applications for payment under the 1939 agricultural conservation program and are eligible for payment should execute applications immediately, advises J. M. Culp, chairman of the County AAA Committee. These applications must be filed in the county office on or before May 31, the closing date for filing 1939 applications.

Approximately 200, 1939 applications remain unsigned, according to M. H. Lane, County AAA Assistant. The county office has forwarded applications to the State AAA office from 85 per cent of the farmers in the county who were eligible for payments. A few checks have been delivered to farmers and several hundred are expected this week. Each farmer will be notified when his check arrives at the county office.

Seven Chilton 4-H Club Boys Will Exhibit And Sell Calves At Montgomery Calf Show

Chilton County 4-H Club boys will exhibit and sell seven calves at the Montgomery Calf Show and Sale April 9-10, announces C. L. Breedlove, assistant county agent.

Boys and girls planning to exhibit calves are: John Schumacher, Clanton, Route 3; Thomas Patterson, Clanton, Route 3; James Messer, Verbena Route 1; Earl Holley Clanton Route 6; Ellis Jones, Clanton Route 5; Joe Shoults, Lawley Route 1, and Hollis Williams, Maplesville Route 2.

Mr. Breedlove has been advised by

Dr. R. S. Sugg livestock specialist, Alabama Extension Service, Auburn, that boys and girls of 18 other Alabama counties will exhibit calves at the Montgomery show. These counties are: Montgomery, Lowndes, Macon, Dallas, Coffee, Barbour, Greene, Talladega, Perry, Escambia, Pike, Randolph, Crenshaw, Autauga, Elmore, Wilcox and Coosa.

Most of the calves to be shown at the Montgomery show are being fed home grown products such as ground shelled corn, legume hay, cottonseed meal, ground oats and velvet beans.

Chilton Farmers May Profit By Raising Good Milk Cows

The production of whole milk cream and butter offers an additional farm income to Chilton County farmers. Approximately 225 farmers are now selling cream at the three cream stations operating in this county and twenty-five to thirty farmers are furnishing whole milk to Clanton, Maplesville, Jemison and Thorsby and Verbena residents. By adding a few cows to the number now on their farm, a great many farmers could sell butter and cream at the cream stations and realize a profit.

The demand for Bangs-free cows and heifers over the state is very strong. Fluid milk dairymen are having to replace Bangs-disease cows, and many farmers are seeking cattle to establish small farm herds.

The position of Chilton County, located between the dairy producing centers of Birmingham and Montgomery, gives its farmers a good chance to supply these areas with the milk cows they need.

Dairymen desire good quality cows for their dairy herds. If Chilton County farmers expect to supply the demand of cows they must keep this in mind. By breeding good grade cows to good purebred Jersey or Guernsey bulls they may expect to get higher producing cows than we now have. It should also be remembered that for the production of dairy animals plenty of good pasture, hay and grain is necessary.

Hogs Can Be Raised At Minimum Cost

Although hog prices have declined to an unprecedented low, it is still important that farmers in Chilton County raise plenty of hogs for home use. For those who are raising hogs for the market, there are indications that pork prices will be higher this fall.

At present hog prices, it is more important than ever that hogs for home use be raised as cheaply as possible. This can be done by furnishing a grazing crop for as much of the growing season as possible and that plenty of grain be grown for furnishing the hogs.

Oats may be used for grazing hogs at the present time. Oat straw soy beans should be planted as soon as possible for grazing later in the summer. Soybeans should be grazed as soon as pods form. Both Spanish and runner peanuts may be planted for later grazing; the Spanish peanuts, maturing in September and runners in late August, September and October.

By planting plenty of grazing and grain crops, hogs can be raised cheaper on the farm for home use than they can be bought by the farmer.

Sellers of young good quality milk cows report sales prices centering between $50 to $75 per head. With this high price of milk cows and the prospect that it will continue for some time to come, the growing of good calves for sale as milk cows has become quite attractive.

Make Sure THAT YOUR COTTON GETS ENOUGH POTASH

PROFITS from cotton dwindle when the crop cannot get enough potash. Cotton rust is potash starvation. Decreased yields, more wilt injury, and poor quality lint and fiber result when soil and fertilizer do not supply plenty of this important plant food. Experimental work has shown that the value of the crop can be reduced as much as $25 per acre due to lack of potash.

A recommended application at planting time is 400-600 pounds, per acre, of a fertilizer containing 4-10% potash. At chopping time, more can be added in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser containing the equivalent of 50-100 pounds of muriate of potash.

Ask your county agent or experiment station how much potash your soil will supply and how much to add to carry your crop through to profit. Then make sure that your dealer sells you a fertilizer containing enough potash to supply what you need. You will be surprised how little extra it costs.

Write us for further information and free literature on the profitable fertilization of crops.

GRAVES URGES APPOINTMENT OF ARTHUR RIBE

THINKS BIRMINGHAM TRAFFIC ENGINEER WELL QUALIFIED TO FILL I.C.C. VACANCY

Former Governor Bibb Graves in a formal statement has endorsed Arthur J. Ribe of Birmingham, to fill the vacancy of the Interstate Commerce Commission, caused by the resignation of Marion McCaskie.

Col. Graves' statement to the press follows:

"I hope that Arthur Ribe of Birmingham will be appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission vacancy caused by the resignation of Marion McCaskie.

"Of all my acquaintances I know none better equipped than Ribe to begin at once and carry on the great work of Commissioner Caskie. Caskie is a Nationalist, not a Sectionalist. He has been ever fair to our Nation as a whole and therefore fair to every part of that whole. No member of that Commission has done more efficient or better service than he. I believe that Ribe would be in all things Caskie's worthy successor.

"The fact that our President saw fit to select two members of that Commission from Montgomery is conclusive that sectionalism is entirely disregarded. Hence I feel that Ribe's Alabama residence has no bearing upon his availability for this appointment."

"BIBB GRAVES."

C. J. Graves and U. S. Senator Lister Hill will speak to 200 industrialists who will gather in Atlanta Friday to outline what the recent Interstate Commerce Commission decision means to the South. The occasion will mark the 80th anniversary of the Atlanta Freight Bureau.

Free Our State Parks!

W. G. Lunsford, state park director, announces that the fee will be in effect during the 1940 season instead of the parking and picnic ground charges of 1939.

This change of plan is for the better. In the great State of Alabama must charge its people for enjoying their own natural beauty, then we prefer to know the cost before entering the gate rather than be harried by collectors inside. This season adults will pay 10 cents, and children 5 cents. This means that a mother and father with three young must pay 35 cents for the privilege of entering Cheaha Park, or any of the State Parks.

We're afraid the number of families including Cheaha Park in plans for Sunday afternoon drives will be materially reduced by this charge.

Of course mummy and papa for $1.00 each can buy a season pass, and for 50 cents each the kiddies may have a season pass, too. That means an expenditure of $3.50 for the family. Not many families will buy at that rate. A good many will pay the 35 cents on one visit, and look for a free spot thereafter.

The Conservation Department claims that without fees the parks cannot be operated. This being true, we'd like to see the Legislature take necessary steps next session to free the State Parks. They should be open to the public without disbursement.—Anniston Times.

Publish The Truth

No corrupt official or corrupt government can last if the truth is published. But it is not enough that the press MAY publish the truth, it MUST publish the truth if our government is to remain strong and fair. For this reason, publication of the expenditures of all public monies should be insisted upon by the tax payers. Under the guise of economy, many officials hide their guilt.—Greene County Democrat.

Chilton is one of the few counties in the State which publishes an itemized statement twice a year, showing how every penny of the tax payers' money has been spent.

Easter Sunday

Somebody else figured this out—we didn't!

Easter Sunday this year came on March 24th. The last time Easter occurred on this date was in 1799—141 years ago. The next time Easter will come on March 24th will be in 2391—451 years from now.

"Mixed corn hurts Alabama farmers," says a headline. The need of it hurts him still worse.

"He has kept us out of war!" will be a much better slogan than "He will keep us out of war!"

England has cut down the supply of "sausage skins" Uncle Sam has been shipping to her. Seems to us that that is the item England is most in need of just now.

What is a feller to do with a couple of pals who sneak right by his door on their way to Lake Talquin, and send him a post card from Quincy, like this?

Import Dollars Bring Export Orders

Exports from the United States to South America amounted to approximately $269,000,000 in the calendar year 1939, or an increase of nearly 10 per cent over the preceding year. This is the largest figure for many years and helps to offset the decline in exports to Europe resulting from the war.

"This increase in exports to South America is of great importance to the American farmer," states the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau. "Europe has had to shift its purchases here from agricultural products to military supplies. South America, on the other hand is not only buying more agricultural products from the United States, but also more industrial products, thus strengthening the farmer's domestic market."

It is pointed out that the South must export about half of its cotton and half of its tobacco, but that the South can not sell to other nations unless it also buys from them. Foreign countries can only pay for American products with American dollars, and they can only obtain American dollars by selling their own non-competitive products to the United States.

Our commerce with Chile is a good illustration of this. The Bureau states, "Total exports from the United States to Chile in 1939 amounted to $26,789,000, which is by far the largest figure for the past ten years. One of the factors which made this export trade possible was the sale of Chilean nitrate of soda in this country, amounting last year to a little over 630,000 tons."

"To receive the American market exclusively for Americans means ruin to the farmer, according to a recent statement by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, as follows:

"Apparently many people in the Northern States would like to 'prevent' any imports whatever into the United States. Their battle cry is the American market for the American producer! This battle cry rolls trippingly off the tongue, but it means death to the cotton farmer and the most serious injury to the tobacco farmer, the wheat farmer, and the hog farmer. In the long run, our stream of export products will dwindle to the same extent as our stream of imports."

Note On Dr. Collins

The Associated Press reports from Montgomery that Dr. A. H. Collins, state superintendent of education, is against the poll tax in any form. Dr. Collins takes this position knowing, of course, that the poll tax goes to the schools in the county in which it is paid.

We suppose Dr. Collins knows also that this position places him, in the minds (or is it the emotions?) Of certain persons as being in the same rank with Huey Long and other demagogues. By those same persons, the earnest and scholarly and conscientious Dr. Collins probably is now regarded as a radical, a horned Communist and a foe of Americanism.

But let Dr. Collins be assured that there are a lot of other Alabamians (and possibly a majority) who agree with him and think all the more highly of him for taking the position he has. They are the persons who think the cause of democracy would be furthered rather than injured by removing, or at least lightening, the burdensome provisions of a poll tax that operates to keep more than half of Alabama's white adult population away from the polls.—Birmingham News.

The Southern News Almanac says: "The huge cost of the war in Europe is being borne by the poor." Yes, and much of the huge cost of the last World War is still being borne by America's poor.

Washington sources state that the United States owns gold valued at $18,817,875,598.61. What is that pile of gold, most of which is buried in the hills of Kentucky, worth to ten million undernourished Americans, many of them on the verge of starvation?

Question Mark: Why should Germany launch a great military campaign on the western front or any other front when Spring opens up? Germany has already taken and holds what she wanted. Wasn't it England and France that declared war on Germany?

If we were to ask Congress what it thought of a man or corporation who owed forty billion dollars, lending money to anybody for any purpose, Congress would likely tell us the lender was crazy. Uncle Sam owes more than forty billion dollars, and Congress, the representatives of the people, who are Uncle Sam, voted to loan twenty million dollars to two other nations last week.

That University- State Capital Highway

People who travel through this section of Alabama with any degree of regularity realize forcefully that the Montgomery-Tuscaloosa Highway should be completed, and that as early as possible. The Tuscaloosa News, in an editorial, speaks the truth emphatically when it says:

"We have been told by Montgomery officials that the University highway from Tuscaloosa to Montgomery, is the most important undeveloped road in the state. We have been told that it will be improved, and we believe that we will get it."

"But when? We are an impatient people and we cannot refrain from asking that question—When? . . ."

"Will not the state highway department push this matter with all its might? It means a great deal to this county and all other counties along the way, but that isn't all; it will serve the entire west central portion of the state. No other part of Alabama is so desperately in need of decent highway connections with its capital."

We join the Tuscaloosa News in asking—when? Autauga's portion of the proposed highway has been graded and gravelled, and should be ready for the initiation of a paving project in the not distant future.

A member of the Autauga County Board of Revenue has assured The Progress that Autauga County will be in position to cooperate in a paving project at the proper time. Completion of this highway would be a great factor in the development of a portion of Autauga County which has practically no modern highway facilities, and would give Prattville an added opportunity for growth and service.—Prattville Progress.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

A man ran a market in West Worth, Canada, and his customers made use of his good nature and friendship by buying his goods on credit. Not being able to collect, his market went into the red and he was forced to close. Before closing his door he placed in the window a sign which said: "This business is compelled to close, owing to bad debts, and I am going to post the names of those who owe me and the amount owed in this window tomorrow." On reading the notice people started to dropping in and settling their bills, and before sundown the man was out of the red. Every town needs a blackboard on which to write the names of people who refuse to pay an honest debt. It might be a good idea to post publicly the small amount that some folks pay to the church. Who is it that wants his meanness and stinginess published abroad?

Ash-Wan, an old Indian, captured a small bear and carried it to his home as a pet. He and his aged wife became very fond of the cub. As the months passed, the bear grew and soon he took possession of the place. He was so strong that he pushed the old people aside and ate all the food. He even took possession of their beds, and finally drew them into the woods. They hobbled to the white man's hut and told him their story, but refused to let the white man kill the bear. Ah, my friends, how often have I seen young men and young women bring home with them bad habits. At first they seemed harmless, but they grew to master and control.

When William McKinley came to the White House as President, it was the custom for the President to take to dinner the wife of the Secretary of State, and the Secretary to escort the lady of the White House. At McKinley's first diplomatic dinner, he gave his arm to his frail, sweet-faced little wife, and escorted her to the dining room. He then seated her devotedly and took his place by her side. Happy that home when the wife knows that her husband had rather be with her than with any other woman in the world. A Christian man said to me: "Doctor, there is something in me that I cannot control; should I see my wife held close in the arms of a man in a modern dance?" Husbands, wives, you stick close together. Look out when you crave "be in the arms of another."

When Mr. McKinley was shot and was dying he said: "My wife is sleeping. Break the news gently to her."

In a few days now you, Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen, will be given the opportunity to contribute a mite to help crippled children; there is no possible negative answer to this appeal, so shell out, generously.—Alexander City Outlook.

And no surer way of building up your "creed" on the other side of the "Valley of the Shadows."

The old-fashioned man who devoted most of his time to the numerator and denominator, now has a boy and girl who devote all their time to the carburetor.—Alexander City Outlook.

Some Observations On The Poll Tax

The eight poll-tax states represent 1-6 of the number of states in this nation. But these eight states have 28 per cent of the committee chairmanships in the Senate. On major committees, this discrepancy is even greater: one-half of these committee chairmen come from the poll-tax states. This, of course, means a triumph of reaction, since the poll tax is a means of electing Tories to office and defeating liberals.

In the matter of patronage, the southern legislator is able to spread patronage on thick over a small part of the population who can vote, rather than thin over a large part of the population. He can thus give his constituents more patronage than can the legislator from the state that has no poll tax. This, naturally, helps maintain him in office.

Contrary to general conception, the white "disfranchisement" by virtue of the poll tax number more than the entire Negro population. Approximately 60 per cent of the whites are "disfranchised" and 95 per cent of the Negroes.

In the last presidential election, only 24 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls in the poll-tax states, whereas 72 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in the free states. This indicates how effectively the poll tax keeps the low-income group from going to the polls.

The defeat of the Long machine in Louisiana might not have been possible had not that state abolished the poll tax in 1934.—Alabama News Digest.

The argument—pro and con, of the Poll tax requirement, is worthy of serious consideration by the public, however, it is not for the Federal Government to project itself into the affairs of the States.—Houston Herald.

If the Federal Government has no right to project itself into the affairs of a State, then that state has no right to ask the Federal Government to assist in solving its economic problems, but should care for its own people.

Alabama Should Feed Itself

Alabama needs more industrial plants and every effort should be made to secure such industrial enterprises in the meantime, the people of this state should not lose sight of the fact that Alabama is buying approximately half of the food and feed it consumes. If two-thirds of the millions that go out of the state annually for food and feed could be kept at home it would mean prosperity for the state of Alabama.

Alabama is making improvements in its farm development, but more of its inhabitants should get back on farms. With the assistance of land owners, merchants and bankers a number of WPA workers could get out on farms and become independent. "Where there's a will there's a way."

Less than 16 per cent of the soil of Walker County is in cultivation. Some of the untillied land of the county is good farming land. There are many reasons why Walker Countians should buy about 75 per cent of their food and feedstuffs. Seventy-five per cent is a low estimate in this case.

There is plenty of productive land in Walker County and Alabama lying idle and plenty of unemployed men (insofar as private industry is concerned) to cultivate that idle land. What is the answer?

Alabama should feed itself.—Mountain Eagle.

VERMONT JR. I CLASS ENTER- TAINERS JR. III CLASS MARCH 19

The Jr. I Class of the Vermont Jr. High School chose Tuesday night, March 19, as the night for entertaining the Jr. III Class.

This entertainment was at the home of Frances Sansom. Everyone gathered in a room to play games, which were enjoyed by all. Following the games refreshments were served to the following:

Chambers, Miss Maude Roebuck, Miss Agnes Bullard, Miss Annie Klinger, Louise Sansom, Emma Lee Headley, Margie Nell Ratliff, Lillie Mae Sims, Frances Sansom, Pauline Klinger, Myrtice Milford, Kathryn Tyus, Mattie Belle White Billie Ruth Deason, Frances Tyus, Pauline Ratliff, Gloice Giles, Delene Hayes, Clyde Deavers, Leonard Turner, Willie Clyde Hill, Ishmael Ratliff, Chester Rainwater, Leonard Hayes, Johnnie Smith and Hardy Giles. Everyone seemed to enjoy the evening immensely.

Rabies and Animals

During a recent two-year period, heads of six different types of animals—dog, horse, cat, cow, hog and gray fox—were found to be positive for rabies when examined by experts of the Alabama Department of Health.

Dogwood Blossoms And Reporters

This is the time of year when reporters and editors who think they are smart begin scolding motorists crawling through the countryside for breaking dogwood hedges, etc. Well, this country boy knows that this year's dogwood blossoms grow on the year's wood growth. He also knows that when one breaks off a twig of a small limb, half a dozen new ones come out that will be full of flowers next Spring. So long as the large limbs and body of the flowering tree is not molested, pruning will not slow down the flower supply.

Something To Worry About

The unemployment in the United States is estimated to be between ten and twelve millions. That is something far more important for we Americans to be worrying about than Europe's last war which brought about our present unemployment.

600,000 1940 Chevrolets

Detroit.—Domestic production of 600,000 Chevrolets since manufacture of the 1940 models began was announced here today by M. E. Coyle, general manager, Chevrolet Motor Division, who described this volume as "the required supply to meet an unusual demand for this year's car."

"At close of business Tuesday night," said Mr. Coyle, "we had produced 597,208 units. With today's output approximately yesterday's, which was 5,822 sometime around noon we will have turned out the 292 additional cars needed to bring the total to 600,000."

"The production of six hundred thousand 1940 Chevrolets since the first units were built barely six months ago is an unusual production record. This volume is noteworthy because it is a direct reflection of buyer demand."

"The extent of this demand is indicated by the fact that in January and February, the latest period for which complete figures are available, Chevrolet retail sales in the United States were 44.6 per cent greater than for the same period in 1939."

SENIOR CLASS OF MAPLESVILLE TO PRESENT PLAY TUESDAY P.M.

"God Gracious, Grandma," a farce in three acts, will be presented by the Senior Class of Maplesville Tuesday night, April 2 at the school auditorium at 8:00 o'clock.

A number of characters includes:

Henry Breckenridge—who hates to work any time—Reuben Bearden.

George Breckenridge—his cousin, who hates the same—Henry Holding.

Mrs. Lennox—who wants her rent—Henry Dell Ratcliff.

Helen Allen—a daughter of a family friend—Froustion Houson.

Cecile Allen—Helen's younger sister—Ollie Mae Fuqua.

Clancy—a police investigator—Warren Walker.

Wiggins—his assistant—Beamon Ruthven.

Same—a negro house boy, who has no brains—Andrew Dennis.

Delicia—a negro maid—Alice Tucker.

Stage managers—W. E. Coburn, Ruby Mae Davis, Henry Clay Nix.

Prompters—Norma Jean Payne, Vivian Davis.

The overcoming of financial embarrassment, the investigations of dumb policemen, the experiences of negro characters and the narrow escapes of "Grandma" all combined, make this play an extremely funny entertainment. Don't miss the fun.

"WHEN SALLY COMES TO TOWN"

The Thomas Jr. P.T.A. will present their play "When Sally Comes to Town," at Collins Chapel School next Saturday night, March 30.

Be sure to see Uncle Josh and Sally Simple from Strawberry Center, on their first trip to New York. If you want two and one-half hours of clean fun come and bring your family. You'll get your money's worth.

Must Accept New Code "As Is"

We gather from an article by Grover C. Hall, Jr., in Monday's Montgomery Advertiser that Alabama's new code which a special committee has been preparing since the Legislature adjourned last year, must be accepted or rejected "as is." Neither the Legislature nor the committee itself can change any part of the proposed code after it is submitted, as we understand it.

Mother Slays Two Sons While They Sleep

Selma—The two young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Friday were beaten to death in their beds last Friday, and Police Chief H. L. Dickerson said "they apparently were slain by their mother."

Dickerson said Mrs. Friday, 39, was found "in a state of convulsion" by neighbors who discovered the tragedy. The chief said he was advised she had suffered periods of mental illness for two years.

The mother was taken to a hospital. The boys, Richard Friday, 10, and Eugene Friday, 14, were found in separate rooms and the house showed no signs of a struggle.

"They apparently were killed while sleeping about 9 o'clock Friday morning," Dickerson said. "A jimmy (iron) bar" was used. The bar was found on the youngest boy's bed, indicating he was the last killed. A Bible also was lying on the bed. We have learned that Mrs. Friday read the Bible continuously. We were advised she had threatened to kill the boys."

The husband, a railway fireman, was at work on his engine in the local switching yards when the tragedy in his home occurred.

Dickerson said Mrs. Friday shouted from a window of her home in mid-morning, asking them to summon a sister, that something was wrong.

Chief Dickerson said he had found

WHAT THESE SHADOWS ARE?

Early Diagnosis NOW POSSIBLE BECAUSE OF 2000 YEARS OF EFFORT AND EXPERIENCE

HIPPOCRATES

400 B.C. The Greek physician, Hippocrates, describes correctly the signs and symptoms of consumption. Modern doctors no longer wait for signs and symptoms to appear before suspecting tuberculosis because usually there are no signs and symptoms when tuberculosis begins.

KOCH

1882 The German physician, Robert Koch, discovers the tuberculosis germ. For 2,000 years doctors kept in the dark as to the cause of the disease, until Koch proved it was caused by germs which could be seen with a microscope. If your sputum, if you have tuberculosis germs can be seen, it means you are a spreader of the disease.

AUENBRUGGER

1761 An Austrian army physician, Dr. Leopold Auenbrugger, discovers that by gentle tapping with the fingers on the chest sounds are revealed which indicate changes in the lung caused by tuberculosis and other diseases. Napoleon's physician, Dr. Corvissart, made "tapping" (percussion) popular in 1808 and ever since all physicians use it.

PIRQUET

1907 A Viennese physician, Clemens von Pirquet, discovers that the presence of tuberculosis germs hidden in the body can be detected by a special test, as the tuberculin test. The physician, Dr. Mantoux, proved Pirquet's method, and the test more reliable. A million tuberculin tests are given by physicians each year.

LAENNEC

1819 The French physician, Dr. René Theophile Hyacinthe Laennec, invents the stethoscope, the instrument doctors use for listening to the sounds which air makes when rushing in and out of the lung. The stethoscope is still one of our important diagnostic aids, but physicians today no longer rely on the stethoscope alone in diagnosing early tuberculosis.

ROENTGEN

1895 The German physicist, Konrad von Roentgen, discovers the X-ray, and saw the possibility of using a penetrating ray to discover hidden tuberculosis. It had to pass before the X-ray was developed, but it enabled physicians to see the faintest shadows of diseased spots in the lung. The X-ray is our most important diagnostic aid.

PHYSICIANS DEPEND ON THE X-RAY FOR MAKING DIAGNOSIS

EARLY

The most important recent discovery is that some people may have tuberculosis that cannot be diagnosed by any other method except by the X-ray. Tuberculosis in its early stages is often without signs and symptoms. "Tapping" and "listening," even the sputum test, may reveal nothing while attempting to discover early tuberculosis. However, a positive tuberculin test means infection and the X-ray may reveal the sick spot in the lung before slowly appearing symptoms such as fatigue, loss of weight, indigestion or a cough arouse any suspicion. The X-ray has become an essential part of a lung examination. No chest examination for tuberculosis is complete without the X-ray.

A TRUE STORY

Tuberculosis still is the leading cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45

In thousands of high schools and colleges throughout the country, students are being tuberculin-tested and X-rayed when necessary. Stories like this one happen every day. Modern parents request that their children be tested because the information the test and the X-ray give may help to prevent future disease. Forewarned is forearmed.

Reading X-Ray Films Requires Experience

The X-Ray Doesn't Cure Tuberculosis

It shows only the extent of the disease. One X-ray picture alone does not show, even to the expert, whether the disease gets worse or better. But a series of X-ray pictures, taken periodically, will disclose whether the disease is making headway, remaining stationary, or whether healing is taking place. A single negative examination gives no assurance that tuberculosis may not develop later.

Not All Tuberculosis is in the Lungs

It may be anywhere, but 9 times out of 10 the lungs are affected. Hence chest X-rays tell the story in most cases. No two cases of tuberculosis are exactly alike. Therefore, each chest X-ray represents its own problem, requiring expert judgment of an experienced physician to interpret it.

Young Mother

Age 19. Did not feel sick until a cough occurred. An X-ray of the chest was taken. Tuberculosis was discovered. The young woman recovered. Physicians now include the X-ray as a routine practice in all physical examinations. Tu-

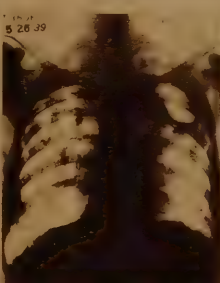

High School Senior

She had a positive tuberculin test. An X-ray of the chest was taken. This is a typical example of how searching for tuberculosis among apparently healthy people reveals the disease before symptoms appear. When found in the early stage the disease is

Mill Worker

Age 25. This man felt well but for a cough which he thought was due to smoking. X-ray shows advanced tuberculosis in both lungs. His tuberculosis was found by a routine X-ray survey of the employees of the mill where he had worked for many years. He is now in a state tuberculosis sanatorium, receiving a full course of treatment.

An Old Gentleman

Well-to-do man, age 67. By his own statement was never sick a day in his life. The X-ray shows chronic tuberculosis of many years standing. Sputum full of germs. Tuberculosis was discovered in this man after the tuberculin test had disclosed that his grandchildren had "caught" the germs from someone.

Domestic Helper

Negro woman, age 27. Did not complain of any sickness but had frequent head colds. X-ray shows advanced tuberculosis. This woman was found by tracing the contacts of a tuberculin-positive child. She is now in a county sanatorium, receiving the best of care and making good progress towards recovery.

Who IS IN DANGER? How TO AVOID IT

TUBERCULOSIS IS NOT INHERIT

Tuberculosis is not passed on from mother to child at birth. But if there is a sick person in the household and no safeguards are provided, chances are that the baby will get the germs of tuberculosis into his young body. Tuberculin-testing of babies and infants leads to finding unknown and expected spreaders of tuberculosis within the family circle.

Our boys and girls

Having lived through babyhood and early infancy, children are comparatively safe from tuberculosis until they reach high school and college age. Adolescence is a time that is filled with danger. Many up-to-date high schools and colleges now offer the tuberculin test which can be easily given by the family doctor or the school physician. It is safe and harmless. Wise parents welcome the information the tuberculin test gives and feel that the price of X-rays, when needed, is money well spent for safeguarding health and life. Unwillingness to learn the truth has caused many deaths.

Grandpa always had a cough

Every case of tuberculosis comes from another case. Among the worst, and yet unsuspecting spreaders of the disease are old people. Many an old man or woman who thinks that nothing is wrong but a cold, sinus, bronchitis, asthma or heart trouble, may have tuberculosis unknown to him and the rest of his family.

Sometimes the family physician does not even suspect tuberculosis in such a case because he has known the person for many years and aside from some symptoms that are blamed on old age, he seems to be in fair health. Why not find out and make sure? The X-ray will tell.

BREADWINNERS • RACIAL GROUPS

Young women in industry, middle-aged men and the unskilled labor groups furnish more victims of tuberculosis than all other age or occupational groups. Pressed by the need for making a living, the wage earner usually pays little attention to the subtle warnings of forthcoming disease. A few weeks or months of loss of wages often means poverty. Some of the largest industrial and commercial employees have found X-raying of employees to be a sound business investment. Some unions have X-rayed their members.

While tuberculosis is more prevalent in some groups than in others, it respects no boundary lines of race, creed or social status. The disease can spread from the poor to the rich, from the illiterate to the well-educated, and vice versa. It must be fought on a broad front. Those who cannot help themselves must be given special attention. Steady progress is being made in finding tuberculosis among, and providing care for, people with low incomes.

SPRING CHECK UP OF CARS IMPORTANT

ALL CARS SHOULD BE INSPECTED, ADJUSTED AND LUBRICATED

Motorists who want to get maximum satisfaction from their cars next summer should take time out within the next few weeks for the Spring check-up, lubrication and adjustment which every car needs in order to give a perfect account of itself during the months of warm weather ahead.

This is the advice of Ed Hedner, national service and mechanical manager for Chevrolet. He added that the company's dealer organization is ready with factory-trained mechanics and factory-approved equipment, to give prompt, economical attention to all spring check-up needs.

"Dealer's experience," he said, "has shown that motorists are much more careful about installing their winter lubricants and anti-freeze in the fall than they are about taking the reverse step when spring rolls around. This is probably because they know that if the matter is neglected they are likely to awake some morning and find their engine frozen, or their transmission-case lubricant so thick that they cannot shift gears."

"There is no such worry to remind them to remove the winter lubricant and drain out the anti-freeze at warm weather's approach. But there is good reason why both of these details should be taken care of."

"In the case of the lubricant, the reason is that lubricants are effective only under the conditions for which they were designed. Winter demands a thin-bodied lubricant which will not solidify at low temperatures, but retain its effectiveness. And even though the damage resulting from this thinning might not make itself apparent at once, it would be no less real and no less costly to repair."

"In the case of anti-freeze, the situation is somewhat similar. Regardless of the type used, it should be drained in the spring. The varieties subject to evaporation vaporize very quickly in farm weather, and even a day's driving may reduce the cooling solution level to the point where the radiator steams. The non-evaporating type, on the other hand, sometimes develops acidity when left in the car all summer, and acid, of course, tends to corrode the cooling system."

"Many motorists make an annual practice of having their radiators flushed out at the approach of summer, and the old solution replaced with fresh water. This is one of the best ways to insure efficient cooling regardless of summer heat."

"The battery should be checked at the start of spring, and at frequent intervals thereafter, for the level of the solution drops much more rapidly in warm weather than in cold. Battery terminals should be cleaned if they are corroded and cables and wiring checked. A little inexpensive attention to distributor points, spark plugs and ignition coil will be a good investment, and owners of cars not equipped with heavy-duty generators should have the charging rate set somewhat lower than it was through the winter months."

"The fact that speed will average substantially higher in summer than in winter suggests the wisdom of having the tires looked over carefully, with a view to repair or replacement before the period of severe wear begins. Many dealers will be offering spring check-up service, covering most or all of these items, within the next few weeks, and motorists who want to enjoy maximum satisfaction from their cars could do worse than to select a reliable dealer and have this important work done."

News from Co. 3481 CLANTON CCC

Protect Wildlife On The Farm
Observance of National Wildlife Restoration Week, March 17-23, helps to bring about a fuller understanding of what farmers are doing toward restoring wildlife resources in this section, according to County Agent Mr. J. W. Fant, and Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the CCC Camp near Clanton, Alabama.

The observance comes at a time when many farmers, as a part of definite conservation plans for their farms, are busy developing desirable wildlife areas by planting two or more rows of shrubs to provide food and cover for wildlife where newly planted woodland adjoins fields, roads, or pastures. Along the edges of fields next to the shrub borders strips will be broken for planting to Lespedeza sericea, which will serve as turn rows, control at the ends of rows, and supply a quantity of food and cover where it is needed most.

In gullies where farm plans provided for mulching with pine boughs during the past summer or fall, Lespedeza sericea will be seeded this spring to furnish food and cover in these areas. Many farmers already have seed on hand for this purpose, Mr. Wood says. These practices provide shelter and abundant food for farm wildlife as a by-product.

Through such programs, which are part of individual conservation farm plans, Wildlife Restoration Week, which are part of individual conservation farm plans, Wildlife Restoration Week, which might otherwise be considered as something related to far-away places, is brought directly home to the farms of this immediate section.

"Bringing Home The Bacon"

"Pal," Collie dog belonging to Mr. B. A. Dooly, and playmate of Toddlings Tommy, small son of the editor, is also a mascot of most business men in the down town district where he loafs during his "off hours." Pal has an outstanding canine personality and also has a cute little habit of picking up a piece of paper and carrying the paper in his mouth as he would a note. When he enters a butcher shop with his fake note he is sure to get a nice bone. When he wants attention other places, the note trick also works.

Saturday as the editor was busy with his work, Pal came in with a piece of paper in his mouth. After nudging the editor several times to draw his attention, the note was offered and accepted. Believe it or not, the note turned out to be a nice new one-dollar bill—which the editor gladly took in charge. Yes, sir, Pal is a wise dog, and we kind of think he was paying up for a year's subscription to the Press—you can be just as wise as Pal, and get the Attalla Press yourself for a new one-dollar bill—Attalla Press.

1940 METER-MISER OFFERS INCREASED ECONOMY ACCORDING TO LOCAL HARDWARE

Saving money is one of the important reasons for buying an electric refrigerator, so it is interesting to note that this year the makers of one leading refrigerator have announced that its already low operating cost has been greatly reduced.

This cold producing device is the same type of long wearing, dependable rotary compressor previously used but through an extensive program of experiment and research the company which originally developed it has been able further to perfect its performance.

"Millions of users are familiar with the meter-miser cold making mechanism in their electric refrigerators," said Mr. Jones of the Big Four Hardware Co., local Frigidaire appliance dealer in commenting on the latest development in this famous device. "But this year the meter-miser has been designed to operate at even less cost, at the same time giving equally as much refrigeration power as in the past."

"Laboratory technicians have been busy for months conducting every conceivable type of test on the meter-miser in order to give it extra efficiency and greater current saving operation under all conditions. That their efforts have been successful is evidenced in the announcement that the 1940 meter-miser provides an abundance of controlled cold at a material reduction in cost."

How good and pleasant a thing it is to seek not so much things own as another's good, to sow by the wayside for the way-weary, and trust Love's recompense of love.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Clanton Methodist Church

Church School 9:45 Sunday morning. L. J. Stewart, general superintendent. Morning worship service, 11:00. Sermon by the Pastor.

Young Peoples meeting, 6:45 P.M. Evening worship service, 7:30 P.M. Sermon by the Pastor.

The Pastor and other officials of the Church are gratified at the response to the plea for paid-up Conference collections by last Sunday. They say 'twas one of the best ever known.

Now, next Sunday is the fifth Sunday in the month and that means we are to have an opportunity to give our Church School offering to the orphans of our Children's Home at Selma. Let's show them we love them by making this offering the best. It is our obligation as Methodists. We have done well in that phase of our work thus far this conference year. Let's not let the helpless children down next Sunday.

Come to Church School and stay for worship service, then return to the evening services. It will start the week off right and give God a chance to speak to us.

There will be a special program at 9:45 Sunday in the main auditorium of the Church. All adult classes and young people's division. There will be regular devotional services for all departments. Come early.

Mountain Springs

The annual Woman's Rally of the Central Association of Congregational Churches will be held at Mountain Springs Church Saturday March 30.

The program is being arranged by Mrs. Velma Moseley, Seaman, Ala. Be there by 9:30 for the beginning of this interesting event. We hope to have large delegations from each of the eleven churches in this district.

Miss Disney of Chann, China, at present of Peabody College, Nashville, will be the guest speaker for the day. She is a nurse and went through much of the war in China. Mrs. Ensminger will be present also.

A covered dish lunch will be served at noon. All who are interested will be welcome.

Pates Chapel News

Our Sunday School met Sunday morning but our crowd was not as large as usual, but part was on the account of the weather and part was caused by sickness. But we are glad to say that we have been blessed in our little community this last year. We haven't had one single funeral in our Church. We have some on our sick list this week.

Mrs. A. Clecker has been confined to her bed part of the time with an abscessed hand, but thanks to the good Master she is improving and our Sunday School sure does miss her and her work.

Mrs. Adelia Franklin has been sick but is not confined to her bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hays' baby is sick but we hope for a speedy recovery. Mrs. James Dawson has been confined to her bed nearly a week, but we hope these folks the greatest blessings and a speedy recovery, so that they may again engage in the daily activities of life. If we have missed any on our sick list please forgive because we did not know.

Rev. Wooley Nix delivered a wonderful sermon Sunday and Sunday night. Our preaching days are the second and fourth Sunday and Sunday night, and we are glad to welcome all visitors to our services and B.Y.P.U. We have decided on a helper for our revival beginning the fourth Sunday in July—Rev. Maurice Hodgins.

Next Sunday, March 31 there will be a singing at the Church beginning at 2:00 o'clock. All singers and visitors have a special invitation to bring your new books. Also Rev. Cost will preach Saturday night beginning about 6:30. Hoping everybody will come out to hear him.

Remember our Sunday School next Sunday morning and B.Y.P.U. on Sunday night. Always bring someone with you and we will then have a good crowd.

P.T.A. PLATE SUPPER

The Mt. Pleasant P.T.A. is sponsoring a plate supper Saturday night, March 30th at seven o'clock at twenty-five cents a plate at Mt. Pleasant School house. A fine quartet will be present and also string music will furnish entertainment. Several cakes will be voted off. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

Shut-In Enjoy Easter Party

The Homemakers Class of the Clanton Baptist Church entertained at the home of Mrs. J. W. Fant last Friday with a spend-the-day Easter party for the shut-ins. The ladies were met at the door by Mrs. Oscar A. Davis who ushered them into the living room where they registered and a member of the class pinned a very lovely corsage on them, made by members of the class.

They were then seated in the living room where they enjoyed a lovely devotional given by Mrs. Oscar Davis, after which they sang old hymns. A beautiful Easter story was given by Mrs. S. J. Ezell. She and Dr. Ezell were honor guests.

Following this lovely story the guests were served fruit plates by members of the class and then adjourned to the lawn where several pictures were taken of them. Lunch was then served. A delicious plate was served in a lovely dining room. Each table was centered with a dainty bowl of flowering quince and spiar. Each guest, as she came into the room, was told to find the egg with her name on it and this way they would find their places. They were served by members of the class. During lunch several special delivery letters were read which supposedly had been sent to some of the guests. These created quite a bit of fun.

After lunch the ladies were seated in the living room again where they enjoyed spelling and Bible questions and a very lovely talk by Dr. S. J. Ezell. By this time it was time for the cars that had brought them to come and take them home. And so a very glorious Easter party was over.

The following ladies enjoyed this affair: Mesdames Nick Mullins, Bowen Jones, Carrie J. Ray, Clara Curry, Kate Popwell, Lela Williams, O. O. Raper, W. W. Hand, D. Y. Johnston, W. I. Mullins, Mary A. Mullins, E. E. Clark, Hiram Devaughn, R. C. Barrett, Mattie Mims, Frank Culppepper, J. M. Curlee, Wiley Littlejohn, T. J. Marcus, J. R. Broadhead, Mattie Jones, C. Z. Bennett, Miss Laura White and Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell.

Circle Six Met

Circle Number Six met at the home of Mrs. Ida L. Fiquette last Monday at 3:30 o'clock with ten members present. The devotional on enlistment was given by Mrs. Earle Thomas. Old and new business was disposed of and reports of various committees made.

This being completed the meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Horsley White. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Circle One Met With Mrs. Cooper

Circle One met with Mrs. Ed Cooper at the home of Mrs. J. T. Rockett. The devotional was read by Mrs. Bryson. Mrs. Wade and Mrs. Barfield gave some interesting facts taken from the yearbook. After all business was attended to refreshments were served to Mesdames V. H. Barfield, Billingsley, Bryson, Cooper, Culppepper, Foshee, Gray, Hardy, Hefflin, Powell, Rockett, Taylor, Thomas, Wade, Walker, Willis, Kirby and Clark.

The Baptist Y.W.A. will meet at the home of Mrs. J. B. Atkinson Monday evening at 7:30.

Mrs. Claude Reynolds of Birmingham spent Monday in Clanton on business. Mrs. G. B. Burgess and children spent last week in North Alabama visiting her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bell of Atlanta spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bell.

Mrs. F. H. Spicer was called to Cullman last Friday due to the illness and death of her father.

Mrs. W. L. Popwell, Mrs. Horace Popwell and Aileen and Mrs. Horsley White spent last Thursday in Birmingham.

Mr. Robert Martin and Mr. J. C.

Martin of Haleyville were in Clanton for the week end to get Mrs. J. C. Martin who was the guest of Mrs. Robert Martin last week.

Members of the Homemakers Class will be glad to know that Mrs. S. J. Ezell will teach the class Sunday morning. Be sure and come to Sunday School.

The Grammar School P.T.A. will meet Tuesday, April 2 at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present. This will be the installation of new officers. Come and bring another mother with you.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fiquette and little daughter of Columbiana spent last Friday visiting friends and relatives in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Towns of Birmingham were here for the week end. Rev. and Mrs. Oscar A. Davis are in Rowland, N.C., where they are attending a Spring revival. Rev. Davis will conduct the services twice daily. Mr. and Mrs. Earle Thomas and children visited Mrs. Thomas' parents in Daviston last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hefflin and sons visited in Birmingham last week end.

Mrs. Willard McKelvey and daughter, Patsy, of Huntsville, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ramsey and daughter, Peggy.

Mrs. Clyde Jones was called to Prattville this week due to the illness of her granddaughter, Amelia Ann Chism. Mrs. C. B. Cox and Mrs. Howard McKenzie spent last Thursday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Bill Murphay and Mrs. Leroy Martin were in Montgomery for the day last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Bell and children motored to Atlanta last week end to take Mr. Bell's parents home after their visit here.

AAA ANNOUNCES PARITY RATES IN '40 PROGRAM

ANT SAYS CHILTON FARMERS CAN NOW ESTIMATE AMOUNT
THEY CAN EARN IN PROGRAM

With the recent announcement of parity payment rates, Chilton County farmers can now estimate the total amount they can earn through full participation in the 1940 AAA Farm Program, according to County Agent J.W. Smith.

Parity payments, based on the normal yields on allotted acreages, will be made at the rate of 134 cents per bushel of cotton, 10 cents per bushel of wheat. No parity payments will be made on tobacco this year, since the price of the 1939 crop averaged above the price of parity.

In addition to parity payments, cooperating farmers will receive conservation payments based on the normal yields of their acreages. Allotment conservation rates for 1940 are 1.0 cents per pound on cotton, and 125 cents per pound on peanuts.

Farmers may also earn special payments for carrying out approved soil conservation practices up to the maximum amount available to the farm. The cost of computing the maximum allowable assistance is explained in the latest AAA handbook, a copy of which is available to every farmer.

Each farmer can estimate the maximum amount he can earn under the AAA program in 1940 from his individual farm plan sheet, which he may ask with the assistance of his local AAA committee.

Spring Fashion Show At City Hall Last Tuesday Bright Was Outstanding Event Of Early Spring

The Spring Fashion Show presented March twenty-sixth by the Methodist Missionary Society together with the merchants of Clanton, was one of the outstanding events of this season. Under the able direction of Mrs. Ellen Mullins, Mrs. J. E. Edgar, Mrs. William McRee and Mrs. Frank Callen, the merchants had lovely models display clothes, sport clothes, afternoon dresses, evening dresses and a wide range of milady's boudoir. The kiddies and the well dressed young men should wear were also attractively modeled. These styles were presented on very cleverly by Miss Rea, while Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, rendered suitable music throughout the show.

Alternating with the clothes modeled were the best talent of the city in various artistic numbers. Miss Callen did a specialty dance, assisted by a professional entertainer. The song by the lovely and talented Miss Earle Ellis was enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience.

Miss Helen Hayes, in an attractive costume, did a clever song and dance number ever popular strains of "Oh, My". Miss Barbara Burnette and Miss Ina Saxon McCraney danced as the ideal fashioned belle and beaux of the night in lovely costumes of that period, delighting the entire audience with the models representing V. J. Ellis and 10c Store were Miss Mary Roberts, Saunders, Hank Parr and Miss Dorothy Shepherd, Miss Earle Ellis, Miss Louise Hester, Elizabeth Newell, Miss Jeanette

All the friends and patrons of Cooper, Mitchell Dam, Enterprise, Morganville and Verbena schools are urged to attend the Play Day Festival at Verbena High School April 12, beginning at nine o'clock, according to W. C. DuBois, principal of Verbena High School.

Children from all the schools will participate in the program, enjoy the stunts, folk dances, soft ball, living pictures, and last but not least, the barbecue. (Each family is urged to bring a basket lunch exclusive of meat.)

A baseball game—Verbena vs. Jemison—will be played in the afternoon. Everything is free. The only thing asked is to be present, bring a basket, eat and play.

Important Notice To Berry Growers

The directors of the Clanton Berry Growers Association met at their warehouse and formulated the following rules for this season:

The price of picking shall not exceed 2c for regular berries and 2½c per quart for stemmed berries.

All A Number 1 berries shall be packed in new, clean containers with name of grower stamped clearly upon each end of crate and shall not have any other writing or marking on the crate.

All berries brought in containers not complying with above requirements shall be graded as B or number 2 berries.

Upon proof of any members of this association failing to pay for berry picking, said member shall be permanently barred from the association.

All berry growers are requested to place orders for a majority of the crates they expect to use at once and to call for them when notified. If this is not done the association will not be responsible if they cannot furnish crates when called for in emergencies.

Crates will be handled for the members only on the following basis:

For crates delivered from car on order, 33½c each; for crates charged from car on order, 34c each; for crates charged, delivered from warehouse, 35c each.

Each shipper must use a good, legible stamp approved by the association, to stamp the crates once only on each end of the crate.

Any violation of the above rules shall be punishable by the refusal of the association to handle any further business for the offender.

The Association hopes to have the loyal cooperation of all its members and promises to render them the best service they can give—J. N. Dennis, Secretary-Treasurer, Clanton Berry Growers Association.

REV. AND MRS. DAVIS RETURN

A card from Rev. Oscar A. Davis, pastor Clanton Baptist Church, early this week from Rowland, N. C., stated that he and Mrs. Davis were in a good revival meeting at that place, among cordial people. He asked the News to announce that he would be in his pulpit next Sunday. They were to return to Clanton Wednesday of this week.

CCC Will Celebrate Seventh Anniversary This Week; Local Camp To Hold Open House

Celebration of the Seventh anniversary of the CCC is underway this week throughout the nation. Hundreds of camps are throwing open their gates to admit hundreds of thousands of visitors invited to camp to inspect the conservation work being done and become acquainted with the life and training of the enrollees.

The local Camp, Co. 3481—will hold open house next Sunday, April 6, at which time the people of Chilton County are invited to see what the camp in their midst is doing. This camp has an enrollment of 195 fine young men, who are being trained for their places in life in an able manner. It may be said that Clanton boasts one of the best camps in the entire nation, and has been rated as such. A visit inside the gates will convince the visitor that this is no exaggeration.

The present staff of officers is composed of J. W. Johnson, Commanding Officer; Luke H. Blanton, Junior Officer; T. H. Walker, Educational Advisor and J. H. Wood, who is in charge of the Soil Conservation Department of the Camp. This department is doing fine work in the proper control of erosion and many local farmers are cooperating by placing their farms under its supervision.

Clanton has just cause to be proud of Company 3481. Its officers are able men and its enrollees are fine young fellows who are receiving a great training. If you have never visited this camp make plans to do so during the celebration of the Seventh anniversary of the CCC.

Very sincerely yours,
Franklin D. Roosevelt.

PRE-SCHOOL CLINICS BEGIN TOMORROW

COUNTY P.T.A.'S SPONSOR HEALTH CLINICS FOR PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN

The annual summer round-up program of the several Parent-Teachers Associations in the County begins April 5, according to an announcement by the Health Department. As has been the custom for several years, pre-school clinics are to be held in all the larger school centers of the County. Parents are urged to bring children of the ages from one to six to these clinics.

Free medical and dental examinations will be given all children who attend. The Health Officer performing the examination will discuss the physical condition of the child with the parent and give advice concerning diet, habit formation, etc. Immunizations against smallpox and diphtheria will also be available for those who need to be immunized. The dental inspections are to be done by local dentists who are volunteering their services.

County Supt. Maddox has given permission for pre-school children to be brought in the school buses to the clinics at the school provided that there is no room and no interference with the regular bus service for the school.

Except at Clanton where the clinic is to be held at the Health Office, the (Continued to Back Page)

BROADHEAD-MERRITT

A marriage of much interest to his many friends of this County was that of S. L. Broadhead, Jr., to Miss Opie Merritt, on last Saturday, March 23, at Dothan, Alabama.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Leroy R. Priest, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dothan.

The couple left immediately after their honeymoon for Panama City for a brief wedding trip.

Mr. Broadhead is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Broadhead, Sr. of Clanton where Mrs. Broadhead is a charming and talented young teacher of Abbeville and Dothan.

They will make their future home in Opelika, Ala., where Mr. Broadhead owns a thriving radio business.

Postmaster General Jim Farley Is Visiting Alabama

Postmaster General James A. Farley, visiting Alabama this week end, will have as a guard of honor 10 State Highway Patrolmen, in charge of Capt. N. W. Kimbrough, to escort him on his automobile trip from Meridian, Miss., to Montgomery.

Mr. Farley, who is also Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will stop at 13 Alabama cities and towns en route to Montgomery, to visit briefly with local postmasters and notables and to make a short talk at each place.

The visitor and his party will leave Meridian at 12:45 P.M., Saturday, April 6, to arrive here at 7 P.M. In addition to the four squad-cars and six motorcycles of the accompanying Highway Patrol convoy, the Patrol station wagon, having a seating-capacity of many more than a regulation automobile, will be pressed into service for the use of newspapermen and photographers. All local newspapers and press services will be represented.

Arrivals and departures from each stopping point will be made on a schedule already worked out by Capt. Kimbrough and Sergt. T. J. Carlisle of this Patrol Headquarters Staff.

In Montgomery the Postmaster General will address the more than 300 postmasters who will attend, April 5 and 6, the annual meeting of the Alabama Branch of the National League of District Postmasters. Gov. Frank M. Dixon will introduce Mr. Farley.

Next on the Postmaster General's schedule are talks at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, and at Tuskegee Institute.

After making stops at Russell, Toombs and Kewanee, three Mississippi towns, on his trip from Meridian Saturday morning Mr. Farley will cross into Alabama and call at the following cities and towns—leaving each at the hour stated.

Cuba, 1:25 P.M.; York, 1:45 P.M.; Livingston, 2:00 P.M.; Coatspa, 2:20 P.M.; Demopolis, 2:50 P.M.; Gallion, 3:10 P.M.; Fausdsale, 3:25 P.M.; Uniontown, 3:55 P.M.; Browns, 3:50 P.M.; Massillon, 4:00 P.M.; Marion Junction, 4:10 P.M.; Selma, 4:30 P.M.; Benton, 5:00 P.M.; arrive Montgomery 7:00.

Alabama farmers applied 82,654 tons of phosphate material under the AAA program last year compared with 39,200 tons in 1938, a 100 per cent increase.

Is Feeling Fine And Says He'll Win If He Runs Again

Gulf Shores, Ala.—On his 67th birthday anniversary, David Bibb Graves served notice on Alabama politics in effect today that if he runs for Governor in 1942 they'd better jump on the band wagon.

Interviewed on his anniversary, Graves, twice the State's chief executive, was asked if he would be a candidate for a third term two years hence.

"It's a long time between now and the next Governor's race," he replied. "However, I can tell you this much, if I decide to run I'm going to know I'm going to win. I've been in politics too long, successfully, to wind up my career with a failure. So if you hear that I have announced for Governor, just show your chips in on me because it'll be a cinch."

Graves was feeling good and he wanted everybody to know it. "I feel better both physically and mentally than I've felt in 15 years," he said.

The former executive spent the anniversary fishing. He was accompanied by his Gulf Coast cottage by Mrs. Graves.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

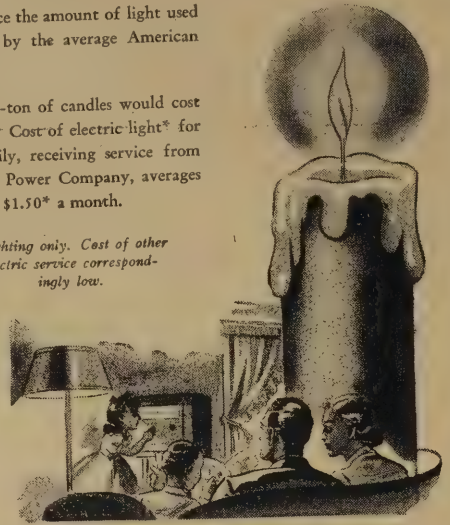

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

Do You Know That It Would Take A HALF-TON OF Candles

What a very nice day we had Saturday in spite of the rain in the morning. The program went along well and all business matters were attended to. But Miss Disney was what made the day enjoyable. The things she said, watching her eat with chop sticks and seeing her dolls, was very entertaining.

A reading by Miss Fay Forman was very much enjoyed.

We wish to express our thanks to the ladies of Eastview for their kind cooperation.

IN MEMORY

On March 19, 1940, the death angel visited the Central Alabama Hospital and bore the spirit of Mr. John W. Thompson to a world unknown to us.

Mr. Thompson will be missed in his community and home, for to know him was to love him. So let's be reconciled to His blessed work, and try and be prepared for His coming after us, for we know sooner or later we will be sent for, just as Mr. Thompson was. —Friedrich, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Powell.

There Are Certain FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

underlying our democracy. One of the most important of these is that the purpose of government is to secure the greatest good for the greatest number. In an effort to fulfill that purpose, I shall actively and aggressively advocate the following

FOR AGRICULTURE

Favorable trade agreements, removal of discriminatory freight rates and the removal of tariff burdens will eventually produce parity between industry and agriculture. Until this is accomplished, I favor payment of subsidies to farmers to achieve 100 per cent parity. I shall favor crop insurance, low cost financing for farmers, the soil conservation program, and continued support of the federal program for agriculture.

FOR EDUCATION

I advocate federal aid for education in the form of substantial grants to states in proportion to their need, but these funds must be administered by our state government without federal supervision or control.

FOR VETERANS

It is necessary that we take steps to insure benefits for disabled or indigent veterans and veterans' widows and orphans. I advocate legislation placing the burden on the government to prove that a veterans' disability is not service connected rather than placing the burden on the disabled veteran to prove that his disability is service connected.

FOR THE NATION AS A WHOLE

War has no place as an instrument of national policy. I favor the maintenance of adequate defensive armament to insure peace for this nation.

These excerpts from my platform are intended to show briefly some of the principles for which I shall fight as your Congressman.

I earnestly solicit your vote and influence.

Turning Cover Crops Important Job In The Farm Program

The turning of legumes (cover crops) has been experimented on by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, and the results recorded in Circular 65 entitled "Time of Turning Legumes and Planting Corn to Avoid Injury from the Southern Corn Root Worm." This circular was reprinted in 1937. Legumes have a very definite function after having been turned. The water holding capacity of the soil is increased, soil fertility is increased, and the addition of plant food to the soil plus available nitrogen for the rapid growth of the plant.

One experiment on corn following the turning of winter legumes by a period of three weeks showed, no injury of the Southern Corn Root Worm.

There has been no special time for turning of legumes but they should be turned after the foliage has begun to yellow and drop off or when it has become ripe. Three experiments were conducted as follows:

Six Chilton Farmers Profit From Poultry

Six Chilton County farmers, with a total of 1457 laying hens, received above feed cost $275.11 for eggs sold from these hens during the month of February. During this month the price of eggs was relatively low.

These poultry growers who are keeping accurate records on their laying flocks during this year are J. F. Armstrong, Clanton, Alabama Route 6; S. T. Dickey, Clanton, Ala. Route 6; Bill Traywick, Maplesville, Ala. Route 2; P. J. Norwood, Jemison Ala. Route 2; A. R. Robinson, Verbena, Ala. and Osmond Lett, Verbena, Ala. Route 2. This net income of $275.11 from 1457 hens indicates an income above feed cost per bird of 20c during the month. At this rate a farmer with 100 laying birds would receive a profit of $20.00 per month from his flock.

These six farmers are doing a good job of producing eggs at a profit. They realize that in order to produce eggs profitably it is necessary that a good feeding and sanitation program be carried out. Plenty of good feed, either commercial feed, or a mixture of commercial meal and protein supplement, and fresh, clean water is supplied to these flocks. Green feed which is essential to good production, is furnished to these flocks by planting oats during winter, cowpeas, soybeans or kudzu during the summer, or if no green grazing plants are available green feed is furnished as alfalfa leaf meal or cod-liver oil mixed with the mash feeds.

Parasites and diseases are kept at a minimum in these flocks by keeping the poultry houses, feed stands and water containers clean and by eradicating and control methods.

These demonstration poultry flock owners will be glad for anyone interested in poultry, growing to visit their farms and will show them how they are making poultry pay.

Home Dem. Clubs Study Insect Pest Control

The Home Demonstration Clubs have as the subject for discussion at regular club meetings in April "Control of Insect Pests." The women believe that cleanliness and sanitation are essential for health and happiness. The homemaker interested in providing a physical environment that will aid in the best development of all family members must be a fairly good housekeeper in order to be a successful homemaker.

A clean orderly house, with plenty of air and sunlight, goes a long way toward providing a healthful and safe place for the physical and mental comfort of the family.

From a health standpoint all houses should be well screened. Screens are a protection from insects of many kinds and add to the comfort and satisfaction of the family.

Insects of various kinds destroy property among people, and are a menace to health. Care should be taken to prevent an infestation of houses, as well as to rid the premises of their presence.

House Flies
House flies are a most annoying household pest and most dangerous because they are disease carriers. Flies breed only in filth—stable manure, decaying garbage, etc. Keeping things clean and getting rid of breeding places are the best methods of freeing the house of such pests. Of course houses should be tightly screened against flies and mosquitoes. Food which will attract flies, especially meats and sweets, should be covered securely. The policy of "swat the fly" should be followed constantly.

Cock Roaches
Cock roaches prefer warmth and moisture and are found of wet scrubbing brushes, dish cloths, or any damp or moist articles in a dark place. They like almost any foodstuff. They hide during the day in cracks, under shelves or behind baseboards or window casings, and come forth at night. Give the house a good cleaning inside and underneath. All food should be tightly covered. Wet mops, brushes or rags should be removed.

Insect powder sold for the purpose should be sprinkled freely around cracks, along base boards, and other hiding places.

Powered borax and sodium fluoride are recommended for this purpose.

Estimates are that slightly more oats and Irish potatoes but less corn, sweet potatoes, cowpeas, soybeans, peanuts and tame hay will be planted in Alabama this year.

Study Your Fertilizer Before Buying

Farmers should consider prices of different analysis of fertilizer before buying. When high grade fertilizer is almost as cheap as low grade fertilizer there are two benefits to be derived. The high grade fertilizer will make more crops per acre, yet the plant food in high grade fertilizer is many times cheaper than the plant food in low grade fertilizer.

I am quoting below a letter from J. W. Tidmore, Head Department of Agronomy and Soils, Alabama Experiment Station.

"It is my understanding that the differences in cost per ton of the various grades of fertilizer are unusually small this year.

"For example, a 6-8-4 is selling in many places for only $3.61 per ton more than 3-8-5, and $2.50 per ton more than a 4-8-4.

"The 6-8-4 contains 3 units (60 lbs.) of nitrogen per ton more than the 3-8-5. On the basis of the above price differences, you will readily see that the additional nitrogen in the 6-8-4 as compared with the 3-8-5 costs $1.20 per unit. This is equivalent to a cost of $19.20 per ton for any source of nitrogen containing 16 units per ton.

"3 tons of 4-10-4 contains approximately the same amounts of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash as four tons of 3-8-5. Three tons of 4-10-7 can be bought for about $11 less than 4 tons of 3-8-5.

"Let me make another comparison for you. A 4-10-4 is selling in many places for the State for only 54 cents per ton more than a 4-8-4. It contains 2 units of P2O5 per ton more than the 4-8-4. This means that the extra P2O5 may not be necessary for the present cotton crop, but it should help succeeding crops more than the cost of it.

"These small differences in cost of the various grades of fertilizers may not continue to exist, but if they are in existence in your community the farmer should be able to save some money on his fertilizer bill."—J. W. Fant.

Postmaster General Jim Farley Is Visiting Alabama

Postmaster General James A. Farley, visiting Alabama this week end, will have as a guard of honor 10 State Highway Patrolmen, in charge of Capt. N. W. Kimbrough, to escort him on his automobile trip from Meridian, Miss., to Montgomery.

Mr. Farley, who is also Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will stop at 13 Alabama cities and towns en route to Montgomery, to visit briefly with local postmasters and notables and to make a short talk at each place.

The visitor and his party will leave Meridian at 12:45 P.M., Saturday, April 6, to arrive here at 7 P.M. Home Dem. Clubs Study Insect Pest Control

The Home Demonstration Clubs have as the subject for discussion at regular club meetings in April "Control of Insect Pests." The women believe that cleanliness and sanitation are essential for health and happiness. The homemaker interested in providing a physical environment that will aid in the best development of all family members must be a fairly good housekeeper in order to be a successful homemaker.

A clean orderly house, with plenty of air and sunlight, goes a long way toward providing a healthful and safe place for the physical and mental comfort of the family.

From a health standpoint all houses should be well screened. Screens are a protection from insects of many kinds and add to the comfort and satisfaction of the family.

Insects of various kinds destroy property among people, and are a menace to health. Care should be taken to prevent an infestation of houses, as well as to rid the premises of their presence.

House Flies

House flies are a most annoying household pest and most dangerous because they are disease carriers. Flies breed only in filth—stable manure, decaying garbage, etc. Keeping things clean and getting rid of breeding places are the best methods of freeing the house of such pests. Of course houses should be tightly screened against flies and mosquitoes. Food which will attract flies, especially meats and sweets, should be covered securely. The policy of "swat the fly" should be followed constantly.

Cock Roaches

Cock roaches prefer warmth and moisture and are fond of wet scrubbing brushes, dish cloths, or any damp or moist articles in a dark place. They like almost any foodstuff. They hide during the day in cracks, under shelves or behind baseboards or window casings, and come forth at night. Give the house a good cleaning inside and underneath. All food should be tightly covered. Wet mops, brushes or rags should be removed.

Insect powder sold for the purpose should be sprinkled freely around cracks, along base boards, and other hiding places.

Powered borax and sodium flouride are recommended for this purpose.

Estimates are that slightly more oats and Irish potatoes but less corn, sweet potatoes, cowpeas, soybeans, peanuts and tame hay will be planted in Alabama this year.

Study Your Fertilizer Before Buying

Farmers should consider prices of different analysis of fertilizer before buying. When high grade fertilizer is almost as cheap as low grade fertilizer there are two benefits to be derived. The high grade fertilizer will make more crops per acre, yet the plant food in high grade fertilizer is many times cheaper than the plant food in low grade fertilizer.

I am quoting below a letter from J.W. Tidmore, Head Department of Agronomy and Soils, Alabama Experiment Station.

"It is my understanding that the differences in cost per ton of the various grades of fertilizer are unusually small this year.

"For example, a 6-8-4 is selling in many places for only $3.61 per ton more than 3-8-5, and $2.50 per ton more than a 4-8-4.

"The 6-8-4 contains 3 units (60 lbs.) of nitrogen per ton more than the 3-8-5. On the basis of the above price differences, you will readily see that the additional nitrogen in the 6-8-4 as compared with the 3-8-5 costs $1.20 per unit. This is equivalent to a cost of $19.20 per ton for any source of nitrogen containing 16 units per ton. A ton of 3-8-5 contains only one unit of potash more than the 6-8-4, which has a commercial value of only 70 cents.

Likewise, a 6-8-4 contains 2 units of nitrogen more than a 4-8-4 which cost about $2.50 or $1.25 per unit, this is equivalent to $20.00 per ton for any source of nitrogen containing 16 units. 13 tons of 4-10-4 contains approximately the same amounts of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash as four tons of 3-8-5. Three tons of 4-10-7 can be bought for about $11 less than 4 tons of 3-8-5.

"Let me make another comparison for you. A 4-10-4 is selling in many parts of the State for only 54 cents per ton more than a 4-8-4. It contains 2 units of P205 per ton more than the 4-8-4. This means that the extra P205 may not be necessary for the present cotton crop, but it should help succeeding crops more than the cost of it. "These small differences in cost of the various grades of fertilizers may not continue to exist, but if they are in existence in your community the farmer should be able to save some money on his fertilizer bill."—J. W. Fant.

Postmaster General

Jim Farley Is Visiting Alabama

Postmaster General James A. Farley, visiting Alabama this week end, will have as a guard of honor 10 State Highway Patrolmen, in charge of Capt. N. W. Kimbrough, to escort him on his automobile trip from Meridian, Miss., to Montgomery.

Mr. Farley, who is also Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will stop at 13 Alabama cities and towns en route to Montgomery, to visit briefly with local postmasters and notables and to make a short talk at each place.

The visitor and his party will leave Meridian at 12:45 P.M., Saturday, April 6, to arrive here at 7 P.M. In addition to the four quad-cars and six motorcycles of the accompanying Highway Patrol convoy, the Patrol station wagon, having a seating capacity of many more than a regulation automobile, will be pressed into service for the use of newspapermen and photographers. All local newspapers and press services will be represented.

Arrivals and departures from each stopping point will be made on a schedule already worked out by Capt. Kimbrough and Sergt. T. J. Carlisle of the Patrol Headquarters Staff.

In Montgomery the Postmaster General will address the more than 300 postmasters who will attend, April 5 and 6, the annual meeting of the Alabama Branch of the National League of District Postmasters. Gov. Frank M. Dixon will introduce Mr. Farley.

Next, on the Postmaster General's schedule are talks at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, and at Tuskegee Institute.

After making stops at Russell, Toombs and Kewanee, three Mississippi towns, on his trip from Meridian Saturday morning Mr. Farley will cross into Alabama and call at the following cities and towns—leaving each at the hour stated.

Cuba, 1:25 P.M.; York, 1:45 P.M.; Livingston, 2:00 P.M.; Coats, 2:20 P.M.; Demopolis, 2:50 P.M.; Gallion, 3:10 P.M.; Faunsdale, 3:25 P.M.; Uniontown, 3:55 P.M.; Browns, 3:50 P.M.; Massillon, 4:00 P.M.; Marion Junction, 4:10 P.M.; Selma, 4:30 P.M.; Benton, 5:00 P.M.; arrive Montgomery 7:00.

Alabama farmers applied 82,654 tons of phosphate material under the AAA program last year compared with 39,200 tons in 1938, a 100 per cent increase.

BIBB GRAVES

Is Feeling Fine And Says He'll Win If He Runs Again

Gulf Shores, Ala.—On his 67th birthday anniversary, David Bibb Graves served notice on Alabama politics in effect today that if he runs for Governor in 1942 they'd better jump on the band wagon.

Interviewed on his anniversary, Graves, twice the State's chief executive, was asked if he would be a candidate for a third term two years hence.

"It's a long time between now and the next Governor's race," he replied. "However, I can tell you this much, if I decide to run I'm going to know I'm going to win. I've been in politics too long, successfully, to wind up my career with a failure. So if you hear that I have announced for Governor, just shove your chips in on me because I'll be a cinch."

Graves was feeling good and he wanted everybody to know it. "I feel better both physically and mentally than I've felt in 15 years," he said.

The former executive spent his anniversary fishing. He was accorded his Gulf Coast cottage Graves.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help ease lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

NATURAL food means natural nourishment, natural growth, natural health. That's why natural plant food is so important for every crop you grow.

Chilean Nitrate of Soda is the only natural nitrate in the world. Its quick-acting nitrogen, combined with its natural balance of protective elements, nourishes your growing crops and helps to keep your land in good producing condition.

Always use plenty of Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda—in mixed fertilizer under your crop; for side dressing, too. No price increase all this season and there is plenty for everybody's needs.

Spring Time Is Clean-Up Time

"Spring time is clean-up time." The history of the home, of the family, of people dwelling together has had linked with it, always, the problem of combating with hygienic cleanliness the constant of myriads of disease bearing bacteria.

If most of one's life was spent out of doors it would not matter so much about what sort of conditions existed in the house man would be in a healthful state like the primitive or early dweller who lived his life out of doors.

But when one remains in doors most of his time, as most of us do, it becomes of first rate importance that we should have clean homes. Cleanliness is the first rule of health, and we must now see how we are to secure clean homes. Unless we get rid of dirt inside and outside of the house we may at any time be attacked by disease germs which will cost us time, money and happiness.

Those who live under clean conditions have a better chance for good health than those who are surrounded by filth and dirt. We must give our attention to ways and means of taking care of the refuse which is constantly coming from the house. The various kinds of work that have to be carried on inside and outside of the house produce more or less waste matter. The waste from meat, vegetables, moldy bread, or anything of this kind will quickly rot or decay if exposed to the air. Waste of this sort is called organic, which means that the matter lived at some previous time. There is another kind of waste like old iron, bottles, ashes, etc., which will not decompose very rapidly and the first two are known as inorganic matter because it has not lived. Inorganic matter or waste is very harmful to health because it collects dust which serves as a breeding place for disease germs. Through years of increasing knowledge health has become recognized as vital to the well being of mankind and health is brought about in a large measure by strict adherence to hygienic cleanliness. It is a state of healthful hygienic cleanliness and home sanitation which every home maker (modern home maker) is striving to attain for her family and for her home. Home sanitation means a healthful community, a healthful county, a healthful state and a healthful nation.—Rose V. Lee, Home Ec. Teacher, Chilton County Training School.

Turning Cover Crops Important Job In The Farm Program

The turning of legumes (cover crops) has been experimented on by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, and the results recorded in Circular 65 entitled "Time of Turning Legumes and Planting Corn to Avoid Injury from the Southern Corn Root Worm." This circular was reprinted in 1937. Legumes have a very definite function after having been turned. The water holding capacity of the soil is increased, soil fertility is increased, and the addition of plant food to the soil plus available nitrogen for the rapid growth of the plant.

One experiment on corn following the turning of winter legumes by a period of three weeks showed, no injury of the Southern Corn Root Worm.

There has been no special time for the turning of legumes but they should be turned after the foliage has begun to turn yellow and drop off or when the plant has become ripe. Three experiments were conducted as follows: One on the 15th of March, one on the 1st of April, and the other on the 15th of April. Following these experiments it was found that the most injury was from the early turned legumes, and the least from the legumes that was turned on April 15th.

Legumes should be turned early enough to allow the plants to pass through the heat and decay period before planting your grain. In turning your legumes and to do a good job of turning under put a chain or some object heavy enough to drag the top of your legumes over where the following furrow can overlap the whole of the plants turned.

To crop your land without adding organic matter is simply mining the soil and when you have legumes or cover crops to turn, you are enriching your soil for better plant growth and

Six Chilton Farmers Profit From Poultry

Six Chilton County farmers, with a total of 1457 laying hens, received above feed cost $275.11 for eggs sold from these hens during the month of February. During this month the price of eggs was relatively low.

These poultry growers who are keeping accurate records on their laying flocks during this year are J. F. Armstrong, Clanton, Alabama Route 6; S. T. Dickey, Clanton, Ala. Route 6; Bill Traywick, Mapleville, Ala. Route 2; P. J. Norwood, Jemison Ala. Route 2; A. R. Robinson, Verbena, Ala. and Osmond Lett, Verbena, Ala. Route 2.

This net income of $275.11 from 1457 hens indicates an income above feed cost per bird of 20c during the month. At this rate a farmer with 100 laying birds would receive a profit of $20.00 per month from his flock.

These six farmers are doing a good job of producing eggs at a profit. They realize that in order to produce eggs profitably it is necessary that a good feeding and sanitation program be carried out. Plenty of good feed, either commercial feed, or a mixture of commercial meal and protein supplement, and fresh, clean water is supplied to these flocks. Green feed which is essential to good production, is furnished to these flocks by planting oats during winter, cowpeas, soybeans or kudzu during the summer, or if no green growing plants are available green feed is furnished as alfalfa leaf meal or cod-liver oil mixed with the mash feeds.

Parasites and diseases are kept at a minimum in these flocks by keeping the poultry houses, feed stands and water containers clean and by eradicating and control methods.

These demonstration poultry flock owners will be glad for anyone interested in poultry growing to visit their farms and will show them how they are making poultry pay.

Keep Down Forest Fires And Conserve Great Wealth

Forest fires destroy millions of dollars worth of wealth each year. Alabama has more forest fires in the calendar year 1938 than did any other state in the union. More than 42 per cent of all land in farms in Alabama is classified by the 1935 census as forest land. With proper protection and common sense management each average acre of this forest land can be made to yield 500 board feet of timber annually.

At present prices this timber would be worth -2 to $375 per acre. There are approximately 275 thousand acres of forest land in Chilton County. If this was properly protected from forest fires it would yield a nice income for the county.

Forest fires kill young trees, injure elder trees, destroys forage growth, depletes game, retards growth, permits entrances of insects and diseases and causes more soil erosion.

In an effort to outlaw forest fires in the State of Alabama, Rufus H. Page, Jr., Extension Forester, has prepared a small forest seal sticker, a copy of which can be had at the County Agent's office. We are anxious to see one of these stickers on the windshield of every car whose owner is sufficiently interested in forest fire protection to cooperate to this extent.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

Study Your Fertilizer Before Buying

Farmers should consider prices of different analysis of fertilizer before buying. When high grade fertilizer is almost as cheap as low grade fertilizer there are two benefits to be derived. The high grade fertilizer will make more crops per acre, yet the plant food in high grade fertilizer is many times cheaper than the plant food in low grade fertilizer.

I am quoting below a letter from J.W. Tidmore, Head Department of Agronomy and Soils, Alabama Experiment Station.

"It is my understanding that the differences in cost per ton of the various grades of fertilizer are unusually small this year.

"For example, a 6-8-4 is selling in many places for only $3.61 per ton more than 3-8-5, and $2.50 per ton more than a 4-8-4.

"The 6-8-4 contains 3 units (60 lbs.) of nitrogen per ton more than the 3-8-5. On the basis of the above price differences, you will readily see that the additional nitrogen in the 6-8-4 as compared with the 3-8-5 costs $1.20 per unit. This is equivalent to a cost of $19.20 per ton for any source of nitrogen containing 16 units per ton. A ton of 3-8-5 contains only one unit of potash more than the 6-8-4, which has a commercial value of only 75 cents. Likewise, a 6-8-4 contains 2 units of nitrogen more than a 4-8-4 which cost about $2.50 or $1.25 per unit, this is equivalent to $20.00 per ton for any source of nitrogen containing 16 units per ton. A ton of 4-10-4 contains approximately the same amounts of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash as four tons of 3-8-5. Three tons of 4-10-7 can be bought for about $11 less than 4 tons of 3-8-5.

"Let me make another comparison for you. A 4-10-4 is selling in many parts of the State for only 54 cents per ton more than a 4-8-4. It contains 2 units of P2O5 per ton more than the 4-8-4. This means that the extra P2O5 may not be necessary for the present cotton crop, but it should help succeeding crops more than the cost of it. "These small differences in cost of the various grades of fertilizers may not continue to exist, but if they are in existence in your community the farmer should be able to save some money on his fertilizer bill."—J. It is going to be hard for Congress to convince the folks back home that bigger appropriations are needed for defense while it votes to send the best fighting equipment being manufactured in this country to England and France.

France demanded that Russia recall its minister from Paris because he sent a congratulatory message to Stalin on his victory over Poland. And we had been thinking all the time it was the Democracies that were defending "free speech."

"Television Will Be Freed Soon."—Headline. Won't it be free to know that something is "free?"

When Abraham Lincoln was elected president, the Republicans raised one hundred thousand dollars to finance the campaign. In the 1920 campaign the Republicans raised over six million dollars to finance the campaign. John H. Bankhead, Alabama's senior senator, amended the Hatch act to limit individual contributions to five thousand dollars, and nobody will know just how this is going to work until the present campaign is over.

We may be getting old, but it seems to us that the use of women's legs in advertisements filling the dailies—heralding everything from road machinery to hairpins—is being somewhat overworked.

We sometimes wonder if America's so-called "high standard of living" isn't its greatest weakness.

Europe's paramount war question is: Will Germany's wolverine cut the British lion's jugular vein?

By dropping leaflets in Germany, England may prove that the printing press is mightier than the bomb.

China paid over a million dollars for American aviation products last year, but we don't see anybody taking up a collection for the starving Chinese.

If we country editors do tour Alabama on our annual outing this Summer, the natives may expect to read plenty when we get back home about the Land of the Glee, and the home of the Rave.

Congress is a funny bunch. They voted a billion and a half dollars for our own defense, and then turned around and voted to sell our latest model airplanes to England and France while we wait for "defense."

Doyle Buckles, field manager of Alabama Press Association, asks for suggestion in connection with the proposed press tour over the State this summer, so here goes:

How many Alabama editors have seen DeSoto River flowing out of the top of one of Alabama's highest mountains ... Buck's Pass ... May Gulf gulch) Monte Sano's natural well 200 feet deep ... Belle Mina, home of Alabama's first governor, William Wyatt Bibb ... Huntsville's Big Spring ... Tennessee Valley's continuous system of lakes clear across the top of Alabama ... Ave Maria Grotto ... University Highway Up To U. S. Government

Alabama's Highway Director, Chris Sherlock, is quoted as saying that the next step in the plan of this administration to build a direct paved highway between Montgomery and Tuscaloosa must be taken by the United States government. Alabama is ready. Director Sherlock has submitted his application to make this a federal route and has repeatedly supplied Uncle Sam with requested information about the proposed route. If Uncle Sam gives Sherlock the green light he will have only to come to terms with Chilton, Autauga and Tuscaloosa counties, Bibb having already committed itself. The presumption is that the others will agree.

Alabama's great road-builder believes that he has made out a good case for this federal highway, but apparently he is unwilling to prophesy what the United States will do regarding it.

It is now about 150 miles from Montgomery to Tuscaloosa. The proposed route would be only 96 miles. There is every sound reason why University Highway should materialize. There is an immense popular demand for the route, there is a vast need of the special importance of Tuscaloosa anything less than a direct line should connect it with the state capital. At Tuscaloosa is the university with its large interests. The university is an organic part of the state government. At Tuscaloosa are the hospitals for the mentally ill, Bryce Hospital and the Partlow School, are likewise organic parts of the state government. At Tuscaloosa is a great federal hospital for war veterans. Certainly this institution should be more accessible to the heart of Alabama, which is Montgomery, a city in which another hospital for the care of veterans is now going up.

Once University Highway is completed every man who has advocated it in the long years of the past will be quickly vindicated by the immediate popularity of the route. Traffic between Tuscaloosa and Montgomery will be instantly increased. It will be a consistently heavy traffic the year around, and not by any means alone because of the natural affinity between the state institutions in the two cities and the interest of people in visiting these institutions. This route will be a convenience to a vast and thrifty population in the two cities. Trade in Montgomery and Tuscaloosa will benefit and the people living in between the two points will be grateful for the new transportation convenience.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Peach Blossom Festival

If Chris Sherlock wants to make his road building science end in true art (as all science is supposed to do) he should arrange to complete the fine improvements he is making on the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway in time to have a peach blossom festival in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. The Shenandoah Valley of Virginia peach blossoms could easily be to Alabama. They speak of Springtime with the same delicacy and tender dramatics—John Temple Graves II in Age-Herald.

And Chilco brand peach blossoms lead all the rest.

Charlie Lane

A newspaper man died in Huntsville last week. He belonged to the old school of journalism, the school in freedom of thought and in putting that thought into print.

While his pen was dipped in acid at times it never showed animus and he carried no grudges.

He loved the paper business and never got away from it very long, returning in the past few months to combine his efforts with those of the editor of The Mercury in consolidating the papers of the two of the oldest newspaper families in Alabama.

His column "Did You Know" was read by the entire county with weekly interest and its items showed keen knowledge of the affairs of the citizens of Madison County who had elected him to office more than once.

Charlie Lane goes to join his illustrious father who also was a paper man in every sense of the word which is so aptly understood by those in the profession.

The Mercury again bows its head and adds to its Editor's notice those figures which among newspaper men all over the world mean the finish—"30"—Huntsville Mercury.

Blossoms and Beauty

Talk about your Dogwood blossoms but a Pear tree in full bloom or a Peach tree is not to be turned down for beauty. They are useful as well as ornamental, they are like a pretty girl who is also a good cook.—Phenix-Girard Journal.

Mobile's Glorious Azaleas Again Command The Attention of Flower Lovers Everywhere

Mobile's famous Azaleas are in bloom again!

The Azalea is and always has been a part of Mobile. For almost two hundred years there have been Azaleas in Mobile, appreciated and admired by those who have seen them; but only in the last decade has a concerted effort been made to call them to the attention of the traveler.

In the middle of the seventeenth century Frifise Langlois, returning to Mobile from a visit to his childhood home in Toulouse, France, brought three colors of Azaleas to Mobile. From that time on we find the Azalea woven into the pattern of Mobile's history. When France ceded Mobile to England in 1763 visitors came to see Azaleas; and in 1770, when the Spaniards took Mobile, they marveled at the glory of these flowers.

Visiting dignitaries down through the years have recorded their wonder when they saw the Azaleas in bloom. The tender French love of beauty brought them here; the formal English nurtured them; and the stately Castilian nobleman who governed Mobile for Spain planted them in their patios and dreamed of sunny Castile.

Since the turn of the Nineteenth Century some of the bushes planted about the middle of the Eighteenth Century have become almost trees. The ancestors of the present owners in many cases set out the small bushes which today tower fifteen to twenty feet in height and measure over a hundred feet in circumference.

The outstanding spot on Mobile's famous Azalea Trail is Bellinrath Gardens, where thousands of Azaleas, japonicas and shrubs of all varieties are planted; where natural streams run through the entire property and where trails lead across rustic bridges through the Gardens. These Gardens are truly thought of as the Cross-Roads of the world for flower lovers, for since their conception and artistic development by Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Bellinrath, the Garden register bears the names of many international celebrities and thousands of visitors from afar.

"Charm Spot of the Deep South" An inviting trail leads from the entrance into the Gardens. Towering pines and aged oak, heavily festooned with Spanish Moss (Tillandsia usneoides) form an aisle on each side, while interspersed you get your first glimpse of the gorgeous azaleas. This trail leads to the Fountain Plaza which is the center of the estate, and here amid moss-draped and ivy clad oaks is the magnificent home of our genial hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Bellinrath.

Located on a bluff overlooking the junction of three rivers, Bellinrath Gardens were originally a semi-tropical jungle of magnolias, bays, live and water oaks, cedars, pines, holly and dogwood. The natural beauty of the place has been vividly enhanced by dexterous landscaping and transformed into a glorious garden beyond adequate description. And azaleas! Thousands of them line the many boxwood bordered walks that wind over this marvelously beautiful estate. Around the lily-bordered lake ... Mirror Lake ... over historic flagstone walks you go enthralled by the gigantic azaleas, some of which are more than a hundred years old, that scatter their trillion petals from the million flowers that cover single bushes.

Beyond the fountain, in the Bellinrath Gardens, there has been created a Camelia Parterre. This Parterre contains, in addition to the many beautiful specimens of the true Camelia japonica, the Camelia Sassanqua in both the alba and the rosea varieties as well as innumerable azaleas of many kinds. From the terrace of this Parterre a vista opens across a great expanse of well-kept lawn to a border of large Azaleas, Camelia and other old-type shrubs. The charm and amazing variety of the Camelia japonica in this setting convinces the visitor that here in the Bellinrath Gardens is one of the most remarkable collections of this beautiful flowering shrub ever gathered together. One is completely enraptured by the mystic charm of the setting and will leave this spot reluctantly only to be equally surprised and delighted at the gorgeous beauty that awaits the visitor on every side.

This wonderland is located near Theodore, Alabama, twenty miles below Mobile just off highway 90 near Mobile Bay.

Hildreth Speaks To Tuscaloosa Audience

Tuscaloosa Ala., March 30—State Senator Emmett Hildreth, Candidate for Congress, Sixth Congressional District fired the first major political shot in the Congressional race here today. His stirring address was delivered in the Tuscaloosa County Court House before a crowded courtroom. The address was also broadcast over WJRD Radio Station, and was carried to the overflow crowd by loud speakers.

Senator Hildreth was introduced by Ralph Gross, his Tuscaloosa County Campaign Manager, as being generally recognized as the ablest man in the race, and the necessary experience, training and ability to give the Sixth District the first major political shot recognized as the ablest man in the race in the National Congress now needed.

Speaking in a clear, decisive manner, Hildreth left no doubt where he stood on the major, vital issues and challenged his opponents to state like-ly their position on these issues. He also challenged his opponents to meet him in an old-fashioned debate in each county of the district. He stated, "This would prove enlightening and instructive to the people and would be of great benefit to them in determining for whom to vote. You are entitled to know the position of each candidate on the sound, fundamental principles of government, and on the issues of this race. You shall know them from me openly, clearly and without evasion."

Clearly and without evasion he did state his position and his audience gave him close attention and showed by their applause enthusiastic approval. He gave his whole-hearted endorsement to the National Term Program, with liberal party payments, and a broad soil conservation program for the farmers. He called for the extension of crop insurance provisions to cotton farmers, and the continuation of the CCC program, particularly in connection with its conservation activities. He expressed himself strongly against war.

He said that nearly three years of my life to the service of my country, and had active overseas service. Many of my comrades were shot down, wounded, gassed, maimed, blinded, and some of them paid the supreme sacrifice with their lives. I don't want to ever see that again, nor do I want it to come to my sons, nor to my sons' sons. The sacrifice is too great. War leaves no victors, only death and destruction and loss, and suffering and sacrifice follow in its wake. So I say, millions for defense for our country, and not one penny for any foreign war.

He outlined the active, aggressive support which he has always given to education, and told how the battle for the passage of his bill giving nearly a million dollars to the schools out of the surplus Income Tax Fund was won. He stressed the need for Federal aid for our schools, but strictly under State control and regulation.

He advocated a liberal labor policy; liberal treatment of veterans and their dependent widows and orphans; the continuation and extension of the reciprocal trade agreements for the disposition of our surplus commodities; fair and equal freight rates for the south; liberal Federal aid for the construction and maintenance of our highways, roads and bridges; and called for the coordination of WPA, Relief and farm work so that labor will always be available at the time and place when and as needed. He expressed his aggressive opposition to dictatorships of every kind and all foreign "isms", and against waste and extravagance in governmental affairs.

His full address will be found in the supplement in this issue.

Mulberry-Isabella News

Everyone is urged to attend preaching Sunday at Mulberry where Bro. Oden will deliver an inspiring message. All are invited to attend the Mulberry Sunday School services each Sunday morning. An interesting special program is rendered each week. The regular meeting of the P.-T.-A. will be held Monday night at 7:00 o'clock in the school auditorium. Quite a few of the community boys were back home for the Easter holidays. They included Braxton Leroy Willard Davenport, Melvin White, who are students at Auburn and Arnold Bryant, student at Athens. Lona Cummings, who is now in training at Bryne's Hospital, was at home for Easter.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Calfee regret they are leaving the community to be in Prattville for a while.

Mr. Thomas Rape coach for Isabella is improving after an illness of about a month.

The mumps have really set up in Isabella but we are glad to say they seem not to be hurting but a very few.

Mrs. Andrew Jones (Willie Mae Wells) and baby daughter, Mary Glennie, are both doing fine at the home of her mother.

Miss Doris Tucker spent last week with her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Manning.

We are sorry to learn little Flora Nell Grooms had to be taken to the Selma Hospital for mastoid treatment.

Mr. Homer Morgan spent last week end in the community.

REV. JOHN L. SMITH

Rev. John L. Smith, age 59, passed away at his residence near Cooper at 3:00 A.M. Saturday, March 29. He was a Methodist minister, a member of the Walnut Creek Church, a Mason of the Verbena Lodge.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2:00 o'clock P.M. from the Walnut Creek Church, conducted by the Rev. J. W. Enfinger and the Rev. G. B. Golden. Interment was in the Walnut Creek cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Surviving are the widow and three sons, R. W. and D. L. of Clanton, W. L. of Middleville, Ga.; 1 daughter, Myrtis Smith Clanton; 2 brothers, W. A. and D. S. of Clanton; 3 sisters, A. O. Snyder, Mrs. J. D. Jones and Mrs. H. T. Robinson of Clanton. Sons-in-law served as pallbearers and nieces as flower girls.

We want to invite and urge the attendance again and regularly of the thirty-one CCC boys who attended our Church last Sunday and we hope they will bring many more of the boys from the camp with them. We enjoyed and shall ever enjoy having you boys.

We still appreciate the work our most loyal church members and workers are doing. We just want the rest of us to get in harness and work as these are doing. Have you ever considered how much you need the Church and how much it means to us in every way? Have you ever considered how the Church needs you?

We had a nice increase in Church School last Sunday. In fact, we had a nice attendance at all services. Now, let's all go next Sunday.

In thinking of our Church and of our own home worship, let's not forget the revival in our Church. The revival services begin, as mentioned in this column heretofore, the second Sunday in June. May we be in prayer, in earnest, never-ceasing prayer for our Church to have a great, a real revival.

J. C. EDWARDS WRITES

Editor, Chilton County News:
His Kingdom ruleth over all. (Ps. 103:11). God's Kingdom under Christ is the doctrine of paramount importance, set forth in the scriptures. This is true because it is the Kingdom that will vindicate Jehovah's name. The devil has put forth religion as a snare to teach doctrines exactly contrary to the Kingdom. Religious institutions magnify the importance of men, showing outward loyalty to earthly governments and the necessity to appear as those who have developed a beautiful character.

It is important that one should be honest and reliable, dependable and do his right. That is to be expected and even required of men, to make no pretense of serving God. One may be a Christian and not be one at all. The important thing for a real Christian to learn is God's purpose and what is His will concerning His creatures and then to be diligent to obey God's Commandments.

Someone has said that Christianity and religion are to separate things. Christianity stands for truth and full obedience to the law of Almighty God. Religion is demon worship. Christianity is the worship of Jehovah God in spirit and in truth. Sincere people should give thoughtful consideration to the Commandments of God to His typical people concerning religion and which Commandments apply with force to all true who are seeking the way of righteousness.

From the time of Nimrod onward, all the heathen nations practiced demon worship or religion offering sacrifice unto devils. God plainly warned the Israelites that religion practiced by the heathen would be a snare unto them. (Read Cor. 10:20-21), which shows that a religionist cannot be a true Christian. The world almanac claims that in the earth there are 62,000,000 persons who are rated as Christians. 331,500,000 of such are rated as Roman Catholic; 144,000 Orthodox Catholic; 206,000 Protestant. The claim is made that in the United States alone there are 64,000,000 (so called) Christians. Are they accurate according to the Bible?—J. C. Edwards

HOW TO RAISE BABY CHICKS

The question of how to raise baby chicks properly has been answered by J. H. Camp, teacher of Vocational Agriculture of Isabella High School. He suggests that good brooding equipment be the first requisite for good chicks. Often the small flock owner with from 100 to 200 chicks does not provide adequate brooding equipment and runs into serious losses from exposure and over-crowding. As most chicks are hatched in March, the brooding equipment should be checked and repaired if this has not already been done.

The first feed should be given by the time the chicks are 48 hours old. Clean, wholesome feed should be before the chicks at all time in order to make more economical gains. A good commercial starter mash should be fed to the chicks for the first 4 weeks. After this time they may be fed the following mixture if plenty of milk is available for the chicks. (1) 80 pounds corn meal; (2) 20 pounds wheat shorts; (3) 2 pounds salt; (4) 4 pounds oyster shell; (5) 2 pounds bone meal. Probably the most economical ration to use is one made up of 2 parts corn meal and 1 part 25 per cent supplement.

The feeding and drinking utensils should be kept clean and sanitary at all times. Keep fresh water before the chicks at all times. Straw or shavings should be kept on the floor. This will help keep it clean and help keep it warmer.

Proper temperature is very important in producing good chicks. A thermometer should be hung from the ceiling by a string, 2 feet from the brooder and 6 to 8 inches above the floor. Keep the house at an even temperature day and night. During the first week keep the temperature at 85 to 90 degrees.

FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION
I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of member of the Board of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held in Chilton County on the 7th day of May, 1940. Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.
B. F. ROCKHOLDT,
Clanton, Alabama.

FOR CONGRESS, SIXTH DISTRICT
I wish to continue representing YOU in Congress. I pledge a continuation of my best efforts to serve my District, my Party and my Nation well. I want your vote, your hearty support and friendship and your cooperation. THANK YOU.
PETE JARMAN,
Livingston, Alabama.

FOR CONGRESS
I hereby announce myself a candidate for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District of Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries of May 7th and June 4th, 1940. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.
W. D. (BILLY) PARTLOW, JR.,
Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

FOR CONGRESS
I hereby announce myself a candidate for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District of Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries of May 7th and June 4th, 1940. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.
EMMETT HILDRETH,
Eutaw, Alabama.

FOR CONGRESS
The only farmer-world war veteran candidate to represent Alabama's Sixth District in the U. S. Congress is the undersigned Democrat. All farmers could well join to urge action to secure this outstanding chance to elect overwhelmingly, in the Democratic primary on May 7th, 1940—perhaps your next Congressman.
THOMAS H. MAXWELL,
Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

FOR JUDGE OF 19TH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit of Alabama, composed of the Counties of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries of May and June, 1940.
ARTHUR GLOVER,
Wetumpka, Alabama.

FOR DELEGATE TO NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION
I hereby announce myself a candidate from the Sixth Congressional District of Alabama to the National Convention of the Democratic Party, to be held in 1940, at such time as may be fixed by the duly authorized representatives of said Party, my said candidacy to be subject to the Democratic Primary to be held in Alabama on Tuesday, May 7th, 1940.
L. E. ELLIS,
Columbiana, Alabama.

FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION
I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of member of the Board of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held in Chilton County on the 7th day of May, 1940. Your vote and influence in my behalf will be greatly appreciated.
J. F. (POPE) PAYNE,
Maplesville, Alabama.

Then lower the temperature 1 degree each day until 70 degrees is reached. Maintain this temperature as long as heat is needed. Avoid overheating as it causes as much or more trouble than chilling.
Avoid over-crowding. Allow one-half square foot of floor space for each chick. As they grow older the floor space should be increased to at least one square foot for each chick. Do not put more than 300 to 350 chicks in a house for best results.

GREATER BUYING POWER FOR FARMERS' DOLLAR

Three developments of interest to the American farmer are reported in a review of the natural nitrate industry which has just been published by the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau. These developments, affecting the price of natural nitrate, its mechanical condition, and the bags in which it is sold show, among other things, considerable increase in today's buying power of the farmers' dollar.

Turn back the calendar to 1927. That year new and more economical mining and refining methods went into operation. Price reductions followed. Today the price of natural nitrate of soda is about $20 per ton less than in 1927.

Mechanical condition has steadily improved. Today farmers everywhere are familiar with the famous natural nitrate pellets which are so easily applied and which resist the hardening and caking to which other nitrogen fertilizers are subject. The improved form of this hundred year old product retains of course, the natural balance of many plant food elements besides nitrate.

Thirdly, in a large-scale effort to assist in developing new uses for American cotton, natural nitrate of soda was offered in even-weight cotton bags. Today farmers can have their natural nitrate bag delivered either in cotton or burlap bags, as preferred, at no difference in price.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

The Sunday School of Sardis Church went to the home of Rev. A. E. Trice Sunday and gave him a surprise birthday dinner. Rev. Trice was sixty years old.

He received several presents given by the Sunday School.

A delightful dinner was spread in the grove and those enjoying this occasion were: Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Trice and daughters, Kirma and Erma; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sansom and children, Mel-da, Gladys, Louise and Frances; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Adams; Mr. Raymond Kendrick and children, James Carl and Shirley Gene; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Smith and children, Johnnie, Julius and Inez; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Scott and son, Kenneth; Miss Annie Klinner; Mr. Sol Sansom; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Trammell and children, G. W. and Elizabeth Ann; Mr. Jack Jones.

Those who came in the afternoon were Mr. G. E. Sansom and children, Elsie, Gracie Nell, Dorothy Ann and E. J. The afternoon was enjoyed with talking and laughing and at a late hour all left for their homes wishing Brother Trice many more happy birthdays.

Partlow For Beneficial Farm Program

Addressing a mass meeting of voters at Clanton, Chilton County, Billy Partlow, candidate for Congress from this district, promised the farmer that "he was not neutral or on both sides" of the farming issue but would fight aggressively for every program which gave promise of benefiting the farmer.

"I am for parity payments, soil conservation benefits, crop insurance and low interest farm financing," he said.

Partlow outlined a platform which called for a continuation of the "broad humanitarian" principles under which the farmer and laborer have benefited.

Calling attention to the fact that the South today has the lowest income of any region in the nation, Partlow pointed out that this region had been kept in "economic chains" by the powerful interests of the East through "protective tariffs and freight rate differentials." He said that he proposed to "fight with all his energy" to throw off these shackles.

Concerning education, Partlow said that the South had only one-sixth of the nation's wealth with which to educate one-third of the nation's children.

"With such disproportionate share of the wealth," he said, "we have but one hope—federal grants to the individual states but without federal control." He pledged his support to the pending federal education bill under which Alabama would receive approximately four million dollars the first year, and sum to be increased annually for six years and at the end of six years Alabama would be receiving 12 million dollars annually for education from the federal government.

"The amount of money called for in this bill is small in comparison to some of the outlays which must be made by the federal government," he said.

Agreeing that "America needs an adequate national defense," he said that every dollar spent for improving the education and health of the people was a dollar spent for national defense also. "Our first line of defense is the American home. Recalling what a large percent of young men were unable to qualify because of bad health or poor education in the last war, we should see to it that more of our young men and women are prepared if the day should ever come when they would be called upon to defend this land of ours."

U. S. BANK DEPOSITS REACH ALL-TIME HIGH

A Washington AP dispatch to daily newspapers says: "American bank deposits rose 13 per cent to the unprecedented total of $56,076,000,000 in 1939. This total, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation reported Sunday, was held on last December 30th by the 13,535 banks insured by the agency."

Slow Down in Natick
The town of Natick, Mass., has appropriated $50 to make one of its streets bumpy. Such roadwork, proponents claimed, would force automobiles to proceed at a slow rate of speed, thus insuring the safety of children in the neighborhood. The appropriation was passed at last night's town meeting only after long and heated debate, during which opponents raised the legal question of liability for damage to automobiles hitting the artificial bumps.

Lomax Erecting A Brick Plant

Editor, Chilton County News:
Our little town continues to grow. We have a brick manufacturing plant going up here. The name of which is I think "Clanton Brick Company." Maybe that's only a nick-name, and the real name will be the Lomax Brick Company.

It looks natural to see our good old friend, W. H. Killingsworth, walking our streets again, after his recovery from a long illness.

We wonder why some of our good newspapers refrain from printing articles that purport to show up faulty and illegal tactics of some of our high officials. It seems that some will never learn that you can't do wrong and get by with it.

Mrs. A. E. Jackson of Birmingham visited relatives and friends here last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rhinehardt spent Easter Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore.

Miss Lillie Pearl Lolley from Talladega school visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lolley last week end. She will finish high school at that place in May.

Mr. D. E. Moore and family, Mr. Crit Moore and Mr. Elbert Mitchell and family spent a while with Mr. John Moore and family last Thursday night. Mrs. Ida Moore has recently returned from an extended visit with friends and relatives in Prattville.

Mr. Ben Ingram and family, Mr. Bill Hathcock and family and Mrs. Grady Kelley motored to the mountain tower last Sunday.

Mrs. Crola Smith has been carried to King's Hospital in Selma for an operation. We hope she will soon be able to come home and enjoy good health again.

Mr. L. B. and Derrill Lawrence visited Tommie, Jack and Felton Shoults last week end.

The darkest hour is just before dawn and that reminds us that after many storms and much rain, we are blessed with warm sunshine, farming weather now.

Make hay while the sun shines, should be every man's slogan.

Chevrolet Sales Continue Gains

Detroit, March 25—Continued gains over the second-best February in the history of the company were reported by Chevrolet here today, with release of its dealers' new passenger car and truck sales figures for the second 10 days of March.

The increase totalled 55.8 per cent over the same period last month, total sales being 33,510, William E. Holler, general sales manager, announced. New car sales gained 23.4 per cent over the first 10 days of March he said.

The period showed a 38.4 per cent gain over the second 10 days of March, 1939, when 9,303 fewer units were retailed.

Used car sales also showed a strong upward trend, with a gain of 26.2 per cent over the comparable period last year, a total of 52,853 used cars being retailed. Used car sales for the second period of the month also surpassed the showing made during the first 10 days, with a gain of 30.4 per cent over the 40,528 use cars sold during that period.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

As I approached a railroad crossing in my car I saw that a car was standing on the track. The driver of the standing car leaped out and waved vigorously for me to stop and push him out of danger. I looked down the track and at the depot stood the train, ringing its bell to start. We had no time to lose and with haste I got in behind the car and pushed it up the hill just as the big mogul went puffing by. It was a time when seconds counted. Many times have I seen men and women in great danger of losing their souls and yet they did not seem concerned. I have seen them when seconds counted. There is danger in delay. With our God now is the accepted time and today is the day of salvation. Why be so foolish as to sit on the track of life when the mogul of death is approaching. Let me help you up the hill.

A father, with his five children, came by where I was at work. Each child carried a musical instrument. They paused to cheer us up with a few well selected songs. Any father could have been proud of these bright, happy, talented children. I entered into pleasant conversation with the father and to my shame and chagrin, he blurted out an oath that was enough to make a demon blush. It was more than I could stand, and with all the tact that I could command I remonstrated with him for using such language before me and before his children. He hung his head and shame came to his countenance. Then he looked me in the eye and with an expression of deep sorrow he said: "My friend, I do not know you, but you have spoken the truth in kindness, and I thank you." We do not have to let sin go by unrebuked. If we are like the Master within, men will hear us.

I had in my possession a nice new hatchet. One day I used it and then placed it in the storage room door and went upstairs. For ten minutes I was gone and during that time someone came along with sticky fingers and picked up my hatchet and it went away with him, or her. It is bad enough to steal, but it is worse when we just about know who did the dirty deed. I almost know who got my hatchet. God does know and at the judgment He is going to order that person with sticky fingers to bring my hatchet back to me. It is going to be interesting times when all the thieves go trotting around carrying back the things stolen.

yet when Tennyson writes one of his great poems on that sheet of paper it is then worth a thousand dollars. That piece of canvas cost about a dime, but when Millet mixed his colors and with the skill of an Artist, spread them on that canvas, it was then worth two hundred thousand dollars. Your life is just raw material, and it is up to you to stamp it with values that are worth more than silver or gold.

I stood by and watched some carpenters in action. Each one carried with him a square, a pencil and a saw. The square was applied, the pencil made a straight line and the saw ripped the lumber. The joints fitted when the carpenter worked by a prescribed rule. That is a picture of my life and of your life. Like a good carpenter, we should have with us our tools that will help us to make life correct. We should square our deeds, walk a straight line and saw with precision. We see people who seemingly never get anything to fit. With them life is just one mess after another. Nothing fits. It is a botch job from the cradle to the grave. All the joints will fit and your life will be a thing of beauty if you will just square your deeds, mark your path and then hew to the line.

Half-Pint "Eggs"

Two searches through a suspected Negro's premises failed at Greenville, Miss., to disclose any illegal whisky, but on the third try raiding officers found a cache of 14 half pints—under a setting hen.

Slow Down In Natick

The town of Natick, Mass., has appropriated $50 to make one of its streets bumpy. Such roadwork, proponents claimed, would force automobiles to proceed at a slow rate of speed, thus insuring the safety of children in the neighborhood. The appropriation was passed at last night's town meeting only after long and heated debate, during which opponents raised the legal question of liability for damage to automobiles hitting the artificial bumps.

Pre-School Clinic

Clanton school teachers plan to combine a spend the day at school party for pre-school children with the pre-school clinic.

Parents are reminded again by the Health Officer that the new method of immunizing children against diphtheria calls for two injections of toxoid during infancy and a third injection before the child enters school. Advantages of this opportunity to protect children at these clinics should not be neglected.

The schedule with the date, time and place of the clinics are as follows:

Friday, April 5, 9:00 to 12:00—Union Grove School.

Monday, April 8, 9:00 to 12:00—Maplesville School.

Monday, April 8, 1:00 to 4:00—Alabama Mills School.

Tuesday, April 9, 9:00 to 12:00—Thorsby School.

Tuesday, April 9, 1:00 to 4:00—Concord School.

Wednesday April 10, 9:00 to 12:00—Stanton School.

Thursday, April 11, 9:00 to 12:00—Verbena School.

Thursday, April 11, 1:00 to 4:00—Mt. Pleasant School.

Friday April 12, 9:00 to 12:00—Isabella School.

Monday, April 15, 9:00 to 12:00—Vermont School.

Monday, April 15, 1:00 to 4:00—Baker School.

Tuesday April 16, 9:00 to 12:00—Clanton (Health Office).

Tuesday, April 16, 1:00 to 4:00—Collins Chapel School.

Thursday, April 18, 9:00 to 12:00—Jemison School.

Thursday, April 18, 1:00 to 4:00—Cooper School.

day, April 5, as stated last week. This will be a musical program under the direction of Miss Alice Burr, teacher of music at Thorsby Institute. Everyone is urged to come. Admission will be ten cents.

The Thorsby Institute Glee Club gave a very enjoyable program to a large crowd at the Thorsby Congregational Church on Sunday night, March 31. The renditions were enjoyed very much.

Rev. Oscar E. Maurer, D.D., Moderator of the Congregational-Christian Churches of America, who spoke to a group at the Dining Hall on Monday night, gave a very interesting talk on "Well-Diggers" to the students and teachers at chapel on Tuesday morning.

be organized and trained by The American Legion through its State Department and District Commanders. They will select a county chief for each county or parish in their state or district. Each county or parish chief in turn will select his assistants and four or more observers for each observer station located in his county. Normally there will be from one to four observer stations in each sixteen-mile square throughout the entire area.

"The Third Army Aircraft Warning Service will be operated entirely by patriotic civilians under the leadership of The American Legion except for an Information Center, which will be operated by regular army personnel of the Third Army assigned to the Aircraft Warning Service. This Information Center will receive, by telephone messages from the official observers of the movements of all military airplanes seen or heard flying in formation. The regular army personnel at the Information Center will evaluate and, then by radio, teletype, and telephone disseminate this information for use by military personnel."

DR. J. J. DUBOSE PASSED AWAY LAST SUNDAY

70-YEAR-OLD MAPLEVILLE
PHYSICIAN WAS WELL LOVED AND RESPECTED

Dr. Julius Jesse Dubose, 70, of Mapleville, died in a Selma hospital at 145 P. M. Sunday after an illness of one month, the well known and loved physician having been carried to the hospital for treatment 14 days prior to his death.

Dr. Dubose was born in South Carolina and actively practiced his profession for 40 years, the last 17 of them in Mapleville. He was a member of the People's Church of Mapleville and the entire community had won for him a host of friends who mourn his passing. He was ever ready to render service for the benefit of humanity, from a medical standpoint and for the progress of his community.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 A. M. Tuesday from the Baptist Church in Mapleville. Burial was in the Stanton cemetery with Breslin-Service in charge.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. L. Dyer, of Stanton; one son, W. B. Dubose of Charleston, West Va.; two brothers, Gordon Dubose of Calera; H. Dubose of Samford, Fla.; and a sister, Mrs. L. N. Dykes of Dallas, Texas.

JACK HAYES SUFFERING FROM EYE INFECTION; IS IN CHICAGO

Jack Hayes, Clanton's contribution to the league baseball, has run into hard luck again this season. During a workout with members of his club, the Chicago V. Lite Sox, Hayes, who plays second base, was hit over one eye by a ball. This accident benched him for a while, but on their return from the camp out West, Jack's other eye became infected, and his vision was impaired to such an extent that several specialists were called in on his arrival in Chicago. However, it was Tuesday of this week that he was improved, his eye responding to special treatment.

Hayes is many friends everywhere, and especially in Clanton, wish him an early recovery and return to the line-up. An injured knee kept him out of the game for two years.

Herbert Traywick Dies Of Poisoning

Poisoning was given as the cause of the unexpected death last Saturday morning at 11:45 of Herbert D. Traywick, age 31, one of the county's best known young men. Traywick had been an employee of the County for several years, and was formerly employed by the State Road Department. The news was informed that Mr. Traywick had eaten some fish in Montgomery, and had become ill on return to his home here. He died shortly thereafter.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist Church Monday morning at 11 o'clock conducted by Rev. W. P. Low, assisted by Rev. Bible. Interment was in the nearby cemetery with J. Martin and Sons in charge.

Survivors were Claude Bible, Carl Culpeper, Owen Jim Traywick, Carl Culpeper, and Wright, S. L. Williams.

Flower girls were Mary Dell Brown, Willie Nell Owen, Carolyn Brown, Sam Traywick, Mary Pearl Culp and Wyn Owen.

He is survived by his wife and one son (Survivors alter).

EDWARDS IN NEW LOCATION

Edwards's builder of cement articles, has his headquarters near the Clanton cemetery, across the street from the lot belonging to Mr. T. E. Wyatt.

Mr. Edwards specializes in the building of bird baths, troughs of all kinds, and his works of art have drawn comments from far and near. An attractive display of his work may be seen at his place of business.

NINE JAILED HERE

The record of commitments to the County Jail showed Tuesday that nine persons were committed to jail during the past week for charges as follows:

Public drunkenness, 3; Driving while intoxicated, 3; Forgery, 1; Manufacturing whiskey, 2.

Elderly Resident Of City Passes

Mrs. Sara Argie Foshee, age 71, passed away at the home of her son, Sie Foshee, at South Clanton April 4. She was one of the County's pioneer citizens.

Funeral services were conducted from the Clanton Baptist Church Friday afternoon at 2:30 with Rev. S. J. Ezell, assisted by Rev. Oscar A. Davis, conducting. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge.

Surviving are eight children—Mrs. Della Thomas, Leeds, Ala.; Mrs. Zora Belle Walker, Birmingham; Mrs. June Simkins, New Orleans; Harvey, Sie, Dewey and Luther Foshee of Clanton and Warnie of Birmingham. Seventeen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

Congressman Jarman Now In The District

Congressman Pete Jarman, now serving his second term in Congress, has been contacting friends and constituents in the Sixth District, having recently returned from his duties in Washington.

Mr. Jarman is meeting with a fine reception and is being welcomed by many friends in a brief swing through the district. He has expressed his appreciation for the many voluntary evidences of support and hearty commendations of his work in Washington.

"It will be impossible for me to see all my friends personally," Mr. Jarman stated, "but I hope that each will understand that it is the pressure of time and my duties rather than lack of interest. I would like to see every voter personally and will see as many as possible, but it is not possible for me to cover all the district at once."

"Congress has been in session during 31 of the 40 months I have been your Congressman. This, plus my official recess duties, has made it impossible for me to spend as much time in the district as I would have liked and has prevented me from seeing and conversing with many interested friends. Even so, I have moved my office to the District each year in order to better serve you."

I greatly appreciate the interest of my constituents in my work and appreciate also the expressions of sentiment on various issues which so many people have written me about. I have attempted to give the utmost consideration to every suggestion and every appeal and will continue to do so. I believe that any Congressman should be cognizant of the opinions of the people of his district on the great national issues."

In a paid political announcement in today's paper part of the precedent-setting record of Mr. Jarman is outlined. His position on the farm parity bill is given, showing that he has always voted for farm legislation and favored farm parity payments, million of dollars have been expended by the government in the farm program, much of which has come directly to this county during Mr. Jarman's tenure and he is on record as being in "hearty accord" with any program designed to improve the economic condition of the farmer.

FOSHEE-HARVILLE

The marriage of Jesse Frank Foshee to Miss Helen Harville of Tuscaloosa was announced here this week. The ceremony was performed Saturday in Tuscaloosa.

Mr. Foshee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee, Sr., of this city, and attended the University of Alabama where he attained honors as an outstanding member of the football team of that college. Mrs. Foshee also attended the University. They will make their home in Talladega where he is Coach at Talladega High School.

GOOD SINGING AT ENTERPRISE

The Enterprise Singing Society met April 7. Though the class was small, we had a good singing. The singing was opened by the chairman, J. W. DeVaughn. Prayer was by Bro. Phillip Barnett.

Directors for the afternoon were: Mr. J. E. Varner, Marshall Burkhalter, J. M. Williams, P. H. Headley, the Liberty Hill Quartet gave several specials. Pianists for the afternoon were Mrs. Lowery and J. E. Varner.

On Thursday night before the third Sunday we will meet at Enterprise to practice singing and invite all singers come and help us for we need your help.

Remember our singing the first Sunday afternoon in each month at 2:30 o'clock. Everybody come and be with us.—J. M. Williams, Secretary.

NEW SALEM SOCIAL

The New Salem Social will meet for the regular meeting April 11, 1940, at 2:30 P. M. We want all members to be present as we have a very important matter to bring up. Let's all come out and have a large crowd.

Hundreds Attend "Old Hoss Sale"

A crowd estimated at over one thousand and persons jammed the warehouse at the Clanton Service Station here last Thursday night to be among those to purchase packages at the "Old Hoss Sale" sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

Long before 7:30, the time set for the sale to begin, the warehouse was jammed to capacity, and many were milling around on the outside. About twenty-six hundred packages were on shelves ready to be sold at ten cents per package and at exactly 7:30 the selling began. Within thirty minutes not a single package remained on the shelves, and other valuable items were then auctioned off to the highest bidders at a rapid pace.

An alk of enjoyment circulated among the crowd and they opened their packages to see what they contained, and none seemed to feel that they had been "stung."

For the splendid response to the undertaking, Club President O. M. Webb requested the News to thank those who attended and bought packages and articles auctioned. A neat sum was realized, the will be used by the Club in its 1940 program of civic work. Especially does the appreciation of the Club go to those merchants of Clanton who donated articles and assisted in such a splendid manner. It was through their cooperation that the sale was made possible.

SEWER LINES COMPLETED IN NORTH CLANTON

Completion of the sanitary sewer lines in the North Clanton section of the city was announced by Mayor C. Fenn Jones early this week. Mr. Jones says that work will begin immediately on extending these lines into the negro section of the city, and out Second Avenue to Candler Terrace.

Spring Festival

An announcement from the Clanton Grammar School says:

"The delight of the season will be the Spring Festival which will take place on the campus of the Grammar School Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. This is composed of the children in the Grammar School."

"It will be a wonderful sight to see Sara Dean Smith as Fairy Queen and Lona Pearl Williamson as Goddess of Spring."

PREACHING AT SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH SATURDAY NIGHT

Rev. Clarke Burkhalter will preach at the Clanton Second Baptist Church next Saturday night, it was announced this week. Rev. Burkhalter will also be accompanied by the Burkhalter Quartette. Everyone invited to be present.

Is This Blitzkrieg?

England and Germany Carry Europe's War To Scandinavia

Moving with lightning-like rapidity, Europe's war hit a new pace last week end that would indicate at this writing that "blitzkrieg" had actually arrived.

England indicated to Norway last Friday that her navy would be used to prevent iron ore shipments through Norway waters to Germany.

Norway's foreign minister replied that such an act would bring Norway into the war.

Sunday night England laid three mine fields in Norway's territorial waters.

Monday night and early Tuesday morning Germany took over the whole of Denmark, without meeting resistance, this shutting off a large portion of England's milk, butter and vegetables.

Alt branches of the German military forces moved swiftly into Norway, taking possession of Oslo, the capital, and occupying all important cities, strategic military points and ports. Norway's government was moved to Hamar, 60 miles from Oslo.

More or less fighting was carried on throughout Monday and Tuesday between the English, French and German belligerents. Little resistance was made by Norway against the German invasion, and officials of the two countries are said to be working on a basis for settlement.

Clanton Pre-School Clinic April 16th

The pre-school clinic for the Clanton district will be held on Tuesday, April 16 from 9 A. M. until noon in the County Health office. All mothers who have children entering school in the Fall are urged to bring their children to the clinic. Here they will be given a thorough physical examination by Dr. Sterkie, assisted by Dr. J. E. Edgar, who will make the dental examination.

The mothers will please bring the birth certificates of the pre-school children. If there are any children who do not now have birth certificates, Dr. Sterkie will be glad to assist in securing same.

After the visit to the clinic, the mother and children are invited to visit in the first grade rooms of the school. The first grade teachers and their pupils are planning entertaining programs for the pleasure of the guests. Cars will be at the health center to carry visitors to the schools.

At the Clanton Grammar School members of the P.-T.-A. will welcome guests, and serve refreshments. Any visitors desiring to spend the day and have lunch in the lunch room at the school may make reservations for lunches not later than 9 A. M. Tuesday the 16th. Plates to cost ten cents.

Any mother and child desiring to come to the clinic on the school buses may do so. If you have a child who should visit the clinic, come! Get acquainted with the mothers of the children who will be your child's classmates. Get acquainted with the teachers. Give your child an opportunity to begin school with a strong, healthy body. Remember—April 16th counts for health and happiness!

PLAY DAY AT VERBENA

Just to remind you that the Cooper Morganville, Enterprise, Mitchell Dam and Verbena Schools are holding their Play Day Festival at Verbena High School April 12, beginning at nine o'clock. Stunts, games, barbecue. Come and bring a basket.

S. S. Office Change

Effective April 9, 1940, a representative of the Social Security Board will be in Clanton at the City Hall the second and fourth Tuesday of every month between the hours of 10 A. M. and 4 P. M. Weekly visits are being discontinued as of this week.

MR. AND MRS. JACK COOPER, FAMILY MOVE TO CLANTON

Newcomers to Clanton are Mr. and Mrs. Jack V. Cooper and young son who have recently moved here. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper come here from Columbia. His father, A. R. Cooper, was formerly in business in Clanton.

Mr. Cooper is district representative for the State Farm Mutual Insurance Company of Bloomington, Ill. Clanton extends a cordial welcome to this family.

Wallace Wood Home Burned Saturday

While they were attending a program at Thorsby Institute in which their daughters took part last Saturday night, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wood, located one mile out the Lay Dam Road, was completely destroyed by fire. All the household furnishings were lost. The blaze was discovered about 7:30, but had made such headway that it was impossible to check. The City's water mains do not extend to this section, and there were no means of combating the fire.

The house belonged to Mrs. John Brodner, and it is understood it was covered with insurance. Mr. Wood's furnishings were also partly insured.

DR. ERNEST WHERRY AT ALRED DRUG CO. NOW

Dr. Ernest Wherry, formerly of Macon, Miss., and Birmingham, is now with the Alred Drug Company as pharmacist.

An experienced pharmacist, Dr. Wherry has been extended a cordial reception by the people of Clanton and this section.

"HERE COMES CHARLIE"

If it is a night of entertainment and fun for the whole family you are looking for, don't miss "Here Comes Charlie," a three-act comedy, to be given by the Junior-Act of Verbena High School in the auditorium on Thursday night, April 11, at eight o'clock.

Admission will be 15 and 25 cents and a real good time is promised.

CONCERT AT MT. PLEASANT

The Liberty Hill Quartet is staging a concert at Mt. Pleasant Friday night, April 12, at 7:30. This concert is being sponsored by the Mt. Pleasant P.-T.-A. Admission will be ten and fifteen cents. Everyone invited.

Sun Eclipse In Clanton

The Sunday afternoon eclipse of the sun was viewed by Clantonians from the toddling tot who viewed this phenomenon for the first time to the old-timers who had witnessed scores of such occurrences.

Colored glasses were in evidence and although old sol was came from behind the clouds only intermittently a clear view of what was happening could be had. Groups gathered on the streets to watch, while the lawns of homes over the city were gathering places for residents who watched an almost total eclipse of the sun by the moon.

SMOKY MOUNTAINEERS AT COURTHOUSE SATURDAY P.M.

The Weco-Tiffin Basketball Team is sponsoring the Smoky Mountaineers Courthouse Saturday night, April 13, at 8:00 o'clock.

An evening of real entertainment is promised those who hear this group of musicians. Everyone invited.

Local Railroad Man Dies Suddenly

William Andrew Edwards, age 65, resident of South Clanton and for the past forty years an employee of the L&N Railroad Company, passed away at the Central Alabama Hospital here Tuesday morning at 10:10 following a paralytic stroke suffered earlier in the morning.

It is understood that Mr. Edwards was enroute to his work with his crew of men riding on a hand car when he became ill. He was carried to the hospital but lived only a short while.

Funeral services were held from the Concord Church at 2:30 P. M. Wednesday conducted by Rev. G. G. Williams. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Surviving are his widow; three sons, V. B. Edwards, Clanton Route 4; W. C. Edwards, Anderson, Ind.; E. L. Edwards, Clanton. Two daughters, Mrs. Arrie Bell Frazier, Mrs. Van Smith, Clanton.

Grandsons served as pallbearers.

ATTENTION WOODMEN MEMBERS

Camp 322, Clanton, Alabama, is planning a special meeting for the next regular meeting night of Monday, April 22. All Woodmen in good standing are urged to be on hand. We have some nice fresh meat which is badly in need of roasting and the degree team is to be re-organized.

Special speakers are being invited for the occasion and ice cold bottled drinks will be served to all attending Woodmen. There will be plenty on hand to go around twice if necessary. This is to be a very special meeting, so put the date down somewhere so you can keep it in mind and come.

Attending Stock Show

Assistant County Agent C. L. Breedlove, along with a group of County 4-H Club boys attended the Stock Show and Sale in Montgomery Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Seven of these boys entered fat calves in the show to compete for prizes being offered. This annual affair brings hundreds of cattlemen and 4-H Club boys to Montgomery each year.

M. D. FOSHEE, JR. BAGS TURKEY TUESDAY MORNING

Clanton's Number One Sportsman, M. D. Foshee, Jr., has been at it again. We learn that he went down on Hatcher Creek, or somewhere, early last Tuesday morning and bagged a turkey weighing 17 pounds. Some day M. D. will come down with a bear, moose, elephant, or the like into Clanton, and then we'll have no doubts about him knowing his guns.

Mobile Has Its Azaleas And Greenville Is Known As The Camellia City---But Clanton Seems To Have The Thrift And Wisteria

An Observation by Ye Olde Observer

Yes sir, Mobile has become famous for its Azaleas and the much publicized Camellia in Greenville commands attention, but a cruise around Clanton makes one believe we have a monopoly on the Thrift and Wisteria.

A trip to Mobile to view the famous Azaleas is well worth one's time. We know for we've been there. But a more beautiful sight cannot be found in this fair State than that of the Thrift Trails in Clanton. And the Wisteria is the pride and joy of many Clanton homes.

Just this Spring has notice been directed to these beauty spots. The Thrift may be a common flower but its beauty cannot be denied. Trees on the lawns and along the sidewalks are loaded with Wisteria, and in some places

MAS'NS TO HOLD THEIR REUNION AT BIRMINGHAM

SATURDAY, APRIL 20, IS DATE SET FOR 5TH REUNION;
KENTUCKY WORK TO BE EXEMPLIFIED

An outstanding event in Masonic circles in Alabama is the Annual Masonic Reunion which is held each year at Birmingham. This year the Fifth Annual Masonic Reunion will be held "Saturday, April 20, beginning at 2:00 P. M. The purpose of these reunions has been to bring out-of-state teams to Alabama that Masons in the state may have an opportunity to witness Masonic degree work as it is conferred in other states.

The program arranged for this year is one that should attract and interest all Masons. In the afternoon at 2:00 P. M. a team from Oneonta Lodge No. 324 will exemplify the Master Mason degree. At 4:30 P. M. Masonic drama, "Greater Love Hath No Man," will be staged and at 7:30 in the evening a team from Covington (Latonia) Kentucky, will exemplify the Kentucky Mason degree in full form using special paraphernalia and robes which will be brought to Birmingham.

In the evening at 6:00 P. M. a banquet will be served. Admittance to the exemplification of degree work will be by paid-up Master Mason card and the usual vouching procedure used at previous reunions. Reservations for the banquet may be made by contacting the Master or Secretary of any Alabama Masonic Lodge.

It is expected, this year's program will attract thousands of Masons and arrangements have been made to take care of the largest attendance the reunion has ever handled. The reunion will be held at the Central Masonic Temple in Birmingham and all degree work will be in the Temple Theatre auditorium. All Master Masons are invited and urged to come to Birmingham and participate in this annual Masonic event.

J. T. ROCKETT IMPROVED

3 FOR PUBLIC DRUNKENNESS

Three persons appeared before Mayor C. Fenn Jones in City Court last Monday morning, charged with public drunkenness. Trials were postponed until April 13.

Second Avenue May Become One Of City's Most Beautiful Drives

Not until the widening of Second Avenue got underway was it really realized that this avenue bids fair to become one of the City of Clanton's most beautiful drives.

This avenue extends from the heart of town for over a mile due west and intersects with the Clanton-Selma highway out near the end of the City limits. For over a mile there is not a single curve, and Mayor Jones says that this street will be leveled as well as widened, which will enable the motorist to see almost to the heart of town when he enters this street from the West end.

It is believed this avenue will be paved after the job of widening is finished. The Mayor stated that he was especially anxious to see it paved, if it was the desire of the property owners along the way. Already this section of Clanton along the Clanton-Mapleville road, has become one of the fastest growing sections of the City.

WPA OPERATIONS AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS IN ALABAMA

CHILTON COUNTY SHARES IN IMPROVEMENTS

By BILLY SMITH

In cooperation with County and City officials and other local agencies, the Works Progress Administration has aided in many public improvements in Chilton County.

This county came in for a share of the improvements made to roads, bridges, buildings and other public property by the WPA with 118 1/2 miles of highways and roads constructed or improved, 55 new bridges and 40 new culverts, it was disclosed in a report released by Colonel W. G. Henderson, Alabama WPA Administrator.

These items are some of the improvements made in this county, the report stated, and listed water mains and sewers and an airport as among other projects completed. The summary of WPA accomplishments listed that work which was completed from the beginning of the WPA program in July, 1935 up to January 1, 1940, and does not include work of the CWA or FERA.

"While this report covers the four and one-half years of WPA," Colonel Henderson pointed out, "it must be remembered that the actual construction work under WPA did not get well underway until the latter part of 1935 and in many counties not until during the first part of 1936."

"During the first four and one-half years of WPA, 412 new public buildings were constructed in Alabama," Colonel Henderson continued. "Additions were made to 107 buildings and 980 public buildings were either reconstructed or improved. Some were given new rooms, a new paint job, or perhaps needed rebuilding in some sections. Of these new public buildings there were 111 new educational buildings constructed. Other buildings include city halls, fire stations, hospitals, office buildings, community houses, recreation buildings, auditoriums and others."

In the field of sanitation and health, the report shows that over five miles of new sanitary sewer lines, extending the existing system, had been constructed by WPA in the City of Clanton as of January 1, 1940, with appurtenant work.

One concrete bridge, 130 feet in length, on U. S. Highway 31, north of Clanton, was reconstructed by WPA labor. Work on the county roads and bridges included 55 new wooden bridges and 40 new culverts constructed by WPA labor.

The RIGHT WAY TO MAKE A LONG DISTANCE CALL

When placing out-of-town calls, you will always get GOOD service, but you will get the QUICKEST service if you do it this way . . .

In the case of a Person-to-Person call,* first give the Long Distance Operator the name of the place you are calling, including the state, and then the name of the person you wish to reach and the telephone number if you know it. If you do not know the telephone number, give the person's address.

Give your own telephone number when the operator asks for it.

Your information given in this order enables the operator immediately to start making the connection.

When placing a Station-to-Station call, make this clear by first saying, "Station-to-Station." Then give the name of the place, the state and the telephone number. If you do not know the telephone number, give the operator the name and address under which the telephone is listed.

Give your own telephone number when the operator asks for it.

*A Person-to-Person call is one where you ask to be connected with a particular person at a distant telephone. Calling on a Person-to-Person call does not begin until the person you want to call is on the telephone.

A station-to-station call is one where you merely ask to be connected with a distant telephone. The charges on a station-to-station call begin when the distant telephone answers. This service costs considerably less than Person-to-Person service.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
MEMPHIS, TENN.

Almost six and one-half miles of new water mains were constructed in the City of Clanton, with fire hydrants, extending the existing mains into new sections, concrete evidence of the growth of the city.

The airport, located northeast of Clanton and known as Gragg Field, is a product of WPA labor and one of the many fine landing fields constructed over the State. This project called for the completion of the 92-acre field, construction of the 6-plane hangar, 3,000 linear feet of enclosing fence and other incidental grading, etc.

Other Accomplishments
The Professional and Service Division of WPA which operates service and "white collar" projects mostly on a statewide basis, has done much to connect its accomplishments with services with the work that goes on under the head of construction.

This Division goes into the field of adult education which includes the teaching of illiterates. For instance, in Alabama, the trained teachers of the WPA taught 27,500 persons to read and write and 155 persons have been assisted in becoming citizens of the United States. Health examinations and treatment have been given children and adults and county health units and hospitals are being assisted over the State by trained WPA employees. Such work of the Professional and Service Division couples with the construction of sanitary sewers, sanitary privies, malaria control and other sanitary construction projects in promoting the good health of Alabama citizens, Colonel Henderson pointed out.

Over three millions of school lunches have been served by this Division to undernourished school children in Alabama. Clothing is made for those needy families who are not able to purchase the necessary garments. Libraries are conducted, books are bound and underprivileged families assisted.

Bringing to a close a report on operations and accomplishments of the WPA in Alabama for the past four and one-half years, Colonel W. G. Henderson, WPA Administrator for Alabama, made public last of a series of summaries of the work in Alabama since the beginning of the program in July, 1935 through December 31, 1939.

Aside from the benefits being derived from the large construction projects completed in Alabama, Colonel Henderson said thousands of persons are being benefitted from the projects operated by the Professional and Service Division, many of which are referred to as "white collar" projects. For instance, in the educational division, 27,500 persons were taught to read and write during this period, and 155 persons were assisted in becoming citizens of the United States.

Because of the impossibility of measuring cumulative results with the yard sticks applied to construction work in previous reports, it is often necessary to cite typical periods in reporting activities of the Professional and Service Division. During a two-week period in January, 1940, which is typical of other periods, there were 1,223 classes in education held for adults in Alabama. These classes had a total enrollment of 19,091 persons and consisted of 428 literacy classes with 7,065 persons enrolled; 3 naturalization classes with 68 enrollees; 47 classes for parents of nursery school children with 748 enrollees; 128 other family life classes with 751 enrollees; 221 vocational classes with 3,386 enrollees; 4 college credit classes with 45 enrollees; 392 general adult classes with 6,992 enrollees.

Nursery schools operated by trained WPA employees had a total enrollment during this typical two-week period in January of 1,384 small children. From the beginning of the program in 1935 these nursery schools had taken care of 6,400 children, supervising their diet, play and sleep. Forty-seven nursery schools were being conducted as of last January.

In many communities the public health facilities are supplemented by WPA employees and in some places the only library service is staffed by WPA workers. During the month of December, 1939 there was a total of 122 library units being assisted by WPA throughout the State. Seventeen library units were initiated and operated by WPA with a circulation of 14,735 volumes.

Adding much to the present and future health conditions in Alabama are the well balanced lunches being served to undernourished school children. Since 1935 there have been 3,638,788 lunches served to these children by WPA employees. During one day, Colonel Henderson pointed out, January 17, 1940, there were 20,577 of these lunches served, building the bodies of these otherwise undernourished children in Alabama. These lunches were served in 194 different schools.

Those unfortunate persons in Alabama who have lost their eyesight come in for their share of WPA benefits, since 159,121 pages of Braille have been transcribed for their use and employment. These pages were bound into attractive books.

Also during this period of four years and six months of WPA, the Professional and Service Division reports from their library and book repair work that 161,863 volumes have been properly cataloged for libraries; 238,480 general public library volumes repaired; 516,295 public school library volumes repaired and 90,663 other volumes repaired and renovated. Regular school books repaired and renovated on these projects total 463,363 volumes.

The public recreation activities supervised by trained WPA workers are instructing children and adults how to use their leisure time profitably. During these recreation activities had a total number of 172,633 persons participating in 105 different communities. Activities included art and handicraft, baseball, tennis, soccer, rugby, football, basketball, folk dancing, tap dancing and social dancing, recreational dramas, recreational music both instrumental and vocal, picknick, story telling, nature studies and related activities.

Clothing Made

Thousands of persons are given employment on these Professional and Service Division projects who otherwise might be forced to apply for direct relief. And it can be readily seen that they are producing articles and rendering services to those persons who are not quite so fortunate as to have a job even on WPA. For instance, in the sewing room in Alabama, WPA employees, mostly women, have made the following number of garments and other articles: 602,290 men's, 887,981 women's, 634,606 boys', 590,899 girls', 3,370 infant's layettes, and 215,653 infant's garments other than layettes. Articles other than garments made a total of 622,515. All these articles were made for the purpose of distributing through the various departments of public welfare to needy families who are not financially able to purchase such needed goods.

The Housekeeping Aide services reach thousands of members of underprivileged families in Alabama. During the month of December, 1939, there were 1,145 families assisted through this service rendered by trained employees of WPA, who themselves needed work.

Hospitals and Health

The accomplishments and work being done through the Professional and Service Division in public health and hospitals is most noteworthy and cannot easily be measured in monetary terms, Colonel Henderson said. Using a typical two-week period in January of this year, the following number of children and adults received examinations or treatments at the following types of clinics: dental, 6 children, 13 adults; medical, 135 children and 332 adults. Home visits consisted of calls on 323 children and 101 adults; 134 children were given examinations or treatments at schools. Other similar services were given to 6 children and 342 adults during this two-week period.

Various physical tests were given to 876 children and 232 adults. Sixteen children received immunization treatments. Three hospitals in Alabama are being assisted by WPA employees in various capacities.

Not to be in the least overlooked is the extensive work done through the Professional and Service Division in beautification work in parks, cemeteries, school grounds and roadside grading. Cemeteries have been improved in appearance and public parks have been made attractive through the careful planning of WPA employees.

Flood Control, Conservation

Additional construction covered in the final report issued by Colonel Henderson included one fish hatchery with a capacity of 500,000 fingerlings. Five miles of publicly owned telephone lines were constructed and 15 miles of publicly owned electric power lines and 24 1/2 miles improved.

In conservation work, 581,000 trees have been planted on ten acres of ground in Alabama. Four new flood control dams were constructed. Over seven miles of levees have been built and 27 miles of retaining walls.

Several miles of drainage canal have been constructed and 376,221 square yards of rip-rapping placed on drainage canals and ditches. Roads have been raised and storm drainage improved in those sections troubled by high waters during excessive rains, protecting millions of dollars worth of property.

In Mobile Bay, where oysters are a main source of income for many families, the WPA has planted 881,736 bushels of seed oysters to supplement the natural increase.

The accomplishments shown in this final State report and in the preceding reports do not include work done by funds of WPA which have been transferred to other Federal Agencies. Neither have they included work done under CWA nor FERA and only that work which was complete as of December 31, 1939.

EASTVIEW

The Ladies Aids of the Mountain Creek and Mountain View Congregational churches are invited to be the guests of the Eastview Congregational Church Ladies Aid at an informal get-together May 2 at the Eastview parsonage. The invitation was extended to the Ladies Aids of these other churches at a meeting of the Eastview Ladies Aid at the parsonage last Thursday. There will be an all day meeting May 2, the ladies of the various churches bringing picnic lunches.

Those present at the meeting last Thursday were Mrs. Minnie Nelson, Mrs. Roxie Thomas, Mrs. Charles Taylor, Mrs. Susan Moores, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Alpha Dobbs, Mrs. Victor Covart and Mrs. Elsie Ballou.

The sermon subjects of the pastor of the Eastview Church at the services this week end will be the following: Saturday at 11:00 A.M., "Follow Me"; Sunday at 11:00 A.M., "The Mysteries Of The Kingdom Of God," followed by serving of the Lord's Supper. Members of any other church who may attend are invited to share with us in this sacrament. Sunday at 7:00 P.M., "Responsibility." Sunday School will be at 10:30 A.M.

VERBENA NEWS

Mrs. C. D. Bullard, Herbert and Mildred spent the week end in Wetumpka with relatives.

Mrs. Gladys Deramus has been visiting in Montgomery for the past week. Verbena was defeated in a ball game with the Clanton Independents Friday with a score of 13-4, but they expect to win over Jimmie Friday.

The Senior Two class of Verbena High School is presenting "Here Comes Charlie" Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the High School auditorium. A small admission will be charged.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeder Cathey have moved to Thorsby.

MT. CREEK NEWS

Mrs. D. B. Johnson spent Friday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Russell Milledale and daughters, Misses Louise and Virginia, of Birmingham spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Alston.

Mrs. George Nyman and little daughter, Pettie, of Texas, are visiting her mother, Mrs. T. J. Henderson and sister, Miss Mary Henderson.

Friends of Mrs. T. J. Henderson are sorry she is ill and hope she will soon recover.

Mrs. Nannie Yarbrough has returned to Mt. Creek after spending the week in Montgomery with her son, Mr. Carl Lashley.

Mrs. Annie Kicker and small sons, Harold and Johnny of Prattville, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Kicker and Mrs. Gray.

Mrs. Batson Culver came home Friday for the summer from Georgiana where she has been teaching.

Duffey Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Duffey delightedly entertained members of the Duffey family at their home in Mt. Creek Sunday, this being their annual family reunion date. This was a very happy occasion for Mr. Duffey, being the first time his brothers and sisters, together with their families, were present in his home at one time. There are thirteen children and all were there except two brothers.

In the morning the crowd went to Sunday School and Church to worship with Mr. Duffey. The pastor of the Church preached a wonderful sermon on "Homecoming." At the noon hour dinner was served in picnic style on the lawn of their home.

In the afternoon games were played, pictures were taken by a photographer from Clanton and music was enjoyed by the following present:

From Langdale—Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Whaley, their children, Messrs. Frank, Troy and Ray Whaley, Miss Cornelia Whaley; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop; W. C. Gillenwaters, Lafayette, his children, Messrs. To Sport 13 New

DeLuxe Day Coaches

(From L. & N. Employee's Magazine)

Thirteen air-conditioned DeLuxe day coaches the last to come out of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad's South Louisville Shops on April 3, are being scheduled for service in The Pan American between Cincinnati and New Orleans, commencing April 6. These coaches are the most modern ever operated on the L. & N. and have several new features for the comfort and convenience of passengers.

Reclining, revolving seats made of air-foam sponge rubber with form-fitting backs and linen-covered headrests line the aisles in double rows. Each seat is adjusted individually and is separated from the adjoining one by an arm rest.

Pleasing colors are the keynote of the cars. The mohair upholstery of the seats is gray in some cars, rust or tan in others. Cream-colored ceilings and walls, and shades and floor coverings harmonizing with the color of the seats give the cars a bright, cheerful appearance.

Lighting fixtures are rectangular in shape with prismatic diffusing glass of an artistic design. Lights are so controlled as to allow dim blue light (moon glow) later at night when passengers prefer sleeping to reading by the usual white light.

In the men's smoking rooms there are red leather upholstered seats for four persons, two porcelain wash bowls with soap and towels, a dental lavatory and 110 AC outlet for electric razors. Each of the women's lounging rooms contains a large mirror, shelf for toilet articles, two porcelain wash bowls, a dental lavatory and seats for four.

An electrical refrigeration unit for drinking water in the main body of the cars is another feature.

Partition cars for white smokers and colored passengers are also equipped with the new seats, electrically refrigerated drinking fountains in each end of car and outlets for electric razors in both men's rooms. They are decorated in the same manner as the straight cars.

For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary! Many who suffer from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus it often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance to periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "the time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI more than 50 years.

Treating Cotton Seed With Mercury Dust

Present indications are that a large number of farmers this season in Chilton County will treat their cotton seed with mercury dust. The results of seed treatment have been such as to justify using it every season. It destroys certain diseases which causes cotton to die when it first comes up.

It is important in the use of the seed treatments to observe a few precautions, as follows:

1. Use only mercury dust compound, which is distinctly printed on the package as being recommended for treatment of cotton seed. There are many mercury compounds, but only many can be used for seed treatment. Be sure you get the right one.
2. Apply the compound in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions.
3. Any seed which have been treated that are not used for planting purposes should be destroyed. Do not let treated seed get into a load that will be sent to the oil mill and by all means do not feed them to any livestock on the farm. The treatment is poisonous.

The treatment is easily applied by the use of a barrel machine which can be easily made at home for instructions which are available at my office.

Several concerns in the county have special machines for applying the mercury dust.

Be sure to treat cotton seed and by all means follow the precautions above.

Pruning Early Flowering Shrubs

Now while we are enjoying the profusion of blooms on the many early flowering shrubs is a good time to start making provisions for as good or even better flowering effect from these shrubs for next year. Many of these shrubs, such as Spiraea (early-blooming), Winter Jasmine, Winter Honey-suckle, deutzias, forsythias or golden-weigelas, and wisterias are comparatively fast growing. All three-year old and older wood should be removed, making the cuts near the bottom of the plants. Since these shrubs produce blooms on the previous years growth, they should be pruned immediately after flowering. If they are pruned before blooming, this year's flowers will be destroyed, and if the pruning is delayed until late in the year many of these year's buds will be lost. Also, if they are not pruned the flowering effect will gradually become less attractive.

Slow growing plants, such as Azaleas, Camellia, Cape Jasmine, Cotoncaneas, Flowering Almond, Flowering Dogwood, Flowering Quince, Photinias, Sweetshrub, and Redbud should be pruned to remove dead wood and to correct their shape or form.

Where corrective pruning for modifying or correcting the shape, form, and size of plants such as glossy abelia, the privets, firethorns and similar broad-leaved evergreen plants has not been done, this should be done promptly.

The type of pruning on these plants should be continued, as needed, throughout the growing season.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

Camp Boys Save Lives and Property

While members of Crew No. 4, Camp CCS-7, Clanton, Alabama, were working on the farm of Dr. J. P. Hayes, one of the boys, William Bell, truck driver, spotted a fire which had broken out in the home of Mr. Martin Giles, about a quarter of a mile away. At the order of leader, Herman Skipper, everyone dropped what they were doing and ran to the scene of the fire. Under the leadership of Skipper they organized a bucket brigade which extended from the well close by to the room of the house, where the fire was localized. The soon had it under control. The roof of the house was badly damaged and would have fallen in if the fire had continued much longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles, an aged couple, were eating lunch and were totally unaware of the fire which was raging above their heads.

If the fire had been allowed to continue the survivors may have been seriously harmed. So chalk up another for the CCC boys. They are ready and willing to help in any emergency.

MT. PLEASANT HOME DEM. CLUB

The Mt. Pleasant Home Demonstration Club met last Tuesday, April 2, at the home of Mrs. Nina Davis.

The meeting was called to order at 2:00 o'clock. The secretary called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. We had a very good attendance and added three new members to our roll.

Miss Barber explained to the club the Mattress Making Project.

Three of the members had new dresses to be judged. They came out each with a high score. The next meeting, May 7, will be held at the home of Mrs. Leon Mims.

INCOME FROM LIVESTOCK INCREASING IN ALABAMA

Alabama cash income in January was $5,618,000; $4,337,000 from marketing and $1,344,000 from Government payments.

"It is significant that income from livestock and livestock products was $2,239,000 while income from crops was $2,098,000," says John Liles, extension economist, in pointing out that "this is the second year that more than half the cash income in January came from livestock products."

Plan Offered For Storing Eggs

During the present period of low egg prices, many farmers over the state are placing their eggs in cold storage to be held there until the price of eggs rises.

During the months of peak production, March, April and May, the price of eggs is forced down by the very glutted conditions of the market. As a remedy for this situation, eggs may be properly packed and placed in storage, thereby taking off the market a sufficient amount of eggs to prevent a serious decline in prices, with the view of marketing these eggs over a period when production is not sufficient to meet consumption.

Arrangements have been made by the Alabama Department of Agriculture by which farmers in this state may store their eggs. Eggs from the counties surrounding Birmingham, of which Chilton is one, will be stored by the Birmingham Ice and Cold Storage Company.

In a letter to the County Agent, Mr. George M. Mason, Manager of the Cold Storage Department, Birmingham Ice and Cold Storage Company, states: "We have indicated our willingness to the Department of Agriculture to permit the accumulation of eggs by some designated person in each county, in an effort to build up a lot of sufficient size to warrant our handling them. These eggs may be brought in during the months of April and May and placed in each county's designated lot, for which the carload rate of 40c per case will be charged by us. Although it may be more practical to have these eggs financed by your local banker, our company has agreed to make loans based on 70 per cent of the market value, in the event that a lot is accumulated of as much as 100 cases. Advances on smaller lots would entail considerable labor and expense on our part and we are, therefore, unable to finance smaller quantities."

"In the event that eggs are stored, this company will assist the storer in finding a buyer for his product and will, at any time, give advice and information which may be of benefit to the storer, because of our long experience."

Poultry producers in Chilton County desiring to take advantage of this opportunity to store their eggs should contact the county agent immediately.

"Spruce-Up" Week

Home demonstration clubs, 4-H clubs, civic organizations, newspapers and magazine editors and other groups are cooperating with home agents in every Alabama county in conducting a most extensive "spruce-up" and improvement campaign during Better Homes Week, April 28-May 4.

The government should have no "profit" motive in the reconstruction, maintenance, and administration of public highways, asserts the National Highway Users Conference.

Maplesville 4-H Club Boys Believe In Crop Rotation

"We believe that crop rotations will build up our land and give us better crop yields," stated Glenn and James Latham, of the Maplesville 4-H Club, who are carrying out a three-year crop rotation with their 4-H Club project work.

These boys obtained from their father, Mr. C. H. Latham, Lawley, Ala., Route 1, two acres of land on which they carry out a part of their project work.

Last year these two acres were planted in cotton. After the cotton was harvested Austrian winter peas were planted to add to the fertility of the soil. This spring the Austrian peas will be turned under and the land planted to corn. Oats will follow the corn, being planted next September. After the oats are harvested next spring, soybeans will be grown for hay. The following year cotton will again be planted on the land.

In addition to their crop projects Glenn and James have livestock projects, and take an active interest in their club, Glenn being the president of this club.

UNCLE NATCHEL SAYS...

ALWAYS DRINK PLENTY O' MILK

SONNY. IT'S NATCHEL FOOD-NATCHEL...YAS SUH!

That's good advice from Uncle Natchel. Milk is Nature's food for growing boys. And Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda is Nature's food for growing crops. Into Chilean Nitrate, Nature has put practically the same elements that milk contains. These protective elements are in Nature's own balance. They combine with Chilean's quick-acting nitrate to nourish your crops and improve your soil.

Whenever, wherever you use Nitrate, be sure it is Chilean Nitrate of Soda, the only natural nitrate in the world.

No price increase; plenty for everybody's needs.

FARMING Requires a Great Deal of Planning

Dear Sir:

The year of 1939 has closed and you are now approaching the season of the year that you are beginning to make plans for your 1940 crop. No doubt you remember the old saying that "A large snow will make a big crop year," which we hope will be true this year, however, we can not depend too much on this. Farming, like any other successful business, requires a great deal of planning and thinking before any actual work is done; this fact is especially true at the present time with the farm problem that we are facing. We hope that all farmers will bear this in mind and will make definite plans for the year 1940—working toward a live-at-home plan, such as the program that we suggest below:

FOOD CROPS: Plan to have at least 1/4 acre to 1 acre sweet potatoes, 1/4 acre of Irish potatoes in the spring and 1/4 acre planted in the fall; also 2 to 3 acres of peas. Then have 1/4 to 1/2 acre of land in garden, according to size of family, fertilize and work it well and grow sufficient vegetables to supply home needs and a surplus to can so that there will be available 1 or 2 cans each day when it is needed.

HOME ORCHARD: Spray, prune and cultivate orchard. If you don't have an orchard, set one, beginning with 1/2 dozen trees each of apples, peaches, pears and plums and 4 to 6 rows of strawberries and dewberries to use fresh and to can and preserve. There is nothing that will pay you better than a good home orchard and garden, well cared for.

COTTON, CORN AND OTHER FARM PRODUCTS: Produce 1 bale of cotton to the acre on your allotted acres. Plan to have 75 to 100 bushels of corn per mule or other head of workstock and sufficient corn to have at least 1 bushel for each hen that is to be kept on the farm. Also, plant 5 to 10 acres of hay crops, such as Lespedeza, Soy Beans, Peas and Sorghum for your livestock and 3 to 5 acres of Oats, fertilized with soda and 1 acre of Peanuts for home use.

LIVESTOCK: Have at least 2 milk cows, 1 or 2 brood sows, producing 2 liters of pigs each, 50 to 100 laying hens to have poultry and eggs to sell all during the year. Also, plan to sell 3 to 5 hogs and 1 to 2 yearlings during the year. Also, plant, fertilize and improve 3 to 5 acres of permanent pasture to supply the necessary grazing for hogs and cows and 3 to 5 acres of peanuts for hog feed.

Many of the above suggestions were contained in our farm letter last year, but as these are the only source of farm income, we believe them worth while repeating to you. If we can be of any help to you in making your plans or furnishing you money to make your crop or any other plans that you may have in your program for this year, we will be glad to have you come in to see us. It will be a pleasure to loan you on our regular banking terms and method.

Yours very truly,

Maplesville News

Brother Rube Bearden delivered a very inspiring sermon Sunday morning at the Baptist Church. Brother Bearden is not a new worker in the Lord's work, but is new in the ministerial work and let's all give him a push forward.

Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Nix and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hayes returned last Wednesday from a trip to Mobile, Ala., and Biloxi, Mississippi. They report a very pleasant trip.

Mr. Roy Elam is moving to Brent, Ala., and Mr. Howard Atchison is going to move where they no longer live.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Thomas spent the day at Jones Sunday. Mr. Thomas has installed a larger and much more up-to-date refrigerator in his store. He has enlarged his store. To those not familiar with Mr. Thomas I wish to say he has not been here long, but since he opened up a grocery store and dry goods store his business has increased in leaps.

Dr. J. J. DuBose, a very prominent physician of this town, died at the Baptist Hospital at Selma yesterday. Funeral was held at the Baptist Church here at ten o'clock Tuesday and his remains carried to the Stanton cemetery for burial. Dr. DuBose will be greatly missed. He was richly blessed with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Boykin spent a while Sunday evening with Mrs. H. L. Smith.

Mr. Douglas Hayes of Birmingham was home a few days this past week sick, but we are glad to state that he has improved and has returned to his work.

Mrs. W. E. Cobern has been sick but is much better now. We are glad she is able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. McGee spent Friday night with R. C. McGee.

Mr. Melvin Argo made a business trip to Selma Tuesday.

Mr. Paul Smith and mother spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Preston McGee.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Wallace spent the day Sunday with relatives near Antioch in Bibb County.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hayes had supper with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nix Friday night.

Mr. W. H. Walker who has been away working for the Mobile & Ohio Railroad, spent the week end at Maplesville with his folks.

Mrs. J. W. Gwin, Jr., and son, Hal, spent a few days this past week with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gwin.

Oak Grove News

Oak Grove is the place where the crowd will go Saturday night, April 13, when the play entitled "The Poor Married Man," is presented.

Marvin Sutley will play the leading role as John B. Wise, the poor married man. Mrs. Iona Ford, Mary Lane Cobb, his much hated mother-in-law, will furnish many thrills and excitement with her dog "Socrates."

Zoie, her charming daughter, played by Mildred Ellison. Doctor Matthew Graham, the country physician is James E. Harrell.

Many other characters will combine to make an evening of entertainment for those who attend. Proceeds go to Oak Grove Church. The play is planned and coached by Mildred Durbin.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH SHOWER

On Friday, April 12, Friendship Church will give a shower for the family of Mr. Wallace Wood, whose home and contents were destroyed by fire Saturday night. All who feel inclined to help in any way are requested to bring your gifts to the home of Mr. J. D. Collins, Jr., on the Lay Dam Road, some time in the afternoon Friday. Anything that can be used by the average family will be greatly appreciated as the contents of the home were a total loss.

JARMAN SUPPORTS FARM LEGISLATION

PETE JARMAN

Mr. Jarman has publicly stated, "I have always voted for all farm legislation, and never considered doing otherwise."

In March, 1939, he voted for the original appropriations bill for Parity Payments for $250,000,000 (Congressional Record, page 4825). After an adjustment of the amount by a House-Senate conference committee, the revised appropriation came to the House for a vote. The Congressman was in conference on an important matter with Attorney General Lawson and the bell calling the vote failed to ring in his office. Therefore, Mr. Jarman missed the roll call but the bill passed and he had already gone on record as favoring parity payment.

JARMAN'S WORK SETS PRECEDENTS

Mr. Jarman is one of only two Democrats now serving on a major House committee who is also Chairman of another. He is a member of the powerful Foreign Affairs Committee, which is an important factor in the nation's relations with foreign governments and especially so at this time when the foreign situation requires experience, mature judgment and knowledge in order that the neutrality of this government not be jeopardized, that is that we be kept out of war.

Congressman Jarman was the only freshman Chairman of a committee being chosen immediately after his election. (Memorials).

He is the only sophomore Congressman to resign one Chairmanship to accept a more important one. He is now Chairman of the important Printing Committee.

Your Congressman is the only sophomore who is Vice-Chairman of a Joint Committee and the only sophomore with offices in the Capitol Building. There are 13 offices in the Capitol Building and the 12 other Congressman there have served an average of more than 20 years.

The prestige which he has gained by the committee assignments and his seniority are valuable indeed to this District.

Lomax News

The often repeated rains has caused our farmers to get a late start with their crops.

Our brick plant is still growing toward completion.

Miss Frances Duke visited in Lomax Friday.

Mrs. Jeff Blankenship and daughter, Mrs. Minnie Evans, were visitors in Lomax Saturday. Mrs. Blankenship is the widow of the late Jeff Blankenship and is eighty-four years old, and has no means of support, and can't get a pauper's pension. Shame on faulty statesmanship.

Mr. Louis Jackson of Collins Chapel was in Lomax Saturday.

It is said that two black hairs and one white hair makes a blue hog, and back in poplite days it was said that two black men, and one white man made a true blue Democrat, and this makes us wonder what the pictures of two democratic candidates for Congress in a republican newspaper will make.

Mr. Major Hayes of Birmingham gave Lomax a short call Sunday.

Poverty is widespread, and millions are landless and have no jobs. Faulty statesmanship is responsible, and let the old people take their jobs. The young people, and machinery do the work, and

A Tourist's Thoughts of Alabama

Close your eyes and visualize The things I'll tell you. 'Bout a beautiful state I idolize— And every word is true. The girls, they are beautiful; The ladies, they are "dreams"; The kiddies are so dutil; The men folks, they are supreme.

The restaurant foods are splendid, The hotel beds are fine, The coffee is well blended The policemen are so kind.

The business men are courteous; They greet you with "come in"; They listen to your story And ask you how you've been. They seem well versed on everything And you never hear them whine. When you ask them about their business They say "It's simply fine!"

All in all it can't be beat; Believe me, folks, it's grand. If you want to give yourself a treat Just come on to Alabama!

DEAN MOTOR COMPANY

Are you planning to buy a new automobile? Be sure to see the new 1940 Packards and Oldsmobile, available in Montgomery with the opening of the Dean Motor Company, at 39 Bell Street. As Packard and Oldsmobile dealer for Montgomery and central Alabama, the Dean Motor Company offers the finest in motor transportation in three price ranges—beginning with Oldsmobile '60' and Oldsmobile '70' and '90', then the Packard '110' and '120'.

You will admire these automobiles much more when you have come to own one. For then you will know their luxury does not lie in beauty alone, but in safety, in comfort, in speed, in power, in handling, and in dependable service.

Mr. George P. Dean, owner, who recently moved to Montgomery from Atlanta, has had more than 20 years experience in the automobile industry.

Mr. W. W. Paris is in charge of the service department, with many years of experience in this field.

Mr. Dean invites visitors from other sections of the state when in Montgomery, to visit their showrooms and view the different body types now on display.

It will be well to remember when the we have undertaken since 1930, that the Oldsmobile and Packard can give every motoring advantage. See these cars before you buy.

We wish to congratulate the Dean Motor Company for locating in this part of the state and recommend that our readers visit this popular automobile agency when they are in Montgomery.

Further Reduction In Electric Rates A Possibility

Birmingham, Ala.—The annual report of Alabama Power Company mailed to stockholders April 1st, recites the possibility of further electric rate reductions when it becomes possible for the Company to refinance its bonds and preferred stock, at lower cost, if additional taxes are not levied to offset the savings.

Thomas W. Martin, president of the Company, states in the report that "it is obvious that the Company cannot on one hand pay higher taxes year after year, and on the other hand continually reduce its rates for electric service. In the face of increasing taxes, the rates of the Company for domestic, commercial and rural service were reduced a total of $9,416,514 under orders of the Public Service Commission for the ten year period ending with 1939. Taxes for the year 1939, covered by the report, totalled $3,694,702 (an increase of 15 per cent over 1938) and were the largest in the Company's history, representing over 16 per cent of its gross earnings.

The report relates that the price of the Company's bonds and preferred stock in some cases increased as much as 45 per cent during 1939 from the low of the year. This improvement is attributed by Mr. Martin to the passage by Congress of an amendment to the Tennessee Valley Authority Act providing funds with which to acquire utility properties and limiting the use of these funds to the acquisition of utility properties in the State of Tennessee and certain counties in Mississippi and Alabama, and to certain other purposes such as the construction of lines in these areas; to subsequent tatements by TVA officials that the Authority will have no power for sale beyond these areas until 1945 or 1946, and to the passage by the Legislature of Alabama of what is called the Boath Act.

"Changes in national and state policies toward public utilities encouraged us to go forward with a program of expansion designed to meet future needs," Mr. Martin states. "As a result, the 1940 construction budget, in the amount of $6,165,273 (an increase of about 750 miles of rural line), the larger items, are the Mobile steam plant, additions and improvements for increasing capacity and reliability of transmission lines, substations, distribution systems, and other facilities, especially those which serve Mobile, Montgomery, and Tuscaloosa; connections to serve new business; and construction of about 750 miles of rural line."

According to the report, the Company was operating 6,932 miles of rural lines at the end of 1939 and was providing energy to seven REA electric membership cooperatives operating approximately 2,584 miles of rural lines.

The service areas of the Company suffered no further loss to the TVA municipal competition than in those cities where such competition was underway in years previous. An agreement was reached with the Tennessee Valley Authority late in 1939, subject to approval by State and Federal commissions, by which Alabama Power Company is to sell to TVA and other public agencies certain of its production, transmission and distribution facilities in North Alabama.

"While no definite time is fixed for the conclusion of the sale," Mr. Martin stated, "it is anticipated that it will take place about the first of May, 1940."

LEE'S GRILL

Admirably located in Montgomery on Commerce Street, features the very best meals, drinks and hospitality.

It is a common expression "Meet me at Lee's Grill," which of course means that this is a popular establishment. This is an indication of the great popularity of this place. Since being established it has gained in popularity until today it occupies the position of one of the leading social centers of the State.

The management has appointed the place with all the latest fixtures to make it attractive to the public, while the latest equipment has been provided at the counters for the expeditious building of the trade and convenient of the service.

Here amid comfortable surroundings you are served with the very choicest of meals. Their juicy steaks are more in demand in this locality because of the different delicious flavor. The result of using the choicest cuts of beef. The management is excellent and their meals are known for their extraordinary flavors.

Lee's Grill is one of the social centers of this section. It is attractively furnished and a place for people to meet their friends when in town. We desire to compliment the management upon the position it occupies in the social life of the community. And, too, the management is among the live wire business people and the place truly gives the town a metropolitan air.

We are glad to compliment them upon the high standing of the place in the business and social world of this section of the state and would ask everyone to visit this modern place not because they are lonesome, but because here they love company.

An Important Post As To The South

It is of vital concern to every citizen of the South especially important to us of manufacturing cities as Clanton, that another Southerner be appointed to the place on the Interstate Commerce Commission made vacant by the recent resignation of Marion Caskey—and equally important that the Southerner named to the post be thoroughly grounded in the needs of the Southern shippers in the removal of the discriminatory freight rates.

We know of no one better qualified for the post than Arthur John Rife of Birmingham. Mr. Rife is a man from the ranks. Born in Mississippi, he began work as a messenger boy and today at forty years of age is one of the best informed industrial managers and consultants in the nation. His last major case was that of the Southern Governors Rate Conference, he being employed as chief rate expert. In this important case he not only advised with E-Governor Bibb Graves, chairman of the Governor's Committee, and counseled on the general aspects of the case, but was called as a witness. In that case, evidence was offered on a total of eighteen commodity groups, the commission granted relief on nine of them, six of which were handled by Mr. Rife.

The South, which for decades has suffered economic throttling by means of discriminatory freight rates and which has just won an initial victory for the parity, cannot afford now to be by loss of influential voice in the Commission. Governor Frank Dixon of Alabama stated the case with pith and moment in a telegram to Senators Bankhead and Hill:

"The question of a successor to Marion Caskey is of extreme importance to the South. You will remember we won the commodity case by only one vote majority. I urge that you use your best efforts to the end that the new appointee should not be a man whose mind is closed against the justice of our efforts to secure a removal of the unfair freight rate differentials now operating against the Southern people."

"Of all my acquaintances, I know of none better than Mr. Rife to begin at once and carry on the great work of Commissioner Caskey," said Mr. Graves.

Senator K. D. McKellar, of our own state, is quoted as saying that he is much impressed with Mr. Rife's record and a move is underway in Mississippi to secure the support of Senator P. Harrison.

With the removal of the unfair freight rates we can expect even greater industrial activity in the South and especially in the Tennessee Valley. The work already begun in removing the unjust freight rates must be carried on and Mr. Rife appears the South's best bet.

Chilton County Basketball Champs

Mt. Pleasant Junior High School Basketball Team won its eighth consecutive County Basketball Tournament March 22 and 23. The team, with only two players held over from last year's group, entirely overpowered all opposition during the season 1939-1940 in winning 15 straight games under the coaching efforts of G. F. Lockhart.

After being ceded a bye in the first round of the tournament held at Thorsby Junior High School, Mt. Pleasant played Cooper Junior High winning by the margin of 41-8. The second game was against Baker Junior High which proved to be the closest rival with a score of 30-15. The final game played against a "surprise team," Collins Chapel Junior High, resulted in a score of 37-12. Collins Chapel won second place in the tournament and Baker Junior High was placed third.

Mt. Pleasant placed two men on the all-county first team: U. L. Riggins, guard, and Luke Chambers, forward. Also two men were on the all-county second team: Curtis Daniel, center, and Clint Deason, guard.

The high-scoring ability of the Mt. Pleasant team was attributed to the fast breaking and accurate passing of the shifty and elusive players.

Now Available to Farmers of Chilton County at Southern Seed & Plant Co.

Clanton Alabama

THOMAS H. MAXWELL

Woodbank Farm, Route 1, Tuscaloosa, Alabama

Candidate to represent the Sixth Alabama District in the Seventy-Seventh United States Congress. I call upon all farmers to be campaigners to elect me, the only seasoned, tried and true Two-War Veteran Farmer. Get all other country and town citizens to vote with us and give to Tom Maxwell an overwhelming vote of 21,800 in the primary of May 7, 1940, by counties as below:

Bibb	2500	Greene	1000	Perry	1800	Sumter	1000
Chilton	3000	Hale	2000	Shelby	3000	Tuscaloosa	7500

MAXWELL WORKS FOR:

For all citizens over 65 and veterans $40 a month age pension; 40 cents per pound parity for cotton and insurance on the controlled crop; collective bargaining for the farmer and industrial labor; a 100-bed hospital for any town giving a site; continuing of federal aid to roads, school houses and WPA until such support is no longer needed. Our goal for prosperity sake "is a job for every able-bodied person in America." Cessation of freight and tariff discriminations against the South.

I have re-registered personally for war, but shall never urge our nation to expose our boys to foreign wars. I favor adequate national defense.

IMPOUNDAGES LAW CITED

Attention of all fish pond builders or owners was directed this week to regulations of the State Health Department governing the impounding of waters by officials of the County Health Department. The nature and purpose of the regulations was explained as follows:

"Since it has been definitely shown that newly impounded bodies of water constitute a most favorable breeding place for anopheles quadrimaculatus, the only mosquito in Alabama which transmits malaria, the State Health Department adopted regulations in 1927 to lessen the hazard of mosquito breeding in artificially created lakes, ponds, etc. These regulations require that any person who wishes to impound must apply to the State Health Department for a permit. The applications must be accompanied by a sketch map of the proposed lake or pond. Upon receipt of the application, the State Health Department gives the applicant instructions regarding the construction of the dam. If these instructions are then adhered to, as determined by an inspection made of the County Health Department, authority to impound is granted by the State Department. After a reasonable length of time, if proper and effective measures of controlling mosquito breeding are carried out, a maintenance permit is issued.

These regulations apply only to ponds of more than 1-10 acre in size and ponds located within one mile of human habitation."

More about these regulations will be told in a subsequent news article from the Health Department.

Chilton County, in the Heart of Alabama Land of Promise, Blessed of Providence

ABORIGINAL HISTORY—The County lay within the domain of the Upper Creeks On DeCrenay's map of 1734, the town of Pacanatchi, correctly spelled Pakana Talahassi, is placed on the west side of Coosa River and apparently on the south side of Walnut Creek, nearly opposite the mouth of Pakana Talahassi Creek in Coosa County. In later times, the town moved across the river and settled on that creek, spelled Puc-cun-tal-lan-has-se, by Col. Benjamin Hawkins. Chipped implements and other evidences of aboriginal residence are to be found in some sections of the county. Along Mulberry Creek and the larger streams are a few unidentified village sites. Near the Old Rejuto 'Gold mine' at Varna, are several mounds. One and a half miles southwest of Thorsby, near Little Mulberry Creek is a large mound. Stone heaps are found three and a half miles northeast of Jemison station on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

(The above aboriginal history was copied from the History of Alabama, written by Thos. M. Owen.)

Chilton is a reconstruction county in the double sense of having been created during the Reconstruction Period (1868) and having been constructed from portions of other counties, Autauga, Bibb, Perry and Shelby. Originally known as Baker County, for Alfred Baker, of the Autauga section, it was given its present name in 1871 in honor of William Parrish Chilton, Chief Justice of the Alabama Supreme Court from 1852 to 1856, and later a member of the Confederate Congress from the Montgomery District.

The act of establishment named Reuben Powell, Anderson Baker, William Vines, E. Ward and John Pernell as commissioners to hold an election to locate a county seat, no date is named but they were required to advise the election at least 20 days. The commissioners were authorized and required to contract for the building of a suitable court house and jail, and a county tax was authorized to be levied by the County Commissioners. The Governor was required to appoint all officials.

At the election held as required, a point on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad was chosen to which the name Clanton was given in honor of Brig. Gen. James Holt Clanton, prominent in the political life of the State.

The first officers were Mordica Robertson, Probate Judge, and Thomas H. Williams, Sheriff, both commissioned in 1869.

Prior to the founding of Clanton, the county seat was at Grantville, four miles away. Modern Clanton with a population of 4000 shares with the smaller communities of Jemison, Thorsby, Cooper, Verbena, Maplesville, and Stanton, the rather exceptional transportation facilities which belong to Chilton County. There are about 1200 miles of state and county highways, including the Bee Line (National) Highway from Birmingham to Montgomery. In addition three railroads serve the area—the Louisville and Nashville, the Southern and the Mobile and Ohio. There is no point in the county which is more than seven miles from a railroad track.

Before 1900 a timber and turpentine industry engaged the majority of the population, although agriculture was important. As the fine timber stands were cut off, farming increased, cotton predominate as the cash crop but increasing attention has been given to grain and forage, poultry raising, dairying, truck crops and fine fruits. Fruit and berry culture is conspicuous in the vicinities of Clanton, Jemison and Thorsby. Strawberries and watermelons are shipped in quantity; and the peaches of Chilton are called unblushingly the largest in the South. Although agriculture is the predominant employment in Chilton County, industry's part is played to a considerable extent with saw mills, woodwork plants, textile mills, cotton gins, warehouses, and oil crushers.

The County is in Alabama's geographical heart, and shares with adjacent "hydro-electric" counties the recreational allure of the huge lakes formed by Mitchell, Lay, Jordan and Martin Dams. To these lakes Alabamians are attracted for fishing, swimming, camping and boating.

Chilton County (1930 census) had 24,579 population, 3,920 farms with 237,603 acres in farm acreage.

E. L. KLINNER FURNITURE CO.

Among the firms in Clanton that has always shown a friendly attitude to those who enter their store is the E. L. Klinner Furniture Co. This concern is located in a convenient section of Clanton and they carry one of the largest and most complete stocks of furniture, radios, refrigerators, luggage, cedar chests, mirrors, lamps, ice cream freezers, and stoves for both oil and wood. They also carry a line of linoleum.

Their stock is arranged in such a manner as to give you every opportunity to thoroughly examine it. The courteous and polite salespeople are always at your service, and are at all times glad to show you through the store without obligations to buy. At this popular furniture store, convenient terms can be arranged to suit you on anything that you may desire to purchase. You will find special reduced prices on various articles every day, and it will pay you to visit this store and select what you may need for your household.

The E. L. Klinner Furniture Co. will be glad to give you the benefit of their wide knowledge of interior furniture arrangement when furnishing a complete home. The foregoing policies added to quality and fairness to all have made this firm one of the most outstanding furniture stores in Clanton.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a living room, bed room or dining room suite, as well as kitchen, porch and lawn needs, we highly recommend the E. L. Klinner Furniture Co. for your consideration.

UPCHURCH DRUG STORE

Centrally located for the past 38 years in a prominent place in Clanton is the well known Upchurch Drug Store, carrying pure and wholesome stock. Just drop in or call them on the phone and you will get the most painstaking and accommodating service that has won them such an enviable reputation, a metropolitan and progressive establishment under the able and popular management of Mr. E. E. Upchurch.

Known throughout this section as one of the reliable and progressive stores of this section, is this well known store. They have fitted eye glasses for the past forty years, and Mr. E. E. Upchurch is very able to do this work for you. They specialize in the very best of trusses, abdominal supports, elastic hose, and many other things of this kind. It is headquarters for famous world remedies which are compounded from prescriptions of renowned physicians. They always keep the stock in the best condition and a full line so you can get what you call for. They are very careful in filling prescriptions and having had much experience, the pharmacists at this drug store are considered the best in their line. This popular Upchurch Drug Store also handles a complete line of druggist's sundries, perfumes, toilet articles, combs, brushes and all of the goods that are known to a first class store of this kind. Cigars, sodas and stationery as well as the long line of druggist's sundries here, furnishing the public with the most accommodating service. The proprietor is one of the genial and whole-souled personalities who dispense good cheer on all occasions.

The institution is one that is known far and wide not only as the pharmacy where all pure drugs and chemicals are kept, but giving best of service, and has attained a wide reputation among the physicians for the efficiency and care exercised in the compounding of prescriptions.

We desire to compliment them in this Business Edition of the Progress of Chilton County upon their eminently successful career in the business and professional world.

SPIGENER FUNERAL HOME

This vicinity can boast of one of the best Funeral Homes to be found in this part of the state in Spigener Funeral Home, located conveniently in Clanton and under the personal supervision of R. L. White. They have long ago won the confidence and good will of the people throughout this section by rendering a satisfactory service.

In a comprehensive review of this nature embracing as it does the most salient features of our progress, we cannot fail to denote to the professional status of the community, and justly so, to a profession which is so essential as that of the modern funeral director and embalmer. In this respect this community possesses an efficient representative in this well known firm. Since the foundation of their business they have always been foremost in giving the best of service. Not only has this occurred to the benefit of the public, but has built for them a reputation that has spread for miles around. This firm is courteous and it is a pleasure for them to serve the public obligingly. This firm's complete from a standpoint of stock, and from it they are able to offer a service unexcelled.

The embalming is performed by Mr. R. L. White, and this work is done by a most sanitary and up-to-date method. They have conducted some of the largest funerals ever held in this section and have done it in an admirable manner. We are pleased to compliment the Spigener Funeral Home on the satisfactory services that they are rendering the people of Chilton and adjoining counties.

The experience and efficiency of this well known funeral home is at your call to relieve you of the many unfamiliar details at a time when your heart is too heavy for additional burdens. They are authorized funeral directors for the Brown Service policies.

INTER-OCEAN CASUALTY COMPANY

T. M. Brown, general agent, for the Inter-Ocean Casualty Company, with offices at 215 Shephard Building, Montgomery, is thorough and conscientious. The work of this office is strenuous and he works with unflagging zeal to bring about results that are constructive and satisfying. He is always on hand to answer a call when needed to further the growth and development of his company.

No matter who you are or what you do, you are constantly exposed to illness and accidental injuries which necessitate additional expense for doctor, hospital, nurse and medicine.

Health and Accident Insurance has, almost overnight, become the most publicized form of personal coverage on the market, and it is very important that the policy holder select a Company with experience and ability. The Inter-Ocean Casualty Company has specialized in all forms of Disability and Reimbursement Insurance for thirty-seven years. It has more than two dollars of assets for every dollar of liability and enjoys a claim payment reputation surpassed by none.

We wish to congratulate Mr. Brown for the successful way he has handled the business of the Inter-Ocean Casualty Company, and he will be glad to give information to anyone interested in Accident and Health Insurance without any obligations.

Write for full details.

PEPSI COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

With office and plant in Montgomery at 303 No. Goldthwait Street, are bottlers and distributors of Pepsi-Cola, New Yorker Ginger Ale, Nu-Grape and Sun Crest Orange. This firm has become a factor in the business and social as well as the home life of this part of the state by reason of the very complete line of beverages and the excellent service given in delivery.

In order to take care of the increasing business in Autauga and Chilton counties the company has recently increased its fleet of trucks and placed a warehouse in Clanton.

They have a very modern plant fitted with all the latest equipment for the protection of beverages that are bottled under the most sanitary conditions. Discriminating people would always rather drink from one of their bottles than from an open container that is mixed by the average place as the bottles are all sterilized and there is no chance for dust to get into the product.

They use the very best of materials and all beverages are rich in flavor and sparkle with the famous carbonized water which has been highly recommended by all well known health authorities. Look at the label and see that you get what you order as the products are the results of superior formula that are only known to the management.

When you buy carbonized beverages of any sort or soft drinks from this bottling works you may be sure you are getting the purest products for a two-fold reason. First and foremost the works are under the personal direction of an able management, headed by Mr. Neal J. Harmon, who has been connected with the beverage industry for over 15 years, and that fact alone insures the absolute purity of the beverages. In addition they are bottled under the pure food and drug act and are inspected at regular intervals by the State Board of Health Inspectors.

We are indeed glad to compliment the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company upon the position they occupy in the business life of the community and to refer their products to all our readers as well as to call attention of the people to the superiority of their beverages.

RENOLDS & GRANT SERVICE STATION IS ONE OF MOST MODERN IN MONTGOMERY

Located at the corner of Bibb and Lee Streets, is Reynolds and Grant Service Station. Their station is under the efficient management of Billy Reynolds and Leo Grant, who are experienced in operating a service station and have built up an enviable volume of trade.

Dispensing Sinclair Oil products, which are recognized as one of the best to be found, with free parking space for their customers, is one of the reasons that their service station is one of the outstanding concerns in Montgomery.

A feature that impressed this writer was their washing and greasing departments. All their work is done by expert operators who know their business and of course the latest equipment has been installed to give "jam-up" service.

Reynolds and Grant carry a complete line of General Tires at all times. Let them put a set of Generals on your car and prove their power to protect your life as well as your pocketbook. More new car buyers have changed to Generals than any other tire, this fact alone is enough to prove their superiority.

Having recently installed the most modern Lodi retreading equipment, friends and customers throughout the state are invited to join the thousands of practical motorists who have their tires rebuilt the modern Lodi way. A factory trained expert has been employed to rebuild your tires to factory standards, backing every retread job with their guarantee.

Congressman Jarman Here For Visit

Will Fly Back To Washington To Vote On Farm Legislation

During a visit to the Sixth District, Congressman Jarman, candidate for re-election to Congress, held a meeting with the local farmers and friends. Jarman has been back in his district for the past few days, but pressing duties in Washington, he told the News, would probably force his return to the Capital this week.

Jarman said that he would return from Washington immediately and would be in his district the coming primary on May 7, and he expected to take a plane and fly back to Washington in time to cast his vote in favor of these two important bills.

JEMISON F.H.A. HOLDS MONTHLY BUSINESS MEETING APRIL 10

The Jemison Chapter of F. H. A. held its regular monthly meeting on April 10, 1940. The meeting was called to order by the president, Willie Jean Northcutt. We discussed our annual picnic, also a trip during the summer. Nothing definite was decided but we expect to make plans later.

Fourteen girls were initiated for second degree and are looking forward for third and state degree.

Our program consisted of a reading "Calling The Doctor," by Hildon Busby, and "Trees," by Bernice Williams.

A very interesting contest was enjoyed by all members. Refreshments were served by all.

Mr. Popwell, local taxi man, was the victim of a hold-up men who took his auto and approximately sixty-five dollars, last Tuesday evening between six and seven o'clock.

Mr. Popwell, it was learned, was engaged by two men to take them to West End, after they approached his taxi and got onto the back seat. He drove the couple to West End, and was then told to turn down the Kinchroad road. After driving several yards, the men produced guns and ordered him to stop his car, stating that it was a hold-up.

Taking the auto and money, the two ordered Popwell to start walking down the road, and then drove back in the direction of town. Popwell rushed to the nearest phone and informed local highway patrolmen and police what had happened. A general alarm was broadcast by Patrol headquarters from Montgomery, but at the time the News goes to press no trace of the hold-up men nor the car has been found.

Mr. Popwell stated he believed the men to be professionals at the game, from the cool manner in which they went about the job. The two were of medium build, and fairly well dressed, he stated.

At noon Wednesday, Montgomery Patrol headquarters notified local police that the two men and auto had been taken into custody in Birmingham, and were being held for verification. Popwell and authorities left immediately for Birmingham.

PREACHING AT FRIENDSHIP

Rev. Emmett Wilson will preach at Friendship Church Sunday, April 22. Both morning and evening services. Everybody invited.

Chilton County High School Students Making Good Records In College This Year

The local high school sent twelve students to the colleges of this year, reports Prof. Frank Hicks, principal. The reports of the students for the first semester have been sent to the school and the school has a right to be proud in the accomplishments of these boys and girls.

The colleges represented are: Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Athens; Alabama College, Howard College, Alabama; Teachers College, Jacksonville; College, Columbia, Mo.; and Belmont College, Nashville.

Chilton Has Dire Need For Tonsil Clinic Say Health Officer, School Attendance Supervisor

Dr. Skurkie, county health officer, and Miss Lillian McKee, school attendance supervisor, are of the opinion that there is a dire need for a tonsil clinic in Chilton County. They stated that the health and education of the children of this county is being hindered by the lack of a clinic where the children can have their tonsils removed.

Dr. Skurkie, in his address, stated that he had talked the necessity for some plan whereby a clinic may be held during his two years as Health Officer in this County. The percentage of children suffering from this affliction is high, he stated, and urged that some movement be gotten underway for assisting in remedying this situation. Cooperation of the County's several physicians could be had it is believed by many. The Health Officer pledged the support and cooperation of his office in any undertaking that might be started.

The Underprivileged Childrens Committee of the Club is working on the matter of securing a tonsil clinic for the County, and welcomes the assistance and suggestions of other groups or individuals, interested in the welfare of the children of this county.

ANNUAL 4-H CLUB RALLY WILL BE HELD HERE ALL DAY SATURDAY

This Year's Get-Together Expected To Bring Over 800 4-H Club Boys And Girls Into City For Program Composed And For Themselves

The annual Chilton County 4-H Club Rally will be held Saturday, April 20, in Clanton, according to Miss Mattie Jo Barber, home demonstration agent, and C. L. Breedlove, assistant county agent.

This event, which is one of the highlights of 4-H Club work during the year, will begin at 9:30 o'clock at the Court House. It is expected that there will be approximately 800 4-H boys and girls at the Rally.

Miss Pauline Outley, Plantersville, Alabama Route 2, and Glenn Latham, Lawley, Alabama Route 1, will direct the program. "The program will be

Baptists And Methodists Appeal For City-Wide Church Attendance

CRUSADE TO CONTINUE THROUGH SIX WEEKS

A City-Wide Evangelistic Crusade, with the slogan, "Christ Is Able: Christ Is Available," will be set in operation by the Baptist and Methodist Churches of Clanton on next Sunday morning. This Evangelistic Crusade will feature sermons in series by Rev. J. L. Daniel of the Methodist Church and Rev. Oscar A. Davis, Baptist Minister, with both ministers preaching on the same subject each Sunday. The Sunday morning series of sermons will follow the general theme of "The Teachings of Christ," and are announced as follows:

"What Christ Teaches About Repentance," "What Christ Teaches About Faith," "What Christ Teaches About The New Birth," "What Must I Do To Be Saved?" "What Christ Teaches About The Sin Of Neglect," and "What Christ Teaches About Witnessing."

The first of these topics will be discussed on next Sunday morning in both the Methodist and Baptist Churches, at 11:00 o'clock, and will come in the order given on succeeding Sundays. The series of sermons announced for the evening services will deal with the Ten Commandments, with a closing message on "The Righteousness of Christ." The evening hour of worship is 7:30.

Announcements reveal that this Evangelistic Crusade sponsored jointly by both churches, has three distinct objectives. They are: (1) The enlistment of all members of both churches in regular church attendance; (2) The appeal to give Christ a chance to deepen the spiritual life of each member of the two churches by daily reading of the Bible and by personal and family prayer; and (3) The presentation of the salvation and claims of Christ to the whole citizenship of Clanton. "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." Whatever your faith, attend church Sunday.

POLITICAL RALLY

The Ladies Home Demonstration Club with the help of the school, is sponsoring a political rally Thursday night, April 25, at 7:30 o'clock.

All candidates are especially invited to attend and they will get a chance to make a short speech.

Everybody start making your plans to be there, you will enjoy it.

Estimated Damage Caused By Unseasonable Freeze Placed At Near $200,000; Peach Crop Is Hardest Hit

CONGRESSMAN JARMAN ASKS AID OF LOAN CORPORATION IN ATTENDING YOUNG TREES

Chilton County farmers felt the heavy hand of nature's forces over the past week end when the unusually cold spell damaged the county's crops to a great extent. Said Roy M. Roper, president of the Chilton County Berry Growers and Truck Farmers: "Damage from the recent freeze was heavy in Chilton County. The peach crop is almost if not entirely destroyed and the strawberry crop was damaged 25 to 30 per cent with a total loss of between $150,000 and $200,000."

Old King Winter Still Bustin' Records Around These Hy'ar Parts

The people composing the population of Chilton County arose from their beds last Saturday morning and faced the reality that the hardest winter the South has seen in many years was reluctant to release its grip even though the date was April 13.

The usual April showers that bring May flowers, were definitely substituted by an icy blast that sometimes brings snow, and a temperature that dropped to twenty-eight to thirty degrees in Clanton.

Fruit tree blossoms, flowers and greenery of all kinds wilted under the blow. Ice that was more than just a thin glaze was plentiful. The coal dealers of the city found business booming again as many who had hoped they would be spared ordering any more this season hurriedly placed their orders for fuel to combat the old gentleman who has insisted that all records must be crashed by his breath before he takes his leave of the Southland.

Clean-Up Campaign Planned For City

The week of April 28-May 4 is "Better Homes Week," and in cooperation with Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent, the Clanton Kiwanis Club plans to sponsor a general City-Wide, County-Wide Clean-up campaign during this week, with merchants of the City cooperating.

Further details about this campaign will be given later, it was announced by J. Mell Martin, who heads the Committee, and Miss Barber.

MISS NAGEL MAHAN, GRAND-DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. J. A. MAHAN IS HONORED IN FLORIDA

A picture of Miss Nagel Mahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mahan of Ft. Pierce, Fla., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mahan of this city appeared in the Ft. Pierce "News-Tribune" April 10, along with a written up of a distinct honor which has been bestowed upon her. The clipping is as follows:

Miss Nagel Mahan, senior in the local high school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mahan, was selected by the Daughters of the American Revolution state conference at the Miami Biltmore hotel in Coral Gables Tuesday night to make the good citizenship pilgrimage to Washington this year.

Miss Mahan's name was drawn from names of pupils representing various schools of the state selected by the pupils of those schools to represent them in the drawing, selection being based on good citizenship, scholarship, leadership and other such attributes.

She will be the only representative of the Florida D. A. R. making the pilgrimage.

Miss Mahan was presented to the conference at a noon luncheon Wednesday.

Census Takers Meeting With Cooperation

Chilton County's group of census takers are meeting with cooperation on the part of the public, the News has learned. Within the City of Clanton, the man who wants to know about people for Uncle Sam's information have reported splendid cooperation.

Cooperation with the census takers has been urged by the Government, and those taking the census have been instructed to be as courteous as possible, to speed up and facilitate the enormous task. Just how long it will take to complete the job in Chilton County was not learned.

Mrs. W. C. Golden and little daughter, Louise, visited Mrs. Golden's father, Mr. M. U. Rhodes, in Mississippi last week and brought him home with them to spend a few days.

Calling The Wanderers Home

Dallas countians should not be deaf to the appeal of the bridge celebration committee which is seeking to contact former residents of this area in order to invite them to the home-coming which will add much interest to the big event of May 24-25.

Almost everybody can recall to mind friends who have left these parts for residence elsewhere and it would help a great deal if names and addresses are furnished to the home-coming committee.

It is a trait of human nature to cherish longings to view scenes of past years and the yearnings of many of those who have gone out into the world from Dallas county would materialize into decision to return under the impetus of urging to attend a specific event.

The success of this feature of the bridge celebration will depend largely upon public cooperation—in the matter of contacting persons at distant points and a great deal of effort would not be entailed by heeding this appeal.—Selma Times-Journal.

Commenting on our suggestions last week in connection with the proposed press tour, the Times-Journal adds:

"The Chilton paper seems to have covered the field competently with the exception of forgetting to mention Selma's new bridge, which will be in use by the time the tour starts. Widest on Highway 80 between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the new bridge will be a landmark worth traveling a long distance to see.

"We also suggest that the Canebrake classification of livestock be made more embracing to include the entire Black Belt. A particular asset of the Canebrake, its thriving turkey-raising industry could be listed to designate that rich area of the state."

Beg pardon for the omission, but we had mentioned the big new Edmund Winston Pettus Bridge so often we thought it unnecessary.

Mention of that bridge brings a train of sad, sweet memories rushing in upon the writer—sad because of the hundreds of dear friends who have "gone on," sweet in the remembrance of friendships and associations of other days.

We recall what a thrill we got as a country boy come to town, on our first trip out to the middle of the river on the old bridge, which was then new, and how we got a greater thrill when Walter Rosser, bridge tender, or E. (Emil) we think it was) Gillman, chief owner of the bridge, permitted us to go out on the "draw" when it was "turned" so the Nettie Quill, coming up from Mobile and the Mattie Burke coming from Montgomery, could pass through. Yes, we'll be there on the new bridge and look longingly for the Nettie Quill to come round the bend below the sandbar, where we fellows used to go in swimming in the cool of the evening—sax, bathing suits, or other hindrances.

365 Per Cent Greed

For sheer swinishness, it is hard to beat the loan shark racket.

New York investigators have turned up cases where small loans were made to yield as high as 365 per cent. More than a half-million people, it was found by Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., borrow $50,000,000 annually from loan sharks, who gouge their helpless victims with usurious talons.

The legally-controlled small loan business, the co-operative credit union loan business, fill a need, and do it at decent rates. But the harpies who seize on a man's misfortunes to strip and bleed him, place themselves outside the pale of civilized society, and should be handled accordingly.—Selma Times-Journal.

Poll Tax And Democracy

We do not presume to understand all the legal aspects of proposed Federal legislation to outlaw the poll tax, so far as Federal elections are concerned, but we fully appreciate such arguments put forward yesterday in Washington by Crampton Harris, Birmingham attorney. Mr. Harris contends that the Federal Constitution cannot be overridden by state constitutions, that the Federal Constitution guarantees citizens the right to vote; that such right cannot be taxed and that the "poll tax mechanism is distinctly un-American and should be abolished."

The possession of $50,000 or $100,000 as one of the qualifications for voting is just as logical, Mr. Harris argues, as the possession of $1.50 or $36 that is an extreme illustration of course but it serves well to emphasize the point.

The right to vote is more than a personal privilege. It is a sacred obligation, guaranteed by the Constitution, not as a personal benefit, but in the interest of the preservation of our democracy.

And today, more than ever, when we look with misgivings across the seas and see peoples crushed and exploited by ruthless greed for power, we will do well to tighten our grip on a system founded on the idea that the state exists for the people and not the people for the state.—Birmingham Post.

Mark Remarks

Wouldn't it just be fine if everybody could go down to the stores and buy all the fine looking Spring clothes they see advertised?

The State Prison at Wetumpka was built in 1840, just 100 years ago. Long out of date and fitness of what a modern prison should be, Governor Dixon proposes to erect a strictly up-to-date institution for female prisoners at the site of the old penitentiary.

Why not put it this way: 2028 out of the 6114 voting in Cullman County's liquor election last week wanted the liquor store abolished?

Hating everything German, as the American daily papers would have us do, why speak of it as "blitzkrieg?"

And, of course, it's possible, if not probable, that Europe's phoney war has been staged simply as propaganda for boosting the airplane industry. Anyway that's the effect, regardless of the cause.

Chilton County's Probate Judge and Board of County Commissioners are deserving of highest praise for the splendid work done on the county's farm-to-market roads, since the havoc wrought by the severest freeze in forty years.

The fish calendars are being printed and distributed to the suckers, but the game fish are still in the water.

Only one out of every five adults voted in the Alabama elections in 1936. This is minority government.

Hyde Park Frank ran away from Uvalde Jack in the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries.

A daily headline reads: "Arch-foes Goring and Churchill, the big daily papers, the big moving picture corporations, the big radio broadcasting companies, are all siding in the 'build-up' through subtle suggestion. Only the Christian churches—acting as a unit, can prevent this catastrophe."

Slowly but surely, step by step, the United States is being forced into Europe's war. The big daily papers, the big moving picture corporations, the big radio broadcasting companies, are all siding in the "build-up" through subtle suggestion. Only the Christian churches—acting as a unit, can prevent this catastrophe.

If and when the world gets back to peace again, the only way that it can remain at peace, will be through free and unhindered trade among all peoples of the earth. Special privilege is fast destroying itself.

We'll bet a Chilco peach that Welles brought back the "gov" sign from the Pope to Big Jim Farley.

While Europe is sending bullets and bombs "to the north," Alabama, good old Land of Here We Rest, is sending strawberries, potatoes, cabbages and garden sass in general "to the North."

This should settle the question without further argument. Westbrook Pegler says Hitler has designs on the United States.

Now that Bob Goode Gastonberg's fox hunter extraordinary, has quit the race for National Committeeman against his friend Marion Rushton, how's this: Graves and Goode are good enough for the gubernatorial team in 1942.

Give Us A Guaranty

Postmaster General Jim Farley, also presidential candidate, when traveling through Alabama last week repeatedly stated that the United States would stay out of Europe's war. If Big Jim had any way of guaranteeing this, there would be no doubt about his election to the presidency.

Two Wars Raging

Yes, decidedly there is a war within a war in Europe, and throughout the civilized world for that matter. It is the war between the aquatic and the aerial navies for supremacy. Think what you will, but there are two colossal industrial forces combatting for this supremacy, just as there are two armies combatting for the capitalistic and socialistic systems of government.

Kansas lies almost exactly in the geographical center of the United States.—Birmingham News.

And Chilton County lies almost exactly in the geographic center of Alabama. Right in the heart of the many thousands of fine things in Alabama is a mighty fine place to be.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

A poverty-stricken woman, dressed in rags, was being watched by a policeman. He saw her stoop over and pick up something and then conceal it in the folds of her tattered garments. He demanded that she produce the hidden object, and then she brought to light a jagged piece of broken glass, saying: "Sir, I was only thinking of the children." How many of us are willing to go a step out of our way and do something that will help the children? Do you ever think of the little ones who are coming your way? Certainly we can pick up the jagged pieces of glass and put them where barefeet will not be cut. Friends, learn to do many things in life just because you are thinking of the children.

At Church a devout man sat in his place. The preacher told his congregation that the humblest work could be performed to one's honor. This devout man was an apprentice in a saddler's shop and he wondered how he could do his work to his honor. A few days later this humble man saw a horse drawing a wagon in which were a mother and her child. The horse became frightened and ran away to the dismay of all. The saddle maker then saw a man run out in front of the connection way horse and caught the horse under control. Then the maker of saddles thought to himself, "What if that bride had been poorly made. Then the man would not have been able to manage the horse and the mother and child would have been killed." It matters not what we have to do, it pays to do it well.

It is not uncommon to find people who are left-handed, but rarely ever do we find a person who reads from right to left and who sees everything upside down. Such a case was discussed in the papers a few days ago. This poor boy seemed to be upside down with the world and with everything. In reality I think that the afflicted lad has a lot of common sense. What I mean to say is that there are a lot of people in the world who see things in a crooked way and they surely must be upside down. I saw a drunk man on the sidewalk who was upside down. That man whose money, or pleasure is the highest good of life, has an acute case of upside down vision. It is a great blessing to see straight.

On stepping out of my car I was faced by ten men who were waiting to begin work. I addressed them thus: "Men, let's get busy and turn the world over today." One man looked at me and with a twinkle in his eye he said: "Preacher, don't ask us to do that, for the other side is worse than this side." I had to acknowledge that the brother was eminently right and then I made another little speech: "Say, fellows, if the other side of the world is worse than this side and it will not do to turn it over, let's get busy and make this side still better." The other side of this old world is surely worse than our side, but there is a task for every one of us to stay busy all the time making this side better. Get busy on the job, or get out of the way and let real men do something that is worthwhile.

"Once there was a robin lived outside the door. He wished to go on the inside and hop upon the floor. 'Oh, no,' said his mother, 'you must stay in a tree.' 'I don't care,' said robin, and he gave a fling. 'I don't think that old bird quite knew everything.' Down he flew, but little kitty seized him before he had time to blink. Then he cried 'Mother, I am sorry, but I didn't think.' The little mouse saw the baited trap. He looked good and pleasant. He took a nibble and then a big bite and slap went the trap. The poor mouse did not think. Many a young person today must have a fling but in nine cases out of ten they repent in sorrow. Better listen to the wisdom of age.

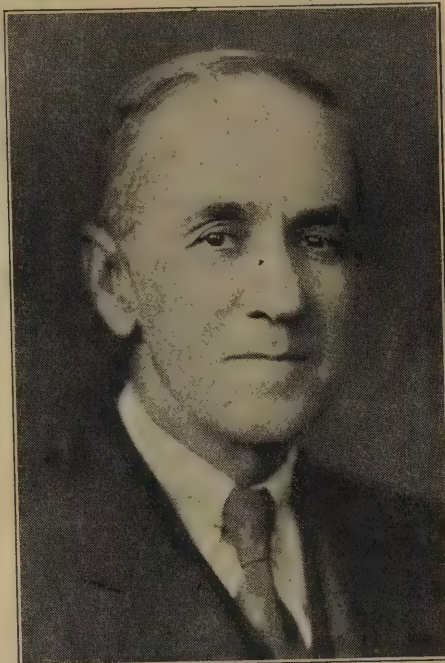

"We Do Not Know" Is Right

When all the money is spent, all the ships sunk, and all the airplane factories blown up, the war may cease in Europe. No country should lend them money or give them credit, and it will be over some time. As to what Germany may do in this war is mere guesswork. The people over here do not get truth about this war. We do not know who is winning, if any one. The latest about this war is that the United States started the war, and promised aid to Britain and France against Germany. That may be true, we do not know, if we did, we would tell you.—Laverne Journal.

Haters are not interested in the rules of logic.—Montgomery Advertiser. We had noticed that in reading the Advertiser' editor's expressed hatred for Adolph Hitler.

According to statistics of the Public Health Department, Alabama's population in the census now being taken should reach 3,000,000.

CAMPAIGN STATEMENT OF HANDY ELLIS OF SHELBY

Up to this time I have been unable to make an active campaign in my race for Delegate to the National Convention of the Democratic Party from the Sixth Congressional District, due to my connection with the Alabama Code Committee. This work is finished for the time, however, and I shall now present to the voters of the District, in a frank, sincere way, the issues of the campaign.

Democratic Affiliation
I am a Democrat, believe in the principles of the Democratic Party, and endorse the achievements of the Democratic National Administration for the past seven years. There are errors in it, things to be cared, and things to be changed, and improved upon, but these will be worked out in due course. I am sure. Few have endorsed it all. I have disagreed in several respects. In the main I endorse it. It is our record and on it we go to the people. By it we stand or fall.

Presidential Preferences.
The Democratic Party, under the matchless leadership of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, has put human welfare above material things and the human soul above glittering gold. This is as it should be. I endorse it.

President Roosevelt should be re-nominated. He has captured the mind and heart of our people and the country has no other man, in either Party, to match him. He should be called upon to carry on the democratic program of humanity, and, given time and proper support, he will, under the democratic banner, work out the problems of the nation for the good of all. The masses of the people are for him and will follow his leadership. He commands the respect of the leaders of all countries. His knowledge of foreign affairs and his ability as a diplomat and as a statesman will keep this country out of war, if it is humanly possible, and right, to do so. If this nation is forced into war our people will know that the greatest I think it would be a calamity to make a change in the nation's executive at this time.
